Faubus Says He Will Never Open L. Rock Schools

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI) — Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, accompanied by shouts of "Faubus for President," vowed Saturday he would never reopen Little Rock high schools under present circumstances.

He said if the schools were opened, they would be opened illegally by the federal government.

Nothing was said about rumored attempts to form a third party, and Faubus emphasized he was a loyal Democrat and planned to remain one.

Faubus, addressing some 4,000 persons at an annual old folks picnic, said he would never reopen Little Rock schools because he would not be responsible for harm that would come to the people.

HALTED

He said the state was ready to use the schools now to educate the children of Arkansas, but added the state had been halted from doing so by injunction powers of the federal government.

The governor briefly outlined for the throng of cheering people the events in Little Rock during the past year and pointed out that a plan to provide education for students by giving them funds to go to any school they chose was found unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Faubus added that the federal GI Bill of Rights did the same thing in the same way and it was considered legal.

Shouts of "come on over here and take over," and "we'll give you LeRoy's (Florida Gov. LeRoy Collins) job," were heard throughout the hour - long speech. When Faubus finished, hundreds of people ignored the rest of the program and rushed to the platform to shake hands with the Arkansas governor.

Jury Convicts John Kasper In Riot Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A jury of 12 white men convicted John Kasper Saturday of inciting to riot during Nashville school integration disorders here last fall. His sentence was set at six months in the workhouse and $500 fine.

The jury deliberated an hour and 16 minutes.

Judge Homer Weimar had charged the jury that Kasper or anyone else has a right to make public speeches but must answer for the consequences.

State attorneys sought the maximum penalty for a misdemeanor conviction—11 months 29 days in the county workhouse and a $1,000 fine.

Chief Prosecutor Paul Bumpus pictured the Camden, N.J., native as a "serpent of violence and disorder who once again is ready to strike."

Concluding an hour-long argument, he told the jurors their hands were "around the snake's neck" and begged them "not to turn this serpent loose on this community and its people."

Raulston Schoolfield, impeached Chattanooga judge who headed the defense, argued there was no evidence that Kasper urged violence or that a riot occurred.

The state used 22 witnesses and the defense 33 during the trial. the courtroom was filled with specta-

New Fund Gains Are Reported In Givers Campaign

The Ouachita Parish United Givers fund raising campaign moved into the cleanup stages with 91.4 per cent of the announced goal of $210,000 accounted for, it was reported yesterday. The total now stands at $191,900.

R. L. Vanderpool, Jr., who has headed this year's drive, pointed out that 20 divisions of the 50 taking part in the drive had completed their final reports. He noted that, while many of the others had practically completed their solicitations, the organization urged all workers and captains to complete their calls and turn in any envelopes remaining. "We are definitely trying to close out the campaign this week," Vanderpool stressed.

Divisions completing their calling and reporting were listed with their chairmen. They include:

Architects, Herbert Land, Jr.; attorneys, Clyde Brown; barber and beauty shops, Otis Johnson and Mrs. Allen Givens; bars and package stores, George Tonore and Tony Cascio; federal government offices, J. Dodd Brooks; dentists, Dr. A. J. Emerson; drug stores, Alvin Bodan; laundries and dry cleaners, Don Weil; florists, Warren Harker.

Garages, Saul Adler; city employees, Joe Marx, Jr.; cemeteries and funeral homes, James L. Visit

A World reporter had occasion yesterday to go east on DeSiard street to the vicinity of Tenth street. Out in this neighborhood he suddenly heard a loud voice creating a spasm of excitement in front of a business establishment on the south side of DeSiard street.

"What on earth has caused you to pay a visit out in this section?" a voice almost loud enough to awaken the dead in the nearby old city cemetery, roared fiercely.

Then the man behind the voice became delightfully friendly. "Come over here and explain everything. It's a delight to see you!" and he seemed to really mean it.

The scribe crossed over and after a friendly parley with John Birdsong, Sr., the business man urged that the scribe be his guest at a round of real java. "You know we always have coffee to entertain strangers," he admitted. The invitation was accepted and John thereby reinforced an old time friendship.

Missilemen Study Moon Shot Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Weary Air Force missilemen, their dream of moon conquest shattered for now, Saturday attempted to solve the mystery of why moon rocket Pioneer II fizzled in flight after a brilliant launching.

The 52-ton rocket, carrying a top-shaped moon satellite, roared off to a beautiful start at 2:30 a.m. but the flight ended less than 45 minutes later when the third main stage rocket failed to ignite.

BRIGHT FLASH

It was one of the most spectacular launchings ever witnessed at the cape. The area was illuminated for miles as a light cloud cover reflected the bright flash of rocket fire.

The third—and as of now final —Air Force bid to place a satellite around the moon failed at an altitude of 1,000 miles, far short of its 200,000-mile distant target.

The mighty rocket tumbled and disintegrated in the earth's atmosphere somewhere over central Africa, about 7,500 miles from the launching site.

Even as scientists studied flight performance data to pinpoint the trouble, Army moon probers were waiting in the wings.

It is expected that the Army will get the first of its two chances to "shoot the moon" about Dec. 5.

High hopes rode with the rocket as it blasted majestically skyward. The odds for success still were 1 in 10, but they were the same when Pioneer I streaked 90,000 miles out of this world just a month ago.

The Douglas crewmen inside a small blockhouse some 500 yards from the launching pad were jubilant when the Air Force announced 10 minutes later lift-off that the three main stages had fired and separated successfully and that "launching of the moon rocket now has been accomplished."

However, minutes later a radio interrogation check with the mis-

Exhaust Fumes Fatal To Family In Automobile

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Hunters Saturday found a Hampton couple and their five children dead in an automobile filled with exhaust fumes, in Virginia's Dismal Swamp.

Police said the exhaust pipe of the car was stopped up with a wadded rag. A vacuum cleaner hose had been connected to the muffler and extended into the auto.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Lewis of Hampton. Lewis' father listed the children as Allison, 11; Earl Jr., 6; Martin, 4; Douglas, 17 months, and Martha, 6 weeks.

Three crow hunters discovered the car in woods near Portsmouth at 8 a. m. They did not investigate. But in early afternoon they noticed the car still there and the motor running.

Daniel J. Scheepers of Norfolk, one of the hunters, approached the car and found its occupants dead.

Justice Dept. Lashes Three TV Applicants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department said Saturday that three of the four applicants for Miami's Channel 10 television license should be disqualified. It said they tried improperly to influence the Federal Communications Commission..

Adoption of the Justice Department's recommendations in the hotly contested case would leave only one of the original applicants for the lucrative grant—L. B. Wilson, Inc., which operates radio station WCKY in Cincinnati.

REOPEN

The department suggested, however, that the FCC might wish to take steps to reopen the case to other new applicants as well as Wilson.

In a 1957 decision now under review, the commission awarded the prized Miami, Fla., channel to Public Service Television, Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines. It ruled out the Cincinnati firm as competitively weak because of the death during the proceedings of L. B. Wilson, the principal stockholder.

Also rejected in 1957 were the applications of Col. A. Frank Katzentine, a Miami Beach radio station operator, and North Dade Video, Inc., composed of Miami area businessmen.

Since the 1957 decision, there has been a series of sensational investigations and hearings marked by the resignation of FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

Mack, who quit under fire of a congressional probe last March, has been indicted on charges of conspiring to influence the award of the Channel 10 permit.

He pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court at Miami Friday, and is scheduled to be tried Jan. 6 with his long-time friend, Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed with the FCC, said Whiteside had loaned Mack money and "did in fact seek to influence Mack" on behalf of Public Service Television, Inc.

Whiteside pleaded innocent to the indictment here on Oct. 3. He has referred to it as "Washington politics."

Conviction on the charge would involve a possible maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

The Justice Department has been conducting a separate inquiry on the Channel 10 case and Saturday's brief was the first official expression of its views.

It was filed in response to an order by the U.S. Court of Appeals that the government be invited to

FOURTH OF A SERIES

Production High On Penal Farm

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of stories on parish penal farms in Louisiana. Later stories will deal with the possibility of establishing one in Ouachita parish.)

The East Baton Rouge Parish prison farm, known officially as the Parish Jail Annex, was placed into operation in March, 1954 and with the installation of a canning plant early this past summer, this facility has become more than a "pea farm," the name by which it is more popularly known.

Located at Ryan Airport, some 10 miles north of downtown Baton Rouge, the annex consists of approximately 40 acres most of which is devoted to truck farming. The main building is a war surplus two-story frame structure, left over from the days during World War II when Ryan Airport was Harding Field, an Army Air Force training base.

The lower floor of the main building houses offices for the 10 parish deputies who administer the facility and other offices for use of the Baton Rouge City Police Department's Training Academy.

The upper floor is a dormitory for 61 minimum security parish prisoners, but it can accommodate up to 100.

CAPACITY

Prisoners at the annex work from 7:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m., with an hour off for lunch. In a separate building is housed a cafeteria and kitchen capable of feeding 80 persons at a single sitting.

The prisoners, under the supervision of a deputy, operate a garage equipped to make minor repairs on vehicles. The garage has a wash and grease rack and other such equipment to handle automotive repair and maintenance chores.

Farm equipment includes two trucks, a tractor and other assorted farming machinery as well

Cuba Violence Flares; 3 Die In Gun Battle

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Three men were reported killed and three persons wounded Saturday in an exchange of gunfire in the Santo Suarez section of southern Havana.

Reliable sources said shooting started about 5 a.m. and continued until dawn. It broke out as police and military intelligence agents raided an apartment searching for arms.

Occupants of the apartment fired machine guns, pistols and hurled hand grenades in an unsuccessful effort to beat off the raiders.

The sources said one of those killed was Angel Almejeira Delgado, described as one of those in charge of rebel leader Fidel Castro's movement in Havana. The two others killed were not immediately identified.

The wounded included a woman, Norma Borras Reyes, and two police officers.

Informants said the rebels seized the woman living in the same apartment building and attempted to use her as a shield against police fire.

The informants said several members of Almejeira's band were arrested during last Monday's presidential elections while police searched for arms.

Snark Landed At Home Plate

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force, in an unprecedented feat of missile economy, fired a long-range Snark on its second 6,000-mile round trip Saturday and again landed it safely back at home plate.

The air-breathing Snark, actually a radio-controlled bomber without a pilot, was the first missile ever flown twice from this Atlantic missile test center. More than 60 other Snarks have been tested, many of them completing the round-trip halfway down the Atlantic tracking range. But this was the first ever fired a second time.

The Snark is equipped with landing skids to allow it to return intact, nursed home by radio. Saturday's missile was believed to be the one that made a round trip Oct. 23.

TULANE PROFESSOR SAYS

La. Math Teachers Need More Training

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A survey of the state's mathematics teachers revealed that public high school mathematics teachers need more and better college training in their field, according to a Tulane professor.

Dr. E. C. Hunter, professor of education at Tulane University, said a survey which he conducted of the state's 779 mathematics teachers on undergraduate preparation and further training revealed:

—Almost half of the teachers failed to meet the state's present minimum requirements of 18 hours of college mathematics for authorization to teach mathematics in high schools.

—Approximately half of the teachers are deficient in the traditional studies of mathematics.

—Almost all of them would be considered deficient in the revised and modernized mathematics studies.

—Only 25.7 per cent of the teachers held master's degrees, and only 3 per cent of those with master's degrees had majored in mathematics.

—Only 35 per cent of the teachers had an undergraduate major in mathematics and 31 per cent had minored in mathematics.

—Only 32 per cent of the teachers surveyed were teaching nothing but mathematics.

Thirty per cent were teaching mathematics and one other subj-

Tear Gas, Fire Hoses Used To Quell Thousands

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee and Chattanooga students, enraged when one of their buddies was bodily dragged to a police van, staged a mass riot after the Chattanooga - Tennessee game Saturday.

Thousands of students and many older persons battled police who had to use tear gas, fire hoses and billy clubs to quell the one and one half hour riot. Two policemen were hurt, possibly seriously, during the scuffle.

Patrolman John Collins suffered a brain concussion, according to Police Chief Joe Kimsey and Patrolman Bobby Poynter suffered a possible broken ankle and a concussion. Both were hit on the head by bottles thrown from high atop the east stadium grandstand.

DAMAGE

Kimsey estimated the property damage at $2,000.

He said at least 11 persons were arrested, three or four older persons and the rest students from the two schools. Kimsey said they will be charged with inciting to riot and malicious mischief.

The police chief also said that if an investigation determines who threw the bottles which injured the policemen they will be charged with felonious assault and attempted murder.

Chattanooga officials, headed by Mayor P. R. Ogliatti, pleaded for the Chattanooga students at the police station.

Lt. Hugh Ammons said, "We had to get Poynter out of the gutter when the students were beating him after he was hit over the head."

Poynter was evacuated by police car to University Hospital

La. Anti-Tax Legislators 'Just Waiting'

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Anti-tax legislators took a wait and see attitude Saturday about Gov. Earl Long's special session ideas to draft a 10-million-dollar solution for short school terms.

"The special session opening Tuesday night comes as no surprise," said Rep. Claude Kirkpatrick of Jefferson Davis Parish.

He called for repeal or rewriting of the 1958 Cole bill, which administration leaders in the 60-day regular session last summer admitted would force an extra session.

THREAT

The controversial measure directed schools to continue teachers at existing pay levels — despite threat of insufficient money — until funds ran out. Shorter school terms have become a critical reality.

Sen. W. M. Rainach of Homer, whose top House lieutenant, Rep. John Garrett, helped Long pass the one-cent gas gathering tax boost in the '58 regular session, had this to say about the upcoming special session:

"It seems to me the governor so far has exercised a surprising amount of restraint in preparing for this session—I hope he continues to stay that way."

In those words were the feelings of many anti-tax foes, commenting privately, particularly on the angle that Long should pull no surprises now.

In the anti-tax bloc of Caddo legislators, Rep. Wellborn Jack said the way commissioner of administration James S. Reily has outlined to them personally the special session plan on school finances, "it sounds okay."

"But I naturally want to wait until I see the bills," Jack em-

Ceasefire Said Put Into Effect Over Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Informed sources said Saturday the United States and Nationalist China have quietly put into effect a ceasefire in the skies over the Formosa Strait.

The sources said Nationalist pilots have been ordered to employ all possible evasive tactics to avoid combat with Communist planes within 30 miles of the Red-held mainland. Red planes seldom penetrate deeper than that distance over the Strait.

According to the informants, the United States does not want Nationalist Sabrejets and the Red Soviet - built MIGs to revive the flaming air war that raged over the strait from mid - August to mid-October.

The Nationalists claimed their pilots destroyed 31 MIG fighters with the loss of only one Sabrejet in the aerial dogfights.

It was reported that the United States became particularly concerned when Sabrejets equipped with U. S. air-to-air Sidewinder missiles shot down 11 MIGs in one day.

The sources speculated that the United States feared the Reds might force down a Sabrejet on the mainland where vital parts of the secret Sidewinder might fall into Red hands. The Nationalists said that Red planes appeared to be trying to herd a Sidewinder-equipped Sabrejet toward the mainland in the last big dogfight.

The sources noted that the Reds

14 Boy Scouts Are Saved From Cave

CAWTAWBA, Va. (UPI)—Fourteen Boy Scouts were rescued from a cave Saturday night where they had been trapped by a rock slide. One boy suffered a broken wrist, state police said. The others were reported unharmed.

Rescuers clawed through debris some 300 feet below the surface of the ground to reach the boys in the deepcave in the side of Cove Mountain about five miles west of here.

The cave is about 20 miles northeast of Roanoke, Va.

Gene Whorley of Catawba, one of the rescuers at the scene, said seven of the scouts, members of a troop from Richmond, Va., were brought out first. Then the other seven were reached by the rescue squads and cave explorers who were digging to reach the boys.

Whorley said one of the scouts said the entire troop was roped together as they descended into the cave, which stretches about 1,000 feet downward.

Whorley said the boys, whose ages ranged from 13 to 17, apparently were trapped on a ledge some 300 feet below the surface when one scout slipped on the rocks and caused a slide.

The troop went into the cave about noon and the scoutmaster emerged about 8 p.m. EST to call for help.

Several ambulances and about 100 rescuers converged on the scene and worked for nearly four hours to free the boys.

Since the 1957 decision, there has been a series of sensational investigations and hearings marked by the resignation of FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

Mack, who quit under fire of a congressional probe last March, has been indicted on charges of conspiring to influence the award of the Channel 10 permit.

He pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court at Miami Friday, and is scheduled to be tried Jan. 6 with his long-time friend, Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami lawyer.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed with the FCC, said Whiteside had loaned Mack money and "did in fact seek to influence Mack" on behalf of Public Service Television, Inc.

Whiteside pleaded innocent to the indictment here on Oct. 3. He has referred to it as "Washington politics."

Conviction on the charge would involve a possible maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

The Justice Department has been conducting a separate inquiry on the Channel 10 case and Saturday's brief was the first official expression of its views.

It was filed in response to an order by the U.S. Court of Appeals that the government be invited to

FOURTH OF A SERIES

Production High On Penal Farm

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of stories on parish penal farms in Louisiana. Later stories will deal with the possibility of establishing one in Ouachita parish.)

The East Baton Rouge Parish prison farm, known officially as the Parish Jail Annex, was placed into operation in March, 1954 and with the installation of a canning plant early this past summer, this facility has become more than a "pea farm," the name by which it is more popularly known.

Located at Ryan Airport, some 10 miles north of downtown Baton Rouge, the annex consists of approximately 40 acres most of which is devoted to truck farming. The main building is a war surplus two-story frame structure, left over from the days during World War II when Ryan Airport was Harding Field, an Army Air Force training base.

The lower floor of the main building houses offices for the 10 parish deputies who administer the facility and other offices for use of the Baton Rouge City Police Department's Training Academy.

The upper floor is a dormitory for 61 minimum security parish prisoners, but it can accommodate up to 100.

CAPACITY

Prisoners at the annex work from 7:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m., with an hour off for lunch. In a separate building is housed a cafeteria and kitchen capable of feeding 80 persons at a single sitting.

The prisoners, under the supervision of a deputy, operate a garage equipped to make minor repairs on vehicles. The garage has a wash and grease rack and other such equipment to handle automotive repair and maintenance chores.

Farm equipment includes two trucks, a tractor and other assorted farming machinery as well

Cuba Violence Flares; 3 Die In Gun Battle

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Three men were reported killed and three persons wounded Saturday in an exchange of gunfire in the Santo Suarez section of southern Havana.

Reliable sources said shooting started about 5 a.m. and continued until dawn. It broke out as police and military intelligence agents raided an apartment searching for arms.

Occupants of the apartment fired machine guns, pistols and hurled hand grenades in an unsuccessful effort to beat off the raiders.

The sources said one of those killed was Angel Almejeira Delgado, described as one of those in charge of rebel leader Fidel Castro's movement in Havana. The two others killed were not immediately identified.

The wounded included a woman, Norma Borras Reyes, and two police officers.

Informants said the rebels seized the woman living in the same apartment building and attempted to use her as a shield against police fire.

The informants said several members of Almejeira's band were arrested during last Monday's presidential elections while police searched for arms.

Snark Landed At Home Plate

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force, in an unprecedented feat of missile economy, fired a long-range Snark on its second 6,000-mile round trip Saturday and again landed it safely back at home plate.

The air-breathing Snark, actually a radio-controlled bomber without a pilot, was the first missile ever flown twice from this Atlantic missile test center. More than 60 other Snarks have been tested, many of them completing the round-trip halfway down the Atlantic tracking range. But this was the first ever fired a second time.

The Snark is equipped with landing skids to allow it to return intact, nursed home by radio. Saturday's missile was believed to be the one that made a round trip Oct. 23.

TULANE PROFESSOR SAYS

La. Math Teachers Need More Training

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A survey of the state's mathematics teachers revealed that public high school mathematics teachers need more and better college training in their field, according to a Tulane professor.

Dr. E. C. Hunter, professor of education at Tulane University, said a survey which he conducted of the state's 779 mathematics teachers on undergraduate preparation and further training revealed:

—Almost half of the teachers failed to meet the state's present minimum requirements of 18 hours of college mathematics for authorization to teach mathematics in high schools.

—Approximately half of the teachers are deficient in the traditional studies of mathematics.

—Almost all of them would be considered deficient in the revised and modernized mathematics studies.

—Only 25.7 per cent of the teachers held master's degrees, and only 3 per cent of those with master's degrees had majored in mathematics.

—Only 35 per cent of the teachers had an undergraduate major in mathematics and 31 per cent had minored in mathematics.

—Only 32 per cent of the teachers surveyed were teaching nothing but mathematics.

Thirty per cent were teaching mathematics and one other subj-

Tear Gas, Fire Hoses Used To Quell Thousands

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee and Chattanooga students, enraged when one of their buddies was bodily dragged to a police van, staged a mass riot after the Chattanooga - Tennessee game Saturday.

Thousands of students and many older persons battled police who had to use tear gas, fire hoses and billy clubs to quell the one and one half hour riot. Two policemen were hurt, possibly seriously, during the scuffle.

Patrolman John Collins suffered a brain concussion, according to Police Chief Joe Kimsey and Patrolman Bobby Poynter suffered a possible broken ankle and a concussion. Both were hit on the head by bottles thrown from high atop the east stadium grandstand.

DAMAGE

Kimsey estimated the property damage at $2,000.

He said at least 11 persons were arrested, three or four older persons and the rest students from the two schools. Kimsey said they will be charged with inciting to riot and malicious mischief.

The police chief also said that if an investigation determines who threw the bottles which injured the policemen they will be charged with felonious assault and attempted murder.

Chattanooga officials, headed by Mayor P. R. Ogliatti, pleaded for the Chattanooga students at the police station.

Lt. Hugh Ammons said, "We had to get Poynter out of the gutter when the students were beating him after he was hit over the head."

Poynter was evacuated by police car to University Hospital

La. Anti-Tax Legislators 'Just Waiting'

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Anti-tax legislators took a wait and see attitude Saturday about Gov. Earl Long's special session ideas to draft a 10-million-dollar solution for short school terms.

"The special session opening Tuesday night comes as no surprise," said Rep. Claude Kirkpatrick of Jefferson Davis Parish.

He called for repeal or rewriting of the 1958 Cole bill, which administration leaders in the 60-day regular session last summer admitted would force an extra session.

THREAT

The controversial measure directed schools to continue teachers at existing pay levels — despite threat of insufficient money — until funds ran out. Shorter school terms have become a critical reality.

Sen. W. M. Rainach of Homer, whose top House lieutenant, Rep. John Garrett, helped Long pass the one-cent gas gathering tax boost in the '58 regular session, had this to say about the upcoming special session:

"It seems to me the governor so far has exercised a surprising amount of restraint in preparing for this session—I hope he continues to stay that way."

In those words were the feelings of many anti-tax foes, commenting privately, particularly on the angle that Long should pull no surprises now.

In the anti-tax bloc of Caddo legislators, Rep. Wellborn Jack said the way commissioner of administration James S. Reily has outlined to them personally the special session plan on school finances, "it sounds okay."

"But I naturally want to wait until I see the bills," Jack em-

Ceasefire Said Put Into Effect Over Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Informed sources said Saturday the United States and Nationalist China have quietly put into effect a ceasefire in the skies over the Formosa Strait.

The sources said Nationalist pilots have been ordered to employ all possible evasive tactics to avoid combat with Communist planes within 30 miles of the Red-held mainland. Red planes seldom penetrate deeper than that distance over the Strait.

According to the informants, the United States does not want Nationalist Sabrejets and the Red Soviet - built MIGs to revive the flaming air war that raged over the strait from mid - August to mid-October.

The Nationalists claimed their pilots destroyed 31 MIG fighters with the loss of only one Sabrejet in the aerial dogfights.

It was reported that the United States became particularly concerned when Sabrejets equipped with U. S. air-to-air Sidewinder missiles shot down 11 MIGs in one day.

The sources speculated that the United States feared the Reds might force down a Sabrejet on the mainland where vital parts of the secret Sidewinder might fall into Red hands. The Nationalists said that Red planes appeared to be trying to herd a Sidewinder-equipped Sabrejet toward the mainland in the last big dogfight.

The sources noted that the Reds

TRAPPED BY ROCK SLIDE

14 Boy Scouts Are Saved From Cave

CAWTAWBA, Va. (UPI)—Fourteen Boy Scouts were rescued from a cave Saturday night where they had been trapped by a rock slide. One boy suffered a broken wrist, state police said. The others were reported unharmed.

Rescuers clawed through debris some 300 feet below the surface of the ground to reach the boys in the deepcave in the side of Cove Mountain about five miles west of here.

The cave is about 20 miles northeast of Roanoke, Va.

Gene Whorley of Catawba, one of the rescuers at the scene, said seven of the scouts, members of a troop from Richmond, Va., were brought out first. Then the other seven were reached by the rescue squads and cave explorers who were digging to reach the boys.

Whorley said one of the scouts said the entire troop was roped together as they descended into the cave, which stretches about 1,000 feet downward.

Whorley said the boys, whose ages ranged from 13 to 17, apparently were trapped on a ledge some 300 feet below the surface when one scout slipped on the rocks and caused a slide.

The troop went into the cave about noon and the scoutmaster emerged about 8 p.m. EST to call for help.

Several ambulances and about 100 rescuers converged on the scene and worked for nearly four hours to free the boys.

He added that the President, himself, later admitted that implementing integration of Little Rock schools by force of arms was "ill advised."

Earlier in the program, Democratic Congressman Bob Sikes of Crestview called for a nationwide vote on states rights and the segregation issue. He said "vote hungry politicians" had set back 50 years the efforts of men of good will in both races to achieve understanding, mutual progress and mutual respect.

"I challenge the leaders of government to risk a vote on this issue," Sikes declared.

Former Florida Gov. Millard Caldwell, followed Sikes with only a brief comment about states' rights.

sile showed there was trouble. Although the third stage and its 86.3-pound satellite payload separated, the third stage did not ignite.

They needed a velocity of 23,900 miles an hour to give the kick needed to soar far enough out into space to be drawn in by the gravity pull of the moon. The fastest Pioneer II ever went was 16,000 miles an hour.

Ironically, Ted Gordon, 28, Douglas test conductor whose word was law during the critical moments that led up to launching, said: "It was the best missile count-down I've ever been through."

Except for a few minor hitches, everything functioned perfectly during the final phase of the 12-hour preliminary count-down that preceded zero hour.

Most of the 65 men inside the blockhouse acknowledged they had felt calmer than on the first two Air Force shoots.

The atmosphere was brighter than Friday night, when they had to postpone the shoot after minor technical trouble had developed less than an hour before launching.

The optimism was recorded in bold black letters near the base of the first stage Thor rocket with this poetic line from Tennyson: "After it, Follow it. Follow the gleam."

The goal was to plop the satellite with an infrared scanner into a brief orbit some 50,000 miles from the moon after a 2½-day journey through outer space.

The first Air Force moon rocket fired Aug. 17 blew up 77 seconds after launching. The second, Oct. 11, was a daring stab into space that traveled 90,000 miles before it was lured back by the earth's stronger gravity pull and burned up.

Pioneer II was heard from 18 minutes by American and British scientists at Jodrell Bank, England. But as soon as the rocket appeared on the screen of the world's largest radio - telescope, scientists knew it was doomed to fail.

The failure also was disappointing to royalty and to more than 1,000 spectators from all over the country who had packed the long beaches near the cape to watch the launching.

Greek Queen Frederika and her daughter, Sophia, watched the shoot from the central control building on the cape. Another observer was Prince Hubertus Lowenstein of Bonn, Germany.

From the information gleaned from the flight of Pioneer I, Air Force scientists made some changes in the 26.3 pounds of instruments aboard the satellite for this flight.

Information in the survey was obtained from annual reports of high school principals and certification and teacher retirement records from the Louisiana State Department of Education.

Additional information was supplied from questionnaires returned to Dr. Hunter from 101 of the state's high school mathematics teachers.

take part in a review of the whole affair by the FCC.

The court directed the commission last April 18 to determine whether one or more of the Channel 10 applicants "may be disqualified by reason of misconduct," and whether the permit awarded to Public Service should be voided.

The Justice Department brief, signed by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said that beyond doubt both Katzentine and Public Service "influenced or attempted to influence" members of the commission.

"Similarly, if our view of the facts be adopted, North Dade at the very least 'attempted' the same. It, too, should be barred from pressing its application," the brief added.

The department contended that both Mack and former FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey had been approached by alleged intermediaries acting for one or another applicant and said:

"Former Commissioner Mack and Chairman McConnaughey, having received and not disclosed to all parties or their fellow commissioners (one-sided) communications going to the merits of the case, were disqualified; in view of their participation, the commission's final decision of Feb. 7, 1957 is void . . . and must be vacated. . . ."

Then, contending that Katzentine, Public Service, and North Dade were "disqualified from further consideration" because of their alleged atempts to influence the commission, the government brief said:

"Disqualification of three applicants would leave L. B. Wilson as the sole remaining applicant for Channel 10."

It added that the death of L. B. Wilson and disqualification of the three other applicants "might well render it appropriate that a petition be filed . . . with the Court of Appeals requesting that new parties be permitted to file applications for Channel 10 and the L. B. Wilson be permitted to amend its application to show its present ownership and organization."

as the usual hand tools — hoes, rakes, shovels, etc. A 20 by 15-foot walk-in freezer, valued at $5,800 is an integral part of the farm.

Some 3,000 gallons of assorted vegetables including snap beans, field peas, butter beans, butter peas, cushaw, egg plants, mustard greens and corn are stored in the freezer, all representing produce grown at the farm. One hundred bushels of okra and 100 bushels of bell (or green) peppers are also stored in the freezer.

In May of this year, the City-Parish Council appropriated $9,400 for the installation of a canning plant at the annex. This facility is housed in a 25 by 60-foot concrete block building. Value of cannery and building is estimated at $12,000 at present time.

Latest report from the annex this month also shows that nearly 6,000 gallons of vegetables have been canned since the cannery was installed several months ago. These include 3,200 gallons of sweet potatoes; 2,165 gallons of irish potatoes; 249 gallons of tomatoes and 110 gallons of beets.

Aside from these, there are 7,500 pounds of sweet potatoes in storage bins at the farm.

Winter crops now under cultivation include:

3,500 cabbage plants, a half-acre each of beets, mustard greens, turnips, collards and okra. Several acres have been planted in peas and snap beans.

Aside from being consumed at the site, the parish prison farm furnishes produce to the East Baton Rouge Parish Family court's juvenile detention home located nearby and to the main parish jail located in the downtown area of Baton Rouge.

The farm is under the supervision of Lt. M. A. White of Paish Sheriff Bryan Clemmons' office. His staff includes nine other deputies and a cook.

Councilman James McCurnin, chairman of the liaison group of the council to the parish constitutional offices said that next year's output alone, will more than cover the amount ($9,400) appropriated by the governing body.

He also said that next year's canning operations are expected to exceed 15,000 gallons of truck produce.

It added that the death of L. B. Wilson and disqualification of the three other applicants "might well render it appropriate that a petition be filed . . . with the Court of Appeals requesting that new parties be permitted to file applications for Channel 10 and the L. B. Wilson be permitted to amend its application to show its present ownership and organization."

Report

From Fairbanks, Alaska comes word about the sportsmanship of Mrs. Raymond Karns, the most ardent bowler in that town.

She rolled her customary three games in the Bowling League, a pet diversion, finished by midnight. Two hours later she went to a hospital and at 6 a.m. next morning a 7 pound boy was born.

Fellow patients in the hospital saw she received a "Gold" pin — but it was not for her bowling prowess — it was just a safety pin!

He predicted there would be dynamitings, bombings, hangings and blood in the streets if the schools were integrated, according to state witnesses.

Kasper told the crowd to boycott and picket the schools, the state said and the defense acknowledged.

Penal Farm Yields High

as the usual hand tools — hoes, rakes, shovels, etc. A 20 by 15-foot walk-in freezer, valued at $5,800 is an integral part of the farm.

Some 3,000 gallons of assorted vegetables including snap beans, field peas, butter beans, butter peas, cushaw, egg plants, mustard greens and corn are stored in the freezer, all representing produce grown at the farm. One hundred bushels of okra and 100 bushels of bell (or green) peppers are also stored in the freezer.

In May of this year, the City-Parish Council appropriated $9,400 for the installation of a canning plant at the annex. This facility is housed in a 25 by 60-foot concrete block building. Value of cannery and building is estimated at $12,000 at present time.

Latest report from the annex this month also shows that nearly 6,000 gallons of vegetables have been canned since the cannery was installed several months ago. These include 3,200 gallons of sweet potatoes; 2,165 gallons of irish potatoes; 249 gallons of tomatoes and 110 gallons of beets.

Aside from these, there are 7,500 pounds of sweet potatoes in storage bins at the farm.

Winter crops now under cultivation include:

3,500 cabbage plants, a half-acre each of beets, mustard greens, turnips, collards and okra. Several acres have been planted in peas and snap beans.

Aside from being consumed at the site, the parish prison farm furnishes produce to the East Baton Rouge Parish Family court's juvenile detention home located nearby and to the main parish jail located in the downtown area of Baton Rouge.

The farm is under the supervision of Lt. M. A. White of Parish Sheriff Bryan Clemmons' office. His staff includes nine other deputies and a cook.

Councilman James McCurnin, chairman of the liaison group of the council to the parish constitutional offices said that next year's output alone, will more than cover the amount ($9,400) appropriated by the governing body.

He also said that next year's canning operations are expected to exceed 15,000 gallons of truck produce.

Freshmen Quartet Set To Perform

The Four Freshmen, considered to be the nation's most popular modern quartet, are making plans to present a concert in Monroe, the Monroe Jaycees have announced.

"This will be the first big-time outfit to come to Monroe in several years," Bob Aymond, project chairman, said. "We'll hope they'll be the first for many more to come."

The Freshmen, whose modern singing has become a top record seller, are scheduled to present a two and one-half hour concert here Wednesday, December 10.

CONCERT HERE

Their concert will be staged in Neville Auditorium, starting at 7:30 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Monroe Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Freshmen sang last spring at Louisiana Tech where they were well received. They also have appeared at L.S.U. and New Orleans. Each plays a musical instrument as well as sings.

"We hope to make this the biggest success our chapter has ever engaged," Aymond said. "Because of the Four Freshmen's great popularity throughout the United States, I feel certain we'll succeed."

But he pointed out, "We solicit the support of all persons in the Monroe area who not only appreciate music but also enjoys a fine night's entertainment."

ALL AGES

"The Four Freshmen," Aymond said, "sing for all ages, not just the young people." He quipped, "They don't sing Rock and Roll either."

Tickets are scheduled to go on sale Monday at Paul Hewitt's Music Store, Dew Music, Hi-Fi Center and Bodans' Drugs in Monroe.

Aymond said persons living outside the Twin Cities could get tickets by writing any one of the four businesses. Tickets also will be sold, according to Aymond, by students from Neville, Ouachita, West Monroe and St. Matthews.

He said the project has received the endorsement of Louisiana Tech and Northeast State College.

Neville High Registers For National Tests

Neville High School has registered for participation in the forthcoming National Merit Scholarship competition next spring, with the finals for the current competition still a month away, Sidney Seegers, Neville principal, has announced.

On December 6, five Neville semi-finalists will take the College Board examination as the final step in competition for $5 million worth of scholarships. In April, 1958, the National Merit Scholarship test was taken by 479,000 students from 14,500 schools. On this test, the five Neville students qualified as semi-finalists. They are Lucy Turpin, John Byrnes, (both 98th percentile), and Hershal Abbott, George Riser and Allen Foster, (all three 99th percentile). The 99th Percentile is the highest level possible.

The current competition is the fourth year of the scholarship race. In 1957, Neville finalists were Don Andrews, Tulane University; Allen Trousdale, Tulane; Warren Taylor, Jr., Tulane; Dick Wright, Rice; Gerald Dean, Georgia Tech, and Bill Ellis, Carnegie Tech.

FINALISTS

Finalists in 1956 were Martha Riser, Newcomb, who won a National Merit Scholarship; Frank Brookings, Louisiana Tech, and Roger Dean, U. S. Air Force; in 1955, Loretta Ray, L. S. U., and George Snellings, L. S. U., were finalists.

The test this year will again be a three-hour test of educational development. It will be designed for second semester juniors and first semester seniors. In October, 10,000 students will be identified as semi-finalists and will be invited to take a second examination in November or December.

Finalists are named after the second examination. Each receives a "Certificate of Merit," attesting to his high performance on the tests. Finalists are later identified to colleges, universities and other scholarship granting agencies. Of the finalists who did not receive merit scholarships, two thirds of the last group received scholarships from other agencies. Principal Seegers emphasized this point a high score on the merit test is an excellent recommendation for other scholarships and for college or university admission. Last year, Neville's graduates received scholarships totaling $42,000.

Will Inflation Rise?

If what President Eisenhower has said is true, the next congress is likely to set a new all-time record for peacetime spending and might even approach wartime spending. The president says the people of the United States have elected many "big spenders."

This brings up the question of whether or not inflation will proceed at an even faster pace during the life of the next congress than in the present one. Since greater inflation may be imminent, it seems wise to consider what some of the effects of this inflation might mean.

In an article entitled "Silent Weapon of the Cold War," Demaree Bess, a foreign correspondent of long and varied experience, says the weapon now being used by Russia against the United States is runaway inflation. The purpose of the article is to show how inflation can and does "break the human spirit as completely as famines, earthquakes, wars or revolutions." He has watched it in France, eastern Europe and elsewhere. He has seen it clear the way for Communist rule in China after World War II, just as it did for Russia after World War I.

Real runaway inflation has been experienced only twice in the United States — during revolutionary days and in the Confederate south.

Mr. Bess says: "Soviet strategists have given notice that they expect our luck to change, partly because of our own indifference to economic affairs and partly because of the Kremlin's planned economic warfare against us."

Moscow's main attention, as he sees it, has shifted from the arms race to this kind of economic warfare. This was purely a logical shift from the Communist viewpoint. Lenin, himself, predicted that economic warfare would be a more potent weapon than armed forces in bringing about a world-wide Bolshevik revolution. The Soviet creed is fashioned upon the basic belief that Communism eventually will stand triumphant upon the ruins of rival economic systems which have been bankrupted by a combination of their own financial responsibility and unrelenting Soviet pressures against them.

Mr. Bess points to a matter of great importance which is little known in this country. Soviet economists are orthodox and conservative. They "have stubbornly clung to such old-fashioned notions as balanced budgets and sound money." Their domestic economic measures are almost all of an anti-inflationary type.

In addition to China, Hungary provides a tragic example of how inflation works. There, during the post-war occupation, the Russians "unleashed the wildest currency inflation on record." Printing presses ran day and night, turning out money. Before the war the Hungarian pengo was worth 20 cents. Mr. Bess was able to get 33 billion pengo for one dollar at the peak of inflation. The savings of the nation's most substantial citizens were thus deliberately wiped out.

Financial irresponsibility in the United States would be just what would force the pace of American spending to suit Russia best. If the Soviets can force the pace of American spending to the point where inflation goes out of control they can forget about such weapons as intercontinental missiles.

President Eisenhower has said he will stand firm against huge spending during the next two years. If he keeps that promise he can go a long way toward preventing runaway inflation.

While it is true that the people elected a good many Democratic big spenders, it is also true that a large portion of the southern Democrats are conservative. The Democrats hold enough seats in both the house and senate to overide a presidential veto but they would require an almost solid Democratic vote to do this.

Southern conservatives will still be able to wield considerable balance of power in the new congress.

Business Strikes Back

A sort of big business "togetherness" may possibly be the answer to problems in industry-wide collective bargaining imposed by poweful unions. Having failed in an attempt to curb industry-wide strikes by obtaining revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, business is showing what has been called "a quickening tempo in employer-initiated mutual defense."

The plan or pact as announced by six of the nation's biggest airlines Nov. 2 is a case in point. This is a mutual aid arrangement to share extra revenues when one or more of them is shut down dow by a strike. The agreement was signed by American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, TWA and United.

The plan was filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board on Nov. 3. The Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 requires CAB to issue orders approving or disapproving agreements among airlines on the basis of "the public interest." These include "pooling or apportioning earnings," and "other cooperative working agreements."

The airlines understanding was announced in the midst of a strike against Capital by the International Association of Machinists going into its fourth week. But behind it lie two years of industry study aiming at joint labor-management bargining. Robert T. Quick, a district IAM president, on Nov. 3 called the plan "a union-busting move."

The Big Three automobile manufacturers — General Motors, Ford, Chrysler — made no secret of their solid front in collective bargaining this year, terminating in essentially similar settlements in September and October. The Big Three in steel — U.S., Bethlehem, Republic — had bargained jointly with United Steel-workers two years ago. And industry-wide bargaining has long been accepted in other industries—notably clothing and coal.

Just before a newspaper strike was averted in New York City, The New York Times had announced, Oct. 30, that even though it should not be struck it would suspend publication so long as any craft union refused to cross picket lines at any newspaper in the metropolis. Other papers immediately followed suit.

Of the airlines agreement, the Wall Street Journal has commented editorially: "It is one more indication of the way union monopolistic practices can force industry into doubtful practices of its own." Certainly it will raise legal questions, though the U.S. Department of Jusitce so far has refused comment.

On Another Front, business was again urged, Nov. 4, to get into politics "with both feet." William A. McDonnell, U. S. Chamber of Commerce president, declared: "We need a working majority in Congress which will agree that the government's integrity depends upon a stable currency."

The specific taget was inflation. McDonnell cited as one of the major causes of this "implacable enemy of our system" the "monopoly power" of labor unions. The warning, coming on an election day in which the AFL-CIO showed its full strength for the first time since the union merger of 1955, carried peculiar significance. On the same day five of six business-sponsored state right-to-work referenda were voted down.

Unless business can find a way to combat the big unions and their radical bosses, the situation will become critical for this nation. There must be a halt somewhere because unions are doing everything possible to control this nation.

If that time ever comes, the country will be in for the worst period of trouble it has ever faced.

"Try to see the good in every person you come in contact with," advises a sweetness-and-light writer. Following this advice would be likely to cause severe eyestrain.

"Do You Have Trouble Sleeping?" —Catchline of patent medicine ad. No, indeed. We have less trouble sleeping than at any other time.

Strata Of Thought

BASCOM TIMMONS

Democrats Still Must Find Candidate In 1960

On Second Thought — Sweeping Democratic Congressional and gubernatiorial victory doesn't analyze into a Democratic Presidential victory in 1960. Party still must find a candidate and write a platform who and which can unite party. Loss of New York, split in Pennsylvania and unconvincing victories in other States with big electoral vote indicates that third party in South could wreck Democratic Presidential prospects. Election results decreased and did not improve field of Democratic hopefuls.

WHEN TIDE COMES IN — Defeat of the heretofore always st.ong Senator Bricker in Ohio by heretofore always weak Stephen Young illustrates what a tidal wave can do to personalities. Incidentally, Ohio may be Democrats most permanent political take-over. Buckeye State now has passed Pennsylvania and ranks second to New York as industrial states; has more cities of more than 10,000 than any state. Once close balance between rural and urban vote now tipped heavily urban.

THE ROLLING ROCKY — If it were not for the fact that Nixon might succeed to the Presidency in the next two years some hard-bitten Republicans would bet even money that Nelson A. Rockefeller would be the next Republican Presidential nominee. Some of them think they have found another vote - getter of the Eisenhower stripe on a national scale. Rockefeller emerged from landslide victory with two popular nicknames — Rocky and Nelse.

DEBATER DIRKSEN — Senator Everett Dirksen, who will succeed Senator Knowland as Republican leader is the ablest debater ever to lead Republicans on the Senate floor. His opposite, Senator Johnson of Texas, is a manager not a debater type, nor was Knowland a skillful debater. Most accomplished debaters among Senate leaders were the late Senators Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, and Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky.

Eisenhower to USE VETO — President Eisenhower has told White House visitors that he does not covet the title of "veto President," but will not hesitate to impose his disapproval on any legislation which reaches his desk if he considers it unwise. No Eisenhower veto has been overridden by Congress. Whether he can maintain that record in the face of the diminished party following as the result of Tuesday's election, remains to be seen.

PLENTY OF ADVICE— Senator Stuart Symington, recipient of a smashing victory in Missouri, is receiving divergent advice on how best to enhance his Presidential aspirations. One group wants him to make speeches in various parts of the country, openly seek 1960 delegates. The other group tells him he is everybody's second choice candidate, that he should cultivate the friendship of other candidates and profit by an almost certain deadlock in the next Democratic National convention.

KNELL FOR KNOWLAND? Did his California defeat spell the end of Presidential hopes for Senator William F. Knowland of California? Not necessarily Washington thinks, but he will have to comeback in California. Should Knowland win the Governorship of mercurial California in 1962 he would be back in business for 1964 by which time he will be only 56 years old. Thus, youth is his best ally.

EISENHOWER RECESS APPOINTMENT — Senate Democrats say there will be little opposition to the confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as Secretary of Commerce despite the fact that he is one of the most controversial figures in Washington. Feeling is that President has right to Cabinet advisers of his choice. Some of the others on the growing list of recess appointments are in for searching questioning by Senate Committees. High on this list is new Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart.

EMPIRIC BLOW — Size of their New York setback stunned Democrats. Two months ago Harriman was 3 to 1 favorite to win Governorship. In recent weeks increase in Rockefeller strength was apparent and they expected that if he won at all it would be narrowly and as a G. O. P. consolation prize. Hogan was looked on a shoo-in for Senator.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

United States Killer Nation

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Joseph Welch, the New England attorney who looks and acts a bit like Arthur Train's famous character, Mr. Tutt, could be grouped with another set of names. Like Steve Brodie and Bonehead Merkle, Mr. Welch became famous for a single act. Instead of jumping from the Brooklyn Bridge or forgetting to touch second base, Mr. Welch got himself televised a few years ago in a lacrimonious exchange with the late Senator McCarthy.

Since then Mr. Welch has been invaluable as a tear jerk specialist on television. His latest was a homespun piece of hogwash, sponsored by a Canadian firm and impresarioed by the elegant Britisher, Alistair Cooke, against the American system of capital punishment. Mr. Welch knocked over a number of propagandistic strawmen in the form of chain - smoking turnkeys and death-house jailers who made the weirdest string of coached witnesses ever portrayed. Mr. Welch also compared our nation, or more specifically a number of our states, with Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy and Soviet Russia. It was a case of "guilt by association," you see, because the USA and these demon - nations permit the death penalty for criminals.

The general pattern is too tiresome for much comment. We have come to expect foreigners, even Canadian aluminum makers and British correspondents, to find fault with the USA, and to make these unfavorable comparisons. The same, alas, is true with the professional liberals. As a bird-watcher who gets up pretty early in the morning, I am still peeling my eye for the first of the left wing ilk which dares to warble some praise of this country, this citadel of world's freedom, this protector of the weak, this champion of the individual, this mighty power which is so slow to anger and so loath to strike. I have met Mr. Welch and found him insistently picturesque. He and his patrons have a trait of belittling the nation to show themselves off as exhibitionist - humanitarians, and it gives me a pain.

Capital punishment is a legitimate subject for public discussion; it deserves better than a propaganda performance. I have never qualified for a hanging jury, and I doubt that I properly could, but I submit that the crime problem in our sentimental land is not that many innocent persons are unjustly convicted or that murderers and rapists are slaughtered. To a serious extent the fate of the nation totters — I think this is no exaggeration— because of our inability to convict the guilty and to punish them. There are two books which list a handful of miscarriages in which "innocent" wretches (but mostly with crminal records) were railroaded to jail. But neither Professor Borchard's "Convicting the Innocent" nor Judge Frank's "Not Guilty" cites one example of a guiltless person's being put to death by the law.

On the other hand, hundreds of people are murdered, raped and robbed by vicious and habitual criminals who get away with it. This is the subject of a new book, "Acquitted of Murder" by William Seagle. He is an established writer on legal matters and a government lawyer in the interior department. He tells some fascinating tales of gallows-robbing by legal trickery and compiles some astonishing statistics.

"In American courts . . ." Mr. Seagle reminds us, "a person accused of crime at once becomes the darling of the law and enjoys all the advantages which it can possibly bestow upon him. Throughout the proceedings against him, he is protected by the presumption of innocence . . . of his right against self - incrimination . . . change of venue . . . more preemptory charges than the prosecution . . . all rules of evidence . . .a host of exclusionary rules . . .as many lawyers as he wishes . . .counsel at the state's expense" and so on.

Even when convicted, the capital criminal stands a good chance of reversal by the upper courts. In California, in the test period used by Mr. Seagle, reversals in murder cases occur 26 per cent of the time; in Texas 41 per cent of the time; in Illinois and Missouri 43 per cent. The reasons for reversal are not profound legal interpretations, for the most part, but trivial technicalities. One first degree killer escaped his penalty because the foreman spelled "first" as "fust."

The true pictur of American criminal law is told in loop-holes, not in gallows, as Mr. Welch ought to know and should have said.

Truman's assumption that his grandson is a Democrat will be substantiated if the third word the boys says (after "Ma-ma" and "Da-da") is "gimme."

Prostate Disorder Bothers Older Men

Disorder of the prostate is suspected whenever a man in his sixties complains of "bladder trouble." At this time of life the gland begins to enlarge in at least 60 per cent of all men. The majority are unaware of the change because symptoms develop only when the enlarged prostate blocks the opening of the bladder.

Frequency of urination is the most common manifestation. A desire to void may awaken the man at night. At first he has to get up just once but as the enlargement progresses he makes more and more trips to the bathroom. Daytime urination increases also but smaller and smaller amounts are passed and some find it harder and harder to start the process.

But this nuisance is only part of the story. The obstructed bladder does not empty itself completely and the residual urine becomes infected. Back pressure created by the narrowed opening is relayed to the kidneys, producing mechanical damage. Poisons accumulate in the blood because of faulty elimination and the blood pressure rises. Unless the situation is corrected, uremia occurs.

No one knows what makes the prostate grow larger but a deficiency of certain sex hormones is suspected because the condition develops when these secretions are on the wane. On the strength of this theory, hormone injections have been recommended but the results are disappointing. Glandular extract does not shrink the fibers and muscular framework of the gland.

As a result, operation is advised. Three surgical procedures are available and the choice depends upon the age and physical condition of the patient and the characteristics of the enlarged structure. The punch operation is most popular because it is done without an internal incision. The urologist cuts out a new opening to the bladder by removing the obstructing portion of the prostate.

A second and third operation may be needed years later if obstruction recurs. The other procedures are more extensive but results are permanent because the entire gland is removed.

RASH FROM EARRINGS

A. J. writes: When I wear earrings, my ear lobes become irritated and scabs develop. Is there anything I can coat the earrings with to make them less irritating?

REPLY

This outbreak usually represents sensitivity to nickel. Coating the earrings in clear nail lacquer offers protection for several hours, provided you are not allergic to nail polish. If money is no object, have the accessories silverplated.

SOME CAN AND SOME CAN'T

Mr. C. R. writes: Is it harmful for a person in the forties to drink six cups of coffee a day?

REPLY

Yes, if it causes insomnia or rapid and irregular pulse or makes the person so jittery he cannot do his work.

IRRITABLE COLON

F. D. writes: Are colon irrigations good for spastic bowl?

REPLY

No. The bowel does a good job of cleansing itself. Colitis is best treated with foods that rest the digestive tract and drugs that relax the tightened intestinal muscles. Since this condition is of nervous origin, many victims get relief when they manage to go along on an even keel.

Operations At Pole Opened Up By United States

McMurdo Sound, Antarctica (UPI)—An airlift to the South Pole Friday opened the U.S. scientific expedition's summer operations which may lead to permanent American occupation of the bottom of the world.

Giant U.S. Air Force Globemaster transport planes took off from this air base for the 800-mile flight to the pole where the United States maintains a small station. The airlift was the start of intensified activity scheduled for the Antarctic summer when the sun shines 24 hours a day.

The U.S. "Operation Deep Freeze" will end Dec. 31. It will be replaced by a special research program which informed observers here believe will lead to establishment of permanent U.S. bases in the Antarctic.

Several prominent American scientists, including Dr. Lloyd W. Berkner, arrived here Thursday night to work out plans for continued use of the frozen continent for scientific purposes.

The scientists are investigating the problems connected with keeping three American and one joint U.S.-New Zealand bases in operation.

About 350 men spent the lonely six months of winter darkness at the U.S. bases. With the arrival of the supply ships early next year, the personnel will be expanded to more than 3,000.

The stepped-up American activities will parallel the Soviet Union's Antarctic program, which calls for increased study in the heart of the large area of the continent now claimed by Australia.

Faubus Talk Is Scheduled At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, en route home from a Florida vacation, will address a mass Citizens Council meeting Monday night.

Faubus and his party will be met at the state line and escorted into the city Monday morning. Plans call for a visit to city hall where he will receive a state citation from state Sen. John O'Conner, who will represent Gov. Earl Long.

Officials of Little Rock's Capital City Citizens Council will also be here for the meeting, including Dr. Malcolm Taylor, board member of the Little Rock group, and Amis Guthridge, its attorney.

Dale Alford, surprise winner over Rep. Brooks Hays in the Congressional race last Tuesday, may attend the meeting.

Will Inflation Rise?

If what President Eisenhower has said is true, the next congress is likely to set a new all-time record for peacetime spending and might even approach wartime spending. The president says the people of the United States have elected many "big spenders."

This brings up the question of whether or not inflation will proceed at an even faster pace during the life of the next congress than in the present one. Since greater inflation may be imminent, it seems wise to consider what some of the effects of this inflation might mean.

In an article entitled "Silent Weapon of the Cold War," Demaree Bess, a foreign correspondent of long and varied experience, says the weapon now being used by Russia against the United States is runaway inflation. The purpose of the article is to show how inflation can and does "break the human spirit as completely as famines, earthquakes, wars or revolutions." He has watched it in France, eastern Europe and elsewhere. He has seen it clear the way for Communist rule in China after World War II, just as it did for Russia after World War I.

Real runaway inflation has been experienced only twice in the United States — during revolutionary days and in the Confederate south.

Mr. Bess says: "Soviet strategists have given notice that they expect our luck to change, partly because of our own indifference to economic affairs and partly because of the Kremlin's planned economic warfare against us."

Moscow's main attention, as he sees it, has shifted from the arms race to this kind of economic warfare. This was purely a logical shift from the Communist viewpoint. Lenin, himself, predicted that economic warfare would be a more potent weapon than armed forces in bringing about a world-wide Bolshevik revolution. The Soviet creed is fashioned upon the basic belief that Communism eventually will stand triumphant upon the ruins of rival economic systems which have been bankrupted by a combination of their own financial responsibility and unrelenting Soviet pressures against them.

Mr. Bess points to a matter of great importance which is little known in this country. Soviet economists are orthodox and conservative. They "have stubbornly clung to such old-fashioned notions as balanced budgets and sound money." Their domestic economic measures are almost all of an anti-inflationary type.

In addition to China, Hungary provides a tragic example of how inflation works. There, during the post-war occupation, the Russians "unleashed the wildest currency inflation on record." Printing presses ran day and night, turning out money. Before the war the Hungarian pengo was worth 20 cents. Mr. Bess was able to get 33 billion pengo for one dollar at the peak of inflation. The savings of the nation's most substantial citizens were thus deliberately wiped out.

Financial irresponsibility in the United States would be just what would force the pace of American spending to suit Russia best. If the Soviets can force the pace of American spending to the point where inflation goes out of control they can forget about such weapons as intercontinental missiles.

President Eisenhower has said he will stand firm against huge spending during the next two years. If he keeps that promise he can go a long way toward preventing runaway inflation.

While it is true that the people elected a good many Democratic big spenders, it is also true that a large portion of the southern Democrats are conservative. The Democrats hold enough seats in both the house and senate to overide a presidential veto but they would require an almost solid Democratic vote to do this.

Southern conservatives will still be able to wield considerable balance of power in the new congress.

Business Strikes Back

A sort of big business "togetherness" may possibly be the answer to problems in industry-wide collective bargaining imposed by poweful unions. Having failed in an attempt to curb industry-wide strikes by obtaining revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, business is showing what has been called "a quickening tempo in employer-initiated mutual defense."

The plan or pact as announced by six of the nation's biggest airlines Nov. 2 is a case in point. This is a mutual aid arrangement to share extra revenues when one or more of them is shut down dow by a strike. The agreement was signed by American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, TWA and United.

The plan was filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board on Nov. 3. The Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 requires CAB to issue orders approving or disapproving agreements among airlines on the basis of "the public interest." These include "pooling or apportioning earnings," and "other cooperative working agreements."

The airlines understanding was announced in the midst of a strike against Capital by the International Association of Machinists going into its fourth week. But behind it lie two years of industry study aiming at joint labor-management bargining. Robert T. Quick, a district IAM president, on Nov. 3 called the plan "a union-busting move."

The Big Three automobile manufacturers — General Motors, Ford, Chrysler — made no secret of their solid front in collective bargaining this year, terminating in essentially similar settlements in September and October. The Big Three in steel — U.S., Bethlehem, Republic — had bargained jointly with United Steel-workers two years ago. And industry-wide bargaining has long been accepted in other industries—notably clothing and coal.

Just before a newspaper strike was averted in New York City, The New York Times had announced, Oct. 30, that even though it should not be struck it would suspend publication so long as any craft union refused to cross picket lines at any newspaper in the metropolis. Other papers immediately followed suit.

Of the airlines agreement, the Wall Street Journal has commented editorially: "It is one more indication of the way union monopolistic practices can force industry into doubtful practices of its own." Certainly it will raise legal questions, though the U.S. Department of Jusitce so far has refused comment.

On Another Front, business was again urged, Nov. 4, to get into politics "with both feet." William A. McDonnell, U. S. Chamber of Commerce president, declared: "We need a working majority in Congress which will agree that the government's integrity depends upon a stable currency."

The specific taget was inflation. McDonnell cited as one of the major causes of this "implacable enemy of our system" the "monopoly power" of labor unions. The warning, coming on an election day in which the AFL-CIO showed its full strength for the first time since the union merger of 1955, carried peculiar significance. On the same day five of six business-sponsored state right-to-work referenda were voted down.

Unless business can find a way to combat the big unions and their radical bosses, the situation will become critical for this nation. There must be a halt somewhere because unions are doing everything possible to control this nation.

If that time ever comes, the country will be in for the worst period of trouble it has ever faced.

"Try to see the good in every person you come in contact with," advises a sweetness-and-light writer. Following this advice would be likely to cause severe eyestrain.

"Do You Have Trouble Sleeping?" —Catchline of patent medicine ad. No, indeed. We have less trouble sleeping than at any other time.

Democrats Still Must Find Candidate In 1960

On Second Thought — Sweeping Democratic Congressional and gubernatiorial victory doesn't analyze into a Democratic Presidential victory in 1960. Party still must find a candidate and write a platform who and which can unite party. Loss of New York, split in Pennsylvania and unconvincing victories in other States with big electoral vote indicates that third party in South could wreck Democratic Presidential prospects. Election results decreased and did not improve field of Democratic hopefuls.

WHEN TIDE COMES IN — Defeat of the heretofore always st.ong Senator Bricker in Ohio by heretofore always weak Stephen Young illustrates what a tidal wave can do to personalities. Incidentally, Ohio may be Democrats most permanent political take-over. Buckeye State now has passed Pennsylvania and ranks second to New York as industrial states; has more cities of more than 10,000 than any state. Once close balance between rural and urban vote now tipped heavily urban.

THE ROLLING ROCKY — If it were not for the fact that Nixon might succeed to the Presidency in the next two years some hard-bitten Republicans would bet even money that Nelson A. Rockefeller would be the next Republican Presidential nominee. Some of them think they have found another vote - getter of the Eisenhower stripe on a national scale. Rockefeller emerged from landslide victory with two popular nicknames — Rocky and Nelse.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

United States Killer Nation

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Joseph Welch, the New England attorney who looks and acts a bit like Arthur Train's famous character, Mr. Tutt, could be grouped with another set of names. Like Steve Brodie and Bonehead Merkle, Mr. Welch became famous for a single act. Instead of jumping from the Brooklyn Bridge or forgetting to touch second base, Mr. Welch got himself televised a few years ago in a lacrimonious exchange with the late Senator McCarthy.

Since then Mr. Welch has been invaluable as a tear jerk specialist on television. His latest was a homespun piece of hogwash, sponsored by a Canadian firm and impresarioed by the elegant Britisher, Alistair Cooke, against the American system of capital punishment. Mr. Welch knocked over a number of propagandistic strawmen in the form of chain - smoking turnkeys and death-house jailers who made the weirdest string of coached witnesses ever portrayed. Mr. Welch also compared our nation, or more specifically a number of our states, with Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy and Soviet Russia. It was a case of "guilt by association," you see, because the USA and these demon - nations permit the death penalty for criminals.

The general pattern is too tiresome for much comment. We have come to expect foreigners, even Canadian aluminum makers and British correspondents, to find fault w th the USA, and to make these unfavorable comparisons. The same, alas, is true with the professional liberals. As a bird-watcher who gets up pretty early in the morning, I am still peeling my eye for the first of the left wing ilk which dares to warble some praise of this country, this citadel of world's freedom, thi protector of the weak, this champion of the individual, this mighty power which is so slow to anger and so loath to strike. I have met Mr. Welch and found him insistently picturesque. He and his patrons have a trait of belittling the nation to show themselves off as exhibitionist - humanitarians, and it gives me a pain.

On the other hand, hundreds of people are murdered, raped and robbed by vicious and habitual criminals who get away with it. This is the subject of a new book, "Acquitted of Murder" by William Seagle. He is an established writer on legal matters and a government lawyer in the interior department. He tells some fascinating tales of gallows-robbing by legal trickery and compiles some astonishing statistics.

"In American courts . . ." Mr. Seagle reminds us, "a person accused of crime at once becomes the darling of the law and enjoys all the advantages which it can possibly bestow upon him. Throughout the proceed ngs against him, he is protected by the presumption of innocence . . . of his right against self - incrimination . . . change of venue . . . more preemptory charges than the prosecution . . . all rules of evidence . . .a host of exclusionary rules . . .as many lawyers as he wishes . . .counsel at the state's expense" and so on.

Ever when convicted, the capital criminal stands a good chance of reversal by the upper courts. In California, in the test period used by Mr. Seagle, reversals in murder cases occur 26 per cent of the time; in Texas 41 per cent of the time; in Illinois and Missouri 43 per cent. The reasons for reversal are not profound legal interpretations, for the most part, but trivial technicalities. Truman's assumption that his grandson is a Democrat will be substantiated if the third word the boys says (after "Ma-ma" and "Da-da") is "gimme."

DEBATER DIRKSEN — Senator Everett Dirksen, who will succeed Senator Knowland as Republican leader is the ablest debater ever to lead Republicans on the Senate floor. His opposite, Senator Johnson of Texas, is a manager not a debater type, nor was Knowland a skillful debater. Most accomplished debaters among Senate leaders were the late Senators Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, and Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky.

Eisenhower to USE VETO — President Eisenhower has told White House visitors that he does not covet the title of "veto President," but will not hesitate to impose his disapproval on any legislation which reaches his desk if he considers it unwise. No Eisenhower veto has been overridden by Congress. Whether he can maintain that record in the face of the diminished party following as the result of Tuesday's election, remains to be seen.

PLENTY OF ADVICE— Senator Stuart Symington, recipient of a smashing victory in Missouri, is receiving divergent advice on how best to enhance his Presidential aspirations. One group wants him to make speeches in various parts of the country, openly seek 1960 delegates. The other group tells him he is everybody's second choice candidate, that he should cultivate the friendship of other candidates and profit by an almost certain deadlock in the next Democratic National convention.

KNELL FOR KNOWLAND? Did his California defeat spell the end of Presidential hopes for Senator William F. Knowland of California? Not necessarily Washington thinks, but he will have to comeback in California. Should Knowland win the Governorship of mercurial California in 1962 he would be back in business for 1964 by which time he will be only 56 years old. Thus, youth is his best ally.

EISENHOWER RECESS APPOINTMENT — Senate Democrats say there will be little opposition to the confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as Secretary of Commerce despite the fact that he is one of the most controversial figures in Washington. Feeling is that President has right to Cabinet advisers of his choice. Some of the others on the growing list of recess appointments are in for searching questioning by Senate Committees. High on this list is new Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart.

EMPIRIC BLOW — Size of their New York setback stunned Democrats. Two months ago Harriman was 3 to 1 favorite to win Governorship. In recent weeks increase in Rockefeller strength was apparent and they expected that if he won at all it would be narrowly and as a G. O. P. consolation prize. Hogan was looked on a shoo-in for Senator.

Increase My Faith

DEAR God, increase my faith in You . . . With every passing day . . . I need Your loving help so much . . . Along my earthly way . . . Increase my faith in living right . . . And doing all I can . . . To be of worthy service to . . . My every fellow man . . . And then that I may falter not . . . Increase my faith in me . . . The confidence I need to use . . . My best ability . . . I do not ask another thing . . . Because as I believe . . . I know that You will bless me, God . . . And I shall never grieve . . . And as my faith increases, so . . . I will be stronger, too . . . To serve You, God, in every way . . . My life may honor You.

AFTER BLAST AT GOP POLICY

Monroe 'States Righter' Gets Reply From Alcorn

A Monroe "states righter," who for many years was a northern Republican, has received an answer from the Republican National Committee chairman in reply to a scathing letter which blasted Republican policy of advocating integration.

John E. Zufall, official with the city engineer's office, sent Chairman Meade Alcorn a letter revealing a "grass roots" opinion in this part of the county.

"I voted for Ike in '52 and again in '56. Now — I would not vote for him for town marshal," Zufall stressed.

"For several years now," he continued, "I have worked with a few here to get a two-party system going in this area, and had just about succeeded, when the invasion of Little Rock took place. That stopped almost everything."

He stated that although he is an overseas veteran of World War 2, and Korea, and past Post and District Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the 14th District in Louisiana, he will never again "attend any public meeting where that grand old banner, the National Emblem, is displayed and salute it . . . until a presidential apology is made to the Governor of Arkansas."

"As for integration — I would suggest the Warren court do something about conditions there within a dozen blocks of the capitol, clean up Washington, New York, Chicago and quite a few other cities up there before trying to mix the races down here," he continued.

VIEWS

"There is much made over the NAACP now. For my money, that is as rotten a thing as could ever be foisted on the public by any group of politicians," Zufall insisted.

"Having been born and reared in the North, I know that no one but the politicians and the communist group want, really want, integration there," he stated.

"Civil Rights? Yes, for me as well as for a bunch of grafters who pay very little taxes and are trying to force their way into my life," the letter continued in part.

"Also for the American Indian, who has been so badly forgotten, and one of whom was denied burial in . . . Iowa. He was an overseas veteran who came back in a box. How about HIS civil rights," Zufall questioned.

"For me and mine, no integration," he concluded.

In reply to Zufall's letter, quoted in parts here, Alcorn replied that he appreciated "your courtesy in letting me have your views."

"While I am not in accord with them, I respect your opinions and your motive in writing to me," the GOP national committee chairman continued.

"Under the inspired leadership of President Eisenhower," Alcorn wrote, "we have had peace with honor, unprecedented prosperity in the years of peace which followed Korea, integrity in government fiscal responsibility, and a firm and courageous policy in dealing with the threat of Communism."

He enclosed several information sheets for Zufall to look over.

VIENNA (AP) — The International Atomic Energy Agency based here has named a seven-man scientific advisory committee including Prof. I. I. Rabi of the United States. the committee's first meeting is set for Nov. 14 in New York.

Alcohol is a curse, of course, but even if it didn't exist the typical person who is now a problem drinker would most likely be a problem of some other kind.

Summon Mounted Police

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—The [illegible] Police were called in Saturday to help [illegible] the shooting death of a young man whose hotel room contained Communist literature and pictures of radar line sites.

The RCMP declined comment, but Coroner Glen McDonald said the police were summoned because of the "unusual nature" of the evidence.

A coroner's jury, after six hours' deliberation, recommended further study of the death of Merrill James O'Donnell, 27, no fixed address.

He was found Sunday in the first-floor hallway of a midtown hotel with a bullet wound in his chest. A .38-caliber revolver lay a few inches from his hand. O'Donnell died a short time later in a hospital.

The coroner's jury held death was "not by suicide" but said there was "insufficient evidence to establish whether it was by accident or homicide."

City police said Saturday, however, that the possibility of suicide had not been ruled out.

Several color photos of the Distant Early Warning line radar sites were found among O'Donnell's effects. Police said there also was a box of Communist literature.

A friend told the coroner's jury O'Donnell had worked for a transportation company on the DEW line but was fired for trying to organize the Seagarers International Union. A union official, Norm Cunningham, testified O'Donnell was not a security risk.

Adding to the mystery was a letter apparently written by O'Donnell's mother, indicating she now is visiting Russia. It told of the writer's plan for a two-week stay in Moscow, free "rest and treatment" on the Black Sea and a return trip to be paid for by the U.S.S.R. Police declined to identify the letter writer.

Authorities said O'Donnell apparently was robbed of $2500 he was known to have carried.

WHEN CLOTHING IGNITED

Girl, 8, Is Saved By Dad's Action

Little dark - haired Doris McAdams looked over a children's book in her room at the Wright-Bendel clinic last night, ignoring bandages which swathed her right leg.

Her father, D. L. McAdams, sitting opposite her bed, recalled the near-fatal incident in their home Friday morning. It burned the eight-year-old's leg and stripped the flesh from his left hand, leaving the pain of third-degree burns.

Young McAdams, who saved his daughter's life, joked that it was a lucky thing he used his left hand to put out the flames - "that's not my pencil hand."

It was at 7 a.m. Friday. Mr. and Mrs. McAdams were sitting at the breakfast table in their home on the Jonesboro Road in West Monroe. Doris was getting ready for school; the two younger children, Lynn, 6 and Ricky, 4, were still asleep.

"Daddy." The shriek sent McAdams running to the bathroom. Little Doris' outing nightgown had caught fire on the heater. . . . flames were leaping up about her head, burning her leg from ankel to hip.

"I put my hand over the flames and pushed them down before they could catch her hair and face on fire. She said, 'Daddy, take me to the hospital,' so I rushed her out of the house and into the car," McAdams continued.

RUSHED OUT

"It was rushing out into the cold, then driving the eight or ten miles to the hospital that fixed my hand so bad, I think," he explained.

"Doris was a real little lady-she didn't cry all the way in. . . when it started hurting real bad, she just held onto the back of the seat," he said proudly.

"And then, she didn't cry until her Daddy had to go out of the room to have his hand treated —she was crying for him," Mrs. McAdams pointed out.

Doris, a third-grader in Woodlawn School, peered out shyly from behind a book, then turned on a captivating smile.

"She's been reading or writing all the time since she got here - she had second degree burns on her leg and the doctor said she'll probably have to stay at least until Monday" McAdams stated.

"We're both doing fine though - I was discharged this afternoon and she is doing good for having such a large area burned," he added.

LAST STRONGHOLDS

VIENNA (AP) — The Prague newspaper Svobodne Slove reports the Czech capital's few remaining independent hotels and restaurants will be nationalized soon. The National Council recently recommended liquidation of the last free enterprises.

WITH TWIN CITY SYMPHONY

2 Are Selected As Piano Soloists

A Northeast State College Junior and a second-year student at Neville High School were chosen yesterday to perform as piano soloists at the second concert of the 1958-59 Twin City Symphony.

Miss Beth Brown, who is majoring in piano at Northeast, and Miss Marie King Nelsen, 14-year-old high school sophomore, were selected from 18 entrants during auditions yesterday.

A team of three judges, who are piano instructors at Louisiana and Mississippi colleges, determined the winners at noon following auditions which began at 8 a.m. yesterday.

The School of Fine Arts at Northeast was the location for the tryouts.

Both accomplished pianists, the young ladies will play at the February concert of the Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Harry Lemert.

In the High School division, second place honors went to Miss Mary Teresa Summers of Shreveport, whose teacher is LeRoy Anspach.

Third place was taken by Miss Caroline White of Monroe and Miss Alice Barnett of Shreveport, who tied for the position. Mrs. Dorothe Zeagler is Miss White's instructor.

Honorable mention went to Sandy Lawn of Monroe, whose teacher is Mrs. Clarie Frieberg.

JUDGES

Judging the competition were E. Castro de Silva, piano instructor at Sophie Newcombe College in New Orleans; Mrs. A. Blanchard Boyer, piano instructor at All Saints Episcopal Junior College in Vicksburg, Miss.; and Dr. Grady Cox, professor of piano at Mississippi College in Clinton.

Dr. Cox is also president of the Mississippi Music Teachers Association.

Miss Brown was the only entrant in the College Division, and played the Schumann Concerto in A minor, Opus 54.

A member of Delta Omicron music fraternity and Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority, Miss Brown is also accompanist for the Northeast Singers and the Northeast Band.

She began her study in her home town, Tallulah, under the tutorship of Mrs. J. C. Sherwin.

While in Monroe, she has studied with Joe Monroe and Frank Parker, and is now being instructed by Mrs. B. D. Albritton.

SELECTION

The daughter of Mrs. Haakon Nelsen and the late Mr. Nelsen, the winner in the high school competition chose the first movement of the Kabelevsky Concerto No. 3 for the audition.

A piano student for six years, Miss Nelsen is now instructed by R. Frank Parker. She has had previous study with Mrs. Claire Frieberg and Mrs. B. D. Albritton.

Active in high school and church work, she is a member of the Latin Club, the advanced chemistry class and the safety council at Neville, where she is also an honor student.

Secretary of the A-Sharp Musical Coterie, she has entered the National Piano Playing Auditions for three years, and received superior-plus ratings each time.

She is also a member of Lambda Sigma Chi social sorority.

Miss Nelsen is accompanist for the Intermediate Choir of the St. Paul Methodist church, and also renders the musical selections for the Sunday evening Vesper Service at the church.

In addition to service as pianist for the Senior Sunday School, she has substituted at the early morning service in St. Paul's.

She is also a member of the Methodist Youth Fellowship and chairman of its Christian Citizenship group.

3 Hit-Runs Are Reported In City Area

Three hit-run accidents occurred within four hours last night - two persons were hurt slightly in one of the mishaps.

Monroe Police who investigated said that the first collision occurred at 5:55 p.m. at the corner of DeSiard St. and Sixth.

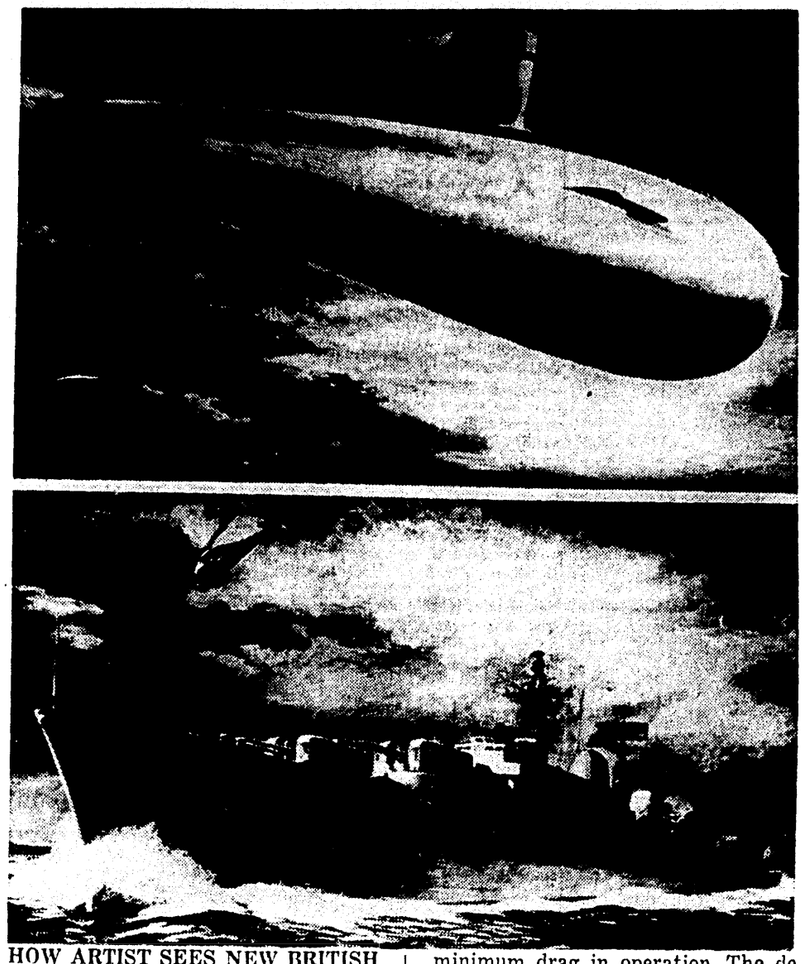
Willie L. Lacy, 35, Negro of 3903 Dunlop, said that when he halted for a traffic light, another car hit the left rear of his vehicle, and continued in an easterly direction.

At 8:40 p.m., Hartman Mitchell, 53, Negro of 302 South 23 St. heard a crash and ran out of a house in the 2900 block of Renwick Street to find the left rear side of his car smashed in.

The other driver left the scene without stopping.

Miss Betty Candy of Winnsboro and Hulon Johnson of Rayville complained of pain after a car in which they were riding was struck by another vehicle. They did not seek medical aid.

Clifton E. Hines, 6301 Henderson St., Shreveport, told Police that he was driving on Louisville, and was in front of the Sportsman Inn when another car pulled out, hit the right side of his car, and roared away.



HOW ARTIST SEES NEW BRITISH WARSHIPS — These pictures, released by British Royal Navy, are artist conceptions of new submarine "Dreadnought," top, and one of four guided missile destroyers which have been ordered by Britain. The Dreadnought will have a whale-shaped hull. Its fin-like conning tower is designed to give minimum drag in operation. The destroyers will carry the new Seaslug ship-to-air guided missile. They also will have powerful conventional armament and will be atom-proofed for operation in fallout areas in event of attack by nuclear weapons. (AP Wirephoto).

AT MUSIC SESSION

Human Relations Role Described

"Do we have a deep concern for people in our own profession?" The question was raised at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Louisiana Music Teacher Association, the last of the three-day convention sessions at Northeast State.

Edward J. Hermann, the State Department of Education's coordinator of art and music, declared "Music teachers should feel deeply for persons in their own occupation." They must develop a true approach to the teaching community, the luncheon speaker continued.

Emphasizing the teacher's role in public relations, Hermann stated, "No one can teach music unless he is interested in human relations." The art, itself, depends upon it, he said.

Public relations is not limited to newspapers, radio, and posters, the speaker explained. It includes people with whom music teachers have immediate contact. Public relations, like charity, begins at home, Hermann declared." We must have a burning conviction about our job if we are to do good work in human relations." This feeling, he explained, is essential for the classroom and other music teachers on the staff and in the community.

Hermann illustrated the value of public relations to professions in his reference to such fields as medicine and law. Everyone in the music profession should accept the job of public relations officer. He must demonstrate deep interest in problems and activities of other teachers —even when a public relations officer is employed by a school.

Weakness or harm to the profession sometimes stems from jealousy or contempt among teachers, the speaker pointed out. Such pettiness may be overcome by teachers attempting to understand problems, obtaining facts prior to passing judgment, and thinking constructively, he stated." The profession will strengthen as we practice human relations on a high level."

Featured in entertainment was the Northeast Concert Choir directed by Lee Fiser. The group presented a wide range of numbers, one in which some of the visiting musicians added impromptu talent. The final number was sung by a quintet with accompanists, Miss Beth Brown, painist, and Wilmer "Slick" Lawson, bass fiddle.

Presiding at the meeting was A. E. Wilder, Jr., of the Southeastern faculty who gave special recognition to Northeast's president, George T. Walker, Dean Harry M. Lemert of the college's Fine Arts Department and convention chairman, and the LMTA president, Willis Ducrest of Southwestern.

Ducrest, previously pointing to the advantages of the Louisiana Music Teachers Association, emphasized that it is the one association for private teachers. About 65 per cent of the organization's membership is comprised of private music instructors, he said. College teachers compose about 30 per cent, and the parochial and public school teachers total approximately 5 per cent.

Purpose of the National and State Music Teachers Associations is to improve proficiency to all instructors in this field, Ducrest explained. The organizations attempt to make available literature, courses of study and workshops and to stress ethics in teaching.

Pair Treated For Injuries

Two Negro men were treated at Conway Memorial Hospital last night for injuries received in a fight in Johnson's Alley last night, police said.

Annie Milton Johnson, 31 of 17 Johnson's Alley, received a long cut on the right shoulder, and James Williams, 52, of 803 Adams St. was struck on the head with a 2 by 4 piece of wood, police reported. Monroe Police were investigating the incident late last night.

Married couples who play bridge as partners are unusually congenial or they are past caring.

Murder Charge Filed Against Va. Youth, 16

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A murder charge was filed Saturday against a 16-year-old boy, accused of drowning a young brother and sister in a bathtub.

Police said James A. Johnson admitted drowning the children, hiding the bodies, and then going off to a movie Friday. Lt. Russell Baughan, head of the Police Juvenile Division, said Johnson had showed "absolutely no remorse."

Baughan said the boy was talkative until asked questions about a motive.

"Then he just shrugs his shoulders and give us an 'I don't know' " Baughan said.

The body of Beverly Conway, 4, whose clothing was removed, was found in the attic of Johnson's home early Saturday. Her body was wrapped in a rug, bathrobe, and sheet.

Minutes later, searchers ended a 15-hour hunt when the body of Wayne Timothy Conway, 5, was found buried in a shallow ditch beside Johnson's house. Wayne's body was wrapped in a blanket and sheet.

WITH TWIN CITY SYMPHONY

2 Are Selected As Piano Soloists

A Northeast State College Junior and a second-year student at Neville High School were chosen yesterday to perform as piano soloists at the second concert of the 1958-59 Twin City Symphony.

Miss Beth Brown, who is majoring in piano at Northeast, and Miss Marie King Nelsen, 14-year-old high school sophomore, were selected from 18 entrants during auditions yesterday.

A team of three judges, who are piano instructors at Louisiana and Mississippi colleges, determined the winners at noon following auditions which began at 8 a.m. yesterday.

The School of Fine Arts at Northeast was the location for the tryouts.

Both accomplished pianists, the young ladies will play at the February concert of the Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Harry Lemert.

In the High School division, second place honors went to Miss Mary Teresa Summers of Shreveport, whose teacher is LeRoy Anspach.

Third place was taken by Miss Caroline White of Monroe and Miss Alice Barnett of Shreveport, who tied for the position. Mrs. Dorothe Zeagler is Miss White's instructor.

Honorable mention went to Sandy Lawn of Monroe, whose teacher is Mrs. Clarie Frieberg.

JUDGES

Judging the competition were E. Castro de Silva, piano instructor at Sophie Newcombe College in New Orleans; Mrs. A. Blanchard Boyer, piano instructor at All Saints Episcopal Junior College in Vicksburg, Miss.; and Dr. Grady Cox, professor of piano at Mississippi College in Clinton.

Dr. Cox is also president of the Mississippi Music Teachers Association.

Miss Brown was the only entrant in the College Division, and played the Schumann Concerto in A minor, Opus 54.

A member of Delta Omicron music fraternity and Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority, Miss Brown is also accompanist for the Northeast Singers and the Northeast Band.

She began her study in her home town, Tallulah, under the tutorship of Mrs. J. C. Sherwin.

While in Monroe, she has studied with Joe Monroe and Frank Parker, and is now being instructed by Mrs. B. D. Albritton.

SELECTION

The daughter of Mrs. Haakon Nelsen and the late Mr. Nelsen, the winner in the high school competition chose the first movement of the Kabelevsky Concerto No. 3 for the audition.

A piano student for six years, Miss Nelsen is now instructed by R. Frank Parker. She has had previous study with Mrs. Claire Frieberg and Mrs. B. D. Albritton.

Active in high school and church work, she is a member of the Latin Club, the advanced chemistry class and the safety council at Neville, where she is also an honor student.

Secretary of the A-Sharp Musical Coterie, she has entered the National Piano Playing Auditions for three years, and received superior-plus ratings each time.

She is also a member of Lambda Sigma Chi social sorority.

Miss Nelsen is accompanist for the Intermediate Choir of the St. Paul Methodist church, and also renders the musical selections for the Sunday evening Vesper Service at the church.

In addition to service as pianist for the Senior Sunday School, she has substituted at the early morning service in St. Paul's.

She is also a member of the Methodist Youth Fellowship and chairman of its Christian Citizenship group.

3 Hit-Runs Are Reported In City Area

Three hit-run accidents occurred within four hours last night - two persons were hurt slightly in one of the mishaps.

Monroe Police who investigated said that the first collision occurred at 5:55 p.m. at the corner of DeSiard St. and Sixth.

Willie L. Lacy, 35, Negro of 3903 Dunlop, said that when he halted for a traffic light, another car hit the left rear of his vehicle, and continued in an easterly direction.

At 8:40 p.m., Hartman Mitchell, 53, Negro of 302 South 23 St. heard a crash and ran out of a house in the 2300 block of Renwick Street to find the left rear side of his car smashed in.

The other driver left the scene without stopping.

Miss Betty Candy of Winnsboro and Hulon Johnson of Rayville complained of pain after a car in which they were riding was struck by another vehicle. They did not seek medical aid.

Clifton E. Hines, 6301 Henderson St., Shreveport, told Police that he was driving on Louisville, and was in front of the Sportsman Inn when another car pulled out, hit the right side of his car, and roared away.

The Dreadnought will have a whale-shaped hull. Its finlike conning tower is designed to give minimum drag in operation. The destroyers will carry the new Seaslug ship-to-air guided missile. They also will have powerful conventional armament and will be atom-proofed for operation in fallout areas in event of attack by nuclear weapons. (AP Wirephoto).

AT MUSIC SESSION

Human Relations Role Described

"Do we have a deep concern for people in our own profession?" The question was raised at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Louisiana Music Teacher Association, the last of the three-day convention sessions at Northeast State.

Edward J. Hermann, the State Department of Education's coordinator of art and music, declared "Music teachers should feel deeply for persons in their own occupation." They must develop a true approach to the teaching community, the luncheon speaker continued.

Emphasizing the teacher's role in public relations, Hermann stated, "No one can teach music unless he is interested in human relations." The art, itself, depends upon it, he said.

Public relations is not limited to newspapers, radio, and posters, the speaker explained. It includes people with whom music teachers have immediate contact. Public relations, like charity, begins at home, Hermann declared." We must have a burning conviction about our job if we are to do good work in human relations." This feeling, he explained, is essential for the classroom and other music teachers on the staff and in the community.

Hermann illustrated the value of public relations to professions in his reference to such fields as medicine and law. Everyone in the music profession should accept the job of public relations officer. He must demonstrate deep interest in problems and activities of other teachers —even when a public relations officer is employed by a school.

Weakness or harm to the profession sometimes stems from jealousy or contempt among teachers, the speaker pointed out. Such pettiness may be overcome by teachers attempting to understand problems, obtaining facts prior to passing judgment, and thinking constructively, he stated." The profession will strengthen as we practice human relations on a high level."

Featured in entertainment was the Northeast Concert Choir directed by Lee Fiser. The group presented a wide range of numbers, one in which some of the visiting musicians added impromptu talent. The final number was sung by a quintet with accompanists, Miss Beth Brown, painist, and Wilmer "Slick" Lawson, bass fiddle.

Presiding at the meeting was A. E. Wilder, Jr., of the Southeastern faculty who gave special recognition to Northeast's president, George T. Walker, Dean Harry M. Lemert of the college's Fine Arts Department and convention chairman, and the LMTA president, Willis Ducrest of Southwestern.

Ducrest, previously pointing to the advantages of the Louisiana Music Teachers Association, emphasized that it is the one association for private teachers. About 65 per cent of the organization's membership is comprised of private music instructors, he said. College teachers compose about 30 per cent, and the parochial and public school teachers total approximately 5 per cent.

Purpose of the National and State Music Teachers Associations is to improve proficiency to all instructors in this field, Ducrest explained. The organizations attempt to make available literature, courses of study and workshops and to stress ethics in teaching.

Pair Treated For Injuries

Two Negro men were treated at Conway Memorial Hospital last night for injuries received in a fight in Johnson's Alley last night, police said.

Annie Milton Johnson, 31 of 17 Johnson's Alley, received a long cut on the right shoulder, and James Williams, 52, of 803 Adams St. was struck on the head with a 2 by 4 piece of wood, police reported. Monroe Police were investigating the incident late last night.

Lead Roles Assigned In Tech Musical

RUSTON (Special) — Two freshmen and two sophomores have been selected for the lead dancing roles in the Louisiana Tech music department's production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Carousel," to be presented in Howard Auditorium here November 20 and 21.

Patti Wilson, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Diane Williamson, Ruston, both freshmen, and Martha Ann Spearman, Crowville, and Joe Johnston, Oak Ridge, both sophomores, have been picked for the lead dancing roles.

Miss Spearman and Johnston appeared in last year's production of "Brigadoon." Miss Wilson, who will dance the part of Louise in the musical, has had experience in several stage shows and on television, as has Miss Williamson, who will dance the role of Hanvah.

Other solo dancers will be Marie Pettiss, Natchez, Miss.; Leslie Davenport, Shreveport; Jo Ballard, Shreveport; Butch Strother, Coushatta; Sue Johnson, Bald Knob, Ark.; and Mary Manis, Bossier City. Mrs. J. L. Mathews, Ruston, will be choreographer for the production.

Minor singings and speaking roles announced recently by Mary Elaine Wallace, director of the Opera Workshop, are First Sailor, Wayne Ford, Junction City, Ark.; First Policeman, Robert Reader, Ruston; David Bascombe, Ronnie Gray, Springhill; Arminy, Jeanette Miller, Shreveport; Penny, Carole Meyers, Magnolia, Ark.; Jennie, Diana Cobb, West Monroe; Virginia, Gloria Golsby, Crowville; Bessie, Mary Alice Jones, Simsboro; Bessie, Dottie Ray, Minden; Johnathan, Frank Jones, Gibsland; Paul, James Earl Alexander, Ruston; Hank, Richard Moore, Ruston; Andrew, Harry Thompson, Doyline; Captain, Ken Williams, Shreveport; Heavenly Friend, Cleve Taylor, Minden; Starkeeper, Don Barney, Shreveport; and Principal, Larry Stanley, Simsboro.

LSU Analyst Honored By N. Dakota

GRAND FORKS, N. D. — Dr. Philip W. West, Boyd Professor of chemistry and head of the division of analytical chemistry at Louisiana State University, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree here today by the University of North Dakota, at a convocation climaxing the University's 75th anniversary celebration.

A 1935 graduate of the University, Dr. West is one of 14 scholars honored — 13 of them UND alumni.

Dr. West's citation is as follows: "From this campus — the nation's northermost university — you went to one of the southernmost state universities to achieve distinction as a leading analytical chemist. Your work has earned the admiration of your peers as you have been called several times to lecture in South America and in Europe. Your many authoritative publications, and your brilliant work as teacher and head of your department at Louisiana State University, give us cause to rejoice as your Alma Mater bestows upon you the degree of Doctor of Science."

An international authority in his field, Dr. West received the Southwest Award of the American standing record as a teacher, author, lecturer and research scientist.

Author of over 800 scientific papers and three books, he has been assistant editor of "Mikrochemica Acta," "Analytica Chemica Acta," "Microchemical Journal," and "Comprehensive Analytical Chemistry" and a member of the editorial boards of "Analytical Chemistry" and "Journal of Chemical Education."

The LSU chemist is a consultant to the U. S. Public Health Service, Ethyl Corporation, Mine Safety Appliances Company, and Kem-Tech Laboratories and is originator and director of the University's Symposium on Modern Methods of Analytical Chemistry, an annual event attracting the leading analytical chemists of the world. He has served as president of the International Commission on New Reactions and as a member of the National Science Foundation's advisory panel on chemistry.

Dr. West came to LSU as instructor in chemistry in 1940 and was named to the distinguished rank of Boyd Professor in 1953. He received his master's degree from the University of North Dakota and his Ph.D. from the State University of Iowa. He also did post - doctorate research at Iowa State and at the Laboratorio da Producao Mineral with Professor Fritz Feigl in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Robbery Try Stamped Out

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) —A young gunman, using a sheet of trading stamps for a mask, fled Friday night before he could collect any premiums in an attempted holdup of Sam's Fairway Grocery.

The gunman ran when his mask fell off. He had pasted it to his forehead after tearing out two stamps for eye holes.

JAKE USSERY

Jake Ussery Heads Parish Heart Fund

James C. "Jake" Ussery was yesterday named to head the 1959 Ouachita Parish Heart Fund campaign.

Appointment of Ussery, who is chief pharmacist at St. Francis hospital and well known for civic activities, was announced by Mrs. George Forman and Mrs. J. B. Kugler, co-chairmen of the Ouachita Heart Council, and Dave Pearce, state heart fund chairman.

Ussery, in accepting the position, pointed out that "The Louisiana Heart Association has made 12 major research grants-in-aid during 1958, and three grants have been made by the American Heart Association to Louisiana researchers."

$32 MILLION

"In the past 10 years," he continued, "more than 32 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into cardiovascular research and a portion of these funds has been expended in Louisiana to support research programs at the Louisiana medical centers."

"I am hopeful that in the campaign which opens Feb. 1 and continues through Feb. 28, 1959, citizens of Ouachita Parish will again respond generously to our appeals for money to finance this vitally important program," he concluded.

The past president of the Monroe-West Monroe Jaycees, Ussery has also held several state and local presidencies. He is a member of the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, and the Crippled Children's board of directors.

Court Board Sets Meeting Day Earlier

The Monroe Juvenile Court Advisory Board will met Monday night, instead of the regular Tuesday night date, Walter W. Kellogg, chairman, has announced. Reason for the change of date was due to the legal holiday Tuesday, Veterans' Day.

Kellogg said the group will discuss the closing of the parish juvenile detention home.

Other items of business slated to be brought up are reports of various committees, work of the probation officers and reports from Buster Crowley, Jr., parish juvenile probation officer, and John B. Whitfield, city probation officer.

The meeting will be held in the city court room second floor of the Monroe city hall, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

As high as is the cost of living, it isn't nearly so high as the cost of living it up.

IN TWIN CITIES AREA

70 Are Enlisted In Armed Forces

Seventy young men from the Twin Cities area enlisted in the four branches of the Armed Forces during October, according to figures released yesterday by local recruiters.

Eight enlisted in the Marine Corps, eight in the Navy, 21 in the Air Force and 33 in the Army, which also led the list last month. In announcing the Navy recruits, officers pointed out that enlistment requirements for the Navy were raised three months ago, and consequently those now enlisted are in the upper mental groups of 1, 2, and 3.

Navy enlistments are: Sam Allen Searcy, Shelby R. Day, Robert R. Perry, Oswald W. Robinson, Walter R. Roark, Charles J. Williams.

Benton L. Bradberry and James L. Shively re-enlisted.

Among the Air Force enlistments, eight are men with prior service, and three are aviation cadets.

NEW

New enlistments include: Charles Bradley and Johnny Martin, both of Monroe and Bobby W. Bennett, West Monroe; Edward Burkhalter, Oak Dale; Don A. Robinson, Sterlington; Roy Sanchez Oak Grove; Leroy Lewis, Ruston; Martin James and John W. Word, Jr., both of Bastrop; and Robert Owens, Hebert.

Men with prior service are: David Felder and Ben Sittason, both of Monroe; Ralph Robbins, and William Fulford, Delhi; Clinton Nall and Charles Mobley, Jr., both of Bastrop; Tommy Black, Grayson; and Ted W. Farrar of Lillie.

Qualifying as aviation cadets were David A. Riggs, Monroe; Robert G. Copeland and Dale H. Flick, both of Ruston.

Those enlisting in the Army include eight men from Monroe or West Monroe: Thomas Benton, Jimmy Traweek, Billy Gasier, Robert Groves, and Essie Keaton, all of Monroe; Percy Williams, Sidney Childress and William Coates, West Monroe.

Richard Stegall, Pioneer; Vernon Brewster, Jerry Johnson and Charles Williams, Bastrop; James Machen, Richard Greer, Howard Watkins, John Tolar and Louie Huddleston, all of Jonesboro.

Mitchell Antley and James Rich, both of Delhi; James Hunter and Bobby Nix, both of Rayville;; Thomas Purvis and Charles Driskill, both of Dunn; Johnny Young, Grambling.

Don Boyett, Dodson; Roger Butts, West Lake; Mearl Sanders, Urania; Johnnie Hester, Grayson, Curtis Andrews, Marion, Arnold Miller, Tallulah, Sonny Henley, and James Pusser, both of Ruston; and Billy Dakin of Valdosta, Ga.

Assistantship Grants For 2 Phyics Majors

Two Northeast State seniors have been granted assistantships in physics for a year of graduate study at out-of-state colleges.

Recipients of the awards are Vincent Genusa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Genusa of Monroe, and Roy Avant, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Avant of Downsville.

Both students are candidates for graduation at the end of the first semester at Northesst.

Genusa plans to enroll at Michigan State College in March, the opening of a quarter at th. institution, and Avant will register in February at Texas A. and M. College.

The award winning physics majors became interested in this field of study after they entered Northeast as students of Clifford L. Adams, associate professor of physics during his affiliation with the college.

Genusa graduated from Neville High School of Monroe and Avant completed his high school work at Calhoun.

During his study at the college, Genusa has been a laboratory assistant and Avant has been employed by Olin Mathieson Corporation of West Monroe.

New Scouting Program Is In Planning

A new exploring program, designed to be attractive to high school age boys, is being launched this fall by the Boy Scouts of America.

Studies reveal that to appeal to boys of this age group, the program must be broad in scope, flexible in operation, and balanced in content.

"To meet these needs, the new Exploring program will cover six areas of experiences," Jack E. Pankey has announced. Pankey is scout executive of the Ouachita Valley Council, BSA.

Explorers will learn how to meet responsibilities, will gain a knowledge of the American heritage, and will come to understand the fundamental freedoms of worship, speech, press and enterprise, Pankey said.

Personal fitness, social experiences, vocational experiences and outdoor experiences will also be stressed, he added.

One feature of the new program makes it possible for an Explorer post to adopt a specialty, with the use of experts and necessary equipment.

An Explorer post is sponsored by a church, synagogue, school, civic or industrial group, whose aims are in harmony with those of the Boy Scouts.

Although the chances are that the person with a leg in a sling was injured by a power lawn mower, it is altogether possible he was a novice at getting in and out of a hammock.

Ropp To Speak At OPHS Open House

November 13 (Thursday) has been selected as the date for the dedication of the new Ouachita Parish High School building, according to school officials.

Parents of students, parish and city school officials, and other friends of Ouachita Parish High School are invited to attend the open house and visiting hour, 7-8 p.m., and the dedication program in the auditorium 8-9 p.m.

Dr. R. L. Ropp, president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, will be the featured speaker for the evening.

In addition to Dr. Ropp's address, the program will include various other speakers, music by the school band and choir, and introduction of school officials and other dignitaries.

All parents have been invited through notices sent to them through children attending the school.

At the time of his appointment to head Louisiana Tech Dr. Ropp was professor of speech and director of forensics at Northwestern State College of Louisiana. For many years previously he was director of publicity for N. S. C.

Dr. Ropp was born on a small farm in Ohio in 1897. He was married in 1926 to Miss Effie Lee Jones of Natchitoches. They have three children.

For several years, Dr. Ropp taught a Sunday School class of college students at the First Methodist church in Natchitoches and for one year taught the men's Bible class there.

He was an active member of the Natchitoches Chamber of Commerce for 25 years and served as chairman of various groups devoted to the civic interests of the city.

Dr. Ropp delivered more than 400 addresses before high school and civic groups while a member of the NSC faculty and is continuing now with lectures pertaining to Louisiana Tech as well as other topics.

Dr. Ropp attended a one-room school until he was 12 years old. He graduated from the Latty (Ohio) high school in 1913; received the degree of bachelor of science in education from Ohio Northern University in 1923 and received the degree of master of arts in English from Louisiana State University in 1929. He received the degree of doctor of laws from Ohio Northern University.

Fire Call Leads To Fire Fighter's Residence Here

Fireman H. P. Middleton was on duty at No. 4 Fire Station, when the phone rang at 12:50 yesterday afternoon.

His wife was calling, to ask what she should do about an electrical fire in the deep freeze unit at their home.

"Just hang up the phone - we'll take care of it," he replied.

Engine companies 101 and 104 rushed to the scene, 1506 S. Eighth St.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Middleton had managed to disconnect the blazing electrical wiring from the wall socket.

The fire was out when the engine companies arrived.

The were back on duty by 1:06 p.m.

ARKANSAS ELECTION

Hays Says Faubus Hurt His Chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) expressed belief Friday that Gov. Orval E. Faubus had a big hand in his losing his congressional seat to an avowed segregationist.

Hays, who calls himself a Southern moderate on racial matters, lost to Dr. Dale Alford, Little Rock segregationist, who ran in Tuesday's election as an independent write-in candidate.

Alford entered the race just a week before the election and won by 1,200 votes.

Hays said Faubus agreed last June to stay out of Hays' race, and had made a written pledge to support the Democratic party nominees in the general election. But Faubus nevertheless supported Alford, he said.

"I do not know exactly what he did—in the campaign—but in the district it is not disputed by friend or foe that he was for my opponent," Hays told a news conference.

Asked whether Faubus had instigated Alford's entry into the race, Hays said he did not know. But he noted that Claude Carpenter resigned as the governor's executive secretary to manage Alford's campaign and that "seems like sufficient evidence."

"The governor, for some reason I don't know, decided he did not want me in Congress," Hays went on. "I doubt the governor himself would deny this."

Hays said he would not contest Alford's election, but did feel there might be some question as to the legality of the procedure used against him. He added he hoped someone would contest the tactics used in order "to prevent such sneak attacks in the future."

Asked whether he would run against Alford in 1960, Hays said he had no plans now to do that, but that no man should say positively that he wouldn't run for office.

Hays, now serving his second term as president of the Southern Baptist Convention, said he will devote most of his time to Baptist affairs until his church office expires next May.

He said he has received several job offers but has accepted none. He is eligible for a congressional pension for 16 years in the House. This is not large, Hays said, but "will pay the grocery bill."

Hays said he has received many expressions of regret at his defeat. One, he said, was from Secretary of State Dulles.

Hussein Will Take 3-Week European Trip

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein will leave by plane Monday for a three-week vacation in Europe. A three-man Regency Council will assume royal functions in his absence, a palace announcement said today.

The young monarch's decision a vacation was taken as evidence he believes the situation calm enough to permit him to be away for a while. All the British troops called in last summer to ward off any pro-Nasser coup are gone.

Presumably Hussein's plane will fly over President Nasser's United Arab Republic. The U.A.R. recently ended its ban on Jordan planes flying over either Egypt or Syria, the two U.A.R. provinces. The palace announcement did not disclose Hussein's route.

Sunday night, on the eve of his departure, Hussein will make a broadcast to the nation.

This will be Hussein's first trip to Europe since mid-1957. The monarch plans to celebrate his 24th birthday Nov. 14 in Siwtzerland with the rest of his family—Queen Mother Zain, his two brothers and a sister, and his 3-year-old daughter.

To counter rumors abroad that the family is leaving the country for good, the Queen Mother has been persuaded to fly here Nov. 16, it was reported reliably. She will be a sort of political hostage until her son returns early in December.

However, this means a period of six days when no member of the royal family will be in the country.

The royal announcement said the Regency Council will be composed of Said Mufti, president of the Senate; Mohammed Amin Shankiti, chief justice of Moslem courts; and Ali Mismar, president of the Jordanian Supreme Court.

The council cannot dismiss the Cabinet or accept Cabinet resignation, change the constitution, or conclude or sign treaties.

CONTROVERSIAL MARYLAND SEAL — Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin holds replica of the Great Seal of Maryland. Chief Judge Dulaney Foster, of Baltimore orphan's court, doing some research, discovered evidence that the present seal, officially impressed on all official acts, degrees and proclamations of Maryland officialdom, may not be official. He has asked a State Senator to introduce a bill in the next legislature to legalize the seal. Technicality lies in varying interpretations of the Coat of Arms of Lord Baltimore. (AP Wirephoto)

Tonore To Lead St. Jude Drive

George Tonore has been named director of the Monroe chapter of ALSAC, which will open its first drive Sunday to raise funds for maintenance of a children's hospital in Memphis.

Called the St. Jude Hospital, it will provide free treatment to young leukemia victims from throughout the United States. In its research it will seek to find the cause and a cure for this and related diseases of children.

Singer - comedian Danny Thomas, president of the national organization, was present in Memphis last week for ground-breaking ceremonies for the two-million-dollar hospital.

In dedicating the institution, Thomas said, "this is not a project begun by a hook-nosed actor to salve his ego. It resulted from a vow made when he was down and out. In return for success, he vowed he would build a hospital for children of all faiths and races. Memphis was chosen as its location by the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch."

Thomas added that the "catastrophic disease" was chosen by the Shelby County Medical Association. Memphis is in Shelby County.

The hospital will be used to give free treatment to all children afflicted with leukemia and other diseases. Two - men scientists—a total of six — will work three eight - hour shifts, covering a 24-hour day. All laboratory discoveries will be shared with medical men and interested institutions throughout the nation and world.

Thomas will launch the drive on his nationwide show.

Anyone can become a member of the ALSAC — Aid to Leukemia-Stricken Children of America—by donation of $1 or more to the worthwhile project. Donations may be sent to ALSAC, c-o Postmaster, Monroe, La.

Working locally with Tonore will be Dr. N. Klam, assistant director; Sam Elias, Jr., recording secretary; Joe Mansour, financial secretary; William J. Haddad, treasurer.

Serving on the board of directors in addition to the officers are Dr. Faheam Cannon, Dr. M. A. Bodron, Ed Cannon, Cotham Haddad, Pete Haddad, A. S. Hakim, Louis Elias, George Moses, George Luffey, Ed Merhige, Dr. Katherine Foster, T. Mickel, Louis Tonore, T. John, George Nomey, Eddie Tonore, George Joseph, Fred Kalil, Jr., John Luffey, Alfred Joseph, Fred Moses, Mike John, Jr., and George Elias.

Grabbed Loot, Then Left Straight Inn

CHICAGO (AP) —Mrs. Stella Palarkis considered Saturday whether her South Side tavern may have too inviting a name. Its sign says: "Walk Straight Inn."

That's just what two robbers did. They took $530 after commanding six of Mrs. Palarkis' customers to lie on the floor.

Then they walked straight out.

So you think you are unfortunate, do you? Well, mull over this science note: "The worker bee is sexless, and the strenuous work imposed upon it kills it within a few weeks."

Few Moslem Candidates Signed Up

ALGIERS (AP)—Only a handful of Moslems had come forward as candidates for the French National Assembly Saturday night, the eve of the deadline for filing.

Fear and apathy was prevalent among the Moslem population, despite Premier Charles de Gaulle's promise that at least two thirds or 46 of the 67 Algerian deputies in the new French Parliament would be Moslems.

Rebels have warned Moslems, who make up 90 per cent of the four million Algerian voters, to boycott the election Nov. 28-30. Registration for candidates closes Sunday at midnight.

Lists of candidates have been filed from only four of Algeria's 18 electoral districts. The special Voting Control Commission, comprising French lawyers and magistrates, was making last minute pleas to speed up entries in an effort to see that De Gaulle's promise is kept. De Gaulle is anxious for independent Moslems or even nationalists to come forward as candidates.

Moslem voters in September overwhelmingly approved the new French Constitution, which does not specifically mention Algeria, now considered a part of France. But for Mohammed Amar — the average illiterate Algerian peasant—the issues in that plebiscite were more or less clear.

He was told by the French army to vote "Yes" for peace and for De Gaulle, a symbol to him of a better future. Mohammed Amar obeyed, in defiance of threats from nationalist rebels fighting French rule.

This time the French army is under orders to stay out of politics. De Gaulle himself is keeping aloof from party politics.

The million Europeans who run Algeria are badly divided, with political bickering between the French colonists of center and ring-wing groups. There is no guiding symbol for Mohammed Amar, who is confused, hungry, and scared. Thus the rebel boycott that failed in the voting for the new constitution may carry more of an impact this time.

In principle, Mohammed Amar will have a choice between two or more party lists running in his district. Each list will include a proportion of Moslems prescribed by law to insure that two thirds of Algeria's deputies are of Moslem faith.

The reluctance of Moslems — and of the few French liberals here—to offer themselves as candidates leave the way open for only the extreme rightist French and their "yes men" Moslem followers in the field.

Many valid Moslem spokesmen sitting out the campaign privately feel the elections are being staged by European interests and the army.

The ban on the army participating in politics would not necessarily prevent a French officer, who once gave Mohammed Amar canned milk for his children, from suggesting to him a candidate. Members of the special Vote Control Commission acknowledge that no one can control this kind of pressure.

"There has never bee a free election in Algeria, just degrees of fixing," said a liberal Frenchman born here. "How can you expect an intelligent, free vote in a country where most people still live in the fourth century?"

REPORT FAILURE

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio Saturday night reported the launching and failure of America's Pioneer II moon rocket.

"As is well known, the two previous attempts by the U. S. A. to launch a rocket in the direction of the moon, on Aug. 17 and Oct. 11, also ended in failure," it added.

"About 92 per cent of residents in Vermont are native to that state." —Newspaper filler. It is assumed the remaining some 8 per cent is composed of Democrats.

Many a person isn't the slightest concerned about owing a per capita $1,600 on the national debt, as he knows he will never be able to pay it.

Army's Turn Next To Launch Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—It is the Army's turn to try a moonshoot next, and its space project boss says preparations are on schedule.

The Air Force fired off the last of its present series of three lunar probe shots Saturday. Two of the three had been far short of success, including the attempt this latest from Cape Canaveral, Fla. The other one traveled out about 90,000 of the 220,000 miles to the region of the moon.

Under the program originally set up by the Defense Department but subsequestly transferred to the over-all direction of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Air Force was ordered to make three lunar probe launchings, the Army two.

After the third Air Force shot, the Army was asked by newsmen if it was prepared to make its first launching effort early in December, the next period when the moon will be in a position for launching a rocket in its direction.

The Army provided a reply from Maj. Gen. B. Medaris, boss of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency which also is in the satellite and space business.

"So far we are on schedule, but the Army does not announce firing schedules in advance," he said.

The equipment to be used in sending an instrument-packed vehicle toward the moon is on hand or now en route to the Cape Canaveral launching site, the Army said.

Medaris' statement appeared to mean that if the Space Agency orders an attempt during the first week end in December, the Army would be ready.

However, Army rocketeers have been reported preferring to make further test firings of a missile weapon which will be used to hurl the moon vehicle on the first phase of its flight. This could mean that the Army might choose to pass up the December shooting date and wait for another month or two.

To fire its lunar probe vehicle the Army will use the Jupiter Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile, with its fuel capacity and speed increased. The thrust of the normal Jupiter power plant is about 250,000 pounds. This is well in excess of the thrust produced by the Army's Redstone missile, the basic power plant used for sending up earth satellites.

The most recent test firing of a Jupiter IRBM failed. Apparently Army experts would like to make one or two further tests of IRBMs before installing a Jupiter as the main booster for the lunar vehicle.

National space officials emphasized Saturday—as has been done since the inception of the luncar probe program—that the present launching series should be considered only as early stage, preliminary test firings. They say the chances of success in these tentative experiments are slim.

Although NASA officials are reluctant to discuss future plans, it is certain that more funds will be provided for subsequent programs. What is uncertain is whether the Army will receive any of those funds.

President Eisenhower now is considering a proposal for NASA to take over the team of Army space scientists now at the Huntsville, Ala., Ballistic Missile Agency. If this is done, the Air Force presumably would be the single service left to carry out the space missions assigned by NASA.

Guns Around Quemoy Silent

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red Chinese guns around the Quemoy Islands were silent Saturday.

It was all part of the curious stop-go war the Reds introduced 15 days ago. Under the self-imposed ground rules, they do not shell the supply-landing or airstrip areas of Quemoy on even-numbered days.

Other areas are not similarly immune. But this was the fourth consecutive even day on which the Reds had given them the same dispensation.

On Friday, an odd day, the Quemoys were hit by 1,844 shells. The Nationalists replied, and the Defense Ministry claimed they had destroyed six Communist guns and a fortification.

Saturday was another day in which there also were no reports of air or sea action.

Afraid To Go Through With It

NEW YORK (AP)—Author Ben Hecht, who likes to include a little bit of everything on his nightly television chat, invited six Bowery bums to shoot the breeze with him on Friday night's show.

But the anonymous gentlemen from Manhattan's famous avenue of the down-and-out didn't get close to mike or camera. The management of Station WABC-TV was unwilling to take a chance on what they might say.

A horror movie was substituted.

LAZY DOG

LONDON (AP)—Constable Norman Brown, a police dog handler, was kicked unconscious by two young thugs Saturday. The dog sat on the sidewalk, watched and didn't even bark.

CONTROVERSIAL MARYLAND SEAL — Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin holds replica of the Great Seal of Maryland. Chief Judge Dulaney Foster, of Baltimore orphan's court, doing some research, discovered evidence that the present seal, officially impressed on all official acts, degrees and proclamations of Maryland officialdom, may not be official. He has asked a State Senator to introduce a bill in the next legislature to legalize the seal. Technicality lies in varying interpretations of the Coat of Arms of Lord Baltimore. (AP Wirephoto)

Thad W. Payne Dies; Services Are Scheduled

DELHI (Special) —Thad W. Payne, 76, died Saturday morning at a Shreveport hospital, after a short illness.

His residence was in Epps, where he had owned a cleaning establishment. He had been retired for several years.

Funeral services will be at the Epps Methodist church at 2 p.m. Sun., with the Rev. Robert C. Wilbanks officiating.

Interment will follow in the Epps cemetery, under direction of Gay's Funeral home of Delhi. The body will lie in state at the funeral home chapel until time of services.

Survivors include two brothers, Henry Payne of Rayville and John Payne, Shreveport; several nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be J.H. Lusk, T. E. Luck, Ed Butts, Garland Traxler, Clyde Corley, and Glen Thrower.

City Policeman Is Hospitalized

Monroe policeman Joe Battaglia surprised a reporter on a routine check of the Wright-Bendel clinic yesterday - by turning up as a patient.

Battaglia, who often is involved in hospital cases - checking the victims of wrecks and violence, - required hospitalization for stomach trouble. He confided that he is going to try to return home today or tomorrow.

Parents To Meet

PINEVILLE (Special) — Parents of the 1625 patients at the State Colony and Training School will gather at the Colony here at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, November 16, for their bimonthly meeting, John D. Ingalls, Metairie, president of the Parents Association announced.

SURGEON SUED

PARIS (AP)—Maria Garbaccio sued a plastic surgeon for leaving a seven-inch scar after a stomach operation and was awarded $714 damages. She told the court the scar was a handicap in her work. She's a stripteaser.

UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON (AP)—Britain has announced plans to pump more money into state-run industries to cope with rising unemployment. During October the number of jobless reached a postwar peak of 514,000, representing 23 out of every 1,000 of the working population.

because an ambulance could not reach the scene.

The riot started when two students started fighting immediately after Chattanooga defeated Tennessee 14-6, the first time the Moccasins had won in the 51-year-old series.

One student got away but the other, Bill Jameson of Maryville, was arrested by police.

When a policeman tried to take him away, Jameson slapped at him and was knocked out when the unidentified policeman struck back.

Many of the other students, under the impression that Jameson previously suffered a brain concussion, tried to get their friend out of the paddy wagon and bring him to a hospital.

It was then that the riot broke out in full strength. The rioters converged on the van, dented the sides and fenders, ripped out the starter system and wrecked the clutch. But they could not free Jameson.

More than 200 city and county policemen, Highway Patrol troopers and firemen were used to tame the students and some adults, estimated at some 7,000.

They used tear gas, throwing the bombs driving the rioters back. But as soon as the smoke cleared many came back.

One fire hose was set up and used to drive students back from a grassy hill overlooking the scene.

Other rioters pelted police with bottles and other objects from the east wall of the stadium.

The rioters finally dispersed when a gentle rain started falling and it was time for dinner.

Each was in a 25-mile zone. The man was charged with driving 45, on Coleman Avenue, and the woman with 60 on Trenton Street.

La. Anti-Tax Legislators 'Just Waiting'

phasized. That was the way most legislators interviewed reacted.'

A Caddo colleague, Rep. Jasper Smith, president of the 34 Club of tax foes in the '56 and '58 sessions, protested the lawmakers had been "maneuvered" by Long's administration into the position of just voting for another tax.

Since the two-cent gas gathering levy, which brings an estimated 40 million dollars a year, may be knocked out in a court test, Long is hastening to replace it with a substitute 2.3-cent gas severance levy. This is a two-cent boost in the existing tax of three-tenths cent.

"We've been maneuvered into this position," Smith argued, regardless of the school situation. I want to see the schools stay open and I think they will."

Smith said he opposed the one-cent increase in the gas gathering tax, doubled to two cents in the 1958 session. The plan pushed by Long now, he said, would call for supporting a tax raise he originally voted against.

"I think this will be a new tax and I'm opposed," Smith said. "If they hadn't tried that extra cent on the gas gathering tax, we wouldn't be in this trouble now."

Kirkpatrick, who may run for governor in 1959, argued the Cole bill should get swift new attention in the special session.

"I asked the attorney general's office for an opinion on this several weeks ago," he emphasized. "The language of the bill makes many of the school boards operate outside the law. I have asked clarification on three points:

"Does it require the use of all funds received by the school boards including school lunches and retirement funds to pay salaries?

"Has it repealed or provided a substitute for Act 3 of 1956 by creating a new salary schedule with a ceiling of half the teacher pay increases provided in the 1956 act?

"Does it require the use of all surpluses which may exist in any school funds to pay teachers salaries and other salary costs?"

Commenting on the proposed natural gas tax shift, to rescue 40 million in state revenues, Kirkpatrick said "there is a temptation to say — I told you so. Those of us who opposed the two-cent gas gathering tax predicted the state would not collect the money and confusion would prevail . . . I believe now all concerned realize the administration placed education last and therein lies the schools' financial woes."

While he has not seen the specific special session plans, Kirkpatrick said, "I will do all I can to work for a fair solution."

The Reily package, being drafted by Long's chief fiscal advisor, seeks a reshuffle of 65 or 70 million dollars in state finances. The plan, as far as can be determined, seeks four million from an unspent lunch fund held over from last fiscal year, three million from welfare surpluses, about seven million from a speedier franchise tax collection and approximately 18 million by placing all severance taxs on a faster, month-to-month collection schedule.

This totals about 32 million. But fiscal officers warn oil bonus revenues may fall 22 million short of budget estimates — thus providing a net revenue gain of roughly 10 million under the package plan to cope with school fiscal troubles.

Garrett, a former leader of the 34 club, said he preferred not to comment on the special session until he can examine the administration program in detail.

So did several others considered in the anti-tax area — such as Rep. L. D. Napper of Lincoln Parish, Rep. Edward LeBreton, New Orleans, Mayor deLesseps Morrison's House floor leader, and Sen. Robrt Ainsworth of New Orleans, former Gov. Robert Kennon's Senate whip.

As Ainsworth said, "I can't comment because I'm still in the dark."

LeBreton said all he knows is what he reads in the papers about the session he said he understands Reily has been very busy explaining the package fiscal deal privately to many groups, including newspapers.

"It would be much more helpful to legislators if we know precisely what is proposed before we go to Baton Rouge," LeBreton commented. "In reading what the newspapers have said, some parts of the program may be acceptable, some may not. If the whole package has to go as is, then we could have trouble in this session.

There were conflicting views about the administration move to snatch back four million in unspent school lunch fund money. Reily developed the plan after the state board of education and state Supt. Shelby M. Jackson rebuffed Reily's request last August for a refund.

"I don't believe Gov. Long will have too much trouble from lawmakers in trying to get back that four million," Smith commented. "I'll go along with that."

But Rainach, who works closely with education leaders in segregation matters, said monkeying around with school lunch funds in individual schools "would put a bind in their operations."

12 Appear In Court After Riot In N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Twelve persons arrested after a demonstration by Hungarian exiles at the Park Avenue headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations appeared in court Saturday.

The demonstrators who attempted to rush the headquarters building, clashed with police Friday night as the Russians observed the 41st anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Three men charged with felonious assault and one charged with violation of the Sullivan law were released in $500 bail each for a hearing Nov. 14 in felony court.

Seven men charged with disorderly conduct were paroled pending hearings Nov. 18.

The extent to which a person can be trusted is usually in inverse ratio to the distance he throws the bull.

Special Vets Observance Slated Here

Mayors of the Twin Cities yesterday issued proclamations asking public support of observances of Veterans Week and Veterans Day.

Veterans Day is November 11, and will be highlighted by a parade sponsored jointly by Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in West Monroe and Monroe. Veterans week observances get under way today.

The proclamations were signed by Mayors J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, and W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe.

A veterans dance was staged Saturday night by VFW Post 1809, with proceeds of ticket sales going to the post's building fund.

The Tuesday parade will get under way at 1:30 p.m. at Crosley School on Pine Street in West Monroe. The procession, featuring local high school bands, ROTC units from Northeast State College, other military units and various veterans groups, will end its march at Five Points in Monroe.

The route of march will be down Pine Street to Cypress then to Trenton and continuing across the old traffic bridge down DeSiard Street to Five Points. Prizes will be awarded for the best floats according to R. D. Carter, commander of VFW Post 3773 and K. R. Bartlett, commander of post 1809.

Buddy poppies will be on sale during the latter part of Veteran's Week, officials said.

DUCHESS TO TOUR

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II's aunt, the widowed Duchess of Kent, will tour Latin America for a month starting in February. The palace announcement said she will visit Mexico, Peru, Chile, and Brazil.

ANXIOUS FOR HIS TURN — "Save some for me," is probably what Bethie, a seven-week-old Lion Cub, is trying to say as he watches Tony, a five-month-old Lion cub, consume a bottle of milk held by Mike Kuszlak, keeper at St. Louis zoo. Bethie is one of newest residents of the zoo's lion house. (AP Wirephoto.)

ON FEDERAL PAYROLL

Group Censures Job Level Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House watchdog group Saturday censured what it called tremendous increases in the number of higher level jobs in the federal payroll.

Since 1942, it said, a general upgrading in jobs has added more than a billion dollars a year to the payroll while the number of workers has remained about the same.

The report, a study of the one million white collar workers, was prepared by a House Civil Service subcommittee on manpower, and enthusiasm of agencies to always been impressed by the effort and enthusiasm of agencies to attempt to absorb more work or new programs with the existing staffs," wrote subcommittee chairman James C. Davis (D-Ga) in transmitting the report to Congress.

He said the pay structure for the white collar workers has been rewritten and revised upward by administrative action.

In its findings the subcommittee said it recognizes there are instances of justified promotions and upgradings.

"At the same time," it added, "in the face of the record it must be concluded that the tremendous increases in the number of higher level positions and the general upgrading that has taken place are entirely disproportionate and largely cannot be justified on the basis of new and expanded programs."

The subcommittee reported that between 1942 and 1958 the average pay of a federal civilian worker had increased by 153.3 per cent from $2,175 to $5,510. Laws passed by Congress have accounted for only a 95 per cent increase in average salary, it said..

"This means," the report said, "that to a large degree over one third of the increase has been due to administrative promotions and upgradings which represent an increase in payroll cost of $1,200,000,000 a year."

The subcommittee called upon officials in the executive branch to stop unjustified upgradings.

Soviet Union Asks Removal From Korea

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union asked the United Nations Saturday to effect withdrawal of American troops from South Korea on the ground that Chinese Communists forces have pulled out of the north.

The Soviet news agency Tass, said the Soviet government had authorized the announcement.

"As a result of the evacuation of the Chinese People's volunteers on their own initiative, a new atmosphere, favorable to lessening tension in Korea and peacefully solving the Korean question, has developed," Tass said.

"Further stabilization of the peaceful atmosphere in Korea as well as throughout the East depends on whether the U.S. government will withdraw its troops from South Korea."

If U.S. troops pulled out of Korea straightaway, the statement said, "Koreans from both parts of the country would undoubtedly agree more quickly on the unification of their homeland along peaceful and democratic principles."

Tass described the continued presence of American forces in Korea as "part of the general aggressive plan of U. S. ruling circles in the Far East."

Building Permits Total Is $70,370

Nineteen building permits for construction valued at $70,370 were issued this week by the office of William C. Hines, Monroe Building Inspector.

John E. Zufall issued the permits, as chief city inspector in charge of proper installation of electricity, plumbing and gas.

Nov. 3 permits were obtained by:

Tony Cascio, to build a frame private club, containing six rooms and two powder rooms, 1811 Auburn Ave., size 3110 square feet, cost $12,000.

C. E. Anderson, to construct a brick veneer home, five and one-half rooms and bath at 609 Orleans, 1140 square feet, cost $12,500.

Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert, to build a two-story brick veneer residence, six rooms, at 1102 N. First St. on the corner of N. First and Roselawn Ave. Size will be 900 square feet, and cost $8,500. The building is to be located on the rear of the lot, behind a duplex built there last year.

A. H. Gerson, to add three rooms to a one-story frame home at 2500 S. Grand St., size 240 square feet, cost $250.

L. A. Warren, to add one room and one bath to a frame home at 2209 Outlet St., size 224 square feet, cost $1,000.

Willie Robertson, to move a frame home to 2017 Grammont St., cost $625.

OTHER PERMITS

On Nov. 5, permits were issued to:

W. L. Moore Sr., to build a brick home, five rooms, one and one-half baths at 2801 Ft. Miro St., 1234 square feet, cost $12,000.

Henry Johnson, to demolish a frame building at 813 Louise Anne St.

Victor Davis, to add two rooms to a brick veneer residence at 2901 Pargoud Blvd, 473 square feet, cost $1,200.

On Thursday, Nov. 6, three permits were issued:

Odis Russell, to construct a frame home, three rooms and bath at 1908 Filhoil, 400 square feet, cost $1,095.

Roland Siegle, to build a brick and block tourist cabin, two rooms, two baths at 2408 Louisville Ave., 348 square feet, cost $2500.

Tenth District Baptist Association, to construct a frame educational building, composed of 10 rooms. The structure will be located at the corner of Texas Avenue and S. Ninth St. with 2788 square feet. Cost is estimated at $6,000.

Permits issued Friday, Nov. 7, went to:

John Farmer, to move a frame used-car office to the 300 block of Walnut Avenue. The building will be veneered with 8 inch brick or concrete block when it is settled in position.

Mason and Pearson, to move a frame home out of the city limits.

Martille H. Burton, to construct a one-story concrete block and brick store, cafe and barbershop, three rooms, three baths on the northwest corner of Thomas Avenue and Atkinson Street, 1209 square feet, cost $6100.

M. O. Bullock, to build a frame carport, including one storage room, at 611 Downey Lane, 320 square feet, cost $500.

Will Allums, to build a frame home, four rooms and bath, at 1814 Griffin St., 768 square feet, cost $1800.

Gus Kallio, to remodel a frame home, four rooms and bath at 410 Vernon, cost $1,000.

H. W. Menge, to remodel a frame home, by adding a porch at 3009 Gordon Ave., cost $300.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bob Anderson writes today's column.

FICKLE FANDOM

The memory of the average football fan is rather short — a convenient state of affairs in some cases and unfortunate in others. John Q. Fan needs but little success to come drunk with it and when defeat comes, the hangover is horrible.

Had Northeast fans thought last fall that in November of 1958 the Indian footballers would have a 6-1 record their joy would have known no bounds. But here 'tis November and some of them, a small minority fortunately, feel they have been cheated. Northeast took its first defeat a week ago you know, 42-6.

Undefeated football teams rarely see the first frost. Northeast has proved no exception. It's rather unfortunate that the initial defeat had to be by such a big score and before a capacity homecoming crowd. However, you rarely get to pick your spots in football or anything else.

Northeast's 42-6 defeat should not cloud the fact that the Indians won six straight ball games, most of which they weren't supposed to win. No matter how the final two games turn out, Northeast is having a fine football season. Jack Rowan, the staff and the players have done a tremendous job, a job that deserves more reward than the scattered cheers they received Nov. 1. Those who remember the lean years will give the Indians the support they deserve and not jump off the bandwagon at the first muddy place in the road.

DOGS WILL HAVE THEIR DAY

Football games bring out the ham in dogs just as they do in two-legged creatures. What mutt worth his bone can resist prancing to the band music, thrilling vast crowds with his broken field running and outracing fat referees?

A lean, black mongrel thrilled dogdom last week with a fine performance at the Northeast-Northwestern game, halting play several times and leading the band downfield at halftime. The shifty beast eluded several tacklers in striped shirts, reversed his field on numerous occasions and never had a hand laid on him. After leading the band downfield backwards, something no majorette could do, at halftime, the dark canine returned during the second half for an encore and finally deserted the field to tremendous applause. An all-American performance.

It's good to know that dogs have found a niche in the world of sports. Not every mutt can rescue Alpine skiers, save drowning swimmers or star in the movies. There are no barriers in the sports game, however. Any dog sufficiently fleet on foot to speed by an usher can gain his place in the sun by scrimmaging the officials on the football field.

It is safe to say, we believe, that hundreds of canine papas dream of the day when Junior, watched by thousands in the stadium and untold millions of TV viewers, holds up a Rose Bowl game for five minutes by running off with an official's penalty flag.

LSU Tigers Roll Over Duke, 50-18

By BOB ANDERSON

Baton Rouge—LSU, The nations top football team and looking more like it every Saturday, exploded in the second quarter and went on to blast outclassed Duke, 50-18, before an enthralled 63,000 Saturday night in Tiger Stadium.

Stung by a first-period Duke touchdown LSU tied the game up on a beautiful 63-yard pass play from Warren Rabb to Billy Cannon in the first and then turned the contest into a rout in the second quarter with three touchdowns.

Those gay desperados, the Chinese Bandits, broke the game open in the slam-bang second period when Emile Fournet blocked a Duke quick kick on the Devils 17 and Gus Kinchen recovered on the one. Fullback Merle Schexnaildre rammed over from there and LSU was in front and it was no race from there on in.

The Tigers turned in two more touchdowns in the quarter for a 28-6 halftime lead and continued the pillage in the final half.

The win was the 8th straight without a loss for the Bayou Bengals, rated No. 1 in the nation in the Associated Press Poll, and it left their bowl hopes higher than ever. The Tigers also evened the score on the only opponent they had never defeated. Duke defeated LSU, 32-6, back in 1929 in the only previous meeting of the schools.

Cannon, the LSU All-American candidate, had a good night, picking up 53 yards on eight carries for a 6.6 average. Johnny Robinson was the top Tiger ball-carrier with 84 yards on eight carries for a 10.5 average.

Ferriday's Max Fugler, another All-American candidate, turned in his usual terrific game at center and linebacker and Bandits Emile Fournet, Mel Branch and Gus Kinchen took the other defensive honors.

LSU was gifted with a fat break in the first period when, after the Tigers failed to go after taking the kickoff, Duke's Carlton signaled for a fair catch of Cannon's punt on the Duke 25 and fumbled it. Lynn LeBlanc recovered for LSU on the 26.

Cannon gained five to the 21, Robinson went for one and then burst over guard and bulled to the 11. Red Broadnax rammed to the nine before Rabb threw but missed to Hendrix in the end zone. Robinson went to the six.

With fourth and five, Davis came in for Broadnax for the field goal try. LSU drew a five yard penalty for the substitution and Tommy tried it from the 17 with the line of scrimmage at the 11. Kicking at a slight angle, Davis missed and Duke took over on the 20.

Later on in the quarter, Henry Lee Roberts returned an Andy Cottingham punt to the LSU 17. After a roughing penalty pushed LSU back to the six, Davis attempted to punt on second down and was rushed. He ran it out to the nine and punted again two plays later from the 15. A good bounce sent the ball to the Duke 37 and the Blue Devils were off.

Bob Fetsko went to the 47, then a roughing rap moved the ball to the 28. With fourth and one, Butch Allie rammed for the first down to the 25. Bob Brodhead faked a pass and went around right end to the six in a key play. Carlton went over tackle to the four. Brodhead passed back to Dutrow and the halfback passed to Carlton on the goal line. Carlton fell into the end zone and Duke led, 6-0.

Brodhead tried to pass for the extra point but it was blocked and intercepted and the score held at 6-0.

Duke's glory was brief.

The Blue Devils had gone 63 yards for a touchdown in 10 plays. LSU went 63 yards for a touchdown to tie it up in one play.

Brodnax returned the kickoff to the 37. Rabb rolled back on the first scrimmage play and hit Cannon on the 20 and LSU's big gun was gone. He had a couple of steps on the safety man and it was no contest. He went into the end zone and it was 6-6. The beautiful pass play covered 63 yards. The crowd roared, threw streams of toilet paper and watched Billy miss the kick for the PAT. The quarter ended moments later, still 6-all.

The Tigers, abreast at the end of the first period, took firm command in the second. The Bandits sparked the rally.

Midway of the quarter, Davis punted from his 43. The ball was partially blocked but got a good roll to the Duke 16. Dutrow tried a quick kick on the first play and Bandit tackle Emile Fournet blocked it and end Gaynell Kinchen recovered the ball on the one.

Fullback Merle Schexnaildre rammed over, Cannon booted true on the ahead, and it was 13-6.

The Duke punted short to the LSU 45 later in the period after the Tigers had pushed them to the 10 and the rowdy Bengals were off again. Robinson got up a full head of steam around left and powered to the 22. Cannon drove to the 14. Rabb passed into the end zone to Mangham. The ball was over his head but Duke was caught interfering and LSU had the ball on the one.

J. W. Brodnax rammed it over for the touchdown and it was 19-6. Cannon converted and it was 20-6 with 4:12 left in the half.

Mickey Mangham's vicious tackle and Larry Kahlden's recovery of a fumble on the Duke 38 set up the next LSU touchdown. Rabb passed to Mangham to the 25, threw to Cannon to the 16 two plays later and Robinson went over guard to the 8.

Rabb bootlegged beautifully, saw Hendrix and hit the Rayville lad under the goal posts for the touchdown. Warren passed to Hendrix for the extra point and it was 28-6 with 1:30 to go in the half.

Robinson, son of the LSU tennis coach, kept the bandwagon rolling without a stop by going 45 yards for a touchdown before four minutes had gone by in the second half. LSU had taken over after a punt on its 43 and Cannon carried three times and Broadnax once, carrying it to the 45, before Robinson sprang into the clear and was gone.

Rabb ran wide around right end and just made the zone for the extra point. The score was 36-6. LSU had gone 57 yards in five plays.

Duke came up with its second touchdown in the period on a controversial pass play. George Harris, passing from the 12, hit end Claude Moorman on the goal line. The throw was low but Moorman jumped up with the ball and the referee ruled it a touchdown. The fans, thinking Moorman had trapped the ball, roared their disapproval.

Carlton ran around end trying for the extra points but was pushed out on the one and the score was 36-12.

Duke scored again early in the fourth when Carlton rammed one yard over guard for the touchdown to climax a 74-yard drive that took 10 plays. Mangham tackled Brodhea to stop the extra point try. That left it 36-18 with LSU wasn't through.

Donnie Daye took the kickoff and handed off to Purvis. The little "scooter" from Mississippi dashed 66 yards to be pushed out of bounds on the 7 on fourth down, after Duke had held for no gain Durel Matherne swept around right end for 7 yards and the touchdown.

Ferriday's Daye went around left end for the 2-pointer and it was LSU 50, Duke, 18, the way it ended. . . .

Razorbacks Win 60 To 15 Over Cowboys

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Halfbacks Billy Kyser and Jim Mooty both ran for 100-yard Arkansas touchdowns Saturday in a wild, high scoring conquest of Sammy Baugh's Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, 60-15.

Mooty scored the first 100-yard touchdown, taking a kickoff in the end zone. He bobbled momentarily then raced straight up the middle for the longest touchdown run in Arkansas history. It came midway in the second period.

Late in the third period, with Arkansas leading 30-15, Kyser duplicated the feat from almost the same spot in the end zone. His route was up the sideline along a trail of flattened Hardin-Simmons defenders.

Just before the game, Curtis Emery, of the physical education department at Arkansas, handed Coach Frank Broyles an envelope. Inside was a rabbit's foot and a note that read something like this:

"Keep this in your hand during the game; otherwise it won't have its effect."

Broyles clutched it tightly during the entire game. "You know, there may have been someting to it," Broyles remarked. "I'm sure going to have it with me Saturday, I'll assure you."

Northwestern Routs SLC In GSC Tilt

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Dale Hoffpauir whipped four scoring passes Saturday as Northwestern State stayed in the Gulf States Conference title race with a 27-8 victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

Billy Booth raced 20 yards with a Hoffpauir toss, Ralph Conrad scored after a 60-yard connection, Charles Tolar went 21 yards for a touchdown on a Hoffpauir pass, and Brooks Cragg combined with Hoffpauir for an 8-yard scoring play.

Quitman Wins In Chatham Net Tourney

CHATHAM (Special) —Quitman boys and Winnfield girls emerged victors in the finals of the Chatham Basketball Tourney here last night.

Quitman, with four players hitting in double figures, pounded Jonesboro- Hodge 75-41 after Winnfield girls had whipped the Chatham sextet 51-41.

Quitman gained the finals by defeating Weston in the semi-finals 65-46. Winnfield's girls gained a final berth the hard way, squeeking past a stubborn Jena outfit 47-45 in overtime.

Malcolm George sparked the Quitman club over Jonesboro - Hodge with 26 points, followed by teammates Brooks, 16; Ramsey, 15; and Toms, 12. John Baley hit 18 for Jonesboro- Hodge and Bara Gona added 10.

Carol Garrett turned in a 40-point performance for the Winnfield girls in the finals while Lynette Hood and Mary Kate May were sacking 20 and 11 respectively for Chatham.

Jonesboro defeated Grayson 67-58 in a boy's semi-final game with John Baley hitting 20, Walker, 17. High scorers for Grayson were Ferrand, 17 and Hester, 15.

Grayson earlier in the day had beaten Jena 85-47 with Ferrand's 26 points and Franklin's 14 showing the way. Joiner was high for Jena with 17.

Jonesboro downed Weston boys 65-46.

Quitman boys topped Chatham 40-32 behind Malcolm George's 16 points and Stewart Toms' 12. Red Cooper led Chatham with 10, followed by Alvin Barr with 9.

Auburn Takes To Air To Defeat Mississippi State

By DON MARTIN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — A fourth - string quarterback and a third - string halfback proved Saturday that Auburn has an aerial offense after all, pacing the unbeaten Tigers to a 33-14 win over Mississippi State before 36,000 fans.

Richard Wood, a quarterback brought up from the reserves because of injuries to key players, teamed with halfback Jimmy Pettus to set a new school passing yardage record of 287 yards. Two Wood-Pettus aerials accounted for scores.

This was the 21st straight game in 15 plays, injury - slowed first without defeat for the nationally fourth - ranked Tigers, desperately trying to regain the nation's top spot which they held four weeks ago. Only a tie with Georgia Tech this season mars their record.

The Wood - Pettus combination piled up 70 per cent of the record-smashing aerial yardage.

Junior halfback Lamar Rawson kept the Mississippi State defense honest with long gains through the center of the Maroon line on the draw play.

Auburn scored the first time it got the ball, marching 85 yards string quarterback Lloyd Nix guiding the Tigers deep into Mississippi territory.

Then Wood took over, passing to Pettus for the first score and running for the next one himself after Auburn had recovered Maroon quarterback Billy Stacy's fumble at the Mississippi State 36 and Ed Dyas had made it first down at the seven.

The Maroons, stung by Auburn's sudden offensive fury, flashed back for two scores in less than five minutes. Stacy ran a Tiger punt back to the Auburn 34, and three plays later Stacy two-handed a three-yard pass to sophomore halfback Pat Shute for the score.

Auburn's Jimmy Reynolds fumbled on the second play after the kickoff and Stacy recovered. The Maroons, sparked by fullback Jack Batte, carried to the one plays later. The Mississippians led Auburn 14-12, the third time in two years the Tigers found themselves behind and third game in a row.

Auburn went ahead again just before halftime, and from this point out it was all Auburn. Center Jackie Burkett and guard Zeke Smith led a vicious defense that kept Mississippi State's fancy - passing Stacy bottled up.

The new - found Auburn offense rolled on, Nix running one in from 12 yards out and passing to Pettus for another.

W. Monroe Wins Meet With Tyler

West Monroe's Amateur Boxing contingent emerged victorious last night, defeating the East Texas Boxing Club of Tyler in two fast-paced bouts.

David Hicks, a fast, nervy 130 pounder, beat challenger Mike Conant in a unanimous decision for the nearly bare but enthusiastic gallery.

In the other bout for a decision, Odis Howze, former West Monroe football great, took a split decision from Larry McClellan. McClellan, though a very good workman, had a slow start and recovered slowly from the lightning blows of a slugging Howze, who had to be told at least once to back up from the deadly dukes of McClellan.

Due to several illnesses and the call of some boys by the selective service, five of the matches were exhibitions between stablemates or mismatched boxers. The bright spots of the exhibitions included a wrestling match between 99 pound Wallace Hawthorne and 91 pound Wayne Knighten as well as a match between Truett West and who delighted fans at Kallio's arena last Tuesday, pulled less of the crowd-pleasing antics against the older, heavier, and wiser West.

In other non-decision matches, the best of the evening was between Edward Nation, a battling farmer, and Huey Savage, a newcomer to the WMAC who shows much promise. Neil Rayford and Bobby Walker of Tyler tied up but they were too obviously stablemates in a match that ranged from mediocre to middling. Beck Love, an old ring-wise veteran of many years had considerable difficulty in the other fight trying to keep from hurting a plucky youngster named E. T. Boone. Boone's future opponents will have trouble from this boy.

Officiating at the matches were, Loy Scarborough, referee; Ray Kreuger and L.V. Leggitt, judges; Fred Amason, timekeeper, and Carl Netherland, wrestling referee.

STRONG SECOND HALF

Mississippi Swarms Over Houston Eleven, 56-7

By JOE MCDAVID

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Eleventh-ranked Mississippi, ignited by the passing of quarterback Bobby Franklin, ran over Houston 56-7 Saturday before a homecoming crowd of 20,000.

Franklin tossed for three touchdowns as the Rebels rebounded from their lone loss of the season from their (14-0 to LSU) last weekend. It counted as a Southeastern Conference tilt to give Mississippi the required six SEC games.

With 18 seconds left in the first half, Franklin hit end Larry Grantham in the end zone with a 32-yard toss to give Mississippi a 14-7 halftime buldge. Then the rout began.

The Rebels scored 21 points in the third period and added 21 more in the final frame.

Houston scored when end Bob Borah caught a 12-yard end zone pass from quarterback Don McDonald, who completed five passes in the 67-yard first period drive. McDonald converted. That was all for Houston.

Mississippi quarterback Bill Brewer plunged over from the one foot line and tackle Bob Khayat converted to tie it up in the second quarter.

Franklin passed 32 and 9 yards to Grantham and 23 to end Warren Ball for scores.

Third string quarterback Jack Gibbs scored twice, on runs of 17 and 10 yards, and passed five yards to Ball for another tally. Fullback James Anderson got one when he intercepted Cougar quarterback Lonnie Holland's pass on the Houston 46 and ran into the end zone without being touched.

Khayat kicked five extra points, one from the 25 and Franklin booted two. Gibbs passed to Bobby Crespiso for a two-pointer, the first the Rebels have tried all season, the missed on his second after touchdown throw.

Score by Periods

Houston	7	0	0	0	—7
Mississippi	0	14	21	21	—56

Scoring: Brewer one-foot pluge (Khayat kick); Grantham 9 pass from Franklin (Khayat kick); Gibbs 17 run (Khayat kick); Ball 23 pass from Franklin (Franklin kick); Anderson 46 pass-interception-run (Khayat kick); Gibbs 10 run (Crespino pass from Gibbs); Ball 5 pass from Gibbs (pass failed). Houston—Borah 12 pass from McDonald (McDonald kick).

Virginia Tech Rally Stops Richmond U.

By JACK WHITE

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Virgini Tech came from behind on the passing arm of quarterback Billy Holsclaw and downed the University of Richmond Saturday 27-23.

Behind 7-0 after the first quarter, Tech picked up 13 points in the second period while yielding another to trail at the half 15-3.

It was a wided-open game all the way, full of penalties, fumbles and surprise plays, Richmond had a drive underway as the final minutes ticked away. Holsclaw, though, intercepted a pass by Frank Galiano on his 10 and Tech held the ball to the end.

Rutgers Claims Eighth Victory

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —A fighting Lafayette line gave unbeaten Rutgers a good scare Saturday before the Scarlet capitalized on breaks to win its eighth straight football victory 18-0.

Lafayette ground Rutgers to a halt for most of the first half. But the Scarlet took advantage of opportunity when it scored after recovering two fumbles and a 78-yard interception run.

FICKLE FANDOM

The memory of the average football fan is rather short — a convenient state of affairs in some cases and unfortunate in others. John Q. Fan needs but little success to become drunk with it and when defeat comes, the hangover is horrible.

Had Northeast fans thought last fall that in November of 1958 the Indian footballers would have a 6-1 record their joy would have known no bounds. But here 'tis November and some of them, a small minority fortunately, feel they have been cheated. Northeast took its first defeat a week ago you know, 42-6.

Undefeated football teams rarely see the first frost. Northeast has proved no exception. It's rather unfortunate that the initial defeat had to be by such a big score and before a capacity homecoming crowd. However, you rarely get to pick your spots in football or anything else.

Northeast's 42-6 defeat should not cloud the fact that the Indians won six straight ball games, most of which they weren't supposed to win. No matter how the final two games turn out, Northeast is having a fine football season. Jack Rowan, the staff and the players have done a tremendous job, a job that deserves more reward than the scattered cheers they received Nov. 1. Those who remember the lean years will give the Indians the support they deserve and not jump off the bandwagon at the first muddy place in the road.

DOGS WILL HAVE THEIR DAY

Football games bring out the ham in dogs just as they do in two-legged creatures. What mutt worth his bone can resist prancing to the band music, thrilling vast crowds with his broken field running and outracing fat referees?

A lean, black mongrel thrilled dogdom last week with a fine performance at the Northeast-Northwestern game, halting play several times and leading the band downfield at halftime. The shifty beast eluded several tacklers in striped shirts, reversed his field on numerous occasions and never had a hand laid on him. After leading the band downfield backwards, something no majorette could do, at halftime, the dark canine returned during the second half for an encore and finally deserted the field to tremendous applause. An all-American performance.

It's good to know that dogs have found a niche in the world of sports. Not every mutt can rescue Alpine skiers, save drowning swimmers or star in the movies. There are no barriers in the sports game, however. Any dog sufficiently fleet on foot to speed by an usher can gain his place in the sun by scrimmaging the officials on the football field.

It is safe to say, we believe, that hundreds of canine papas dream of the day when Junior, watched by thousands in the stadium and untold millions of TV viewers, holds up a Rose Bowl game for five minutes by running off with an official's penalty flag.

LSU Tigers Roll Over Duke, 50-18

By BOB ANDERSON

Baton Rouge—LSU, The nations top football team and looking more like it every Saturday, exploded in the second quarter and went on to blast outclassed Duke, 50-18, before an enthralled 63,000 Saturday night in Tiger Stadium.

Stung by a first-period Duke touchdown LSU tied the game up on a beautiful 63-yard pass play from Warren Rabb to Billy Cannon in the first and then turned the contest into a rout in the second quarter with three touchdowns.

Those gay desperados, the Chinese Bandits, broke the game open in the slam-bang second period when Emile Fournet blocked a Duke quick kick on the Devils 17 and Gus Kinchen recovered on the one. Fullback Merle Schexnaildre rammed over from there and LSU was in front and it was no race from there on in.

The Tigers turned in two more touchdowns in the quarter for a 28-6 halftime lead and continued the pillage in the final half.

The win was the 8th straight without a loss for the Bayou Bengals, rated No. 1 in the nation in the Associated Press Poll, and it left their bowl hopes higher than ever. The Tigers also evened the score on the only opponent they had never defeated. Duke defeated LSU, 32-6, back in 1929 in the only previous meeting of the schools.

Cannon, the LSU All-American candidate, had a good night, picking up 53 yards on eight carries for a 6.6 average. Johnny Robinson was the top Tiger ball-carrier with 84 yards on eight carries for a 10.5 average.

Ferriday's Max Fugler, another All-American candidate, turned in his usual terrific game at center and linebacker and Bandits Emile Fournet, Mel Branch and Gus Kinchen took the other defensive honors.

LSU was gifted with a fat break in the first period when, after the Tigers failed to go after taking the kickoff, Duke's Carlton signaled for a fair catch of Cannon's punt on the Duke 25 and fumbled it. Lynn LeBlanc recovered for LSU on the 26.

Cannon gained five to the 21, Robinson went for one and then burst over guard and bulled to the 11. Red Broadnax rammed to the nine before Rabb threw but missed to Hendrix in the end zone. Robinson went to the six.

With fourth and five, Davis came in for Broadnax for the field goal try. LSU drew a five yard penalty for the substitution and Tommy tried it from the 17 with the line of scrimmage at the 11. Kicking at a slight angle, Davis missed and Duke took over on the 20.

Later on in the quarter, Henry Lee Roberts returned an Andy Cottingham punt to the LSU 17. After a roughing penalty pushed LSU back to the six, Davis attempted to punt on second down and was rushed. He ran it out to the nine and punted again two plays later from the 15. A good bounce sent the ball to the Duke 37 and the Blue Devils were off.

Bob Fetsko went to the 47, then a roughing rap moved the ball to the 28. With fourth and one, Butch Allie rammed for the first down to the 25. Bob Brodhead faked a pass and went around right end to the six in a key play. Carlton went over tackle to the four. Brodhead passed back to Dutrow and the halfback passed to Carlton on the goal line. Carlton fell into the end zone and Duke led, 6-0.

Brodhead tried to pass for the extra point but it was blocked and intercepted and the score held at 6-0.

Duke's glory was brief.

The Blue Devils had gone 63 yards for a touchdown in 10 plays. LSU went 63 yards for a touchdown to tie it up in one play.

Brodnax returned the kickoff to the 37. Rabb rolled back on the first scrimmage play and hit Cannon on the 20 and LSU's big gun was gone. He had a couple of steps on the safety man and it was no contest. He went into the end zone and it was 6-6. The beautiful pass play covered 63 yards. The crowd roared, threw streams of toilet paper and watched Billy miss the kick for the PAT. The quarter ended moments later, still 6-all.

The Tigers, abreast at the end of the first period, took firm command in the second. The Bandits sparked the rally.

Midway of the quarter, Davis punted from his 43. The ball was partially blocked but got a good roll to the Duke 16. Dutrow tried a quick kick on the first play and Bandit tackle Emile Fournet blocked it and end Gaynell Kinchen recovered the ball on the one.

Fullback Merle Schexnaildre rammed over, Cannon booted true on the ke and LSU was ahead, 12-6, and it was 13-6.

Duke punted short to the LSU 45 later in the period after the Tigers had pushed them to the 10 and the rowdy Bengals were off again. Robinson got up a full head of steam around left and powered to the 22. Cannon drove to the 14. Rabb passed into the end zone to Mangham. The ball was over his head but Duke was caught interfering and LSU had the ball on the one.

J. W. Brodnax rammed it over for the touchdown and it was 19-6. Cannon converted and it was 20-6 with 4:12 left in the half.

Mickey Mangham's vicious tackle and Larry Kahlden's recovery of a fumble on the Duke 38 set up the next LSU touchdown. Rabb passed to Mangham to the 25, threw to Cannon to the 16 two plays later and Robinson went over guard to the 8.

Rabb bootlegged beautifully, saw Hendrix and hit the Rayville lad under the goal posts for the touchdown. Warren passed to Hendrix for the extra point and it was 28-6 with 1:30 to go in the half.

Robinson, son of the LSU tennis coach, kept the bandwagon rolling without a stop by going 45 yards for a touchdown before four minutes had gone by in the second half. LSU had taken over after a punt on its 43 and Cannon carried three times and Broadnax once, carrying it to the 45, before Robinson sprang into the clear and was gone.

Rabb ran wide around right end and just made the zone for the extra point. The score was 36-6. LSU had gone 57 yards in five plays.

Duke came up with its second touchdown in the period on a controversial pass play. George Harris, passing from the 12, hit end Claude Moorman on the goal line. The throw was low but Moorman jumped up with the ball and the referee ruled it a touchdown. The fans, thinking Moorman had trapped the ball, roared their disapproval.

Carlton ran around end trying for the extra points but was pushed out on the one and the score was 36-12.

Duke scored again early in the fourth when Carlton rammed one yard over guard for the touchdown to climax a 74-yard drive that took 10 plays. Mangham tackled Brodhea to stop the extra point try. That left it 36-18 with LSU wasn't through.

Donnie Daye took the kickoff and handed off to Purvis. The little "scooter" from Mississippi dashed 66 yards to be pushed out of bounds on the 7 on fourth down, after Duke had held for no gain Durel Matherne swept around right end for 7 yards and the touchdown.

Ferriday's Daye went around left end for the 2-pointer and it was LSU 50, Duke, 18, the way it ended. . . .

Air Academy Field Goal Beats Denver

DENVER (AP)—George Pupich booted a 19-yard field goal with two minutes left that pulled the Air Force past Denver 10-7 Saturday and protected the Falcons' unbeaten football record.

The Air Force stalled in the air by Denver's persistent defenders, opened the scoring with a touchdown in the second-quarter. Denver matched it in the third.

Halfback Steve Galios, a consistent ground gainer, intercepted a Denver pass on the Air Force 21. It started the Falcons on a 42-yard march that seemed destined to produce a winning touchdown in the closing minutes. But Denver stopped the Air Force on the 11. On fourth down Pupich booted a perfect field goal from the side with Eddie Rosane holding.

Two passes by quarterback Rich Mayo, for 24 and 29 yards, were the big blows in the Air Force's 80-yard march in seven plays for its second period touchdown.

Guard Danny Tammariello recovered Mayo's fumble on the Air Force 24 to pave the way for Denver's TD. Halfback Johnny Work ran over standing up from the 3 after an Air Force off side had moved the ball to the 5.

Sooners Trip Iowa State Cyclones, 20-

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Oklahoma as expected, won a Big Eight Conference football game from Iowa State Saturday but the Cyclones gained respectability.

The three-touchdown 20-0 victory was less than Oklahoma figured to win by but few of the 12,000 fans thought the undermanned Cyclones could stay for minutes with the talent-rich Sooners.

Two Iowa State fumbles in the third quarter which Oklahoma converted into easy touchdowns were the big margin of scoring difference.

The aggressive Cyclone defense forced Oklahoma in numerous fumbles and three times Iowa State stopped potential Sooner scoring drives deep in Cyclone territory—once on the 1 and again on the 5.

Quitman Wins In Chatham Net Tourney

CHATHAM (Special) —Quitman boys and Winnfield girls emerged victors in the finals of the Chatham Basketball Tourney here last night.

Quitman, with four players hitting in double figures, pounded Jonesboro-Hodge 75-41 after Winnfield girls had whipped the Chatham sextet 51-41.

Quitman gained the finals by defeating Weston in the semi-finals 65-46. Winnfield's girls gained a final berth the hard way, squeeking past a stubborn Jena outfit 47-45 in overtime.

Malcolm George sparked the Quitman club over Jonesboro-Hodge with 26 points, followed by teammates Brooks, 16; Ramsey, 15; and Toms, 12. John Baley hit 18 for Jonesboro-Hodge and Bara Gona added 10.

Carol Garrett turned in a 40-point performance for the Winnfield girls in the finals while Lynette Hood and Mary Kate May were sacking 20 and 11 respectively for Chatham.

Jonesboro defeated Grayson 67-58 in a boy's semi-final game with John Baley hitting 20, Walker, 17. High scorers for Grayson were Ferrand, 17 and Hester, 15.

Grayson earlier in the day had beaten Jena 85-47 with Ferrand's 26 points and Franklin's 14 showing the way. Joiner was high for Jena with 17.

Jonesboro downed Weston boys 65-46.

Quitman boys topped Chatham 40-32 behind Malcolm George's 16 points and Stewart Toms' 12. Red Cooper led Chatham with 10, followed by Alvin Barr with 9.

Auburn Takes To Air To Defeat Mississippi State

By DON MARTIN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — A fourth-string quarterback and a third-string halfback proved Saturday that Auburn has an aerial offense after all, pacing the unbeaten Tigers to a 33-14 win over Mississippi State before 36,000 fans.

Richard Wood, a quarterback brought up from the reserves because of injuries to key players, teamed with halfback Jimmy Pettus to set a new school passing yardage record of 287 yards. Two Wood-Pettus aerials accounted for scores.

This was the 21st straight game without defeat for the nationally fourth-ranked Tigers, desperately trying to regain the nation's top spot which they held four weeks ago. Only a tie with Georgia Tech this season mars their record.

The Wood-Pettus combination piled up 70 per cent of the record-smashing aerial yardage.

Junior halfback Lamar Rawson kept the Mississippi State defense honest with long gains through the center of the Maroon line on the draw play.

Auburn scored the first time it got the ball, marching 85 yards in 15 plays, injury-slowed first string quarterback Lloyd Nix guiding the Tigers deep into Mississippi territory.

Then Wood took over, passing to Pettus for the first score and running for the next one himself after Auburn had recovered Maroon quarterback Billy Stacy's fumble at the Mississippi State 36 and Ed Dyas had made it first down at the seven.

The Maroons, stung by Auburn's sudden offensive fury, flashed back for two scores in less than five minutes. Stacy ran a Tiger punt back to the Auburn 34, and three plays later Stacy two-handed a three-yard pass to sophomore halfback Pat Shute for the score.

Auburn's Jimmy Reynolds fumbled on the second play after the kickoff and Stacy recovered. The Maroons, sparked by fullback Jack Batte, carried to the one plays later. The Mississippians led Auburn 14-12, the third time in two years the Tigers found themselves behind and third game in a row.

Auburn went ahead again just before halftime, and from this point out it was all Auburn. Center Jackie Burkett and guard Zeke Smith led a vicious defense that kept Mississippi State's fancy-passing Stacy bottled up.

The new-found Auburn offense rolled on, Nix running one in from 12 yards out and passing to Pettus for another.

W. Monroe Wins Meet With Tyler

West Monroe's Amateur Boxing contingent emerged victorious last night, defeating the East Texas Boxing Club of Tyler in two fast-paced bouts.

David Hicks, a fast, nervy 130 pounder, beat challenger Mike Conant in a unanimous decision for the nearly bare but enthusiastic gallery.

In the other bout for a decision, Odis Howze, former West Monroe football great, took a split decision from Larry McClellan. McClellan, though a very good workman, had a slow start and recovered slowly from the lightning blows of a slugging Howze, who had to be told at least once to back up from the deadly dukes of McClellan.

Due to several illnesses and the call of some boys by the selective service, five of the matches were exhibitions between stablemates or mismatched boxers. The bright spots of the exhibitions included a wrestling match between 99 pound Wallace Hawthorne and 91 pound Wayne Knighten as well as a match between Truett West and who delighted fans at Kallio's arena last Tuesday, pulled less of the crowd-pleasing antics against the older, heavier, and wiser West.

In other non-decision matches, the best of the evening was between Edward Nation, a battling farmer, and Huey Savage, a newcomer to the WMAC who shows much promise. Neil Rayford and Bobby Walker of Tyler tied up but they were too obviously stablemates in a match that ranged from mediocre to middling. Beck Love, an old ring-wise veteran of many years had considerable difficulty in the other fight trying to keep from hurting a plucky youngster named E. T. Boone. Boone's future opponents will have trouble from this boy.

Officiating at the matches were, Loy Scarborough, referee; Ray Kreuger and L.V. Leggitt, judges; Fred Amason, timekeeper, and Carl Netherland, wrestling referee.

STRONG SECOND HALF

Mississippi Swarms Over Houston Eleven, 56-7

By JOE MCDAVID

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Eleventh-ranked Mississippi, ignited by the passing of quarterback Bobby Franklin, ran over Houston 56-7 Saturday before a homecoming crowd of 20,000.

Franklin tossed for three touchdowns as the Rebels rebounded from their lone loss of the season from their (14-0 to LSU) last weekend. It counted as a Southeastern Conference tilt to give Mississippi the required six SEC games.

With 18 seconds left in the first half, Franklin hit end Larry Grantham in the end zone with a 32-yard toss to give Mississippi a 14-7 halftime buldge. Then the rout began.

The Rebels scored 21 points in the third period and added 21 more in the final frame.

Houston scored when end Bob Borah caught a 12-yard end zone pass from quarterback Don McDonald, who completed five passes in the 67-yard first period drive. McDonald converted. That was all for Houston.

Mississippi quarterback Bill Brewer plunged over from the one foot line and tackle Bob Khayat converted to tie it up in the second quarter.

Franklin passed 32 and 9 yards Grantham and 23 to end Warren Ball for scores.

Third string quarterback Jack Gibbs scored twice, on runs of 17 and 10 yards, and passed five yards to Ball for another tally. Fullback James Anderson got one when he intercepted Cougar quarterback Lonnie Holland's pass on the Houston 46 and ran into the end zone without being touched.

Khayat kicked five extra points, one from the 25 and Franklin booted two. Gibbs passed to Bobby Crespiso for a two-pointer, the first the Rebels have tried all season, the missed on his second after touchdown throw.

Score by Periods

Houston	7	0	0	0	—7
Mississippi	0	14	21	21	—56

Scoring: Brewer one-foot pluge (Khayat kick); Grantham 9 pass from Franklin (Khayat kick); Gibbs 17 run (Khayat kick); Ball 23 pass from Franklin (Franklin kick); Anderson 46 pass-interception-run (Khayat kick); Gibbs 10 run (Crespino pass from Gibbs); Ball 5 pass from Gibbs (pass failed). Houston—Borah 12 pass from McDonald (McDonald kick).

Virginia Tech Rally Stops Richmond U.

By JACK WHITE

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Virgini Tech came from behind on the passing arm of quarterback Billy Holsclaw and downed the University of Richmond Saturday 27-23.

Behind 7-0 after the first quarter, Tech picked up 13 points in the second period while yielding another to trail at the half 15-3.

It was a wided-open game all the way, full of penalties, fumbles and surprise plays. Richmond had a drive underway as the final minutes ticked away. Holsclaw, though, intercepted a pass by Frank Galiano on his 10 and Tech held the ball to the end.

Rutgers Claims Eighth Victory

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —A fighting Lafayette line gave unbeaten Rutgers a good scare Saturday before the Scarlet capitalized on breaks to win its eighth straight football victory 18-0.

Lafayette ground Rutgers to a halt for most of the first half. But the Scarlet took advantage of opportunity when it scored after recovering two fumbles and a 78-yard interception run.

Razorbacks Win 60 To 15 Over Cowboys

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Halfbacks Billy Kyser and Jim Mooty both ran for 100-yard Arkansas touchdowns Saturday in a wild, high scoring conquest of Sammy Baugh's Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, 60-15.

Mooty scored the first 100-yard touchdown, taking a kickoff in the end zone. He bobbled momentarily then raced straight up the middle for the longest touchdown run in Arkansas history. It came midway in the second period.

Late in the third period, with Arkansas leading 30-15, Kyser duplicated the feat from almost the same spot in the end zone. His route was up the sideline along a trail of flattened Hardin-Simmons defenders.

Just before the game, Curtis Emery, of the physical education department at Arkansas, handed Coach Frank Broyles an envelope. Inside was a rabbit's foot and a note that read something like this:

"Keep this in your hand during the game; otherwise it won't have its effect."

Broyles clutched it tightly during the entire game. "You know, there may have been someting to it," Broyles remarked. "I'm sure going to have it with me Saturday, I'll assure you."

ON LAST MINUTE PASS

Surprised Cadets Squeeze Past Upstart Owls, 14-7

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Army struck on a 64-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Joe Caldwell to halfback Pete Dawkins with only 52 seconds left Saturday as the mighty Cadets turned back the amazing Rice Owls 14-7.

Seconds before the perfectly executed tie-breaking toss, Don Bonko, reserve Cadet fullback, crashed through to block a Rice field goal attempt after the final Owl threat had moved to the Army 9.

Army, a seven-point favorite, had carried a 5-0-1 record and a No. 3 ranking to Houston on its first invasion of the Southwest. Until the closing minutes, neither team had moved inside the 20-yard lines except for a quick exchange of touchdowns in the second period.

Rice took a 7-0 lead on a 58-yard drive that was climaxed by a 27-yard touchdown pass from Alvin Hartman, a sophomore quarterback, to end Buddy Dial. Army struck right back, however, for 70 yards and a touchdown that came on an 8-yard pass from halfback Bob Anderson to end Bill Carpenter.

Halfback Billy Bucek, who missed the field goal attempt, converted for Rice. Fullback Harry Walters converted twice for Army.

Rice, a team that is sharing the Southwest Conference lead, held the Cadets to 100 yards rushing but saw Army complete 12 of 22 passes for 201 yards. Rice gained 133 yards rushing, but completed only three of five passes for 56 yards.

The winning touchdown came on the third play after Army had recovered the blocked field goal attempt on its 24. Caldwell passed to Anderson for 12 yards to the 36. The long toss to Dawkins was right down the middle, and the speedy Cadet halfback gathered in the ball at the Rice 40 and outran three Owl defenders.

Caldwell's passes also were the damaging blows in the long drive that gained a 7-7 tie in the second period. Four straight completions, including two for 18 yards to Carpenter, were good for 56 yards. A 12-yarder to Anderson moved to the Rice 17. Walters and Anderson carried to the 8. Carpenter leaped high among three Owl defenders to take the scoring pass from Anderson.

Rice's touchdown march started when Hartman passed 17 yards to Dial, and two line plays got another first on the 27. The touchdown pass was identical with two the Owls had used in the second period to take a commanding lead over Texas two weeks ago.

Rice's field goal opportunity began with a fair catch on the Army 40. Five plays carried to a first on the 14 and three more moved to the 9. A penalty for delay shoved the Owls back to the 14, where Bonko blocked Bucek's attempt.

HELP! — Alvin Hartman (25), Rice quarterback, looks around for some help and tries to shake Jack Morrison, Army end, as he has trapped for a two yard loss in the game won by the Cadets, 14-7. Hartman attempted to swing around right end, before Morrison pinned his arms and brought him down. (AP Wirephoto)

Wisconsin Rips Wildcats, 17-13

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin's opportunistic Badgers parlayed fumble recoveries by Jerry Stalcup and Jon Hobbs into a touchdown and a field goal Saturday during a crazy-quilt 17-point second quarter that gave them a 17-13 Big Ten football victory over fast-closing Northwestern.

Hobbs' field goal from the 22, after an offside penalty against the Wildcats gave him a second chance, provided the Badgers with their winning margin before a homecoming crowd of 62,924 at rain-splattered Camp Randall Stadium.

The Wildcats, ranked fourth—three pegs above Wisconsin—were their own worst enemies throughout most of the penalty-strewn game. They scored once in the third quarter after a Wisconsin fumble and again in the fourth following a pass interference penalty against the Badgers.

Northwestern's highly rated quarterback, Dick Thornton, and halfback Ron Burton each scored from one yard out. They closed with a rush, but never could overcome the Badgers' 17-point second quarter.

The going got so rough in the late stages that the Badgers' Dale Hackbart and Dick Teteak were banished for protesting the pass interference call against Hackbart that set up the Wildcats' second touchdown.

In puncturing to some extent Northwestern's reputation, Wisconsin registered its third triumph of the Big Ten campaign against one loss and one tie. The Wildcats stand 3-2-0 in conference competition. Iowa clinched the conference crown Saturday.

Tom Wiesner's one-yard plunge midway through the pivotal second period was the only score manufactured by the Badgers without any help from the invaders. It gave them a 7-0 edge.

A few minutes later, Stalcup, a guard, pounced on halfback Sam Johnson's fumble on the Northwesters 30. When the Badgers' running game stalled, Hobbs salvaged three points for them with his field goal.

Then, with 39 seconds left before halftime, Bog Zeman raced 11 yards for a touchdown and a 17-0 Badger bulge. Zeman's effort cashed in Hobbs' recovery of a fumble by Burton on Northwestern's 16 as he ran back a punt.

Cage Loops Still Open For Entries

Recreation basketball leagues are now being formed with openings still available in all loops, announced director James McKay this week.

Leagues slated to operate are Pee Wee (12 and under), Midget (14 and under), Junior (18 and under), Church (adult league), City (adult league), and either an industrial or community loop for men 25 years of age and over.

Any girls interested in forming an adult league are asked to contact the Recreation Department.

Teams entered thus far are College Place, L.T.I., and St. Matthews in the Pee Wee and Midget leagues. Vultures, Rangers, College Place, Clowns., L.T.I., Speedsters, Hawks Gunsmoke and Rebels in the Junior circuit.

Entered in the Church League are Brownsville Methodist, College Place Baptist, St. Joseph Catholic, Cypress Baptist, Temple Baptist, Victory Baptist and New Light Baptist.

As yet there are no teams registered for the City and the Industrial loops. The next meeting to organize these leagues will be held Nov. 17. They will begin play on Dec. 1.

Anyone desiring additional information should contact the Monroe Community Center or get in touch with McKay.

Kentucky In 0-0 Deadlock With Vandy

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky and Vanderbilt battled to a scoreless tie in a Southeastern Conference football contest played in the rain here Saturday.

Slippery footing and rugged line play wiped out an expected high-scoring contest, but the 28,000 who stayed to the finish saw the Kentuckians get one last opportunity after the game apparently was over.

This do - or - die effort expired though when guard Pascal Benson's attempted field goal from the Vanderbilt 24 fell far short.

A field goal try by center Joe Bates from the Kentucky 20 in the first period spelled an end to Vandy's most serious march.

The deadlock spoiled hopes of either team achieving a high finish in the SEC race. It was Vanderbilt's third tie in conference play. League rules specify a tie counts half a game won, half a game lost.

Kentucky's chances of finishing even in the Dixie race were killed. Its record now is 2 won, 4 lost and 1 tied with one conference game to play.

Kentucky had the slight edge statistically, gaining 201 yards to Vandy's 168. But neither side ever forced the other to put up a goal line stand.

Citadel, 38-0

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The Citadel's football team celebrated its return home after a month of road games Saturday by thumping Presbyterian 38-0. The margin was the biggest of the series which dates back to 1915.

The Citadel's determined defense limited Presbyterian to 63 yards while the Cadets rolled up 383 as Coach Eddie Teague employed freshmen and fourth team members throughout the last half.

Bulldogs Dump SLC, 10-6 To Remain In GSC Race

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech remained in the running for the Gulf States' title here this afternoon by defeating Southeastern Louisiana College, 10-6, before a homecoming crowd of 8,000.

The Techmen scored their touchdown in the second quarter on a twelve-play eighty-yard sustained drive, with fullback Max Rudd going over from seven yards out. Halfback J. W. Slack booted the extra point.

After a see-saw third period and most of the fourth, which saw SLC threaten several times, Tech moved to the Lion five with one minute and forty seconds left in the game. An end Bud Alexander kicked the field goal from the 10 to give Tech a 10-0 lead.

The Lions took the ensuing kickoff and on the running of halfbacks J. C. Alexander and Bobby Dugas, and three 15-yard penalties against Tech, moved to the Tech one. From that point Alexander went over with time running out. Alexander failed in his attempt to run for the extra point.

Slack was a standout on offense for Tech, picking up 77 yards in 14 carries. Jim Orton got 62 yards on 4 carries, including a 61-yard gallop. Paul Hines got 50 yards in 10 trips with the ball and Jerry Frazier ground out 30 yards on 8 carries.

Southeastern missed a scoring opportunity in the first period after recovering a Tech fumble on the Bulldog 35. Alexander picked up 17 to keep the drive going but the Lions bogged down at the 14. On fourth down, halfback Calvin Boudreaux attempted a field goal which was wide of the mark.

Shortly thereafter, Tech quarterback Orton went 61-yards on a keeper play to the SLC 32. Orton fumbled at the Lion 9 on a fourth down play.

The Bulldogs drove 80 yards in the second period touchdown. Slack, Hines, and Rudd handled the bulk of the ball carrying, with Jim McCabe completing three passes. He hit Jerry Hudson for 8, Charles Garris for 19, and Rudd for 2 in the drive. Rudd went over from the seven, was hurt on the play, and did not re-enter the game. Slack kicked the extra point which gave Tech a 7-0 lead with three and a half minutes left in the half.

After the half, the Techmen spent much of the time stalling SLC drives deep in Tech territory. McCabe fumbled a punt and Gene Barnes recovered to give the Lions a chance at the Tech 48. A Larry Topham pass to Jim Handley took it to the 35, but Tech held at the 34, forcing SLC to punt.

Tech then moved the ball well with Frazier, Hines and Slack carrying the ball into Lion territory, but Slack fumbled and SLC recovered on its own 43.

Then on separate drives the Lions moved to the Tech 9 and to the Tech 21, only to give up the ball on a fumble once and on downs the second time.

End Garris recovered a Lion fumble on Tech 28. Slack went for 17 yards, and Frazier for runs of 9 and 10 yards, to help move the ball to the Lion five where the drive stalled. Alexander kicked the field goal from a slight angle to give Tech a 10-0 lead with one minute and forty seconds left.

Taking the kickoff the Lions, aided by the three 15-yard penalties against Tech, and a 28 yard sprint by Dugas, moved to the Tech one. Alexander went over as the game ended.

Touch Football

The Y.M.C.A. Touch Football League, with 105 boys participating, completed the third week of play with the Bears, Eagles, and Hawks taking victories.

The Bears rolled over the Wildcats 26-0 with Hodges leading the way with two touchdowns and two conversions. Powell chipped in two scoring markers.

Behind the two touchdowns of Wood, the Eagles dropped the Hawks, 20-6. Reed also had a scoring run for the winners and McClaine and White added extra points. Torrance scored for the losers.

The Tigers romped over the Rebels, 40-18, with Moody scoring three times. Curry, Davies, and Strausser tallied in the winning effort, while Hochstetler, LaGrone and Turner made six-pointers for the Rebels.

The Panthers took a forfeit over the Lions.

The Bears and Panthers are tied for first place with four wins and no losses.

REGAIN PCC LEAD

Bears Roll Over UCLA, 20 To 17

By JACK STEVENSON

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—California's sputtering offense caught fire Saturday off the flying feet of halfback newcomer Grover Garvin to beat UCLA 20-17 and regain the lead in the Rose Bowl race.

A crowd of 50,000 watched the Bears overcome a 3-0 UCLA lead with less than two minutes left in the first half as the 170-pound Garvin, starting his first game for California, contributed key runs of 23, and 10 yards in the initial touchdown drive.

Later Garvin's running showed the way to the final and decisive Bear touchdown.

Coupled with Oregon State's 7-0 setback by Washington State, the Bears grabbed the Pacific Coast Conference lead with a 4-1 record to 4-2 for the Beavers of OSC.

UCLA scored first on Kirk Wilson's 19-yard field goal, capping a march after the opening kickoff.

Cal twice lost big opportunities but finally, late in the second quarter, mounted a 59-yard drive with Garvin and sophomore fullback Walt Arnold leading the way.

Arnold plunged over from the 1 and quarterback Joe Kapp threw to halfback Jack Hart for the conversion.

As the second period opened, the Bears built up their margin. Although he had not punted in a previous game, Hart booted one for 54 yards to the UCLA 1. After an ensuing Bruin punt, California surged 36 yards with Hart scoring from the 4. The conversion missed.

UCLA snapped back 72 yards in 15 running plays with halfback Skip Smith scoring from the 2, but getting stopped on his conversion run.

THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS

Moccasins Turn Back Vols, 14-6

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Chattanooga humiliated Tennessee 14-6 Saturday for the Moccasin's first football victory over the favored Volunteers in their 51-year-old rivalry.

Quarterback John Green, 190-pound senior from West Palm Beach, Fla., engineered Chattanooga to perhaps the sweetest triumph in its gridiron history.

The loss was once-might Tennessee's third in a row and gives the hapless Vols a 2-5 worksheet for the season. Chattanooga's record is now 5-3.

Tennessee had ample scoring opportunities early in the game, but could do nothing about them until the last five seconds when tailback Jene Etter hit wingback Don Stephens with a 26-yard pass. The 76-yard drive began is the last minute of play.

A crowd of 20,200 saw Green maneuver Chattanooga to second and fourth period touchdowns with some of the prettiest passing ever seen on Shields-Watkins Field.

Green completed 12 of 20 tosses for 117 yards.

Effectively mixing passes with trap plays through the line, Green led the Moccasins 80 yards for the first touchdown. He punched over from the 1 after hitting halfback Bill Butler with a 30-yard toss to the Tennessee 2. Robert Waller made good the first of two conversions.

Trojans Top Huskies In PCC, 21 To 6

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Trojans kept their slender Rose Bowl hopes alive Saturday, whipping Washington 21-6 is a Pacific Coast Conference game.

A crowd of 32,987 saw the favored Trojans hike their conference record to four victories against two defeats. The Huskies now have a 1-4 conference record.

Southern Cal took the opening kickoff, marched 74 yards on the ground for a touchdown and never was seriously threatened from there on. The Trojans scored a touchdowns in each of the first three quarters to build a 21-0 lead before the Huskies, with one exception, could penetrate beyond the USC 45.

Quarterback Tom Maudlin went the full distance while the first-string USC signal caller, injured Willie Wood, stayed on the bench. Maudlin, fleet Don Buford and the stout Trojan line were the heroes for Southern Cal.

Quarterback Bob Hivner led the Washisgton attack and was the key man in the Huskies' 69-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which consumed 11 plays.

A 33-yard roll-out run by Maudlin was a big factor in the first touchdown drive. Fullback Clark Holden plunged the final two yards.

The Huskies gave away the third touchdown. Halfback Luther Carr tried to field a punt.

'Gators Edge Bulldogs On Extra Point

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's 142 - pound sparkplug quarterback, Jimmy Dunn, saved the Gators from an upset Saturday with a 76-yard touchdown run and Billy Booker kicked the winning points in a 7-6 football victory over Georgia.

Georgia punctured Florida's supposedly invincible line with apparent ease and came close to the goal often but crossed it only once—on a 10-yard pass from Francis Tarkenton to Fred Brown.

It looked to the 40,000 surprised spectators at this traditional South eastern Conference game in the Gator Bowl like the two Georgia sophomores had fashioned an upset when they hooked up on this scoring pass midway of the third quarter.

Even when Florida's Russell Dilts smeared Carl Manning's attempted kick for an extra point, it didn't seem important for a dead Florida team hadn't shown any offense all afternoon.

Dunn came up with the big surprise on the fourth play of the final quarter. Georgia's Bobby Walden had just punted to the Florida 24.

The slim quarterback rolled out to his left on the run-option play at which he is a master. He cut inside Georgia's end, raced right through Georgia's defending backs and pulled away to cross the goal untouched.

That one big run was virtually the only offensive gesture Florida made.

The Gators couldn't even make a first down in the first half. Only tackle Vel Heckman and end Don Fleming looked anything like their usual form in the line that had outcharged Auburn and Louisiana State on past Saturdays.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—California's sputtering offense caught fire Saturday off the flying feet of halfback newcomer Grover Garvin to beat UCLA 20-17 and regain the lead in the Rose Bowl race.

A crowd of 50,000 watched the Bears overcome a 3-0 UCLA lead with less than two minutes left in the first half as the 170-pound Garvin, starting his first game for California, contributed key runs of 23 and 10 yards in the initial touchdown drive.

Later Garvin's running showed the way to the final and decisive Bear touchdown.

Coupled with Oregon State's 7-0 setback by Washington State, the Bears grabbed the Pacific Coast Conference lead with a 4-1 record to 4-2 for the Beavers of OSC.

UCLA scored first on Kirk Wilson's 19-yard field goal, capping a march after the opening kickoff.

Cal twice lost big opportunities but finally, late in the second quarter, mounted a 59-yard drive with Garvin and sophomore fullback Walt Arnold leading the way.

Arnold plunged over from the 1 and quarterback Joe Kapp threw to halfback Jack Hart for the conversion.

As the second period opened, the Bears built up their margin. Although he had not punted in a previous game, Hart booted one for 54 yards to the UCLA 1. After an ensuing Bruin punt, California surged 36 yards with Hart scoring from the 4. The conversion missed.

UCLA snapped back 72 yards in 15 running plays with halfback Skip Smith scoring from the 2, but getting stopped on his conversion run.

THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS

Moccasins Turn Back Vols, 14-6

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Chattanooga humiliated Tennessee 14-6 Saturday for the Moccasin's first football victory over the favored Volunteers in their 51-year-old rivalry.

Quarterback John Green, 190-pound senior from West Palm Beach, Fla., engineered Chattanooga to perhaps the sweetest triumph in its gridiron history.

The loss was once-might Tennessee's third in a row and gives the hapless Vols a 2-5 worksheet for the season. Chattanooga's record is now 5-3.

Tennessee had ample scoring opportunities early in the game, but could do nothing about them until the last five seconds when tailback Jene Etter hit wingback Don Stephens with a 26-yard pass. The 76-yard drive began is the last minute of play.

A crowd of 20,200 saw Green maneuver Chattanooga to second and fourth period touchdowns with some of the prettiest passing ever seen on Shields-Watkins Field.

Green completed 12 of 20 tosses for 117 yards.

Effectively mixing passes with trap plays through the line, Green led the Moccasins 80 yards for the first touchdown. He punched over from the 1 after hitting halfback Bill Butler with a 30-yard toss to the Tennessee 2. Robert Waller made good the first of two conversions.

Trojans Top Huskies In PCC, 21 To 6

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Trojans kept their slender Rose Bowl hopes alive Saturday, whipping Washington 21-6 is a Pacific Coast Conference game.

A crowd of 32,987 saw the favored Trojans hike their conference record to four victories against two defeats. The Huskies now have a 1-4 conference record.

Southern Cal took the opening kickoff, marched 74 yards on the ground for a touchdown and never was seriously threatened from there on. The Trojans scored a touchdowns in ea... of the first three quarters to build a 21-0 lead before the Huskies, with one exception, could penetrate beyond the USC 45.

Quarterback Tom Maudlin went the full distance while the first-string USC signal caller, injured Willie Wood, stayed on the bench. Maudlin, fleet Don Buford and the stout Trojan line were the heroes for Southern Cal.

Quarterback Bob Hivner led the Washisgton attack and was the key man in the Huskies' 69-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which consumed 11 plays.

A 33-yard roll-out run by Maudlin was a big factor in the first touchdown drive. Fullback Clark Holden plunged the final two yards.

The Huskies gave away the third touchdown. Halfback Luther Carr tried to field a punt.

'Gators Edge Bulldogs On Extra Point

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's 142 - pound sparkplug quarterback, Jimmy Dunn, saved the Gators from an upset Saturday with a 76-yard touchdown run and Billy Booker kicked the winning points in a 7-6 football victory over Georgia.

Georgia punctured Florida's supposedly invincible line with apparent ease and came close to the goal often but crossed it only once —on a 10-yard pass from Francis Tarkenton to Fred Brown.

It looked to the 40,000 surprised spectators at this traditional South eastern Conference game in the Gator Bowl like the two Georgia sophomores had fashioned an upset when they hooked up on this scoring pass midway of the third quarter.

Even when Florida's Russell Dilts smeared Carl Manning's attempted kick for an extra point, it didn't seem important for a dead Florida team hadn't shown any offense all afternoon.

Dunn came up with the big surprise on the fourth play of the final quarter. Georgia's Bobby Walden had just punted to the Florida 24.

The slim quarterback rolled out to his left on the run-option play at which he is a master. He cut inside Georgia's end, raced right thro... gh Georgia's defending backs and pulled away to cross the goal untouched.

That one big run was virtually the only offensive gesture Florida made.

The Gators couldn't even make a first down in the first half. Only tackle Vel Heckman and end Don Fleming looked anything like their usual form in the line that had outcharged Auburn and Louisiana State on past Saturdays.

Pittsburgh Upsets Irish In Closing Seconds, 29-26

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Quarterback Bill Kaliden skirted right end for 5 yards on fourth down—with just 11 seconds remaining—to earn Pitt a 29-26 upset victory over Notre Dame Saturday in an intersectional football thriller before 55,330 at Pitt Stadium.

The Panthers, trailing 26-22 with six minutes remaining, hitched their offensive to the 187-pound senior from Homestead, Pa. Kaliden guided Pitt 73 yards in 14 plays for the winning touchdown.

It was a heartbreaking defeat fo. the Fighting Irish but they had nobody to blame but themselves, losing the ball five times on seven fumbles, often just when their attack was rolling.

Thus Pitt remained a bowl game prospect on its 5-2-1 record for the season with two games to play. Notre Dame stands 4-3.

The Panthers raced to a 15-0 lead in the second quarter, turning a fumble and a pass interception into touchdowns before the Irish exploded behind the rifle arm of George Izo.

The 20-year-old junior from Barberton, Ohio, hit Monty Stickles for two touchdowns on 11 and 8-yard passes in the second quarter and scored twice himself in the third and final periods from short distances.

Mike Ditka's 52-yard punt that squirted out of bounds on the Irish 2-yard line paved the way for Pitt's first touchdown. Izo fumbled on the next play and John Guzik fell on the ball for Pitt on the 1. Dick Haley plunged over for the score.

Norton Seaman missed the kick conversion but Notre Dame was detected off side and then Ivan Toncic threw to Art Gob for the two point conversion. That 8-point touchdown was a major factor in conversion attempts for the rest of the game.

A pass interception by Don Crafton on the Irish 42 set up Pitt's second score. Toncic hit Curt Plowman with a 27-yard pass and 3 plays later Haley carried the ball over from the 2-yard line. Seaman kicked this conversion that helped Pitt to a 15-14 halftime lead.

The Panthers turned their offensive to the ground for their final two touchdowns, travelling 65 yards in the third quarter and 73 yards in the fourth. Toncic scooted 10 yards for Pitt's third touchdown and Kaliden scored the winning touchdown on a 5-yard sweep on fourth down, at the spine-tingling finish of this see-saw scoring thriller.

Notre Dame wasn't finished, even then, charging back to the Pitt 15 before time ran out on the plucky Irish effort.

Trailing 15-0 in the second period, the Irish travelled 80 yards for their first touchdown with Izo hitting Stickles on an 11-yard scoring play. Izo's pass conversion attempt failed.

Notre Dame turned a pass interception by Myron Pottios into a second touchdown. On fourth down, Izo hit Stickles from 8 yards out for the score and threw to Nick Pietrosante for the two-point conversion.

Notre Dame forged ahead 20-15 in the third period after a fumble recovery on Pitt's 24.

Izo plunged one yard for the touchdown after Pitt was penalized 15 yards. But a pass attempt for a two point conversion went astray and Pitt stayed within striking distance.

Pitt came back to make it 22-20 at the end of the third period, kicking safely for one extra point.

Again the Irish came back, with a 72-yard pass play from Izo to Bill Mack, and Izo ramming over from the 1. On this last time Notre Dame again went for two points, but the pass missed fire and Pitt trailed only four points at 22-26. Any touchdown would do it and Any touchdown would do it and there were six minutes left.

As the clock ticked the Pasthers came storming back with Kaliden their guiding gambling genius. He went for two "must" first downs and finally to a first down inside the Notre Dame 6. It was fourth down and 5 when Kaliden rolled out as if to pass, kept running, slanting into the end zone.

Navy Reserves Thump Maryland

By HERB THOMPSON

BALTIMORE (AP) — Navy reserves fired off the boilers and sophomore fullback Joe Matalavage provided the spark as Navy trounced Maryland 40-14 in the renewal of an old neighborhood football rivalry Saturday.

Matalavage, making his first start of the season, scored two touchdowns and rolled up 102 yards on 10 carries. It was the first Midshipmen victory over Maryland since the Terps won three straight before the series was suspended in 1952.

It was substitute quarterback Jim Maxfield and Navy's second stringers who got the attack moving after Maryland scored on the Navy regulars and stopped the Middie attack cold in the first period.

The reserves halted a second Maryland touchdown threat with a recovered fumble on the Navy 2 at the start of the second quarter and promptly marched 98 yards for Navy's first score.

Maxfield completed three passes in the drive for 46 yards and got ripping runs from fullback Jim TenBrook and halfbacks Roland Brandquist and Dick Zembruski. TenBrook scored from the 4, but an attempted pass for the conversion failed.

The spark had been lighted for Navy's first string, however, and the Middies struck for two touchdowns in each of the last three periods.

Quarterback Joe Tranchini led a 77-yard drive for the second Navy score, completing passes of 31, 9, and 19 yards before sending Matalavage across on a plunge from the 1.

BOTH OUT OF RACE

Purdue, OSU In 14-14 Deadlock

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Purdue's Boilermakers, shocked by two early touchdowns by Ohio State tackle Jim Marshall, fought back with two fourth period touchdowns Saturday to tie the Buckeyes 14-14 in a Big Ten game which eliminated both from the title race.

A crowd of 83,481, largest ever to fill the Buckeye horseshoe, was stunned as Marshall, a 230-pound, 6-foot-3 Columbus boy, ran a blocked punt 22 yards for a score in the first two minutes. Then he intercepted a pass for a 25-yard scoring jaunt in the second period.

The Boilermakers, plagued by pass interceptions and penalties, allowed Ohio only one first down and a total gain of 22 yards in the last half as they battled back for the deadlock.

Purdue, which had passed only 50 times in six previous games, took to the air 30 times, completing 13 for 213 yards—practically all of it coming in the closing spree against the tiring, outplayed Bucks.

Behind 14-0 starting the final period, Purdue marched 64 yards in 14 plays with fullback Bob Jarus plunging three yards for the score. Scenting victory, the Boilermakers shunned a place-kick for the extra point and went for two. But a pass failed to click.

With only two minutes and two seconds to play, Purdue was back in Ohio's end zone with its second score. A Ross Fichtner to Dick Brooks pass went the final seven yards to climax a six-play surge covering 62 yards.

Clyde Washington, faking a wide run to the right, stopped and passed into the left end zone to Brooks, who was all alone, for the two-point conversion which tied it.

Soph Paces Hoosiers To 6-0 Victory

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Sophomore Earl Faison of Indiana blocked a Michigan State field goal attempt Saturday, ran the ball 92 yards, and gave the Hoosiers their first victory over the Spartans in nine years 6-0.

The 6-foot-5 end from Newport News, Va., knocked down Don Fallis' attempted kick from the Indiana 15, scooped the ball out of the mud and went all the way with no Spartan near him. The second - period touchdown stood up until the end.

The hungry Hoosiers, who upset Minnesota by the same score last week, owned two Big Ten victories in the same season for the first time since 1947.

Indiana trotted out a series of hero ends in a ferocious defensive exhibition that four times stopped Michigan State inside the Hoosier 10-yard line.

Faison made a crusial tackle of the Spartans' Al Luplow at the Indiana 10, just before the first half ended. End Ted Aucreman repeatedly broke into the Michigan State backfield for shoestring tackles. Ron Miller, another Hoosier end, also cut down a share of Spartan ball carriers.

Indiana never got deeper than Michigan State's 36-yard line and needed all the defense it could muster against such hard-running Spartan backs as Dean Look, Park Baker, Luplow and Art Johnson. The Hoosiers recovered three Michigan State fumbles and intercepted one pass in the Indiana end zone.

Michigan State, having its worst season ever in Big Ten competition, was left with four defeats, one tie and no victories. Indiana stood 2-2 in the league and 4-3 over-all.

Rams Really Were Robbed Money Stolen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"We wuz robbed," cried Los Angeles Ram officials Saturday, long before the team was to take the field for its football game with San Francisco Sunday.

What they were complaining about, however, was the fact somebody broke into their office Friday night and stole an estimated $7,000 in cash.

The money, receipts from the heavy ticket sale for Sunday's National Football League game, was inside a 200-pound safe, but this didn't bother the burglars a bit.

They simply put the safe on a dolly they had brought along with them and trundled it out the back door.

Ram officials said the thieves were more interested in money than football. They left untouched a big stack of hard-to-get tickets for the 49'er game.

Clemson Bows Before Tech, 13-0

ATLANTA (AP) — Fleet Floyd Faucette put on one of the greatest running exhibitions on Grant Field in many a game Saturday, and led Georgia Tech to a 13-0 football victory over Clemson.

His 54-yard run for Tech's first touchdown was a beauty. Zipping through a hole on the right side, he danced away from Clemson linebackers, cut across the field to the far sideline and simply outran the angling Tiger secondary men.

He chipped in with several other big gains, spinning away from tackler after tackler. He rolled up 116 yards in 10 carries.

Tech's superior over-all speed and alert defensive play were the big factors. Center Maxie Baugham turned in a magnificent defensive job, intercepting one pass and making several key tackles to stall Clemson's power machine.

Tackle Billy Shaw and fullback Marvin Tibbetts also were strong on defense, helping hand the Tigers their first shutout in 15 games.

Clemsos, pointing for the Atlantic Coast Conference title and a bowl bid, undoubtedly was handicapped because star quarterback Harvey White was not in top form. A sore ankle kept him out of practice all week and his timing — particularly on passes—appeared off.

Tech scored again in the second period after a 9 yard pass from Joe Delany to Jimmy Beasley gave Tech a first down on the 1. Fred Braselton sneaked it over.

The victory over a team ranked 7th nationally in The Associated Press poll spurred Tech's hope for a Gator Bowl bid, provided they beat Alabama and Georgia in the two remaining games.

Pro Grid Teams Consider Bid To Form Loop

MONTREAL (AP) — The Big Four professional football league is considering a proposal to join four Eastern U.S. cities in a new international league, it was learned Saturday.

Alan Dekdebrun, former quarterback for Cornell University and for all of the Big Four teams, disclosed the proposal. Ted Workman, president of the Big Four and of the Montreal Alouettes, confirmed that preliminary meetings have been held by the American group but the Big Four has not yet discussed the matter at the league level.

The proposal would link the Big Four—Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, and Hamilton—with clubs in Buffalo, Boston, Rochester and Long Island, N. Y.

Unbeaten Baltimore Faces Giants In 'Must' Battle

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's unbeaten Colts have a 6-0 record and a two-game lead in the Western Conference of the National Football League and yet they are in the position of playing a "must" game with the Giants in New York Sunday.

Despite injuries to Johnny Unitas and L. G. Dupre which will keep the star Baltimore backs out of action, the Colts are three point favorites to whip the Giants.

The Giants, runners-up to Cleveland in the Eastern Conference with a 4-2 record, are fresh from their smashing 21-17 victory over the previously unbeaten Browns last week.

New York, too, will have the services of guard Jack Stroud and quarterback Donh Heinrich and possibly the part time use of formidable halfback Frank Gifford. All three missed the game with Cleveland because of injuries.

Of course the game is also a "must" for the Giants who trail Cleveland (5-1) by a full game. With big chips on the table, a record New York NFL crowd of more than 65,000 may jam the Yankee Stadium must for Baltimore. The answer is the schedule. The Colts had it easy in the first half of the 12-game card. In compiling their 6-0 record, the Colts beat lowly Detroit and Green Bay twice each week, Washington once and the Chicago Bears in Baltimore. The Bears (4-2) are their chief contenders in the West.

Starting with the Giants, the Colts are fetlock deep in trouble. After the Giants they meet in succession the Bears in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco. The last two are on the West Coast.

George Shaw, who had the quarterbacking job before Unitas and is no slouch, will start for Baltimore. Len Lyles, who has averaged a colossal 50.3 yards on kickoff returns, may step in for Dupre.

This is the first Baltimore-New York clash since 1955 when the Giants won 17-7.

The Baltimore-New York showdown far overshadows the other five games on the Sunday NFL schedule.

The other games match Detroit (1-4-1) at Cleveland (5-1); San Francisco (3-3) at Los Angeles (3-3); Green Bay (1-4-1) at Chicago Bears (4-2); Chicago Cardinals (2-3-1) at Washington (2-4), and Pittsburgh (2-4) at Philadelphia (1-4-1).

Another big crowd of 60,000-plus probably will show up in Cleveland in the hopes the Browns will clout the now lowly Lions. The Browns are 10-point favorites over the defending champions.

Through the years the Browns have been patsies for the Lions. Detroit has a 3-1 edge over Cleveland in championship games and a 3-0 margin in regular season play. It could be a bid day for Cleveland's record-heading Jimmy Brown.

Los Angeles may have another 100,000 turnout for the Rams-49ers clash. A win here is a must, too, for both teams. The Rams beat the 49ers 33-3 in their first meeting this year and are 6½ point favorites to repeat.

The Bears are 14-point choices to make it two straight over the hapless Packers. Willie Galimore & Co. beat them 31-20 in their first clash.

The other two games also are repeats. Pittsburgh's Steelers beat Philadelphia 21-3 the first time around but the Eagles are two point favorites to square accounts.

The same thing holds for the Cardinals-Redskins at Washington. Chicago won the opener 37-10 but the Skins are favored by three points.

Musial Raps Homer, Cards Triumph, 5-1

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP) — Stan Musial hit his first home run in Japan Saturday and sent the Cardinals off to a 5-1 victory over the Japan All-Stars—their eighth in ten games of a 16-game tour.

Musial's 400-foot blast into the right center field bleachers at Heiwadai Stadium came with two on base in the first inning. The Cardinals added two more in the fifth but Musial ended the rally when he popped to shortstop with the bases full.

Ten thousand American armed forces personnel and an American high school band were among the 30,000 spectators. They gave the Cards some real home style rooting and occasionally some booing.

Kazuhisa Inao, a 33-game winner for the Nishitetsu Lions this season, was the victim of Musial's three-run homer. He yielded a leadoff double to outfielder Wally Moon in the second inning but retired the next three men in order and shut out the Cards in the third and fourth.

Inao, who beat the Cards 6-3 at Sendai, was relieved by Shimabara in the fifth, when St. Louis combined four hits with a walk and two errors for two runs. Phil Paine, St. Louis starting pitcher, singled to score first baseman Joe Cunningham and Don Blasingame's sinbie brought Moon home.

Paine, who once pitched for the Nishetetsu Lions while he was with the armed forces in Japan blanked the All - Stars on three hits in the first four innings. He twice fanned Japan's home run king, Futoshi Nakanishi, whose grand slam homer helped beat the Cards Tuesday.

Sad Sam Joses, star St. Louis pitcher, finished the game, allowing two hits and the only Japan run.

Girls Return To Kallio's Monday

The girls are back at Kallio's Arena and Nell Stewart meets Celia Blevins in a 45-minute special event Monday night on a three - bout wrestling card featuring Gypsy Joe and Bill Barney in the main event.

Also on tap for local grappling fans is a semi-final go between Charley Laye and Mexican Viva Zapata. The main event has an hour limit with two falls to win and the Laye - Zapata tussle is set for 45 minutes and two falls to win. The girls will go for one fall.

Miss Stewart, a buxom blonde, is considered one of the top lady grapplers now doing business and Miss Blevins is a capable opponent. The ladies always draw a big crowd at Kallio's and one is expected tomorrow night.

Gypsy Joe and Barney earned their main event bout tonight with wins last week. Joe defeated Laye and Barney bested the Black Menace. Barney, the state heavyweight, is expected to have his hands full with Gypsy Joe, enjoying a successful tour in these parts.

Charley Laye, a mean one, takes on his second straight fellow villain in Zapata. Charley lost to Gypsy last week in a foul-filled fray and bad Viva will give him a rough time again tonight. Viva lost to Jack Curtis Jr. on a disqualification last week.

SECOND-RANKED

Iowa Trips Gophers, 28-6, Clinches Rose Bowl Bid

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Unbeaten Iowa won the Big Ten football championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl Saturday by hammering winless Minnesota 28-6 behind whizzing Willie Fleming's two spectacular scoring sprints.

Fleming sped 63 and 46 yards in the first half to propel the nation's second-ranked football power to its sixth victory and fifth in the Big Ten. The Hawks' lone blemish is a 13-13 tie with Air Force.

Iowa's victory, linked with the Ohio State-Purdue tie and Wisconsin's triumph over Northwestern, mathematically clinched the Hawkeyes' fifth Big Ten championship and their second in three years.

Fleming, a sophomore and 10-second speedster with a gallop-style and a flair for spectacular runs, combined with quarterback Randy Duncan to deliver the big offensive strikes that dealt Minnesota its 10th straight defeat.

The high-velocity Hawkeye offense defied a slippery turf to overwhelm the willing but outmanned and injured-depleted Gophers. Fleming's two - touchdown shots were near duplicates of his 61 and 73-yard scoring dashes which broke the back of Michigan a week ago.

Late in the first period he slipped through a small opening at left tackle, burst away from a line backer and bloomed down the sidelines to score from the 46.

Fleming hit the same hole midway through the second quarter, got a one-step lead on the Gopher corner line backer and outraced everyone into the end zone.

Duncan, the Hawkeyes' All-America quarterback candidate, fired an 11-yard scoring pass to Bob Prescott later the quarter and then hit Don Norton from the 10 in the fourth quarter.

Minnesota got its touchdown in the third period when second string quarterback Larry Johnson connected with halfback Bill Kauth on a 30-yard pass.

With Fleming, Bob Jeter, Ray Jauch and Kevin Furlong tearing the Gopher line and Duncan passing, Iowa rolled up a startling 319 yards in the first half.

Minnesota held off Iowa as long as it could. A short punt put Iowa in position for a touchdown drive early in the game, but two Duncan passes missed from the 25. Quarterback Joe Salem's fumble was recovered by end Curt Merz on the 23 a moment later but Minnesota again stalled Hawks.

Fleming's first touchdown from the 46 came after second string quarterback Mitchell Ogiego pitched a 13-yard pass to Norton to loosen up the Gopher secondary. Ogiego also was handling the team when Willie got loose on his second scamper.

But Duncan showed the crowd of 64,466 what makes him the Big Ten's most feared passer a few minutes later. Pushed back to its six by a penalty, Iowa rolled to its third touchdown in eight days. Randy accounted for 71 yards with four bullseyes, one of them for 39 yards to Norton.

Minnesota's all -sophomore backfield didn't have the speed or finesse to bother seriously the tough, agressive, Hawkeye line. But Johnson gave the Gophers some consolation in the third quarter with his touchdown strike to Kauth.

Iowa's first punt of the game late in the quarter rolled dead on the Hawkeye 35. Three plays gained three yards before John's pass found Kauth loose at the 15. He outran a Hawkeye defender to score.

Duncan completed four passes in a 63-yard march that produced Iowa's final touchdown.

IN BIG EIGHT

Colorado Upset By Tigers, 33-9

By SKIPPER PATRICK

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's young Tigers, unimpressive and pretty well whipped the first half, scored five touchdowns in 11 minutes and 20 seconds to crush favored Colorado 33-9 in a Big Eight football game Saturday.

The victory before 31,500 fans was the fourth in the conference against no losses. It cleared the path for a championship battle between Missouri and Oklahoma in Norman next Saturday. Oklahoma, also with four league victories, whipped Colorado 23-7 last week.

Missouri spotted Colorado a nine-point lead in the first quarter via a touchdown on a 37-yard run on a pass interception and a field goal. Then Missouri fought back furiously as ailing quarterback Phil Snowden got the sophomorish club rolling late in the third period.

Snowden was still limping and unable to pass normally after a two-week layoff with a back injury.

The first Tiger touchdown came on a 9-yard pass from Snowden to end Russ Sloan. That was with one minute remaining in the third period.

Within four minutes the Tigers had two more touchdowns by Snowden, one on a 16-yard keeper and a one-yard sneak. Colorado fumbles set up both of Snowden's touchdowns.

Missouri gained five as Colorado wilted and the Tigers got two more touchdowns on a 28-yard run by sophomore fullback Ed Mehrer and an 83-yard punt return by fullback Fred Brossart, another rookie.

So fierce was the Missouri line play that Colorado, the nation's No. 1 rushing team last week, was limited to 84 yards on the ground. Missouri ground out 255.

ON SCORING PASS

Longhorns Roll Over Bears, 20-15

By ED OVERHOLSER

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Texas quarterback Larry Cooper lofted a 26-yard pass to end Bob Bryant in the end zone to pull the Longhorns to a 20-15 victory over Baylor here Saturday.

The Longhorns burned power up the middle and called on the pass play in the clutch to down the fighting Bears before 28,000.

Sharp passing by Buddy Humphrey, Baylor quarterback who hit 18 of 26 passes, clicked to send Baylor into a 15-14 lead with 10:19 left in the final period.

Cooper, taking over for the injured Bobby Lackey, directed the Longhorns for 71 yards and the TD. Texas almost got another seconds later when end Maurice Doke intercepted a Humphrey pass at midfield and ran to the 9 before going out. Texas drove to the 1-foot line but the Baptists held.

Humphrey pitched 10 straight completions in the first half as Baylor took a 7-6 lead. Texas went ahead on a 55-yard scoring drive in the third period with Lackey pulling the key punch on a 16-yard pass to Bryant on the 4.

From the 20, Baylor drove 80 yards in eight plays to go ahead as Humphrey connected three times on passes to end Albert Witcher good for 58 yards.

SOUTHWEST TILT

Meredith Sparks SMU Over A&M

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Don Meredith ran for two touchdowns and passed for one and his understudy, Billy Dunn, threw for two more Saturday as Southern Methodist smashed Texas A&M 33-0 and stayed in the Southwest Conference football race.

Meredith, fully recovered from the hip injury that kept him out of most of four games, had one of his best days, throwing for 136 yards and running for 62, while Dunn connected on eight passes and 131 yards.

A crowd of 53,000 saw SMU beat the Aggies by the widest margin in 42 years.

The game billed as a duel between Meredith and the Aggies' Charley Milstead, the nation's total offense leader, but Milstead went out with an injury midway in the second period after handling the ball only four times with little result. Milstead's replacement, Ed Dudley, gave the Methodists trouble with his rushing and passing but SMU intercepted five Aggie throws in the final period and one almost led to a touchdown. SMU was on the Aggie 3-yard line as the game ended.

Southern Methodist has lost one game out of three and is still barely in the conference race, which is led by Rice and Texas Christian with three victories apiece.

ONE—MAN SHOW

VALSETZ, Ore. (AP)—Valsetz High School defeated Falls City 63-31 Friday with the help of Bob Cliver.

Cliver scored four times on runs of 60, 50, 40 and 2 yards.

He passed for six touchdowns with yardage of 30, 28, 28, 25, 25 and 5.

He passed for an extra point, and caught a pass for another.

Cliver had a hand in 62 of Valsetz' 63 points.

Tars Trounce Virginia By 42-0 Margin

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) North Carolina took revenge for its most stinging 1957 defeat and gave Jim Tatum the 100th victory of his illustrious football career Saturday in a 42-0 romp past woefully feeble Virginia.

It was the sixth consecutive triumph for the onrushing Tar Heels since two early-season setbacks and kept them on the high road to a post-season bowl bid. The regionally televised Atlantic Coast Conference scrap produced the sixth straight loss for Virginia.

Virginia had upset the Tar Heels 20-13 last year.

North Carolina, stacking up huge totals of yardage rushing and stealing Virginia's winged-T thunder with an enormously successful passing assault, scored the first time it had the ball on a 59-yard drive that ended with fullback Don Klochak powering over from the 2.

After that, though the Tar Heels often were hamstrung by penalties, it was simply no contest. Only five times did Virginia get past midfield and the Cavaliers threatened only one. In the fourth period they advanced to the 18 but were held for downs.

Six Carolina players got in the scoring act, three of them on passes as quarterback Jack Cummings and Henry Clements bombarded the Virginia secondary with telling effect. Cummings got off two scoring aerials, an 11 - yarder to halfback Emil Decantis and, in the game's most spectacular play, a 68-yard pitch to end Al Goldstein. Clements pitched 27 yards to end Don Kemper for his contribution to the mayhem.

Invest in a "Modern Miracle"
INDUSTRY
The manufacture of concrete products is growing by leaps and bounds as new uses are made of the products and as new methods are devised for its manufacture. Lightweight concrete block construction is universally recognized as "one of the most versatile building materials in the construction world." Now, an old principle of design has added expanded horizons to the industry — and the new product is PRESTRESSED CONCRETE!

GROWTH OF THE PRESTRESSED CONCRETE INDUSTRY CONSTITUTES A "MODERN MIRACLE"

For all practical purposes, the history of concrete prestressing in this country dates from 1950, when the first prestressed structure was completed. Since then the growth of this industry has constituted a "modern miracle". While proven by time, the application of the principle of prestressing is relatively new in the field of concrete construction. (In prestressing, stresses are induced in a structure to eliminate or offset other stresses resulting fom loads to which the structure would be subjected during use.
Today contractors building such diversified structures as bridges, (the Lake Pontchartain Causeway, etc., the longest bridge, is a prestressed structure) clear span roofs for super-markets and warehouses, railway terminals, cantilevered roofs for stadiums and airports, highway overpasses, railway separations and interchanges using prestressed "T" girders to cover great open spans, modern hotels and office buildings, are all making use of this ever expanding, ever growing new method of building.

Unbeaten Baltimore Faces Giants In 'Must' Battle

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's unbeaten Colts have a 6-0 record and a two-game lead in the Western Conference of the National Football League and yet they are in the position of playing a "must" game with the Giants in New York Sunday.

Despite injuries to Johnny Unitas and L. G. Dupre which will keep the star Baltimore backs out of action, the Colts are three point favorites to whip the Giants.

The Giants, runners-up to Cleveland in the Eastern Conference with a 4-2 record, are fresh from their smashing 21-17 victory over the previously unbeaten Browns last week.

This is the first Baltimore-New York clash since 1955 when the Giants won 17-7.

The Baltimore-New York showdown far overshadows the other five games on the Sunday NFL schedule.

The other games match Detroit (1-4-1) at Cleveland (5-1); San Francisco (3-3) at Los Angeles (3-3); Green Bay (1-4-1) at Chicago Bears (4-2); Chicago Cardinals (2-3-1) at Washington (2-4), and Pittsburgh (2-4) at Philadelphia (1-4-1).

Los Angeles may have another 100,000 turnout for the Rams-49ers clash. A win here is a must, too, for both teams. The Rams beat the 49ers 33-3 in their first meeting this year and are 6½ point favorites to repeat.

The Bears are 14-point choices to make it two straight over the hapless Packers. Willie Galimore & Co. beat them 34-20 in their first clash.

The other two games also are repeats. Pittsburgh's Steelers beat Philadelphia 24-3 the first time around but the Eagles are two point favorites to square accounts.

The same thing holds for the Cardinals-Redskins at Washington. Chicago won the opener 37-10 but the Skins are favored by three points.

Iowa Trips Gophers, 28-6, Clinches Rose Bowl Bid

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Unbeaten Iowa won the Big Ten football championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl Saturday by hammering winless Minnesota 28-6 behind whizzing Willie Fleming's two spectacular scoring sprints.

Fleming sped 63 and 46 yards in the first half to propel the nation's second -ranked football power to its sixth victory and fifth in the Big Ten. The Hawks' lone blemish is a 13-13 tie with Air Force.

Iowa's victory, linked with the Ohio State-Purdue tie and Wisconsin's triumph over Northwestern, mathematically clinched the Hawkeyes' fifth Big Ten championship and their second in three years.

Fleming, a sophomore and 10-second speedster with a gallop-style and a flair for spectacular runs, combined with quarterback Randy Duncan to deliver the big offensive salvos that dealt Minnesota its 10th straight defeat.

Late in the first period he slipped through a small opening at left tackle, burst away from a line backer and bloomed down the sidelines to score from the 46.

Fleming hit the same hole midway through the second quarter, got a one-step lead on the Gopher corner line backer and outraced everyone into the end zone.

Duncan, the Hawkeyes' All-America quarterback candidate, fired an 11-yard scoring pass to Bob Prescott later the quarter and then hit Don Norton from the 10 in the fourth quarter.

Minnesota got its touchdown in the third period when second string quarterback Larry Johnson connected with halfback Bill Kauth on a 30-yard pass.

With Fleming, Bob Jeter, Ray Jauch and Kevin Furlong tearing the Gopher line and Duncan passing, Iowa rolled up a startling 319 yards in the first half.

Minnesota held off Iowa as long as it could. A short punt put Iowa in position for a touchdown drive early in the game, but two Duncan passes missed from the 28. Quarterback Joe Salem's fumble was recovered by end Curt Merz on the 23 a moment later but Minnesota again stalled Hawks.

Fleming's first touchdown from the 46 came after second string quarterback Mitchell Ogiego pitched a 13-yard pass to Norton to loosen up the Gopher secondary. Ogiego also was handling the team when Willie got loose on his second scamper.

But Duncan showed the crowd of 64,486 what makes him the Big Ten's most feared passer a few minutes later. Pushed back to its six by a penalty, Iowa rolled to its third touchdown in eight days. Randy accounted for 71 yards with four bullseyes, one of them for 39 yards to Norton.

Minnesota's all -sophomore backfield didn't have the speed or finesse to bother seriously the tough, agressive, Hawkeye line. But Johnson gave the Gophers some consolation in the third quarter with his touchdown strike to Kauth.

Iowa's first punt of the game late in the quarter rolled dead on the Hawkeye 35. Three plays gained three yards before John's pass found Kauth loose at the 15. He outran a Hawkeye defender to score.

Duncan completed four passes in a 63-yard march that produced Iowa's final touchdown.

Tars Trounce Virginia By 42-0 Margin

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) North Carolina took revenge for its most stinging 1957 defeat and gave Jim Tatum the 100th victory of his illustrious football career Saturday in a 42-0 romp past woefully feeble Virginia.

It was the sixth consecutive triumph for the onrushing Tar Heels since two early-season setbacks and kept them on the high road to a post-season bowl bid. The regionally televised Atlantic Coast Conference scrap produced the sixth straight loss for Virginia.

Virginia had upset the Tar Heels 20-13 last year.

North Carolina, stacking up huge gobs of yardage rushing and stealing Virginia's winged-T thunder with an enormously successful passing assault, scored the first time it had the ball on a 59-yard drive that ended with fullback Don Klochak powering over from the 8.

After that, though the Tar Heels often were hamstrung by penalties, it was simply no contest. Only five times did Virginia get past midfield and the Cavaliers threatened only one. In the fourth period they advanced to the 18 but were held for downs.

Six Carolina players got in the scoring act, three of them on passes as quarterback Jack Cummings and Henry Clements bombarded the Virginia secondary with telling effect. Cummings got off two scoring aerials, an 11 - yarder to halfback Emil Decantis and, in the game's most spectacular play, a 68-yard pitch to end Al Goldstein. Clements pitched 27 yards to end Don Kemper for his contribution to the mayhem.

IN BIG EIGHT

Colorado Upset By Tigers, 33-9

By SKIPPER PATRICK

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's young Tigers, unimpressive and pretty well whipped the first half, scored five touchdowns in 11 minutes and 20 seconds to crush favored Colorado 33-9 in a Big Eight football game Saturday.

The victory before 31,500 fans was the fourth in the conference against no losses. It cleared the path for a championship battle between Missouri and Oklahoma in Norman next Saturday. Oklahoma, also with four league victories, whipped Colorado 23-7 last week.

Missouri spotted Colorado a nine-point lead in the first quarter via a touchdown on a 37-yard run on a pass interception and a field goal. Then Missouri fought back furiously as ailing quarterback Phil Snowden got the sophomorish club rolling late in the third period.

Snowden was still limping and unable to pass normally after a two-week layoff with a back injury.

The first Tiger touchdown came on a 9-yard pass from Snowden to end Russ Sloan. That was with one minute remaining in the third period.

Within four minutes the Tigers had two more touchdowns by Snowden, one on a 16-yard keeper and a one-yard sneak. Colorado fumbles set up both of Snowden's touchdowns.

Missouri gained five as Colorado wilted and the Tigers got two more touchdowns on a 28-yard run by sophomore fullback Ed Mehrer and an 83-yard punt return by fullback Fred Brossart, another rookie.

So fierce was the Missouri line play that Colorado, the nation's No. 1 rushing team last week, was limited to 84 yards on the ground. Missouri ground out 235.

ON SCORING PASS

Longhorns Roll Over Bears, 20-15

By ED OVERHOLSER

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Texas quarterback Larry Cooper lofted a 26-yard pass to end Bob Bryant in the end zone to pull the Longhorns to a 20-15 victory over Baylor here Saturday.

The Longhorns burned power up the middle and called on the pass play in the clutch to down the fighting Bears before 28,000.

Sharp passing by Buddy Humphrey, Baylor quarterback who hit 18 of 26 passes, clicked to send Baylor into a 15-14 lead with 10:19 left in the final period.

Cooper, taking over for the injured Bobby Lackey, directed the Longhorns for 71 yards and the TD. Texas almost got another seconds later when end Maurice Doke intercepted a Humphrey pass at midfield and ran to the 9 before going out. Texas drove to the 1-foot line but the Baptists held.

Humphrey pitched 10 straight completions in the first half as Baylor took a 7-6 lead. Texas went ahead on a 55-yard scoring drive in the third period with Lackey pulling the key punch on a 16-yard pass to Bryant on the 4.

From the 20, Baylor drove 80 yards in eight plays to go ahead as Humphrey connected three times on passes to end Albert Witcher good for 58 yards.

SOUTHWEST TILT

Meredith Sparks SMU Over A&M

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Don Meredith ran for two touchdowns and passed for one and his understudy, Billy Dunn, threw for two more Saturday as Southern Methodist smashed Texas A&M 33-0 and stayed in the Southwest Conference football race.

Meredith, fully recovered from the hip injury that kept him out of most of four games, had one of his best days, throwing for 136 yards and running for 62, while Dunn connected on eight passes and 131 yards.

A crowd of 53,000 saw SMU beat the Aggies by the widest margin in 42 years.

The game billed as a duel between Meredith and the Aggies' Charley Milstead, the nation's total offense leader, but Milstead went out with an injury midway in the second period after handling the ball only four times with little result. Milstead's replacement, Ed Dudley, gave the Methodists trouble with his rushing and passing but SMU intercepted five Aggie throws in the final period and one almost led to a touchdown. SMU was on the Aggie 3-yard line as the game ended.

Southern Methodist has lost one game out of three and is still barely in the conference race, which is led by Rice and Texas Christian with three victories apiece.

ONE—MAN SHOW

VALSETZ, Ore. (AP)—Valsetz High School defeated Falls City 63-31 Friday with the help of Bob Cliver.

Cliver scored four times on runs of 60, 50, 40 and 2 yards.

He passed for six touchdowns with yardage of 30, 28, 28, 25, 25 and 5.

He passed for an extra point, and caught a pass for another.

Cliver had a hand in 62 of Valsetz' 63 points.

Invest in a "Modern Miracle"
INDUSTRY
The manufacture of concrete products is growing by leaps and bounds as new uses are made of the products and as new methods are devised for its manufacture. Lightweight concrete block construction is universally recognized as "one of the most versatile building materials in the construction world." Now, an old principle of design has added expanded horizons to the industry — and the new product is PRESTRESSED CONCRETE!

GROWTH OF THE PRESTRESSED CONCRETE INDUSTRY CONSTITUTES A "MODERN MIRACLE"

For all practical purposes, the history of concrete prestressing in this country dates from 1950, when the first prestressed structure was completed. Since then the growth of this industry has constituted a "modern miracle". While proven by time, the application of the principle of prestressing is relatively new in the field of concrete construction. (In prestressing, stresses are induced in a structure to eliminate or offset other stresses resulting fom loads to which the structure would be subjected during use.
Today contractors building such diversified structures as bridges, (the Lake Pontchartain Causeway, etc., the longest bridge, is a prestressed structure) clear span roofs for super-markets and warehouses, railway terminals, cantilevered roofs for stadiums and airports, highway overpasses, railway separations and interchanges using prestressed "T" girders to cover great open spans, modern hotels and office buildings, are all making use of this ever expanding, ever growing new method of building.

CENTURY CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC.
THROUGH PURCHASE OF LOCAL PLANT
BRINGS NEW INDUSTRY TO MONROE
The Century Concrete Products, Inc., has acquired the Century Block and Brick Company, Inc. — a thriving, growing industry in Monroe. The corporation will manufacture concrete products such as concrete block, brick, lintels and other concrete building materials, including PRECAST, and PRESTRESSED BEAMS, JOISTS, BRIDGE GIRDERS and OTHER ALLIED PRODUCTS! A plant for the PRESTRESSED MANUFACTURING OPERATION WILL BE CONSTRUCTED.
You can share in the potential growth of this dramatic industry — an industry of interest to all Louisiana!

First Baptist Church Slates Loyalty Meet

Dr. R. O. Cawker, state director of evangelism for the Louisiana Baptist, convention will be principal speaker at 7 p.m. Wednesday at a Loyalty Dinner at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in the Exhibit Buliding.

An attendance of 700 to 800 is anticipated, composed of members of the church and Sunday School for the First Baptist Church of Monroe, Dr. Cawker, former pastor of the Highland Baptist Church of Shreveport, was the main speaker at a similar meeting here last year.

There will be no solicitation of funds. The dinner and Pledge Day November 16 are part of the "Forward" program. This is in connection with the stewardship campaign to raise $153,000 budget for 1959.

The budget was adopted by a unanimous vote last Sunday when the formal vote was called by Dr. James T. Horton, pastor.

LOYALTY DINNER — Some 970 members of the West Monroe First Baptist Church attended the church's loyalty dinner at the Fair Grounds the past week. The dinner was held to promote the church's budget of $324,000, $100,000 of which is for the construction of a new educational and recreational building. Approximately $82,000 will be for world and local missions. Pledge day in the church will be today. Pictured above at the dinner were from left to right Dr. Paul Roberts, speaker, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lake Charles; Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor of West Monroe First Baptist church; Perry Daniels, finance committee chairman of the church, and Fred Bennett, general chairman of the forward program of the church. Religious Upsurge In War Noted

FORT POLK (Special) — "The position of religion in the U. S. army has never been higher than in this present day," declares Chaplain (Major General) Patrick J. Ryan, U. S. army chief of chaplains who retired last week after 30 years service.

"The years have brought gradual changes, but not until World War II were they really effective," he said. "The great war leaders in World War II were men of spiritual integrity. They realized the value of religion to themselves and the soldier."

He recalls that in 1928 the total authorized number of chaplains was 125. Facilities were meager and chapels were scarce. In many places the chapel on Sunday morning had been the "hop" room on Saturday night, and the chaplain and his assistant had to clean it before religious service could be held. The extraneous duties that could be assigned to a chaplain were numerous.

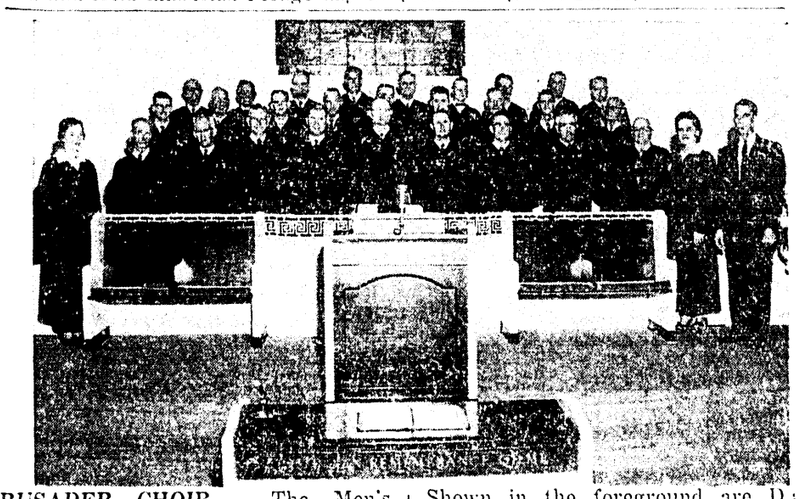
Today there are about 1,100 Army chaplains. "I think that our chaplains, man for man, are doing a better job now than ever before in the history of the chaplaincy," Chaplain Ryan asserted. "Many factors enter into this."

"One, I think, is the training we give at our Chaplain's School. Then, too, the facilities with which we work. These have been made possible by our chapel construction program providing dignified and beautiful places to worship, as well as religious educational facilities.

In the past 5 years nearly $7 million have been spent on these projects."

Commenting on Chaplain Ryan's retirement, Chaplain (Colonel) Robert M. Homiston, fourth U. S. army chaplain, said: "The interest which he has demonstrated and the great influence which he has had in the advancement and growth of the chaplaincy has been most commendable. We who have known him have learned to love him. To know him is to honor him. To sense his inner motivations is to respect him."

Chaplain Ryan will be succeeded by Chaplain (Brigadier General) Frank A. Tobey as U. S. army chief of chaplains.



CRUSADER CHOIR — The Men's Crusader Choir of the Monroe First Baptist Church will be among the featured singers at the State Brotherhood Convention in Shreveport Monday. Shown in the foreground are Dale Martha, interim music director; Mrs. Bob Witt, pianist; and Mrs. B. D. Albritton, organist.

Proceeds From Bazaar Marked For Church Site

The St. Matthews - Good Shepard annual Catholic Bazaar is to be held on Wednesday and Thursday at St. Matthew's gymnasium on Grammont Street. Proceeds will be used toward the purchase of a site for the new Good Shepard Parish.

Turkey dinners will be served both days from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and at night both turkey dinners and gumbo dinners will be served from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Meals to take out will be available.

Homemade cake, pie, and coffee will be available all day as well as hamburgers, hot dogs, and homemade candies. Also there will be seafood gumbo for your deep freeze made by some of Monroe's best cooks.

There will be Christmas decorations to purchase, fancy work of all kinds, stuffed dolls and toys, costume jewelry, and a most exquisite white nylon net cocktail cloth made by Mrs. M. E. Bell.

The queen of St. Matthews-Good Shepard 1958 bazaar is to be crowned at the closing of the bazaar on Thursday night. Be sure to cast your vote for the queen.

Methodist Plan 2 Area Meetings

Two area district conferences will be held by the Methodist Church, one at Ruston Grace Church Monday and the second at the Monroe Southside Church Wednesday.

Ministers and lay delegates from each of the churches in the district will study various aspects of the Methodist program and will make plans for executing the program on district levels. Reports from local churches within the districts will be heard and they will make plans for the rest of the conference year.

Institute on Education To Be Held Here

A Christian Education Institute will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, Wednesday, November 19, for the workers in the Presbyterian church schools in the greater Monroe area. The host pastor is Dr. W. H. McFadden.

This is one of a series of meetings for church school leaders in the state, planned by the Presbyterian Synod of Louisiana, committee of Christian education, with the Rev. Thomas C. Duncan of Shreveport, chairman. The Rev. George H. Ricks of Baton Rouge, is the regional director of Christian education for the Synod.

There will be four discussion groups for workers of children, workers of youth, and workers of adults, and a special section on church school administration for ministers, church school superintendents, and members of local committees of Christian education.

The leaders for the Institute will be Dr. Marshall C. Dendy, of Richmond; Mrs. A. J. McKelway, of Richmond; Dallas H. Smith, of Richmond; and the Rev. George H. Ricks of Baton Rouge.

Other meetings will be held in Hammond, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Lafayette, Lake Charles, Alexandria, and Shreveport.

Jena Methodist Church Opposes Conference Act

JENA (Special) — The official board of the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church last week adopted a resolution opposing action taken at the 1958 annual conference of the Louisiana Methodist Church. The State conference adopted a resolution opposing a means of maintaining segregated schools.

The resolution adopted by the Nolley Church of Jena states emphatically that the board of the local church opposes the resolution (of the board of social and economic relations) as not reflecting the opinion of our church and any statement that such a resolution would apply to the church here is null and void.

A copy of the Nolley resolution was sent to the proper members of the Louisiana State Legislature requesting they use all lawful means to preserve our free, democratic, public educational system on a segregated basis.

Science Not Sufficient, Says Student

BEVERLY FARMS, Mass. (AP) —At age 40, E. Arthur Bonney left his post as a top expert in supersonic aerodynamics to enter a Presbyterian seminary here.

It might seem an immense break in a scientist's way of life, but Bonney doesn't see it that way.

"Science and religion support one another — each insufficient without the other," Bonney says. "It says in Genesis, 'In the beginning God created heaven and earth. . . .' In a way God gave us the best scientific lab you could have. And he gave man the capacity to learn. Science is there to show man there is a personal God who created these wonders. It is there to stimulate man to seek beyond the physical world, to seek God himself."

Bonney did not leave his work at the Johns Hopkins University applied physics laboratory because he found a conflict between his task and the word of God.

Clothing Sought In Church Project

If you have any old clothing that is no longer needed by your family you are asked to donate it to the First Methodist Church sharing project for Thanksgiving.

Members are collecting used clothing to be sent to the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief. The program concludes Nov. 30.

Clothing may be brought to the church or will be collected if you telephone FA 2-9908, FA 2-4459 or FA 3-7479.

First Baptist Church Slates Loyalty Meet

Dr. R. O. Cawker, state director of evangelism for the Louisiana Baptist, convention will be principal speaker at 7 p.m. Wednesday at a Loyalty Dinner at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in the Exhibit Buliding.

An attendance of 700 to 800 is anticipated, composed of members of the church and Sunday School for the First Baptist Church of Monroe. Dr. Cawker, former pastor of the Highland Baptist Church of Shreveport, was the main speaker at a similar meeting here last year.

There will be no solicitation of funds. The dinner and Pledge Day November 16 are part of the "Forward" program. This is in connection with the stewardship campaign to raise $153,000 budget for 1959.

The budget was adopted by a unanimous vote last Sunday when the formal vote was called by Dr. James T. Horton, pastor.

LOYALTY DINNER — Some 970 members of the West Monroe First Baptist Church attended the church's loyalty dinner at the Fair Grounds the past week. The dinner was held to promote the church's budget of $324,000, $100,000 of which is for the construction of a new educational and recreational building. Approximately $82,000 will be for world and local missions. Pledge day in the church will be today. Pictured above at the dinner were from left to right Dr. Paul Roberts, speaker, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lake Charles; Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor of West Monroe First Baptist church; Perry Daniels, finance committee chairman of the church, and Fred Bennett, general chairman of the forward program of the church. Religious Upsurge In War Noted

FORT POLK (Special) — "The position of religion in the U. S. army has never been higher than in this present day," declares Chaplain (Major General) Patrick J. Ryan, U. S. army chief of chaplains who retired last week after 30 years service.

"The years have brought gradual changes, but not until World War II were they really effective," he said. "The great war leaders in World War II were men of spiritual integrity. They realized the value of religion to themselves and the soldier."

He recalls that in 1928 the total authorized number of chaplains was 125. Facilities were meager and chapels were scarce. In many places the chapel on Sunday morning had been the "hop" room on Saturday night, and the chaplain and his assistant had to clean it before religious service could be held. The extraneous duties that could be assigned to a chaplain were numerous.

Today there are about 1,100 Army chaplains. "I think that our chaplains, man for man, are doing a better job now than ever before in the history of the chaplaincy," Chaplain Ryan asserted. "Many factors enter into this."

"One, I think, is the training we give at our Chaplain's School. Then, too, the facilities with which we work. These have been made possible by our chapel construction program providing dignified and beautiful places to worship, as well as religious educational facilities.

In the past 5 years nearly $7 million have been spent on these projects."

Commenting on Chaplain Ryan's retirement, Chaplain (Colonel) Robert M. Homiston, fourth U. S. army chaplain, said: "The interest which he has demonstrated and the great influence which he has had in the advancement and growth of the chaplaincy has been most commendable. We who have known him have learned to love him. To know him is to honor him. To sense his inner motivations is to respect him."

Chaplain Ryan will be succeeded by Chaplain (Brigadier General) Frank A. Tobey as U. S. army chief of chaplains.

CRUSADER CHOIR — The Men's Crusader Choir of the Monroe First Baptist Church will be among the featured singers at the State Brotherhood Convention in Shreveport Monday. Shown in the foreground are Dale Martha, interim music director; Mrs. Bob Witt, pianist; and Mrs. B. D. Albritton, organist.

Institute on Education To Be Held Here

A Christian Education Institute will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, Wednesday, November 19, for the workers in the Presbyterian church schools in the greater Monroe area. The host pastor is Dr. W. H. McFadden.

This is one of a series of meetings for church school leaders in the state, planned by the Presbyterian Synod of Louisiana, committee of Christian education, with the Rev. Thomas C. Duncan of Shreveport, chairman. The Rev. George H. Ricks of Baton Rouge, is the regional director of Christian education for the Synod.

There will be four discussion groups for workers of children, workers of youth, and workers of adults, and a special section on church school administration for ministers, church school superintendents, and members of local committees of Christian education.

The leaders for the Institute will be Dr. Marshall C. Dendy, of Richmond; Mrs. A. J. McKelway, of Richmond; Dallas H. Smith, of Richmond; and the Rev. George H. Ricks of Baton Rouge.

Other meetings will be held in Hammond, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, Lafayette, Lake Charles, Alexandria, and Shreveport.

Jena Methodist Church Opposes Conference Act

JENA (Special) — The official board of the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church last week adopted a resolution opposing action taken at the 1958 annual conference of the Louisiana Methodist Church. The State conference adopted a resolution opposing a means of maintaining segregated schools.

The resolution adopted by the Nolley Church of Jena states emphatically that the board of the local church opposes the resolution (of the board of social and economic relations) as not reflecting the opinion of our church and any statement that such a resolution would apply to the church here is null and void.

A copy of the Nolley resolution was sent to the proper members of the Louisiana State Legislature requesting they use all lawful means to preserve our free, democratic, public educational system on a segregated basis.

Proceeds From Bazaar Marked For Church Site

The St. Matthews - Good Shepard annual Catholic Bazaar is to be held on Wednesday and Thursday at St. Matthew's gymnasium on Grammont Street. Proceeds will be used toward the purchase of a site for the new Good Shepard Parish.

Turkey dinners will be served both days from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and at night both turkey dinners and gumbo dinners will be served from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Meals to take out will be available.

Homemade cake, pie, and coffee will be available all day as well as hamburgers, hot dogs, and homemade candies. Also there will be seafood gumbo for your deep freeze made by some of Monroe's best cooks.

There will be Christmas decorations to purchase, fancy work of all kinds, stuffed dolls and toys, costume jewelry, and a most exquisite white nylon net cocktail cloth made by Mrs. M. E. Bell.

The queen of St. Matthews-Good Shepard 1958 bazaar is to be crowned at the closing of the bazaar on Thursday night. Be sure to cast your vote for the queen.

Methodist Plan 2 Area Meetings

Two area district conferences will be held by the Methodist Church, one at Ruston Grace Church Monday and the second at the Monroe Southside Church Wednesday.

Ministers and lay delegates from each of the churches in the district will study various aspects of the Methodist program and will make plans for executing the program on district levels. Reports from local churches within the districts will be heard and they will make plans for the rest of the conference year.

Science Not Sufficient, Says Student

BEVERLY FARMS, Mass. (AP) —At age 40, E. Arthur Bonney left his post as a top expert in supersonic aerodynamics to enter a Presbyterian seminary here.

It might seem an immense break in a scientist's way of life, but Bonney doesn't see it that way.

"Science and religion support one another — each insufficient without the other," Bonney says. "It says in Genesis, 'In the beginning God created heaven and earth. . . .' In a way God gave us the best scientific lab you could have. And he gave man the capacity to learn. Science is there to show man there is a personal God who created these wonders. It is there to stimulate man to seek beyond the physical world, to seek God himself."

Bonney did not leave his work at the Johns Hopkins University applied physics laboratory because he found a conflict between his task and the word of God.

Clothing Sought In Church Project

If you have any old clothing that is no longer needed by your family you are asked to donate it to the First Methodist Church sharing project for Thanksgiving.

Members are collecting used clothing to be sent to the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief. The program concludes Nov. 30.

Clothing may be brought to the church or will be collected if you telephone FA 2-9908, FA 2-4459 or FA 3-7479.

Montgomery Is Caustic, Hits Allied Top Brass

The Memoirs of Field-Marshal The Viscount Bernard Law Montgomery. World Press. $6.00.

"It looked to me then as if we were going to 'muck it up'. I reckon we did." Montgomery writes of Allied strategy in the fall of 1944.

After a 13-year flood of war books it is pretty difficult to ignite World War II ashes but the Field Marshal has done it. His Memoirs are sure to inflame ulcers of generals and politicians on both sides of the Atlantic.

American generals can take some cold comfort that Montgomery is absolutely impartial in his caustic comments. He lets fly equally at British generals and politicians.

With typical British understatement, Montgomery admits he has a reputation for being "difficult". He heads one of his chapters "I Make Myself a Nuisance in Whitehall. Britain's defense office." But he also makes a strong case for his point on the failures of Allied strategy. First, he speaks with the authority of one of the three top commanders of not only the war but the post-war NATO period. Second, he presents a detailed documentation of orders, letters and talks he had with General Eisenhower, General Omar Bradley, Winston Churchill and a host of lesser war figures.

Montgomery says he and General Eisenhower were "poles apart" on war strategy but expressed warm friendship and appreciation of General Eisenhower's overall leadership during the war and after it. He says he knew of no one else who could have welded the Allied forces together.

Montgomery says if the Allies had thrown all their resources into a single drive to Berlin and the Ruhr, which he advocated, the war would have ended in 1944.

His thesis is that after the Allies broke out of the Normandy bridgehead they had no strategic plan ready for dealing Germany a death blow.

Allied armies "swarmed all over the place without co-ordination," Montgomery maintains.

His wars with the British political bureaucracy as Chief of Staff make interesting reading but are not as significant as his views of defending the West against Soviet attack.

The Montgomery of the NATO years shows a broader concept of strategy and world affairs and a mellowing of attitude in his relation with colleagues. His reputation as a World War II strategist, his skill in reorganizing the British army in post-war years and his many years at NATO make his views on collective defense important.

STALEMATE

Montgomery sees the West and the Soviet Union stalemated in Europe for the next 10 years, with each side having strong enough deterrents to forestall any aggression.

Because of this stalemate, he says the Soviets have turned to Asia and the Middle East, trying to stir nations there against the West either individually or collectively. He urges that the NATO nations view the struggle on a world-wide instead of a European basis and adopt common policies instead of thinking of their own self interests. He is critical of the United Nations as an effective force.

He feels no nation would risk general ballistic warfare without having an adequate defense against ballistic missiles and "today there is no known defense."

The Soviets are never likely to agree to disarmament because it entails inspection and the West has little to hide, but Russia has much, he says.

Once intensely "Army" minded, Montgomery points out any nation which has been confined to land warfare has been defeated.

"Our strategy must be based on confining Russia to land strategy and insuring for ourselves the free use of the sea and air flanks. Any other strategy will be of no avail."

CONTROVERSIAL

Montgomery's Memoirs will stir controversies in Britain, the United States, the United Nations and in countless military men. Historians will pick and brod over it. But readers will find it surprisingly entertaining despite the many texts.

It is a candid and articulate portrayal of a general in the making, his climb to power and the influence he had in the lives of thousands of men under his command. It reveals a highly opinionated man, self-assured, who came up the hard way in a tough school of training. He was as poor as a churchman's son, which he was. He found life at home and in the army full of discipline and unrelenting. At the same time, his writing reveals a tongue - in - cheek sense of humor and a philosophical outlook on life few of his war-time colleagues would have suspected.

The publishers and Montgomery for some reason emphasize that "every word" of the book was written by Montgomery in his own handwriting. No one could doubt it.

Edwardian Era Century Of Wars

THE THREE EDWARDS By Thomas B. Costain. Doubleday. $4.75.

In this 432-page volume, the historian Costain changes hats once more with the novelist Costain and produces as the third in his series on the pageant of England a quick-gaited account of three Plantagenet kings, the Edwards No. 1 to 3.

Theirs was the 100-year era before 1377 -the era of the conquest and subsequent loss of Scotland, of the Hundred Years War, of the establishment of the parliamentary system, and the custom of hanging, drawing and quartering traitors.

The first of these Edwards —like his successors a tall, blonde cavalier — went on crusade as that institution was making its last gasp. He subdued the Scots under the fabulous Wallace, codified English law, and called common men to sit in Parliament. Especially in his early days he showed a kingly regard for his people.

On the other hand his weakling son Edward II showed very little regard for anything but his own pleasures. Clinging to favorites in scandalous fashion, he lost Scotland to Bruce, lost his throne to the queen and her lover, and became a victim of the most gruesome murder in English history.

As soon as the third Edward could shake off his mother's restraining hand and kill her lover, he proved another strong king. Quickly he defeated the Black Douglas and subjugated Scotland once more, and slowly he built up the commerce and resources of England. Then he upended military practice and theory by using bowmen to win the battle of Crecy against tremendous odds. His son the Black Prince did it again at Poictiers.

After that the fortunes of the Plantagenets went on the skids. The Black Death decimated England. The French wars went sour. Scotland rebelled again. Edward lost his queen and in his dotage succumbed to the influence of a scheming hussy. The Black Prince fell victim to long drawn out disease.

But the Plantagenets had provided enough raw material for a hundred historical novelists—such as Costain on occasion.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television has failed to kill radio for no other reason than the combination of sight and sound.

For instance, the effect of a symphony is lost on television because of distracting closeups of orchestra members or other gimmicks that distort the picture as a whole.

A truly talented comedian such as Stan Freberg is more entertaining on radio than television because he does not need to be seen to get across his humor.

Some of the funniest of his satires may be heard on a two-LP set, "The Best of the Stan Freberg Shows" (Capitol WBO-1035.) Freberg gently needles high - pressure advertising western shows, hi-fi, grammarians and double-dome panel discussions among other items.

Hoagy Carmichael is another top performer who doesn't need any help from a picture tube. "Old Buttermilk Sky" (Kapp KL - 1086) presents Hoagy in a relaxing run-through of a dozen of his own compositions, including "Baltimore Oriole" and the album title.

Abbe Lane, unlike Freberg and Carmichael, is more effective on TV than radio because she is a pinup - girl type. She has a good voice and does a nice job on the 12 numbers in her latest LP, "The Lady in Red" (RCA-Victor LPM-1668.)

Julie London, who is just as curvy as Miss Lane and has a more enticing voice, enjoyed such success a few months back with "Julie Is Her Name" that she is doing an encore under the same title packaged as Volume Two (Liberty LRP-3100.)

For Dancers: "Date Nite at Disneyland" (Disneyland WDL-3035) is angled at the teen - age crowd and some grown-ups who can still step a mean Lindy. Elliott Brothers Orchestra is featured with Tony Paris on vocals. "Champagne Dancing Party" (Coral CRL-57226) by Lawrence Welk is good for almost all ages.

Selected singles: "Flamingo L'Armore" by The Gaylords Mercury - 713699), "Somebody Else Took Her Home" by Steve Clayton with Hugo Peretti and Orchestra (Roulette R-4112) and "Jealous Heart" by The Fontane Sisters (Dot-15853.)

Stereoscope: "Great Melodies from the Motion Pictures" by Frank Hunter and His Orchestra (Kapp K-1099-S).

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is a special idea behind a new recording of "Madame Butterfly" which surely is noteworthy — to restore the intentions of the composer, Giacomo Puccini.

It may surprise you that they've been lost, but they have been, according to George R. Marek, who is both a distinguished Puccini biographer and the head man at RCA Victor records.

Marek felt that opera singers had made the opera weightier and weightier and that the character of Cio-Cio-San had become ever heavier. So he needled a bunch of singers and the Met conductor, Erich Leinsdorf, into doing a lot of musical soul-searching before making the record with the Rome Opera orchestra and chorus. After hearing the finished product, you admire Marek's perceptions.

There is sweet sadness to Butterfly here rather than bleak tragedy; the melodies come out as lyrically light, whispy rather than sodden.

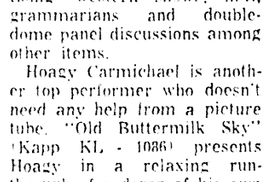
Leinsdorf's conducting is prodigious, achieving a compresion that makes you feel, when the opera ends, that it has hardly begun.

The Butterfly is Anna Moffo, a newcomer to big-time opera: she still is young enough to sing girlishly. Pinkerton, the only other really big part, is sung by Cesare Valletti, who as a lyric tenor has few if any equals (RCA Victor-6135.)

There are no new ideas in a new recording of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," for many decades the world's most popular opera, but it has a veritable overflow of lusty bel canto which fills the head with the sensuous pleasures of shimmering sound.

And it is no wonder because the principal singers are Renata Tebaldi, Mario Del Monaco, and Giulietta Simionata. The conductor is Alberto Erede (London-1304).

The delight of a new recording of "Lucia Di Lammermoor" is in its proof that Roberta Peters, one of the younger stars of the Met, has arrived at a coloratura's first estate. She can do Lucia's high skips and higher trills with the best of the Lucias, past or present. Her supporting singers, Jan Peerce, Philip Maero and Giorgio Tozzi back her up perfectly. Leinsdorf is the conductor of this one, too, and again the tightness and sensitivity of the orchestra contributes enormously (RCA Victor-6055.)



The Shook-Up Generation, by Harrison E. Salisbury (Harper): A documented report on delinquency and violence — of armed savages prowling a jungle whose game trails may as easily be the quiet streets of suburbia as the reeking alleys of a metropolitan slum. The problem is not new. But Salisbury finds it aggravated now by the breakdown of marriage and the family. The author is a veteran foreign correspondent whose reports on Russia won him a Pulitzer prize. Recently he has concentrated on this home-grown menace, reporting first-hand experiences and observations of New York street gangs. This is an informative and disturbing book, lightened only by accounts of progress made in some places toward a solution.

Strike Heaven On The Face, by Charles Calitri (Crown): Here is a novel by a high school teacher who plunges head first into several controversial issues, among them vice in the high schools and the conflict between school administrators and the taxpayers. Calitri's main character is Walter Davis, a teacher who had to decide whether to expose a sex club among the students and jeopardize his job, or keep quiet and play it safe. He decided to fight, and in the process uncovered a moral cesspool that rocked the town to its foundations. How Davis fought the good fight without hurting the kids involved, and eventually united the community behind him makes an interesting, fast-reading story.

The Scarlet Guidon, by Ray Toepfer (Coward - McCann): A novel about B Company, 43rd Alabama Infantry. This is no moonlight-and-magnolia story; rather it's about the poor whites who fought the Civil War without knowing much why. Their company banner was a piece of red silk yanked off a prostitute in Richmond. With this guidon as a rallying standard, the half-dozen main characters fight the war for personal reasons. Most of them pay with their lives. The story reflects some of the feel of the blood, guts and muck of the Civil War.

I Married the Veep, by Jane R. Barkley (Vanguard): A portrait of Alben W. Barkley, vice president under President Truman, as seen through the loving eyes of his widow. An unabashedly romantic account, it begins with the meeting of Jane Hadley, young widow from St. Louis, and the Veep, a gallant widower, on a summer night's cruise down the Potomac. Barkley's courtship was made hectic by public pressures and intrusions, but he found opportunity to send Jane many notes from the Senate while debates were in progress. The book is also a treasure trove of the Veep's famous anecdotes.

Lurid Story, Not A Lurid Treatment

STRIKE HEAVEN ON THE FACE. By Charles Calitri. Crown. $3.95.

An earnest and devoted high school teacher, interested in education, in children and in the community, becomes dean of Barthorne High and steps into that spate of "new sorrows" which day after day, according to "Macbeth," "strike heaven on the face."

The central figure in this novel, Walter Davis, has a two-pronged dilemma to deal with — a sex club organized by a handful of lewd and undisciplined young devils, and the parents and school board members who want to cover up, who think teaching is the Three R's and never should risk a step into the larger areas of living. The action is complicated, naturally enough, too, by the ambitions of teachers for promotion, by their own human frailties, by rivalries, jealousies and bigotry on the broader scene of the town.

This is a lurid story but not a lurid treatment; an honest writer, Calitri does not exploit improperly his spectacular materials. There is a purpose: To justify the faculty members who do more for children than hear their lessons. Calitri writes a sympathetic story of troubled youth and dedicated teachers who try to prepare them for a full life.

A LIVELY TOUCH

Modern History Of The World

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN HISTORY OF THE MODERN WORLD. Edited by Allan Nevins and Howard M. Ehrmann: RUSSIA AND THE SOVIET UNION. By Warren Bartlett Walsh. $10. THE NEAR EAST. By William Yale. $7.50. THE FAR EAST. By Nathaniel Peffer. $7.50. LATIN AMERICA. By James Fred Rippy. $10. Univ. of Michigan Press.

These four volumes, which come boxed under still another title, "The Countries of Decision," have a total of some 2,000 pages and introduce a series of some 15 books. Others now in preparation are about the United States, Britain, France, India, Italy, Canada, Africa, the Iberian penisular and Australia.

The four openers were wisely chosen as the accounts of the particular countries or areas of most pressing concern to us in the last few years. But the whole series, too, is designed to acquaint us specifically, not with abstract history just in general, but useful history, precisely that information about historical matters which we require to lead our lives, if not indeed to save our necks, in our contemporary world. This is scholarly and practical. It comes from the seats of learning but is intended for the marketplace.

Without, I confess, reading every word of the initial publications, I can still report with enthusiasm. They are written in a plain but lively style aimed to interest as well as educate, and they are commendably liberal. Just like journalists, historians come in varying casts of thought, but these four men are alike in letting facts, even unpalatable speak for themselves. They tackle without hesitation the knottiest problems and present fine rounded discussions — was Stalin right in fearing the West was plotting against him and did it make sense, or was it pure villainy, for him to sign the pact with Hitler? How stupid were we in the Aswan Dam affair? What is the validity of the powerful forces in this country that operate against China and in behalf of Chiang Kai-shek?

The different authors—professors at Syracuse, Boston, Columbia and Chicago —faced different problems. There is a good deal of the past in "Latin America," some in "Russia" and only a little in "Far East." But they all come up with one common quality: Day after day they put the morning paper in its proper and essential context.

Montgomery Is Caustic, Hits Allied Top Brass

The Memoirs of Field-Marshal The Viscount Bernard Law Montgomery. World Press. $6.00.

"It looked to me then as if we were going to 'muck it up'. I reckon we did," Montgomery writes of Allied strategy in the fall of 1944.

After a 13-year flood of war books it is pretty difficult to ignite World War II ashes but the Field Marshal has done it. His Memoirs are sure to inflame ulcers of generals and politicians on both sides of the Atlantic.

American generals can take some cold comfort that Montgomery is absolutely impartial in his caustic comments. He lets fly equally at British generals and politicians.

With typical British understatement, Montgomery admits he has a reputation for being "difficult" He heads one of his chapters "I Make Myself a Nuisance in Whitehall (Britain's defense office)." But he also makes a strong case for his point on the failures of Allied strategy. First, he speaks with the authority of one of the three top commanders of not only the war but the post-war NATO period. Second, he presents a detailed documentation of orders, letters and talks he had with General Eisenhower, General Omar Bradley, Winston Churchill and a host of lesser war figures.

Montgomery says he and General Eisenhower were "poles apart" on war strategy but expressed warm friendship and appreciation of General Eisenhower's overall leadership during the war and after it. He says he knew of no one else who could have welded the Allied forces together.

Montgomery says if the Allies had thrown all their resources into a single drive to Berlin and the Ruhr, which he advocated, the war would have ended in 1944.

His thesis is that after the Allies broke out of the Normandy bridgehead they had no strategic plan ready for dealing Germany a death blow.

Allied armies "swarmed all over the place without co-ordination," Montgomery maintains.

His wars with the British political bureaucracy as Chief of Staff make interesting reading but are not as significant as his views of defending the West against Soviet attack.

The Montgomery of the NATO years shows a broader concept of strategy and world affairs and a mellowing of attitude in his relation with colleagues. His reputation as a World War II strategist, his skill in reorganizing the British army in post-war years and his many years at NATO make his views on collective defense important.

STALEMATE

Montgomery sees the West and the Soviet Union stalemated in Europe for the next 10 years, with each side having strong enough deterrents to forestall any aggression.

Because of this stalemate, he says the Soviets have turned to Asia and the Middle East, trying to stir nations there against the West either individually or collectively. He urges that the NATO nations view the struggle on a world-wide instead of a European basis and adopt common policies instead of thinking of their own self interests. He is critical of the United Nations as an effective force.

He feels no nation would risk general ballistic warfare without having an adequate defense against ballistic missiles and "today there is no known defense."

The Soviets are never likely to agree to disarmament because it entails inspection and the West has little to hide, but Russia has much, he says.

Once intensely "Army" minded, Montgomery points out any nation which has been confined to land warfare has been defeated.

"Our strategy must be based on confining Russia to land strategy and insuring for ourselves the free use of the sea and air flanks. Any other strategy will be of no avail."

CONTROVERSIAL

Montgomery's Memoirs will stir controversies in Britain, the United States, the United Nations and in countless military men. Historians will pick and brod over it. But readers will find it surprisingly entertaining despite the many texts.

It is a candid and articulate portrayal of a general in the making, his climb to power and the influence he had in the lives of thousands of men under his command. It reveals a highly opinionated man, self-assured, who came up the hard way in a tough school of training. He was as poor as a churchman's son, which he was. He found life at home and in the army full of discipline and unrelenting. At the same time, his writing reveals a tongue - in - cheek sense of humor and a philosophical outlook on life few of his war-time colleagues would have suspected.

The publishers and Montgomery for some reason emphasize that "every word" of the book was written by Montgomery in his own handwriting. No one could doubt it.

Edwardian Era Century Of Wars

THE THREE EDWARDS
By Thomas B. Costain. Doubleday. $4.75.

In this 432-page volume, the historian Costain changes hats once more with the novelist Costain and produces as the third in his series on the pageant of England a quick-gaited account of three Plantagenet kings, the Edwards No. 1 to 3.

Theirs was the 100-year era before 1377 -the era of the conquest and subsequent loss of Scotland, of the Hundred Years War, of the establishment of the parliamentary system, and the custom of hanging, drawing and quartering traitors.

The first of these Edwards —like his successors a tall, blonde cavalier — went on crusade as that institution was making its last gasp. He subdued the Scots under the fabulous Wallace, codified English law, and called common men to sit in Parliament. Especially in his early days he showed a kingly regard for his people.

On the other hand his weakling son Edward II showed very little regard for anything but his own pleasures. Clinging to favorites in scandalous fashion, he lost Scotland to Bruce, lost his throne to the queen and her lover, and became a victim of the most gruesome murder in English history.

As soon as the third Edward could shake off his mother's restraining hand and kill her lover, he proved another strong king. Quickly he defeated the Black Douglas and subjugated Scotland once more, and slowly he built up the commerce and resources of England. Then he upended military practice and theory by using bowmen to win the battle of Crecy against tremendous odds His son the Black Prince did it again at Poictiers.

After that the fortunes of the Plantagenets went on the skids. The Black Death decimated England. The French wars went sour. Scotland rebelled again. Edward lost his queen and in his dotage succumbed to the influence of a scheming hussy. The Black Prince fell victim to long drawn out disease.

But the Plantagenets had provided enough raw material for a hundred historical novelists—such as Costain on occasion.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television has failed to kill radio for no other reason than the combination of sight and sound.

For instance, the effect of a symphony is lost on television because of distracting closeups of orchestra members or other gimmicks that distort the picture as a whole.

A truly talented comedian such as Stan Freberg is more entertaining on radio than television because he does not need to be seen to get across his humor.

Some of the funniest of his satires may be heard on a two-LP set, "The Best of the Stan Freberg Shows" (Capitol WBO-1035.) Freberg gently needles high - pressure advertising western shows, hi-fi, grammarians and double-dome panel discussions among other items.

Hoagy Carmichael is another top performer who doesn't need any help from a picture tube. "Old Buttermilk Sky" (Kapp KL - 1086) presents Hoagy in a relaxing run-through of a dozen of his own compositions, including "Baltimore Oriole" and the album title.

Abbe Lane, unlike Freberg and Carmichael, is more effective on TV than radio because she is a pinup - girl type. She has a good voice and does a nice job on the 12 numbers in her latest LP, "The Lady in Red" (RCA-Victor LPM-1668.)

Julie London, who is just as curvy as Miss Lane and has a more enticing voice, enjoyed such success a few months back with "Julie Is Her Name" that she is doing an encore under the same title packaged as Volume Two (Liberty LRP-3100.)

For Dancers: "Date Nite at Disneyland" (Disneyland WDL-3035) is angled at the teen - age crowd and some grown-ups who can still step a mean Lindy. Elliott Brothers Orchestra is featured with Tony Paris on vocals. "Champagne Dancing Party" (Coral CRL-57226) by Lawrence Welk is good for almost all ages.

Selected singles:: "Flamingo L'Armore" by The Gaylords Mercury - 713699), "Somebody Else Took Her Home" by Steve Clayton with Hugo Peretti and Orchestra (Roulette R-4112) and "Jealous Heart" by The Fontane Sisters. (Dot-15853.)

Stereoscope: "Great Melodies from the Motion Pictures" by Frank Hunter and His Orchestra (Kapp K-1099-S).

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is a special idea behind a new recording of "Madame Butterfly" which surely is noteworthy — to restore the intentions of the composer, Giacomo Puccini.

It may surprise you that they've been lost, but they have been, according to George R. Marek, who is both a distinguished Puccini biographer and the head man at RCA Victor records.

Marek felt that opera singers had made the opera weightier and weightier and that the character of Cio-Cio-San had become ever heavier. So he needled a bunch of singers and the Met conductor, Erich Leinsdorf, into doing a lot of musical soul-searching before making the record with the Rome Opera orchestra and chorus. After hearing the finished product, you admire Marek's perceptions.

There is sweet sadness to Butterfly here rather than bleak tragedy; the melodies come out as lyrically light, whispy rather than sodden.

Leinsdorf's conducting is prodigious, achieving a compresion that makes you feel, when the opera ends, that it has hardly begun.

The Butterfly is Anna Moffo, a newcomer to big-time opera: she still is young enough to sing girlishly. Pinkerton, the only other really big part, is sung by Cesare Valletti, who as a lyric tenor has few if any equals (RCA Victor-6135.)

There are no new ideas in a new recording of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," for many decades the world's most popular opera, but it has a veritable overflow of lusty bel canto which fills the head with the sensuous pleasures of shimmering sound.

And it is no wonder because the principal singers are Renata Tebaldi, Mario Del Monaco, and Giulietta Simionata. The conductor is Alberto Erede (London-1304).

The delight of a new recording of "Lucia Di Lammermoor" is in its proof that Roberta Peters, one of the younger stars of the Met, has arrived at a coloratura's first estate. She can do Lucia's high skips and higher trills with the best of the Lucias, past or present. Her supporting singers, Jan Peerce, Philip Maero and Giorgio Tozzi back her up perfectly. Leinsdorf is the conductor of this one, too, and again the tightness and sensitivity of the orchestra contributes enormously (RCA Victor-6055.)

BOOKS

The Shook-Up Generation, by Harrison E. Salisbury (Harper): A documented report on delinquency and violence — of armed savages prowling a jungle whose game trails may as easily be the quiet streets of suburbia as the reeking alleys of a metropolitan slum. The problem is not new. But Salisbury finds it aggravated now by the breakdown of marriage and the famiiy. The author is a veteran foreign correspondent whose reports on Russia won him a Pulitzer prize. Recently he has concentrated on this home-grown menace, reporting first-hand experiences and observations of New York street gangs. This is an informative and disturbing book, lightened only by accounts of progress made in some places toward a solution.

Strike Heaven On The Face, by Charles Calitri (Crown): Here is a novel by a high school teacher who plunges head first into several controversial issues, among them vice in the high schools and the conflict between school administrators and the taxpayers. Calitri's main character is Walter Davis, a teacher who had to decide whether to expose a sex club among the students and jeopardize his job, or keep quiet and play it safe. He decided to fight, and in the process uncovered a moral cesspool that rocked the town to its foundations. How Davis fought the good fight without hurting the kids involved, and eventually united the community behind him makes an interesting, fast-reading story.

The Scarlet Guidon, by Ray Toepfer (Coward - McCann): A novel about B Company, 43rd Alabama Infantry. This is no moonlight-and-magnolia story; rather it's about the poor whites who fought the Civil War without knowing much why. Their company banner was a piece of red silk yanked off a prostitute in Richmond. With this guidon as a rallying standard, the half-dozen main characters fight the war for personal reasons. Most of them pay with their lives. The story reflects some of the feel of the blood, guts and muck of the Civil War.

I Married the Veep, by Jane R. Barkley (Vanguard): A portrait of Alben W. Barkley, vice president under President Truman, as seen through the loving eyes of his widow. An unabashedly romantic account, it begins with the meeting of Jane Hadley, young widow from St. Louis, and the Veep, a gallant widower, on a summer night's cruise down the Potomac. Barkley's courtship was made hectic by public pressures and intrusions, but he found opportunity to send Jane many notes from the Senate while debates were in progress. The book is also a treasure trove of the Veep's famous anecdotes.

Lurid Story, Not A Lurid Treatment

STRIKE HEAVEN ON THE FACE. By Charles Calitri. Crown. $3.95.

An earnest and devoted high school teacher, interested in education, in children and in the community, becomes dean of Barthorne High and steps into that spate of "new sorrows" which day after day, according to "Macbeth," "strike heaven on the face."

The central figure in this novel, Walter Davis, has a two-pronged dilemma to deal with — a sex club organized by a handful of lewd and undisciplined young devils, and the parents and school board members who want to cover up, who think teaching is the Three R's and never should risk a step into the larger areas of living. The action is complicated, naturally enough, too, by the ambitions of teachers for promotion, by their own human frailties, by rivalries, jealousies and bigotry on the broader scene of the town.

This is a lurid story but not a lurid treatment; an honest writer, Calitri does not exploit improperly his spectacular materials. There is a purpose: To justify the faculty members who do more for children than hear their lessons. Calitri writes a sympathetic story of troubled youth and dedicated teachers who try to prepare them for a full life.

RELIEVE CONGRESTION

OPELOUSAS (UPI) — The Kiwanis Club's traffic committee said today it will present a series of recommendations for relieving traffic congestion in the downtown area to the City Council Tuesday night.

A LIVELY TOUCH

Modern History Of The World

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN HISTORY OF THE MODERN WORLD. Edited by Allan Nevins and Howard M. Ehrmann: RUSSIA AND THE SOVIET UNION. By Warren Bartlett Walsh. $10. THE NEAR EAST. By William Yale. $7.50. THE FAR EAST. By Nathaniel Peffer. $7.50. LATIN AMERICA. By James Fred Rippy. $10. Univ. of Michigan Press.

These four volumes, which come boxed under still another title, "The Countries of Decision," have a total of some 2,000 pages and introduce a series of some 15 books. Others now in preparation are about the United States, Britain, France, India, Italy, Canada, Africa, the Iberian penisular and Australia.

The four openers were wisely chosen as the accounts of the particular countries or areas of most pressing concern to us in the last few years. But the whole series, too, is designed to acquaint us specifically, not with abstract history just in general, but useful history, precisely that information about historical matters which we require to lead our lives, if not indeed to save our necks, in our contemporary world. This is scholarly and practical. It comes from the seats of learning but is intended for the marketplace.

Without, I confess, reading every word of the initial publications, I can still report with enthusiasm. They are written in a plain but lively style aimed to interest as well as educate, and they are commendably liberal. Just like journalists, historians come in varying casts of thought, but these four men are alike in letting facts, even unpalatable speak for themselves. They tackle without hesitation the knottiest problems and present fine rounded discussions — was Stalin right in fearing the West was plotting against him and did it make sense, or was it pure villainy, for him to sign the pact with Hitler? How stupid were we in the Aswan Dam affair? What is the validity of the powerful forces in this country that operate against China and in behalf of Chiang Kai-shek?

The different authors—professors at Syracuse, Boston, Columbia and Chicago —faced different problems. There is a good deal of the past in "Latin America," some in "Russia" and only a little in "Far East." But they all come up with one common quality: Day after day they put the morning paper in its proper and essential context.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS DOWN

BATON ROUGE (UPI)— Teenage traffic violations have decreased since the formation of the East Baton Rouge Youth Council.

That is the report President Terry Miller gave to new council members recently.

The council is part of the family court. Juvenile defendants are tried and sentence recommended by a jury consisting entirely of teenagers. Every school in the parish is represented on the council.

NEW YORK —(UPI) — "High comedy" is a very special type of entertainment that has always been important in giving the stage its qualitative edge over other media.

The American theater has been rather deficient in this department in recent years, but this season is fortunate to have come up with a prime example in "The Pleasure of His Company" at the Longacre Theater.

The play is the work of Samuel Taylor and actress Cornelia Otis Skinner, who for years has been writing some of the best of our light literature for magazines and who also has a leading role in this comedy.

Before getting into other aspects of the production Frederick Brisson and the Playwrights' Company have assembled, it is necessary to emphasize that this is a good script, lest subsequent superlatives tend to minimize the contribution of the authors.

They have written tightly and brightly, and unless I missed something, they have accomplished the minor miracle of concocting a full-length work that drives straight to its goal with mounting interest without the aid of a subplot. Most unusual.

Now that the authors have been insured against neglect it is possible to mention Cyril Ritchard. He directed and has the leading role.

This Australian - born star is one of the tremendous talents of our time, and the American stage and television have been fortunate that he has devoted himself to them for the past dozen years.

If he isn't acting, he is directing; or he is doing both at the same time, as in this case, and bringing it off superbly, which few persons are equipped to do. He can make wit seem to exist in dialogue that does not possess it, and his command of movement and speech is masterly.

But Ritchard and Miss Skinner are not the only fine acting talents involved in this play. Charlie Ruggles, a really lovable player of comedy, has come back to Broadway after 29 years devoted mostly to the screen to prove he is as skillful as ever, and veteran Walter Abel is a stout pillar in the proceedings.

The young people involved in this tale of a playboy father who returns after 15 years to interfere in his daughter's wedding plans are played superbly by George Peppard as the fiance and Dolores Hart as the daughter. Miss Hart seems like a real find.

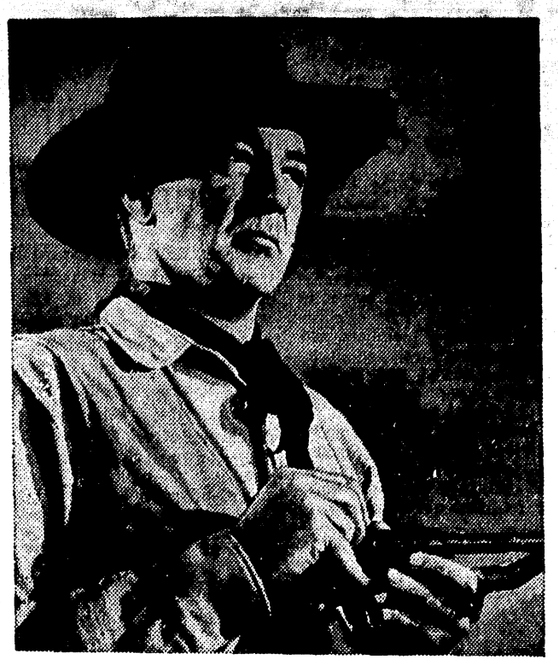
Sam Levene is as popular in another phase of the comedy field as is Ritchard. He has long been the leading specialist in the slam-bang farce that is about as far removed from "high comedy" as you can get.

Levene is on view now in "Make a Million" by Norman Barasch and Carroll Moore at The Playhouse. He is the major asset of this crude, anything-for-a-laugh charade about the troubles of a producer of TV quiz programs. He may overcome the script handicap because it is impossible to sit through any sort of Levene performance and not laugh.

But the veteran Levene admirer can regret that this new play —much more than last season's "Fair Game," in which he also was superb — needs so much from Levene to keep it rolling that there is often an unbecoming strain in his work.

It is to be hoped that the day will soon arrive when some combination of writer and producer will come up with a really fine comedy or farce for Levene; something as good as Ritchard has now in his field.

SAYONARA — Marlon Brando and Miiko Taka, stars of Warner Bros.' filmization of James Michener's best-seller "Sayonara" Technirama, Technicolor presentation which opens today at the Joy Drive In. Also starring in the picture are Red Buttons, Miyoshi Umeki and Ricardo Montalban.



MAN OF THE WEST — Gary Cooper is the personification of the title role of his new film "Man of the West", which opens today at the Paramount Theatre. The motion picture is filmed in Cinemascope and in Color and also stars Julie London and Lee J. Cobb.

Willson Now Writing Book On Musical

NEW YORK —(UPI) — Meredith Willson, who has received all sorts of honors and a lot of money for his Broadway musical hit, "The Music Man," is writing a book about the production. It is called "The Story of 'The Music Man'," and it is no simple affair.

Willson went through seven years of work and many disappointments before getting the show produced.

The composer, incidentally, is no stranger in the book field. He is the author of two humerous autobiographical works.

Japanese Model Gets Movie Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Nobu McCarthy is about as international as you can get without joining the United Nations, and the fact that she prefers a dress to a kimono is typical of this Canadian-born Japanese actress-wife of a former American GI.

"It's very involved, all these countries," she said. "I nearly lost my big chance in movies because of a kimono, too — a kimono that I didn't want to wear."

It happened at Paramount where the actress reported for an interview. Producer-star Jerry Lewis and director Frank Tashlin were looking for someone to play opposite Lewis in "The Geisha Boy."

"The casting office insisted I wear a kimono," Nobu said. "I wanted to report in an American dress — the most attractive one I could find. I'd been a model long enough in Tokyo to know the difference. I don't mean I wanted a sack dress, either. That wouldn't have helped."

So, just as she figured, Lewis and Tashlin turned her down. However, she tried again two weeks later, and Tashlin, impressed by her sincerity, had her put on a man's plain, white shirt.

"He took pictures of me and was delighted with how they came out," she said, "and I got the part — my biggest and best ever. That kimono nearly killed me off, though."

Nobu McCarthy's life might make a movie some day, too. She was born 23 years ago in Ottawa, Canada, the daughter of Masaji and Yuki Atsumi. Her father was then a diplomatic secretary. The family went to Tokyo while she was still a baby.

"My career really began there, where I was raised," she said. "I guess it was when I was all of six years old. I got a job singing on a radio station, but it was brief because of the war. Along with other children I was sent to northern Japan."

She won a movie role contest when she was 16, but her father —who'd urged her to enter the contest in the first place — decided the part was too sexy and yanked her out of the picture. She became a model and soon was Japan's best known mannequin.

"That's when I met David McCarthy," she said. "He was a private in the U. S. Army. Some people were a little startled when we were married and announced that we were going to the United States.

"I was called unpatriotic. I was accused of ruining the Japanese clothing industry. And when I first told my parents I was going to marry David, they were speechless. In fact, the first thing they did was lock me in my room. I guess they thought I would marry a Japanese boy."

Mrs. McCarthy arrived in Los Angeles in 1956 and went to work as a model for a Japanese designer. An agent noticed her and nearly got her the lead in "Sayonara," but her English wasn't good enough yet. She did win three lesser parts and then the one in "The Geisha Boy."

"It's a wonderful role, and I'm very happy about it," she said. "The only thing on which we disagreed was my name. Someone wanted to change it to an all-Japanese name. I disagreed. After all, it's important to be remembered, and it's hard to forget a Japanese girl with a name like McCarthy.

"Besides, it's my name, and I'm proud of it."

BEND OF THE RIVER — James Stewart and Arthur Kennedy are pictured in the roles they play in "Bend of the River" which also stars Rock Hudson and Julie Adams. Universal-International is releasing the picture anew, along with another of its top outdoor adventures, "The World in His Arms," which stars Gregory Peck and Ann Blyth, with Anthony Quinn. The pictures open today at the Jim Theatre.

He shares his loss with your children

This man was a college professor. Unfortunately, his talent to inspire young minds will not be used again.

Why?

An incredibly low salary drove him from the classroom. He was forced to take a job elsewhere to make ends meet.

Alarmingly enough, this sort of thing is happening with increasing frequency. As a nation whose destiny depends on the development of brainpower, how can we afford to let it go on?

Help the college of your choice. Help it plan for a stronger, better paid faculty. The returns will be greater than you think.

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, New York.

He shares his loss with your children

This man was a college professor. Unfortunately, his talent to inspire young minds will not be used again.

Why?

An incredibly low salary drove him from the classroom. He was forced to take a job elsewhere to make ends meet.

Alarmingly enough, this sort of thing is happening with increasing frequency. As a nation whose destiny depends on the development of brainpower, how can we afford to let it go on?

Help the college of your choice. Help it plan for a stronger, better paid faculty. The returns will be greater than you think.

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, New York.

Anniversary Observed By Marine Corps

The Marine Corps League last night held its annual anniversary party at the corps' hut in Bernstein Park. Presiding at festivities was Andy Canal, League commandant.

Some 60 persons were in attendance at the celebration, including members and their guests. Barbecued chicken was served and a huge cake was cut with a saber in a colorful ceremony.

One of the major projects carried out by the league for several years, commandant said, is helping with work for retarded children.

Youths Hurt In Accident Hospitalized

Clinton Wright, 15-year-old Bastrop youth injured in a freak bicycle-car mishap, is in Conway Memorial Hospital with a broken ankle and broken collarbone.

Wright and Eugene Evans, 15, also of Bastrop, were injured when a bicycle they were riding on double was struck by a car on the Collinston Road in Bastrop Friday night.

Gordon Brown, 18, driver of the car, left more than 100 feet of skid marks on the ground when he attempted to avoid the 9:25 p. m. collision.

INVESTIGATED

Bastrop Police who investigated said that it appeared the car and bike were both going east.

Brown, who also resides in Bastrop, came over the top of a hill and sighted the boys, apparently in the middle of the road, police officer Julius Freeman stated.

The impact of the collision threw both youths onto the hood of the car. The bicycle was demolished and $50 damage was done to the auto.

The youths were rushed to the Morehouse General hospital, where Evans is still hospitalized with cuts and bruises.

Evans is the son of Mrs. Red Swenson, Wright's parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Wright, all of Bastrop.

Investigation is still underway, and no charges have been field.

Car Wrecked After Skid On Gravel Rd.

A Monroe lady, photgrapher sadly surveyed the wreckage of her late model car yesterday morning, after she did everything possible to avoid a mishap - but was unsuccessful.

Miss Laverne H. Decelle, 33, of 1801 Filhiol Ave., was driving west on Pine Street at 9 a.m. yesterday, and was just west of North 19 Street when she saw a hump in the road.

A swerage connection had recently been installed, and there was a depression and slight hump in the road.

She told police officers who investigated that she swerved to avoid it.

The car skidded on gravel, went out of control, travelled 500 feet weaving on the gravel.

She was afraid to apply brakes—believed that it would cause the car to overturn, she told authorities.

The vehicle continued on, was not halted by a ditch as she hoped, but caught, turned over once, and stopped, upsidedown.

Monroe police termed the 1957 Ford a total loss.

2 Persons Injured In Accidents Here

A 32-year-old Choudrant housewife and a 19-year-old motorcyclist were injured in two separate wrecks in the Twin Cities yesterday.

Hurt, but not hospitalized, were Mrs. Myrtle S. Huey, 32, of Route 1, Box 142, Choudrant, and David Allen Swann, 19, who gave his address as Det. 3, U.S. Army Garrison, Holloman, New Mexico.

Mrs. Huey suffered a sprained neck, when she was involved in a three-car collision in West Monroe.

Swann collided with a car, was pitched over the hood of the vehicle, landed on his head, but refused medical treatment, according to Monroe police who investigated.

The three-car collision occurred at 11:50 a.m. at the intersection of Cypress and Drew streets in West Monroe.

REPORT

Police who investigated said that Darrell R. Dennis, 20, of 205 Benson St., halted behind a vehicle that was waiting to make a left turn onto Drew.

Mrs. Huey, driving a stationwagon, stopped behind Dennis, and a 1941 Ford truck collied with the back of her vehicle, knocking it into the back of the Dennis car.

Driver of the truck was identified as James E. Thompson, 25, of 1505 S. Fourth St., Monroe. The truck was owned by F. J. Evans 3342 Frederick St., Shreveport.

Thompson was charged with reckless driving and causing a wreck.

Mrs. Huey was treated at St. Francis hospital for the neck injury and released.

At 3 p.m., the motorcycle- car accident took place at the corner of Louisville Avenue and Riverside Drive.

Police stated that Mrs. Etha R. Miller, of 705 Lazarre Ave., West Monroe, was turning from Louisville onto Riverside, when the choke cable on Swann's motorcycle broke and the 'cycle collided with her car.

Swann was thrown from the motorcycle and landed on his head, but refused medical attention.

Witnesses said that he appeared to have been bruised and sctatched in the mishap.

The front of both vehicles were damaged and they were towed away.

No charges were filed.

As the holidays approach members of dance clubs are planning gala occasions. Some of the couples already enjoying the season and dancing are shown on this page.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Hill, members of the Jan Garber Dance Club, are shown practicing the conversation step.

Photographed on the stairs at a local hotel are left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holmes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bagwell and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Wood. They entertained with a party in the Crystal Ballroom last evening. Several hundred friends attended.

Snapped at the Revelers' Ball last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Theo Terzia Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Williams. Decorations on the Frances Roof carried out an Oriental theme.

Bayou DeSiard country club was the scene of a real gala Thursday night when the Jan Garber dance club held its first party. It did our style-conscious heart good to see all the dressed-up guests. This year's materials and colors are all so rich looking that a room full of them is positively luxurious—particularly against the stark black and white of the men's dinner jackets.

And the designs! The tricky draping and the interesting stiffened materials are the marks of this year's evening wear.

Green was a popular color in all shades and materials. LIBBY NEWCOMER's satin was palest ice green . . . SARA M'SHERRY's was a rich kelly green . . . LILY SPARKS wore long white gloves with her floor length green satin . . . Gold lame gloves and shoes were the accent for BERNICE WOOD's harem - skirted green satin . . . KATHERINE JORDAN was also in green — chiffon, draped to one bare shoulder.

JANE SHERROUSE's beige peau de soie featured a bubble skirt, caught up at the hem with flowers of the material . . . In shocking pink satin was CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE . . . JOYCE KELLOGG's beaded silver satin was intricately draped, with a panel falling from her shoulders to her heels . . . BETTY GOYNE was in white chiffon with a sequin bodice . . . DOT AMMAN was a bright spot in orange chiffon . . . Unlined black lace was used for the top back of MARY ANN JOHNSTON's black crepe.

Red shoes accented DOT MASUR's black lace. Dot was full of plans for her trip to New York this week . . . A number of members of the Jan Garber club missed this, the first party, due to being out of town. . . . The MORGAN SIMONTONS were in New Orleans . . . The JAMES MOORES and the NAJ KLAMS were in Chicago.

A number of guests were here from out of town for the dance. Houseguests of the HAROLD WOODS were the DAVID COMMIGES and the JAN GARBERS of Shreveport. . . . With the DICK KELLOGGS were MR. and MRS. WILLIAM JARVIS of Seattle, Washington . . . Also from Seattle, and isn't-it-a-small-world? were the GLEN BACKSHIES, who drove over from Bastrop with the ALLEN BARHAMS . . . Guests of the IVY JORDANS were the SCOTTY M'CORDS of Shreveport. She was wearing red satin, fashioned with a balloon skirt, caught in at the knees with a scalloped band.

SUZANNE KELLOGG's champagne beige organza featured a gold sequin apron effect . . . Also in champagne beige was MARY RUTH TURPIN, in a beautifully draped skirt caught up in a center fold . . . Red velvet was most becoming to JUANITA WILSON . . . MAVIS POWELL was radiant in a cerise chiffon . . . JEAN FAULK wore white, with gold and beaded embroidery edging the scoop neckline . . . KATHERINE BOLES chose a cranberry colored chiffon with full skirt . . . Beige lace was the choice of JOYCE DEAN.

Blue was another very popular shade Thursday night. MIGNON EMERSON wore an electric blue crepe with rhinestone straps and a trumpet skirt . . . Blue brocade with shoes to match was the choice of VICKY HILL . . . ALLYNE PETTY wore ice blue taffeta, draped to a pouf on one side . . . JANE BARHAM's chiffon was deep royal blue . . . JESSIE LEE WOODS was in pale blue, and CELESTE HART in brilliant blue chiffon.

Big topic of conversation at the party were the football week ends. Everyone seemed glad to have the party on a Thursday, leaving Saturday free to follow the team. With LSU holding its high national rating, (RROOOLLL, Tigers!), even greater numbers than usual are making the trip to the game. We got reports on two full busloads that are driving to Jackson for the LSU-Mississippi State game this coming Saturday.

Speaking of travelers, IVY OLIVER and GRAHAM SILVERTON are in Natchez this morning. They were invited to judge the art exhibit which is sponsored annually by the Pilot club in "Choctaw," one of the famous ante-bellum homes of Natchez. The two Monroyans are making their second trip, having previously judged the 1956 exhibit. Graham's mother, MRS. MARY SILVERTON, drove over with them.

The BURCHALL LILES got back Friday, after attending a professional meeting in New Orleans . . . The DICK TROYS have been in Chicago this week . . . The WILLIAM STEEDS have returned from a vacation trip to Florida.

The WAYNE WOODS are in Baton Rouge this week end. They went down for the horse show . . . MRS. VICTOR MARSH is back from a trip to Lawton, Oklahoma. While there she attended a tea given in honor of her daughter, KAY, who is to be married next month.

The JOHNNY E. UNDERWOODS are announcing the birth of a son, JOHNNY BRUCE, on October 28. The grandparents are MRS. C. O. BOYD of West Monroe, and MR. and MRS. J. B. STANCIL of Holly Ridge.

DARIA DUNCKELMAN entertained a group of the junior high set with a wiener roast last Saturday night. The occasion was Daria's thirteenth birthday. Chili dogs, potato chips, apples and cold drinks were served outdoors, while ice cream, cake and mints were on the party table in the dining room. Games and dancing furnished the entertainment for the evening.

On Wednesday DICKIE LEWIS celebrated his seventh birthday with a skating party. Prizes were given to EMILY SEEGERS as the best skater, and CAREY ROBINSON for trying the hardest . . . Favors for each child were sacks of candy, with a blowout, whistle, and pencil. Chocolate milk and doughtnuts were served to about thirty - five little friends.

The Southland's own poet laureate, William Alexander Percy, has written a poem called "In France" which is particularly appropriate for the week of Veteran's Day:

Let not a foreign earth weigh down my head,
Nor mingle with the dust that was my heart!
Lay me among my own when I am dead,
In my own land, eternally a part
Of all I know and love, I could not sleep
With strangers here, and there is aching need
Of sleep after much weariness, and deep
Were mine at home. It is a place, indeed,
For long untroubled sleep. All summer there
The pale somnambulists of heaven pass
Immense and silver through the turquoise air,
Trailing their purple garments on the grass.
Though friendless, childless, homeless I come,
They will know I am theirs; they will make room.

Marriage Vows Said

A recent marriage of interest is that of Miss Nelda Jaquilin Hogg of Orange, Texas to John Thomas Hutson of Dodson. The ceremony was performed in Orange, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hogg of Orange, and the groom the son of the late Mack Hutson and Mrs. Bonnie Parker of Dodson.

The couple are at home in Jonesboro where Mr. Hutson is employed.

BAKING

If a baking recipe has been tested with butter or margarine, and you want to use vegetable shortening instead, remember that you usually need one-half teaspoon of salt for every half-cup of the shortening.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY HARPER PETTY

Polly Frances McDuffie Becomes The Bride Of Harry Harper Petty

At the College Place Baptist Church, Miss Polly Frances McDuffie, daughter of Mrs. G. W. McDuffie, Sr. and the late Mr. McDuffie, became the bride of Harry Harper Petty, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Petty. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Earl Ogg.

Framing the chancel of the Church where the young couple was united in marriage was a beautiful candle tree flanked by two spiral candalabra each entwined with greenery. Two large arrangements of white gladiola and giant white chrysanthemums stood on either side. Enclosing this beautiful picture were more candles placed at an angle to the center. Some 75 candles were lighted by Mr. Jack Hover and Mr. Richard D. Seiler. Mrs. C. L. Dillingham rendered the prenuptial music and the traditional marches. Mr. Max S. Dillingham sang "Because" preceeding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion.

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. F. N. Steele. She entered wearing a floor length gown of Chantilly lace. The boat neckline was embroidered with seed pearls graduating down onto the tight fitting bodice. Her long sleeves ended in a point over her hand. The bouffant skirt was of nylon illusion draped with Chantilly lace and ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was very full and of three tiers falling to the bell of her skirt. It was caught at the top by a headpiece of amulets which fell softly high on her forehead. According to tradition the bride wore something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue and a lucky sixpence in her shoe. The sixpence was lent by Mrs. J. R. Eunson who had used it in her wedding in which the bride had served as a junior bridesmaid. Her bouquet of white bride's roses and stephanotis was entwined with white satin ribbon which fell in a profuse shower from her lace covered Bible.

MATRON-OF-HONOR

Serving her sister as matron-of-honor was Mrs. Joann Jernigan. Miss Brenda Ringo served as bridesmaid and Miss Patricia Jo Jernigan, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. All of the bride's attendants were attired in identical dresses of shadow rose velvet with boat neckline and tight bodice. The bell shaped skirts were waltz length. Their shoes matched their dresses and each wore a coronet of shadow rose velvet in their hair. Mrs. Jernigan and Miss Ringo carried bouquets of orchid Fuji chrysanthemums shaped in a crescent and caught by silver ribbo . Miss Jernigan's basket was of silver trimmed in orchid tulle and white roses. The basket was filled with white rose petals which she dropped as she preceeded the bride down the aisle.

The groom had as his best man his brother, Allan Lee Petty. Frank W. Webb was the groomsman and Jack Hover and Richard D. Seiler were the ushers. The gentlemen wore tuxedos with a white bud in the lapel.

Mrs. McDuffie chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of American Beauty velvet with matching shoes. Her mauve feathered hat provided a pleasant contrast to the deep color of her dress. She wore a white corsage of Glamellias and lilies of the valley. The groom's mother, Mrs. Petty, chose a powder blue silk dress with beaded neckline. Her hat was blue trimmed in satin. She wore a corsage of white Glamellias. Mrs. Parker, grandmother of the groom wore a soft grey dress trimmed with small red roses. She chose black for her accessories and wore a white corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the parlor of the educational building. In the receiving line with the bride and groom were the bride's mother and grandmother, Mrs. F. N. Steele, Mrs. Joann Jernigan, Miss Brenda Ringo and Miss Patricia Jernigan.

Mrs. G. W. McDuffie, Jr. presided at the Bride's Book. Beside the book, white rose buds and a white candle in silver containers provided a nuptial note.

BRIDE'S TABLE

The far wall of the parlor served as a setting for the bride's table flanked by two large containers of white gladiolas. On the table the three tiered white wedding cake was topped by three white bells entwined with lilies of the valley and white tulle. Four small pink roses dotted the bottom tier. The large cut glass punch bowl was filled with a soft pink fruit punch. Centering the table was a beautiful white cupid epergne filled with white roses and pink and white pom pon chrysanthemums. Two tall silver candalabra stood at either side of the arra gement.

Cake was served by Mrs. F. N Steele, Mrs. J. R. Eunson and Mrs. C. K. Crandall alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs. Mable McDuffie, Miss Ella Pearl Sutton, and Mrs. J. D. Hamilton assisted in the courtesies. The tea girls, Miss Carol Anne Petty and Miss Sara Smith served finger sandwiches and nuptial mints to the guests.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left on their honeymoon. Mrs. Petty was attired in a light brown wool suit with dark brown accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses at her shoulder. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Petty will be at home on North Fifth Street, in Monroe.

Saturday Tea Compliments Mrs. E. Heffner

Mrs. E. A. Heffner of Ellsworth, Kansas was the honoree at a lovely tea at the home of Mrs. Cliff Adams on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. A. H. Willett as co-hostess.

Mrs. Heffner is the former Christine Schneidau, daughter of Mrs. Lelia Flemming Schneidau a former resident of Tallulah and member of one of the pioneer families of this section. She was enroute from Miami where she attended the General Conference of the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Adams' home was especially attractive with arrangements of Country Girl chrysantheumus and dahlias. The refreshment table where Mrs. W. E. Regenold presided at the silver coffee service was centered with a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums flanked by silver candelabra holding pink tapers.

Serving tea from a similar service was Mrs. Rufus Yerger.

There was an attendance of approximately twenty-five friends.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Roberts of Dodson announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Bobbie Lea, to Bobby Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Williams of Dry Prong.

The marriage will take place in late December.

Things You Should Know About Furs

1958 will do down in fashion history as the "year of the fur" because everyone who is anyone will wear fur in some manner or form whether it's a full length fur coat, stole, cape, jacket, wrap, walking coat, or a fur trim on a cloth coat or suit and even dresses. Therefore, it is important for the customer to know some significant facts about furs, their origins and wearing qualities.

Here is a rundown of some of the most important furs this season and important facts about each fur.

Foxes — Look for the density of the underwool and a full coverage of guard hair, both the wool and the guard hair to be very silky. When you have these requisites in fox you have a fine quality pelt.

Mink — look for full hair, silkiness, lightness in weight, supple leather. Soft, heavily furred pelts are indicative of a good garment.

Broadtail — is the pelt of the "still born" or prematurely born lamb of the Persian Lamb family. By virtue of this very fact the skins are soft and pliable as well as very light in weight. Its lustre and pattern are the important factors.

Chinchilla — The original habitat of this animal is the upper strata of the Andes in Chile. They have, however, been very successfully bred here in the United States on various Chinchilla ranches. It is a very small animal, the leather of which is very fine and silky and it has a deep blue grey underground with grey topping of guard hair.

Lynx — these skins come mainly from Russia and Canada. Here again the leather should be soft, supple and light, with the same underfur as the fox and should have clarity of color.

Alaska Seal — The Alaska Fur Seal should not be confused with the sea lion which is the seal generally seen in captivity.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Betty LaBorde to Royce Bryan is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas A. LaBorde of Winnsboro. Mr. Bryan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bryan of Fort Necessity. The wedding will be an event of November 22 in the home of the bride's parents, with the Rev. M. J. Martin officiating.

MRS. CHARLES A. TATE

Vows Said By Miss McMullen And C. Tate

Miss Patricia Ann McMullen became the bride of Charles A. Tate, Jr., in a ceremony performed at the First Baptist Church of Maplewood. The Reverend Tad Corbett read the nuptial vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey McMullen and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tate all of Hollywood.

An arch of greenery highlighted with satin ribbons and wedding bells was placed before the altar of the church and flanked by tall baskets of pink and white gladioli and branch candelabra holding tall white tapers. The family pews were marked with satin bows.

Mrs. W. F. Patton, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Olaf Jacobsen, soloist.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chantilily lace and chiffon fashioned with a fitted bodice, Sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves which came to a point over her hands. The floor length bouffant skirt was trimmed with lace inserts. Her tiara of seed pearls held a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bridal bouquet of white chrysanthemums tied with white satin streamers and maline.

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Kay Cooper attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a dress of lavender chiffon fashioned with a ballerina length full skirt and fitted bodice finished with a rounded neckline and short sleeves. The dress was caught at the waist with a cummerbund of dark material which her shoes matched. She wore a small hat of matching material and white short gloves completed the ensemble. Her colonial bouquet was arranged from pink carnations.

Miss Sheri Ruth Hyatt of Lake Charles was flower girl.

Candlelighters were Tim and Tom Harrison.

Ken Cooper of Sulphur served the groom as best man. Ushers were Johnny Todd and Phillip Andrews.

RECEPTION

A reception was held following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a white net cloth over pink and was centered with branch candelabra and the bride's bouquet. Members of the house party, Miss Sally Linder, Miss Betty Jo Potter and Miss Judy Pottorff, wore corsages of bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Pottorff was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a blue wool dress with which she wore a white hat and gloves and an orchid corsage. Her other accessories were of black suede.

The bride is a senior student at Sulphur High School and the groom is a former student of Louisiana Tech in Ruston and now attends McNeese State College.

GUESTS

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. McMullen of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Rider Gore of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lazenby of Port Arthur, and Mrs. B. L. Rhodes of Port Neches, Texas.

MR. AND MRS. F. J. CROWELL

50th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Crowell were honored at a reception recently in their home on their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Floral decorations for the occasion consisted of gold and bronze chrysanthemums carrying out the gold theme. Beautiful arrangements of yellow blossoms were placed at vantage points throughout the reception rooms which were gifts of friends.

Mrs. Crowell was lovely for the occasion in a Dior blue model with a gold necklace and navy accessories. Her corsage was bronze mums tied with gold ribbons, a gift of the Okaloosa Home Demonstration Club, of which she is a charter member and has been an active member for thirty years.

Mr. Crowell is a retired farmer having been one of the prominent planters of the Okaloosa community.

Registering the guests in a beautifully - decorated white and gold embossed book was Mrs. A. P. Burkett, daughter of the honored couple.

TABLE

The table was overlaid with an ivory embroidered linen cloth and centered with a handsome arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums flanked with tall brass candelabra. A cluser of gold bells tied with matching ribbons and net accented each corner of the table. White mints topped with yellow rosebuds were served from gold - footed crystal compotes. Crystal trays held individual cakes each centerd with the number 50.

Presiding at the crystal punch bowl were Mrs. H. S. Snyder and Mrs. Clara Mae Chambliss.

ASSISTING

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Ola Faye Anderson of Ruston, granddaughter, Mrs. Thelma Kennedy and Mrs. Clifford Cartwright of Chatham, nieces of the recipients.

On a small linen covered table was the three tiered confection reflected on a huge round mirror flanked also with tall candelabra and gold tapers. Mrs. Dera Mae Lockett, another niece, served the wedding cake.

Calling between the appointed hours of two and five o'clock were over a hundred guests.

MISS EVELYN VIRGINIA WIGGINS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy H. Wiggins of West Monroe, is engaged to marry William Thomas Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Moore of Start. The Rev. E. E. Taylor will perform the ceremony on November 28, at the Trinity Baptist Church.

SLIMMING

TULSA, Okla. — If you're overweight and have tried 10-day diets, pills and fads without success, psychiatrist has a suggestion:

Get yourself hypnotized!

The advice is aimed at persons whose plumpness stems primarily from inability to control the urge to overeat.

Dr. Erickson did not say that hypnotism will cure all obesity. The brand of hypnotism he talked about is "medical hypnotism" — not stage or purely entertaining hypnotism.

When the hypnotic power of suggestion is used on susceptible overweight persons they will "respond to the command to eat smaller portions."

"They'll do it automatically, after hypnosis, and feel just as full as ever."

STEAM FOODS

You can steam foods two ways: in a heavy pan with a tight-fitting cover with just enough liquid to create steam; or in a perforated vessel over a small amount of boiling water in a covered kettle.

MRS. JOHN T. HEARD, III

Ginger Downey, John T. Heard Repeat Vows

In the Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe, Miss Ginger Faye Downey and Airman First Class John T. Heard, III, were united in marriage before members of the families and a few intimate friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Downey of West Monroe, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Heard, II, of Bastrop, Louisiana.

The Rev. E. E. Taylor performed the single ring ceremony before the chancel decorated with beautiful bronze and yellow chrysanthemums intermingled with greenery.

The bride was beautifully attired in a lovely original suit of beige cashmere wool trimmed in fur around the neckline and elbow length sleeves, with matching hat and accessories. Her bridal bouquet consisted of delicate carnations with white ribbon.

Mrs. Edward Wilson, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, and Miss Jane Rogers served as maid of honor. Serving the groom as best man was Bill Downey, uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Downey chose for her daughter's wedding a navy taffeta frock with white accessories, and Mrs. Heard wore a grey suit with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson on Hinkle Drive in West Monroe. The bride's table was overlaid with a beautiful lace tablecloth with the bridal cake in the center of the table. Mrs. Joe Jacola served the punch and Mrs H. U. Rogers served the cake.

After a short honeymoon, the bride will be at home with her parents and the groom will return to Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Alabama, where he is presently stationed. Mrs. Heard will join her husband within the near future.

A/3 C KAREN SAUCER, USAF, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Saucer 617 Wheelis Street, West Monroe, and S/Sgt. C. R. Noel of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, were married at Chapel at Otis Air Force Base where they are stationed.

MISS HELEN BARBARA CUMMINGS

Miss Cummings, Leland Sims, Jr. Are Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cummings of 32nd Street are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen Barbara Cummings, now of Washington, D. C., to S-Sgt. Leland Victor Sims, Jr., son of Mrs. Velma F. Sims of Monroe.

Miss Cummings graduated from Meridian Senior High School and was a member of the Nu Phi Mu Sorority. She is presently employed by the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C.

S-Sgt. Sims graduated from Neille High School, and attended Georgia Tech after which time he entered military service. He is now stationed at Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C., with the U. S. Marine Drum and Bugle Corps.

The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of November 29, at the Metropolitan Baptist Church in Washington, D. C.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS KNEE BRADLEY

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knee Bradley of Sondheimer was celebrated with Open House at the American Legion Home in Tallulah. All of the couple's eight children with their families including twenty - four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren were present for the event.

For the occasion Mrs. Bradley was attired in a pink lace dinner dress with which she wore an orchid corsage. The daughters had gold pom pon corsages and the daughters-in-law's corsages were yellow pom pons. The granddaughters who served as floating hostesses wore wrist corsages of yellow carnations.

TABLE

The spacious reception hall was decorated with the traditional gold appointments. The refreshment table with its white satin cover was centered with an arrangement of gold carnations and at either end was a giant chrysanthemum to which was attached the number "50" in gold. At one end was the crystal punch service presided over by Mrs. Leo Bradley of Natchez, Miss., and at the opposite end Mrs. Raymond Bradley of Sondheimer served the three tiered wedding cake topped with a cluster of golden bells.

At another table decorated with sprays of ivy and yellow mums the gifts were displayed and at a third table Mrs. Luther Bradley of Orange, Texas had charge of the guest book.

Many friends called throughout the appointed hours to extend felicitations to the honorees and to enjoy a delightful reunion and conversational period of reminiscing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley were married at the home of her parents the M. L. Parkers in Crowville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. Diamond. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley have spent most of their entire married life in Crowville and East Carroll parish. He is a retired farmer.

FAMILY

Members of the family in attendance at the celebration were Mr and Mrs. Milton Barrilleaux and their daughter, Mrs. Ronald LeBlanc and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Myers and children, Jerry, Peggy, Kenneth, David and Dennis all of Port Arthur, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bradley and children, Luther Jr., Charles and Lenora Sue of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Adam Nacol and children, Reggie, Mark, Janet and Lou Ann of Wichita Falls, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bradley and children, Jimmy, Lamar, Milton, L. T. and Patricia of Natchez, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bradley and children, Deborah and Mike of Sondheimer; Miss LaVerne Bradley also of Sondheimer and Mr. and Mrs. Garland Roberson and childreq, Hazel Jean, Diane, Marilyn and Jane of Tallulah. The great - grandchildren are Denise, Paul and Steven LeBlanc and Charlie and Tony Bradley of Natchez.

FILLED YAMS

NEW YORK — Dress up baked yams by stuffing them with rhubarb. To serve 6 persons, bake 6 medium - sized yams in 350-degree oven 1 hour. Remove yams from shells, mash and combine with 1 (1-pound) package frozen rhubarb, drained and thawed, and 3 tablespoons each of brown sugar and melted butter or margarine. Fill yam shells with mixture and bake 15 to 20 minutes.

MRS. DWAIN LOLLEY

Lolley - Joiner Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Joiner Jr., of West Monroe, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Dwain Lolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wells of El Dorado, Arkansas.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. E. Scott in the chapel of the Vantrease Memorial Methodist Church of El Dorado on Saturday, November first, at seven o'clock in the evening.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School. Mr. Lolley is a graduate of El Dorado High School and served four years in the U.S. Navy.

The couple will be at home in El Dorado.

MR. AND MRS. GLYNDON E. HATCHELL are shown following their wedding. Mrs. Hatchell is the former Jane Stocks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stocks of Tallulah. Mr. Hatchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hatchell of Denham Springs.

A new wrinkle for men's slacks —a floating waistband. It's a strip of elastic inserted in the front of the waist seam and attached to the front pleat. The elastic gives a two-inch leeway on the waist measurement, provides room for swinging a golf club in comfort, and gives expansion after a heavy meal.

Most Dressy Separates Good For Holidays

By BETH BLAIR

A small but versatile wardrobe is the goal of most women today and separates that mix and match are a boon for holiday wear. Choose a basic skirt and a variety of blouses or a basic top with a few gay skirts. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair: I have a black velvet blouse with V neckline and three - quarter sleeves. What kind of a skirt would you suggest with it for holiday wear?

You could choose satin, net chiffon, or sheer wool for a skirt to wear with your velvet blouse. Select it in a slim or full silhouette — the latter is seen more often for evening wear this season—and have it match or contract with the top. Black, of course, would give you a very basic pair of separates or you might choose a print satin or gay color such as red, royal or green.

Dear Miss Blair:

I have four Chinchilla skins and would like to make them into a collar. Two have tears near the ends. How would I go about this?

Generally, it is best to have skins handled by a furrier and particularly with anything as precious as Chinchilla. An expert will stretch and sew skins into the shape collar you wish. Check to see how much it would cost — better to pay for this than make a mistake you can't correct or take a chance of ruining the fur.

NUT LOAF

For your church bazaar: bake date-and-nut loaf in small cans (from frozen fruit juices), greasing the insides of the cans well and leaving room for expansion. Wrap loaves, right in their cans, in pretty paper.

MUSTARD

When you are adding dry mustard to a salad dressing, stir it into a tiny bit of water and allow it to stand about 10 minutes to mellow before adding it to the other ingredients.

PLATES

Get in the habit of heating dinner plates on which hot food is to be served and chilling cups in which cold soup is to be offered.

HAM

You can keep a fully-cooked smoked ham for a couple of weeks in the refrigerator.

RICE

If you want enough cooked rice to fill an 8½ or 9 inch ring mold, you'll have to start with 2 cups of raw rice.

A pound of fresh snap beans usually serves four to five persons.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS KNEE BRADLEY

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knee Bradley of Sondheimer was celebrated with Open House at the American Legion Home in Tallulah. All of the couple's eight children with their families including twenty - four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren were present for the event.

For the occasion Mrs. Bradley was attired in a pink lace dinner dress with which she wore an orchid corsage. The daughters had gold pom pon corsages and the daughters-in-law's corsages were yellow pom pons. The granddaughters who served as floating hostesses wore wrist corsages of yellow carnations.

TABLE

The spacious reception hall was decorated with the traditional gold appointments. The refreshment table with its white satin cover was centered with an arrangement of gold carnations and at either end was a giant chrysanthemum to which was attached the number "50" in gold. At one end was the crystal punch service presided over by Mrs. Leo Bradley of Natchez, Miss., and at the opposite end Mrs. Raymond Bradley of Sondheimer served the three tiered wedding cake topped with a cluster of golden bells.

At another table decorated with sprays of ivy and yellow mums the gifts were displayed and at a third table Mrs. Luther Bradley of Orange, Texas had charge of the guest book.

Many friends called throughout the appointed hours to extend felicitations to the honorees and to enjoy a delightful reunion and conversational period of reminiscing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley were married at the home of her parents the M. L. Parkers in Crowville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. Diamond. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley have spent most of their entire married life in Crowville and East Carroll parish. He is a retired farmer.

FAMILY

Members of the family in attendance at the celebration were Mr and Mrs. Milton Barrilleaux and their daughter, Mrs. Ronald LeBlanc and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Myers and children, Jerry, Peggy, Kenneth, David and Dennis all of Port Arthur, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bradley and children, Luther Jr., Charles and Lenora Sue of Orange, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Adam Nacol and children, Reggie, Mark, Janet and Lou Ann of Wichita Falls, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bradley and children, Jimmy, Lamar, Milton, L. T. and Patricia of Natchez, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bradley and children, Deborah and Mike of Sondheimer; Miss LaVerne Bradley also of Sondheimer and Mr. and Mrs. Garland Roberson and children, Hazel Jean, Diane, Marilyn and Jane of Tallulah. The great - grandchildren are Denise, Paul and Steven LeBlanc and Charlie and Tony Bradley of Natchez.

MRS. DWAIN LOLLEY

Lolley - Joiner Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Joiner Jr., of West Monroe, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Dwain Lolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wells of El Dorado, Arkansas.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. E. Scott in the chapel of the Vantrease Memorial Methodist Church of El Dorado on Saturday, November first, at seven o'clock in the evening.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School. Mr. Lolley is a graduate of El Dorado High School and served four years in the U.S. Navy.

The couple will be at home in El Dorado.

MR. AND MRS. GLYNDON E. HATCHELL are shown following their wedding. Mrs. Hatchell is the former Jane Stocks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stocks of Tallulah. Mr. Hatchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hatchell of Denham Springs.

A new wrinkle for men's slacks—a floating waistband. It's a strip of elastic inserted in the front of the waist seam and attached to the front pleat. The elastic gives a two-inch leeway on the waist measurement, provides room for swinging a golf club in comfort, and gives expansion after a heavy meal.

Most Dressy Separates Good For Holidays

By BETH BLAIR

A small but versatile wardrobe is the goal of most women today and separates that mix and match are a boon for holiday wear. Choose a basic skirt and a variety of blouses or a basic top with a few gay skirts. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair: I have a black velvet blouse with V neckline and three - quarter sleeves. What kind of a skirt would you suggest with it for holiday wear?

You could choose satin, net chiffon, or sheer wool for a skirt to wear with your velvet blouse. Select it in a slim or full silhouette — the latter is seen more often for evening wear this season—and have it match or contract with the top. Black, of course, would give you a very basic pair of separates or you might choose a print satin or gay color such as red, royal or green.

Dear Miss Blair:

I have four Chinchilla skins and would like to make them into a collar. Two have tears near the ends. How would I go about this?

Generally, it is best to have skins handled by a furrier and particularly with anything as precious as Chinchilla. An expert will stretch and sew skins into the shape collar you wish. Check to see how much it would cost — better to pay for this than make a mistake you can't correct or take a chance of ruining the fur.

FILLED YAMS

NEW YORK — Dress up baked yams by stuffing them with rhubarb. To serve 6 persons, bake 6 medium - sized yams in 350-degree oven 1 hour. Remove yams from shells, mash and combine with 1 (1-pound) package frozen rhubarb, drained and thawed, and 3 tablespoons each of brown sugar and melted butter or margarine. Fill yam shells with mixture and bake 15 to 20 minutes.

NUT LOAF

For your church bazaar: bake date-and-nut loaf in small cans (from frozen fruit juices), greasing the insides of the cans well and leaving room for expansion. Wrap loaves, right in their cans, in pretty paper.

Wiley Roach was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Sprig and Twig Garden Club, meeting in the home of Mrs. Paul Rosenzweig. Assising Mrs. Rosenzweig as co - hostess, was Mrs. Walter Tomlinson.

Mr. Roach's talk on "Improve Your Garden Landscape with Shrubs" was most interesting and informative.

Mrs. W. A. Harris, vice - president of the club, presided during the short business session, prior to the main speaker of the day.

The hostess decorated the refreshment table with an autumn theme, using a cornucopia overflowing with vegetables at one end of the table and a large pumpkin, filled with iced drinks at the other. Trays of sandwiches and cookies were placed at intervals on the table.

Among the members and guests present were Mrs. W. B. Cone, Mrs. Russel Fleeman, Mrs. S. C. Guenard, Mrs. Jack L. Holt, Mrs. W. A. Harris, Mrs. H. H. Howington, Jr., Mrs. L. L. Kilgore, Jr., Mrs. Kelso McClendon, Mrs. Paul Marcus, Mrs. Hyland Nelson, Mrs. W. B. Ragland Jr., Mrs. Graham Schneider, Mrs. Tom Selvin, Mrs. George Shepherd, Mrs. James Shepherd, Mrs. King Trieschmann, Mrs. Bernard Waxman, Mrs. Sedric Wilson, Mrs. George York, the hostesses and the guest, Mr. Roach.

PRESIDENT OF HONOR SOCIETY

Janet Proctor has been elected president of the Nita Mitchell chapter of the Lake Providence High School honor society, according to L. L. Kilgore, Jr., principal.

Serving with Miss Proctor during the 1958-59 school year will be Alice Kelly, vice - president and Judy Herring, secretary-treasurer. Only senior members are eligible to hold office.

The organization recognized the following honor students for the first six weeks of school in the high school grades:

Helen Beck, Brenda Brown, Carolyn Dacus, Carolyn Fletcher, Evelyn Marak, Judy Herring, Glenda Lewis, Sandra Mohundro, Nelda Nolan, Glenda Odom, Janet Proctor, Shirley Reed, Peggy Sellers, Evelyn Stampley, Sharon Shirey, Gerald Barnet, Jimmy Ray King, Clifton Parker, Douglas Webb, Ginger Cone, Laverne Driver, Frances Nelle Erwin, Margaret Evans, Carol Ann Gates, Billie Hart Herzog, Opal Ann McPherson, Melvin Jean Whatley, Robert Neal, Layne Clark, Joann Edwards, Phylliss Gould, Mary Lou Grossman, Diane Hendrix, Dinah Lewis, Nancy Marcus, Martha Russell, Claudia Terral, Doris Williams, Melvin Brown, John Byerley, Roger Deal, Edwin Pinkston, Connie Herring, Daphne Deal, Charlene Hodgkins, Katherine Neal, Amanda Proctor, Carol Saucier, Nanette Schneider.

Mrs. Richardson Is Hostess To Kilbourne HDC

The Kilbourne H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. Thomas Richardson, with Mrs. H. R. Doss, president, presiding. Mrs. J. D. Bell gave the devotional and Mrs. Willie Scott led in prayer.

Mrs. Thad Finch read the minutes, and the roll was answered by naming the task I like best. The nominating committee gave a report and these officers were elected to serve next year: Mrs. Thomas Richardson, President, Mrs. M. K. Owens Vice-President, Mrs. J. P. Murray, Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Fails, reporter, Council Members, Mrs. H. R. Doss, and Mrs. Fred Boyte.

CREAM

Fold a couple of tablespoons of sweetened cocoa mix and a tablespoon of sugar into a cup of whipped cream. Use as a topping for cake slices or a vanilla or orange chiffon pie.

TOMATOES

Ever stuff tomatoes with chopped ham salad? Good! And so is egg salad used the same way.

NUTMEATS

Ever add nutmeats (walnuts, pecans or almonds) to a salad of chicken, celery and mayonnaise?

Transform last year's dress into this year's fashion with a belt, says Alice Kreisel, of Colony Accessories. Belts must be "very very wide," she emphasized. "A six - inch belt is not a rarity now." For softly - draped belts, use fabrics such as suedes, velvets, and satins. Black still is the top shade, but brown, navy, grey and rainbow colors are suitable. Self-bows, pockets and fringers are used on belts for daytime. For evening, trim belts with rhinestones or jewels, she recommended.

SALADS

Salad fanciers often like to add about a quarter cup of crumbled Roquefort cheese to a cup of French dressing.

Miss Hampton, James J. Crain Exchange Vows

Pfc James Jerrel Crain, son of Mrs. V. Sanders of Fort Carson, Colorado, and Miss Sylvia Johnette Hampton of El Dorado, Ark., were wed in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. William H. Dowell at Mt. Olive Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hampton of El Dorado.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, fern and candles in tiered candelabra. A prayer bench covered with white tulle was used. The pre - nuptial program was rendered by Eddie Jones and Mrs. William Dowell.

On her fathers' arm, who gave her in marriage, the bride was beautiful in a floor length gown of white taffeta, fashioned with an empire waistline and net ruffled skirt. It featured a net and lace jacket with long pointed sleeves fastened with seed pearl buttons. Her finger tip veil of tulle was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a diamond studded cross of gold, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with white carnations.

MATRON OF HONOR

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Hampton wore a ballerina length dress of pink tulle over taffeta. The bodice was finished with small net ruffles. Her bouquet was white carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Atkins and Miss Janie Bettenheim, wore net over taffeta. Miss Atkins wore blue and Miss Bettenheimer wore a melon color. They carried harmonizing blossoms.

Harvey J. Crain was his nephew's best man and Butch Caldwell and Russell Walthall served as ushers.

Candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Miss Gail Russell of El Dorado and Eddie Nash of Longview, Texas.

The brides' mother was gowned in a brown lace over taffeta with beige hat and gloves and her corsage was pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a tailored suit of blue faille with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors. Miss Paulette Atkins presided over the bride's book.

The table was laid with a cutwork and irish linen cloth over satin, centered with white chrysanthemums and candles. The four tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Lelus Nash, aunt of the bride, of Longview, Texas served the cake and Mrs. Felix Harris the punch, assisted by Miss Janis Risher.

Following a trip to Hot Springs, the couple will be at home on Magnolia Highway until Pfc Crain leaves for Ft. Dix, N. J. then to Germany for overseas duty, which will be in early November.

The bride chose as her travel costume a suit of brown and black tweed with a lace trimmed blouse of white and a black velvet pill box hat, black gloves and a corsage from her wedding bouquet.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lelus Nash and Jimmie of Longview, Texas; Mrs. Arthur Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hampton of Magnolia, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nash of Lawson; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ingles and son, Mrs. Jack Crain, all of Winnfield, Dodson and Sikes; Mr. and Mrs. Abner Walsch and sons of Crossett, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Warmock of Camden.

MR. AND MRS. FORD LAND of Lake Providence, announce the marriage of their daughter, Jere, to Harold Lynn Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis Thomas, also of Lake Providence. The marriage was solemnized in the chapel of the First Methodist Church of Lake Charles, Dr. Carl Lueg, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. The bride attended the University of Houston where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi. The bridegroom attended Louisiana State University and is currently enrolled as a junior as McNeese College. The young couple will make their home in Lake Charles.

A new hearing aid incorporates an invisible "magnetic ear" in the front frames of eyeglasses. Four transistor circuitry and sound reproducers are available in either one or both eyeglass temples. Because of the position of the "magnetic ear" the wearer is less distracted by surrounding noises and receives the direct radiation pattern of sound from walls and other surfaces.

A fruit - flavored liquid medication to treat infants' colds has been made available to physicians. The drug, obtainable only on prescription, relieves nasal congestion, fever symptoms, allergic reactions and pain which accompany teething, innoculations and colds. For very young children, the medication may be given with a special dropper.

Pyrex casseroles now do triple duty — for cooking, serving, and freezing food. The casseroles have pouring lips, handles and covers, and nest for stacking. Available in white Dutch butterprint on turquoise and in white gooseberry motif on pink. One bowl in each set of three comes in white opal with the pattern in color.

Lewis Family Holds Annual Reunion

Members of the Lewis family, descendants of a pioneer family of the Frantom Chapel community, Ouachita parish, met at Frantom Chapel Sunday for their first family reunion.

After dinner, the group gathered in the church and went into the election of officers and selection of a date for future gatherings of the relatives. Officers elected were: Davis O. Hesler, president; Eli Spillers, vice - president; Mrs. Davis O. Hesler, secretary. The first Sunday in October of each year was the date selected. Rev. Lewis closed with a prayer.

Household Hints

The best values in eggs this fall are the small sizes. If small eggs are more than 15 cents cheaper than large eggs, they're a better buy. Medium size eggs, 8 cents cheaper than large eggs, also are a bargain.

Three large pears weigh a pound — or enough for three to four servings.

To add spice to pears for dessert, try ginger, cinnamon or cloves.

Frozen vegetables cook in about half the time needed for fresh vegetables because they are partially cooked before freezing. For variety, cook frozen vegetables in the oven.

For a heavy smoke flavor on barbecued meat, add hardwood chips to the fire near the end of the cooking time. The chips should be soaked in water before using.

To ripen tomatoes indoors select mature tomatoes that are full size and ready to turn color. They ripen best at temperatures of 60 to 70 degrees. Put them where they'll get plenty of light but not too much heat.

Before gardening or heavy house cleaning, dig your fingers into a soft cake of soap or good hand cream, suggests Coral Morris, Michigan State University extension specialist in home management. This will protect your nails and make your hands easier to clean when the job is done.

Miss Hampton, James J. Crain Exchange Vows

Pfc James Jerrel Crain, son of Mrs. V. Sanders of Fort Carson, Colorado, and Miss Sylvia Johnette Hampton of El Dorado, Ark., were wed in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. William H. Dowell at Mt. Olive Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hampton of El Dorado.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, fern and candles in tiered candelabra. A prayer bench covered with white tulle was used. The pre - nuptial program was rendered by Eddie Jones and Mrs. William Dowell.

On her fathers' arm, who gave her in marriage, the bride was beautiful in a floor length gown of white taffeta, fashioned with an empire waistline and net ruffled skirt. It featured a net and lace jacket with long pointed sleeves fastened with seed pearl buttons. Her finger tip veil of tulle was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a diamond studded cross of gold, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with white carnations.

MATRON OF HONOR

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Hampton wore a ballerina length dress of pink tulle over taffeta. The bodice was finished with small net ruffles. Her bouquet was white carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Atkins and Miss Janie Bettenheim, wore net over taffeta. Miss Atkins wore blue and Miss Bettenheimer wore a melon color. They carried harmonizing blossoms.

Harvey J. Crain was his nephew's best man and Butch Caldwell and Russell Walthall served as ushers.

Candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Miss Gail Russell of El Dorado and Eddie Nash of Longview, Texas.

The brides' mother was gowned in a brown lace over taffeta with beige hat and gloves and her corsage was pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a tailored suit of blue faille with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors. Miss Paulette Atkins presided over the bride's book.

The table was laid with a cutwork and irish linen cloth over satin, centered with white chrysanthemums and candles. The four tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Lelus Nash, aunt of the bride, of Longview, Texas served the cake and Mrs. Felix Harris the punch, assisted by Miss Janis Risher.

Following a trip to Hot Springs, the couple will be at home on Magnolia Highway until Pfc Crain leaves for Ft. Dix, N. J. then to Germany for overseas duty, which will be in early November.

The bride chose as her travel costume a suit of brown and black tweed with a lace trimmed blouse of white and a black velvet pill box hat, black gloves and a corsage from her wedding bouquet.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lelus Nash and Jimmie of Longview, Texas; Mrs. Arthur Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hampton of Magnolia, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nash of Lawson; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ingles and son, Mrs. Jack Crain, all of Winnfield, Dodson and Sikes; Mr. and Mrs. Abner Walsch and sons of Crossett, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Warmock of Camden.

MR. AND MRS. FORD LAND of Lake Providence, announce the marriage of their daughter, Jere, to Harold Lynn Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis Thomas, also of Lake Providence. The marriage was solemnized in the chapel of the First Methodist Church of Lake Charles. Dr. Carl Lueg, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. The bride attended the University of Houston where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi. The bridegroom attended Louisiana State University and is currently enrolled as a junior as McNeese College. The young couple will make their home in Lake Charles.

A new hearing aid incorporates an invisible "magnetic ear" in the front frames of eyeglasses. Four transistor circuitry and sound reproducers are available in either one or both eyeglass temples. Because of the position of the "magnetic ear" the wearer is less distracted by surrounding noises and receives the direct radiation pattern of sound from walls and other surfaces.

A fruit - flavored liquid medication to treat infants' colds has been made available to physicians. The drug, obtainable only on prescription, relieves nasal congestion, fever symptoms, allergic reactions and pain which accompany teething, innoculations and colds. For very young children, the medication may be given with a special dropper.

Pyrex casseroles now do triple duty — for cooking, serving, and freezing food. The casseroles have pouring lips, handles and covers, and nest for stacking. Available in white Dutch butterprint on turquoise and in white gooseberry motif on pink. One bowl in each set of three comes in white opal with the pattern in color.

Lewis Family Holds Annual Reunion

Members of the Lewis family, descendants of a pioneer family of the Frantom Chapel community, Ouachita parish, met at Frantom Chapel Sunday for their first family reunion.

After dinner, the group gathered in the church and went into the election of officers and selection of a date for future gatherings of the relatives. Officers elected were: Davis O. Saturday Luncheon Ends American Art Week Here

Many Art lovers of Northeast Louisiana gathered yesterday at the Rendezvous for a lovely luncheon. The table held a centerpiece of beautiful autumn hued chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Thurla H. Bordelon, Regional Chairman of the American Artists Professional League, Inc. wore a lovely beige shantung suit with a smart beige felt adorned with a wide band of gold satin. Co-chairman, Mrs. Ted Brode, was attired in a beige two piece wool with mink trim, her accessories were a dust blue.

Mrs. Bordelon introduced the guest speaker, Father Richard Fale of Saint Matthews in Monroe. His inspiring topic being, "The Essence and Mission of Art" he stated, "Man's body gives material expression to his soul, his soul is the form of his body and man himself is a meeting point between the material and the spiritual. For the satisfaction of his needs both physical and spiritual, he rules, controls and transforms material creations thereby imitating his creator in being an artist."

The past week in Monroe proved successful in the celebration of the 28th anniversary of American Art Week. Many exhibitions in the city will remain open this week.

Cultura Book Club Hosted By Mrs. K. Aswell

Mrs. Kenneth Aswell hostessed the regular monthly meeting of the Cultura Book Club in her lovely home Monday night. Mrs. Gene Hardin and Mrs. Billy Nelson shared hosting duties with Mrs. Aswell.

The program was presented by each member of the club in the form of decorative or gift ideas for the holiday season. These ideas and gifts were original and unique and of interest to all present. They consisted of hand made stockings, tree skirts, door decorations, ideas for showing Christmas cards, candles, and many other beautiful items.

BUSINESS

During the business session which followed the program, plans were formulated for contributing Christmas decorations to the Riverside Home for the Aged in December and in visiting and carrying gifts and cheer to other homes in the Monroe area during the remaining months of the club year.

At this time membership in the club was extended to include 30 members instead of the original 25.

Plans for the Christmas party to be held on December 8, were discussed and names were exchanged for gift giving among the members.

MEMBERS

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Aswell, Hardin and Nelson to Mrs. Kenneth Adams, Mrs. Bob Branch, Mrs. E. N. Camp, Jr., Mrs. Henry Camp, Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mrs. Harry Liner, Mrs. Donald Logan, Mrs. Roland Nix, Mrs. Charles Oxford, Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mrs. Wood Sers, Mrs. Bud Shepard, Mrs. W. T. Silmon, Mrs. C. B. Welch, Mrs. Gene Williams, and Mrs. Robroy Young.

The meeting concluded with the reading of the Club Collect.

Lakeshore HDC Holds November Meeting

The Lakeshore Home Demonstration held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Oglesby.

The meeting was opened by vice president, Betty Foster, with the Club Collect and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Roll was called by Mrs. Joyce Egloff. Members welcomed three new members and three visitors.

Mrs. W. A. Albritton gave a demonstration on "House Furnishings"

The meeting was adjourned to be held next month at the home of Mrs. R. Burns.

North Monroe Y - Teens Hold Meeting

The North Monroe Y-Teens held its regular meeting on Tuesday, at the school.

The room was decorated with fall colors, Miss Bess Sharp presented the guest speaker, Mrs. Marie Wamsley, who spoke on "The Proper Care of the Skin and Hair."

Refreshments were served by Jill Magruder and Linda Stephenson to twenty members.

Meeting Held By Bayou Vista Garden Club

The November meeting of the Bayou Vista Garden Club was held at the United Gas Center. Serving as hostesses were Mesdames Evans Larkin, Ben Winegeart, and Harry Addison. Mrs. Camille Wood was guest speaker for the evening. She spoke on the fundamentals of flower arranging and demonstrated making an arrangement. Many lovely arrangements made by Mrs. Wood were placed at vantage points throughout the room.

In the center of the refreshment table was a pretty arrangement made of white chrysanthemums placed in the shell of a pumpkin with ornamental gourds, fruit and berries placed around the pumpkin. Delectable sandwiches, cookies, glazed pecans and other goodies surrounded the arrangement. The following members attended the meeting:

Mesdames: John Farmer, Charles Kitchenham, C. H. McIntosh, C. F. Thomas, Frank Frances, R. W. Gregory, Evans Larkin, Ben Winegeart, J. E. Trippe, Pat Mitchell, C. E. McKenzie, Frank Marchefski, Roy Scalia, Malvin Brantley, Max Waite, Wilfred Smith, V. D. Guess, William Roche, Jack Harrington, J. I. Beeson, William Lynn, Harry Addison.

Two Hostesses To The Ruston Cosmos Club

Mrs. O. O. Goyne and Mrs. L. O. Gahagan were hostesses to the Ruston Cosmos Club at the home of Mrs. Goyne for the October meeting. Lovely flower arrangements were placed at vantage points in the reception rooms.

Mrs. C. E. Barham, president, opened the meeting and conducted the business session. Reports were heard from the various committees.

COMMITTEES

Pilot Club Holds Regular Monthly Program

The Thanksgiving theme predominated in table and room decorations Tuesday evening when the Pilot Club met in Hotel Frances for the monthly program. The speaker's table had an unusual arrangement of fall nuts, pine cones, burrs and leaves made into a swag that ran the length of the table and was flanked by tall orange colored candles, with candles used down the length of the long tables. A vase of orange pyracantha berries was placed on the piano.

Mrs. Zola Smith presided and welcomed the visitors who were Mrs. W. E. Kramer, Mrs. Luther A. Branch, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Charles Pauli, Mrs. Emma Alexander, Miss Edith McKinley of Hollywood, Fla., Miss Frita Flynn of New Orleans. After a brief business session, the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Julia Moore, chairman of publicity committee, who had arranged the program.

PROGRAM

First number was given by Mrs. Poag, a medley of waltzes, which included "Anniversary Waltz, Kiss in the Dark, Fascination, Missouri and Tennessee Waltzes" and many other all-time favorites down through the years. Mrs. Moore then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Emma Alexander, a speech teacher of Monroe, who brought an inspiring message on "Speech Personality." Her humorous reading given to illustrate the different types of speech were highly entertaining and created much merriment among the audience.

Each member was urged to attend the Institute given by Louisiana TB Association on Friday evening at the Virginia Hotel and having Dr. Buechner, of New Orleans, as the main speaker.

Saturday Luncheon Ends American Art Week Here

Many Art lovers of Northeast Louisiana gathered yesterday at the Rendezvous for a lovely luncheon. The table held a centerpiece of beautiful autumn hued chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Thurla H. Bordelon, Regional Chairman of the American Artists Professional League, Inc. wore a lovely beige shantung suit with a smart beige felt adorned with a wide band of gold satin. Co-chairman, Mrs. Ted Brode, was attired in a beige two piece wool with mink trim, her accessories were a dust blue.

Mrs. Bordelon introduced the guest speaker, Father Richard Fale of Saint Matthews in Monroe. His inspiring topic being, "The Essence and Mission of Art" he stated, "Man's body gives material expression to his soul, his soul is the form of his body and man himself is a meeting point between the material and the spiritual. For the satisfaction of his needs both physical and spiritual, he rules, controls and transforms material creations thereby imitating his creator in being an artist."

The past week in Monroe proved successful in the celebration of the 28th anniversary of American Art Week. Many exhibitions in the city will remain open this week.

Cultura Book Club Hosted By Mrs. K. Aswell

Mrs. Kenneth Aswell hostessed the regular monthly meeting of the Cultura Book Club in her lovely home Monday night. Mrs. Gene Hardin and Mrs. Billy Nelson shared hosting duties with Mrs. Aswell.

The program was presented by each member of the club in the form of decorative or gift ideas for the holiday season. These ideas and gifts were original and unique and of interest to all present. They consisted of hand made stockings, tree skirts, door decorations, ideas for showing Christmas cards, candles, and many other beautiful items.

BUSINESS

During the business session which followed the program, plans were formulated for contributing Christmas decorations to the Riverside Home for the Aged in December and in visiting and carrying gifts and cheer to other homes in the Monroe area during the remaining months of the club year.

At this time membership in the club was extended to include 30 members instead of the original 25.

Plans for the Christmas party to be held on December 8, were discussed and names were exchanged for gift giving among the members.

The Foules Home Demonstration club elected officers for the new year at the regular meeting held this week.

Those elected were: Mrs. Nan Good, president; Mrs. Dixie Egloff, vice - president; Mrs. A. H. Garner, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Marguerite Carter, reporter.

Mrs. Wayne Crawford, president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Elsie Trick led the opening prayer and scripture.

The roll call was answered by each member naming her favorite food. An interesting bulletin on nutrition was read by Mrs. Leo Nelson Jr.

Arts Club Tea Is Held On Tech Campus

A beautiful seated tea was given on Friday afternoon by the Arts Club in the new Baptist Student Center on Tech campus.

Members of the Federated Clubs of Ruston were special guests for the occasion. The guests were seated in the chapel for the delightful travel program. Mrs. S. L. Stuckey had made the room attractive with travel aids from her local travel agency.

Mrs. J. L. Dodds sang, "America, The Beautiful" and Miss Billie Lewis was the airline stewardess for the program.

Miss Helen Woodard of Minden gave a preview on modes of travel and accommodations along the way. Mrs. M. E. Woodard of Arcadia gave some highlights on special places of interest, particularly a Japanese home which she enjoyed on her trips.

Mrs. John Thurmon related some interesting experiences of shopping around the world. The program was concluded when Dr. G. Avery Lee talked about economics, politics and religion throughout the world.

The speakers provided interesting displays for the guests to admire during the tea hour.

Club Women Concerned About Driver Licensing

Because each member of her family is exposed daily to possible death or injury in an auto accident, traffic safety is every woman's concern, according to Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, president of the Miro Book Club.

Mrs. Tidwell made this statement while announcing that the Miro Book Club will cooperate fully in the General Federation of Women's Clubs campaign to improve driver performance through better licensing procedures.

The Miro Book Club president said the Federation's program reflects the increasing concern and interest felt by women everywhere in the problem of traffic safety. Mrs. Tidwell said the Federation program calls for all members to familiarize themselves with the driver licensing procedures in the state and support means to improve them.

Mrs. Tidwell said the General Federation of Women's Clubs has more than 4,500 members in Louisiana who are taking part in the Federation's driver licensing campaign. Nationally the club membership is seven million.

The coronation of the queen will highlight Millsaps School Variety Show which is sponsored by Millsaps P.-T. A. to raise funds for this year's school project. Each of the twelve contestants was selected by popular vote to represent her class. Then the entire class works to raise the necessary votes to elect their candidate queen of Millsaps School.

CANDIDATES

The school queen candidates and their escorts who will preside over the variety show include the following: 1st grade: Karen Bates escorted by Butch Hattaway; Trulie Warner escorted by Toby Stewart; 2nd grade: Lynn McClendon escorted by Jody Kelly; Kathy Hataway escorted by David Freeman; 3rd grade: Betty Crain escorted by Bill Lindsey; Diane Nicholson escorted by Rocky Reitzammer; 4th grade: Tommy Sue Pritchett escorted by Robert Smith; Roslyn Golson escorted by Dennis Sconyers; 5th grade: Sherman Ann Biggs, escorted by David Beebe; Vicky MacKay escorted by Dennis Rogers; 6th grade: Jenny Hattaway escorted by Dub Hill; and Ann Heard escorted by Jimmy Aulds.

An outstanding program is planned for the variety show including talent from Millsaps School as well as outstanding features from outside the school.

CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Durward Simpson is general chairman of the variety show this year. Co - chairmen in charge of the queen contest are Mrs. Dock F. Brown and Mrs. Billy Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Pat Cole and Mrs. James Kelly. Mrs. Ross Golson and Mrs. Brent Hulsey are co - chairmen in charge of the talent show.

Millsaps' variety show will be held in West Monroe High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 11.

Pilot Club Holds Regular Monthly Program

The Thanksgiving theme predominated in table and room decorations Tuesday evening when the Pilot Club met in Hotel Frances for the monthly program. The speaker's table had an unusual arrangement of fall nuts, pine cones, burrs and leaves made into a swag that ran the length of the table and was flanked by tall orange colored candles, with candles used down the length of the long tables. A vase of orange pyracantha berries was placed on the piano.

Mrs. Zola Smith presided and welcomed the visitors who were Mrs. W. E. Kramer, Mrs. Luther A. Branch, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Charles Pauli, Mrs. Emma Alexander, Miss Edith McKinley of Hollywood, Fla., Miss Frita Flynn of New Orleans. After a brief business session, the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Julia Moore, chairman of publicity committee, who had arranged the program.

PROGRAM

First number was given by Mrs. Poag, a medley of waltzes, which included "Anniversary Waltz, Kiss in the Dark, Fascination, Missouri and Tennessee Waltzes" and many other all-time favorites down through the years. Mrs. Moore then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Emma Alexander, a speech teacher of Monroe, who brought an inspiring message on "Speech Personality." Her humorous reading given to illustrate the different types of speech were highly entertaining and created much merriment among the audience.

Each member was urged to attend the Institute given by Louisiana TB Association on Friday evening at the Virginia Hotel and having Dr. Buechner, of New Orleans, as the main speaker.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fall Season For Berries

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In the cooler sections of the southern states, late fall and winter comprise a delightful season. As soon as the leaves are down and the last chrysanthemums are gone, the season of berries takes over. Holly berries, nandina berries and many more brighten up their evergreen foliage with all shades of red, orange and yellow.

The open sunshiny days make work out of doors a pleasure. Even the bees will keep right on working if you have an elaeagnus or an osmanthus to lure them with its odor.

Surely no one wants to be without one of these sweet smelling shrubs. They permeate whole yards and gardens for six weeks in the fall with their delightful scent. To get themost out of an elaeagnus, let it go up a tree and spill its odor from thousands of little blossoms out over the wind.

OLIVES

Osmanthuses sometimes refuse to flower until they have attained some age. The common name for these plants is olive. We have tea olive, Fortune's olive and the very small leaved holly olive. This last plant tends to grow upward in its youth without filling out. The upright growths can be shortened back until the body of the plant has filled in.

From now until either the freezes or the birds get them, the many kinds of berries are the feature of our gardens and yards. Ten years from now, everybody will know the names of the fine hollies coming into nurseries these days just as we know the names of camellias and chrysanthemums and roses. Then the south will really come into its own. Everywhere you look, you will see handsome specimens of hollies loaded with berries. Up until a few years ago, few people planted more than a single holly tree. As it becomes easier and easier to get them, however, people will plant holly hedges as they do in England. Visitors to places like Williamsburg, Va., have been inspired by the beautiful hedges of common holly there.

WINTER BERRIES

Some kinds of berries stand up to the cold weather, and some do not. The showy big fruited pyracanthas that ripen so early in the fall are usually gone with the first hard freezes. If you want pyracantha berries all winter, you will have to plant P. yunnanensis. The berries are smaller than the early kinds, but they will stand up to the freezes. Birds do not eat them until very late winter just before robins begin to return to lawns and gardens for the nesting season.

Beat Frost To Plants, Bulbs

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you have not taken up your caladium bulbs, better get busy before old man frost beats you to them. Take them up but don't cut the tops off. Tie them up in bunches and let the tops completely dry then pull tops off and place bulbs in a box — with dry sand or peat moss in bottom. Store in warm dry place. This will insure you of good bulbs to plant next spring.

If you want to save your hibiscus plant — better get them up. Cut them back and place plant in a container with good soil. Store in warm place and plant will be ready to put out next spring. I read the other day that Louisiana could expect a mild winter — if correct, you may cut your hibiscus plants to ground and cover with mulch and you may save them — that is if the predictions of mild winter are correct.

Buy your tulip bulbs now and put in refrigerator. Our latest information is to store them two months. You can plant them as late as December and January.

BUYING CARPET

To obtain utmost satisfaction from carpet and rugs think over carefully your needs in your own home and make a plan that will help you in buying wisely. The following hints should be of help to you in making your plan. The size of room — in small rooms wall to wall carpet in a solid color, simple design, or texture gives a feeling of spaciousness. If you use a rug, the edges should be not more than 8 inches from the wall in a small room — twelve inches in a large room.

A sunny room calls for cool color in carpet such as green or gray. For a north exposure or a dark room, you might select gold or rose.

Since the floor is the largest usable area and the background for all furnishings the carpet may well be the dominant color in the room. Wall, draperies and upholstery may introduce secondary colors to harmonize or contrast pleasingly with the carpet.

CHILD 6 TO 12

We have a new leaflet from our State Office prepared by Florence Abington, Family Life Specialist, on The Child 6 to 12. Mrs. Abington gave some mighty good food for thought for you, Mrs. Homemaker, if you have a child this age.

She said, "Your home is the most powerful influence on your child's life. This puts the responsibility for his development on you, the parent. Children soak up attitudes in the home. The father who makes a deal to get the driveway paved or who prides himself on outsmarting the law is storing up trouble for himself as well as for the child. Attitudes once fixed in children are not easy to remove. Therefore, the most effective teaching you as parents can do is to live by the highest ideals you know." This leaflet has a lot of good information for parents who have children this age. If you would like a copy, call our office FA 3-2251.

Do not leave an aluminum utensil partially immersed in a dishpan. This may darken it.

Do not put aluminum pans in a dishwasher. Some detergents, when combined with local water and heated to a high degree may remove lustre or discolor the utensil.

Do not scrape dried on foods with a knife. Steel wool pads usually remove it quickly. If not, cover with water and boil them, then scrape with wooden spoon or clothes pin after which use steel wool. Gentle use, occasionally, of a steel wool soap pad or a good silver polish, keeps the outsides silver bright.

A THOUGHT — Is a single heart rejoicing over what you did or said?

Education Week Is Coming Into Spotlight Today

"Report Card, USA" is the theme of this year's American Education Week, being observed today through Saturday.

A number of items of educational importance will be emphasized in classrooms this week, including character building, responsible citizenship, curriculum, the teacher, developing talents, and community teamwork.

Juvenile delinquency and what a good school can do to deter it is the subject of a program to be shown over a local television station today. It shows a young boy in relation to the difficulty he is having at home and at school.

International Flower Gift Trade Booms

WASHINGTON (Special) —Bouquets and corsages crossed borders all over the world in record numbers this year as flowers-by-cable deliveries boomed despite world tensions.

According to advance reports from members gathering here for a directors' meeting of Interflora, world-wide florists' organization, more than $2 million dollars worth of floral pieces were transmitted last year.

The United States ran just behind Great Britain in the number of orders sent, but led the field in the value of the gifts, which went to friends and relatives in Europe, Africa, South America and Asia. ....

The unique flowers-by-cable service provides floral gifts in 126 countries throughout the world. More than 22,000 florists co-operate in the program, which insures prompt delivery at birthday and anniversary celebrations as well as get-well wishes or congratulations on blessed events.

Americans who have close ties abroad have been prominent users of the service, say Interflora officials. In addition to many citizens who have recently emigrated and whose relatives still live in their native lands, more than 1,600,000 Americans are currently touring or working abroad. Thousands more in the Army and Navy are serving at overseas stations with their families. Ordering a personalized floral offering from the neighborhood florist for delivery to an address thousands of miles away, is for many people simpler than purchasing, packing, insuring and shipping another type of gift, with possible confusion as to customs regulations and correct postage.

The Interflora leaders from various countries meeting in Washington, D. C. this month (September 7-10) will elect officers and perfect procedures for insuring the accurate filling of orders and safe delivery of flowers in the farthest corners of the world.

The global florists have adopted as their monetary unit the "fleurin," a purely imaginary coin, equal to a Swiss franc or 25 cents in U. S. currency. Eliminating complex exchange rates, this has simplified arrangements and helped to establish prompt and sure delivery.

The florists look forward to their greatest year in the history of their twelve-year old organization. The upcoming fall and winter holiday season will mark the "rush" time for the entire industry as traditional wishes for joy and happiness during Thanksgiving, Yuletide and for the New Year are exchanged across oceans by families who share the spirit of the season with the beauty of flowers.

De Gaulle Is Trying To Win More Influence

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles de Gaulle Friday decided to send author Andre Malraux, his cultural adviser, on a tour of Asian and Middle East countries to bolster French influence in those areas.

Officials said Malraux would leave shortly and spend several weeks touring Iran, India and Japan. Other nations were expected to be included later in the schedule.

Malraux, a minister - delegate in the De Gaulle government, is an old hand in Asia. A one-time Communist who broke with the party years ago, he has written frequently of the Orient.

Sources said Malraux's job would be to rebuild French prestige and influence.

He also was reported planning to seek Iranian, Indian and Japanese support for De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Confusion In Common Names

By MARY M. JARDINE

The common names given to flowers are most fascinating and add to the charm of gardening. However, the names vary in different parts of the country and therein lies a snare for the amateur gardener.

When I first began to garden in this area I saw some flowers in a New Orleans garden, that I liked very much and wanted to have in my own garden. The owner said they were "paint - brushes," and well they might be, for they were red and green with darker spots along the outer edge. When I came home I tried everywhere to buy some. No nursery or catalog seemed to list them. These I finally ran down in Eunice Bagwell's garden and they are called here Calico lilies. The botanical name is alstromeria pulchella and they are in catalogs. Other names for this interesting flower are Peruvian lily and parrott flower.

In New York state and Indiana the lovely hostas, or plantain-lilies are called August lilies and day-lilies. Of course we know the day - lilies as hemerocallis.

Another flower of many names is the physostegia digitalis which blooms in early summer. The large lavender flowers, with deeper spots inside, are set very close, in even rows, forming dense spikes. This is one of our natives that thrives well in the home garden. Other names are the obedient plant, Lion heart, and false dragon - head. The name obedient plant comes from the odd fact that buds and flowers can be turned by hand in any direction and will stay in place.

"Kiss me over the Garden Gate" is a name applied to the tall variety of Spiderwort or tradescantia which makes such a nice companion plant to our day-lilies. The height is about 3 feet and the deep blue flowers are very showy. If cut back they will continue to bloom into the fall. The new rosettes of leaves are tinted with violet and lovely. However, this plant will run rampant and should only be used in large gardens. Al Alleman relates this plant is known in Baton Rouge as "kiss-me-over-the garden gate" Inez Conger, who grew up in Alabama says that the winter jasmine was also called by the same name. And in North Carolina the polygonum is also called by the same "kiss-me" title". This is a large genus belognni to the Buckwheat family. There are several of the perennial shrubs in the Monroe area with red stems, heart shaped leaves and showy spikes of minute red flowers. Again, another name for this plant is "princess feather" which is also applied to the spike form of celosia.

Spider - lily is another name for several flowers. The colorful lycoris radiata, our well known spider lily blooms in September and October. Another "spider - lily" is the hymenocallis liriosme which grows in swampy places throughout western Louisiana These are easily identified by the saucer - shaped membrane that unites the stamens. Just below this are six, narrow, recurved petals. We all take these for granted, but visitors from colder climes refer to them as "exotics". They deserve a place in large gardens.

An English visitor to our garden said, "Oh I see you have some Lords and Ladies." The plant referred to was Arum Maculatum with its attractive mottled leaves in winter. Very similar to Arum Italicum. Also in England this is called Cuckoo - pint.

Another lovely flower that I had a time running down was called by a local gardener "Crown Imperial." Well, the crown imperial is the common name of fritillaria imperialis, which has a terminal cluster of nodding bell shaped flowers in orange and red. The plant I was searching for had purplish blue flowers in a dense head about 10 inches across and on twelve inch stems. Located at last it was Scilla Peruviana. These like a partially shaded location. Mrs. John Filhiol on Columbia Road has a lovely naturalized planting of these which she has had for many years.

All this confusion about common names versus the botanical names started me to digging in my plant dictionaries and horticulture books as well as digging in the good earth. It's fun, why don't you try it too?

THE HOME SHIFT

Wait For Rain To Transplant

By MILDRED SWIFT

Garden club work is really growing in Ouachita Parish. New clubs are being organized every year, because homemakers are realizing that this is one of the best ways to learn gardening.

If you live in the New Natchitoches Sub-division in West Monroe, would you like to organize a club? If you're interested, call Mrs. N. B. Thurmond, FA 3-0174.

PEACEFUL!

Yes, that's the word to describe the Harry Davis patio, 1610 Emerson, Monroe. The owners say they enjoy this lovely secluded spot with its convenient barbecue pit, comfortable lounge chairs and foliage plants.

The patio is kidney shaped. Green colored concrete is the hard surfacing used.

Mrs. Davis says they've passed the do-it-yourself age. The couple planned this outdoor living room but did not do the actual work.

If you're planning to build a patio, go by and see this one in the Davis garden. They're very hospitable people and will be glad to show you around their interesting garden.

TRANSPLANTING

We women are funny creatures. We seem to want to do the pruning when it's not time to prune—the fertilizing when it's not time to fertilize — the transplanting when it's not time to transplant.

I know this is rather a dull time of year. You're finding some time on your hands and you want to get started in the garden.

Now — If you have professional help, you can transplant any time! A ball of earth they take up with each plant and they (the plants) hardly know they've been moved. We just don't transplant that way when our husbands do the work. Or — with the average help. They're not trained.

So — unless you're going to call in professional help, let's wait until we have some rain and frosts. Evergreens need, at all times, to have a large ball of soil taken up with the roots. Even then, it's a good idea to prune, if you do the moving the home way.

Plants that lose their leaves (deciduous) are usually transplanted bare rooted. So — it is essential to wait until the leaves are all gone, until it rains and we have some frosts.

Digging the hole for the plant has been discussed many times in columns on this page.

Call our office FA 3-2251 and ask for a Monthly Garden Calendar. This book has a page for each month of the year. The garden jobs that need to be done that month are listed there. A copy is yours for the asking.

POINSETTIA

That poinsettia you've saved from last year can brighten up the house again this winter, if you'll give it the proper light and dark treatment. This is a plant that develops its bloom when the days are short and the nights long.

To help them bloom, keep the poinsettias in a room which is not used at night, so there will be no lights turned on. Put the plant in the dark at 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon and take it out about 8:00 o'clock each morning. Even a short exposure to night light will interfere with the blooming.

Leaves will drop if the plant roots are congested. This may be a good time to transplant to a larger pot. Leaves will drop when the plant gets too much light, too.

HANGING PICTURES

Do you have trouble deciding where to hang pictures on your walls? If you get confused about it, here are some tips that may help you:

First, determine the areas that need a picture grouping, such as: over a sofa, between windows, over a buffet or chest, in a corner or a stair wall. Then plan the arrangement.

Arrange them first in the same size area on the floor. Juggle them around to get the most attractive arrangement for color, balance and design. Your eye is a good judge.

HEIGHT

Of course the correct hanging height depends on the area, the furniture, the size of the pictures.

Generally eye level is a good height but this is about like saying something is as long as a string.

This eye level height is not always possible over a sofa, a good height is 8 to 10 inches above the sofa back. Over a low chest, hang a large picture low to fit the grouping.

Remember not to hang one picture in a large space all alone, unless it fits the space, proportionately. Use busy pictures to liven up a corner, more simple ones for a busy space.

Balance colors and repeat furniture or rug tones where possible.

Many decorators take a picture, use the colors in that for decorating the room.

Little Theater

Ivan Uttal, our director, is home again, and wishes everyone had gone to Amarillo with him. He says the Southwestern Theatre Conference was a real inspiration and that it was fun to discuss his problems with the other directors and to hear about their problems.

An article in the November "Woman's Day" describes Marguerite Lamkin's successful efforts to southernize the clipped accents of some of the big name actors and actresses for their parts in the Faulkner and Williams plays — maybe she ought to southernize Faulkner and Williams — they know such awful people!

Lou Girard, now playing in "The Time of the Cuckoo" at the Sheridan Square Playhouse, just off Broadway, is Monroe's own Louis Guerriero. This play, which has received excellent comment from the critics, will be followed by "A Clearing in the Woods", and Louis will have a part in that one, too.

Speed Lamkin's play got absolutely rave notices in Wilmington, and played to capacity houses in Boston. We are eagerly awaiting good news from the New York first nighters. Wouldn't it be nice to have Speed's play for our Little Theatre? Here's hoping!

We can't wait for "Bus Stop" to bring us back to earth. I feel still in orbit from "Small Planet". I sat on the front row, and believe me, that cast and the director really deserve great credit for the way they handled the play on our stage. That business with the steps was something to remember! The cast for the second comedy includes eight characters and they are played as follows: Ed Anders plays Carl; our husband and wife team, June and M. D Swayze, play Grace and Virgil, respectively; Charlene Correro, a student from Northeast College, plays Elma; Cherie is played by Bobbie Strickland; Bo, a cowboy, is played b Doug Hendon; William O. Smith plays Doctor Lyman; and Will is played by Roger Reno. "Bus Stop" opens December 5th and we are expecting overflow attendance, so don't wait too long to make your plans.

The Thespian Club of West Monroe High School will have a treat Wednesday the twelfth, when Ivan has promised to talk to them on "Staging a Play."

See you at "Bus Stop," and don't forget to call in if you have news of interest to the rest of us.

Trees Need Snack Before Winter's Nap

Just before going to sleep, trees like a good meal, too. They're unable to raid the icebox, but they'll appreciate being served a-bed.

Fall tree feeding serves a triple purpose. It helps growing roots — trees are active for weeks after leaves fall — and acts as a reserve food supply available to trees next Spring, according to J. J. Slocum, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co. Perhaps equally important, it provides aeration — permitting the passage of needed air to root areas.

In October and November, just as trees are entering their Winter's sleep, is as good a time as any to make the victuals available.

Tree men call the method that permits feeding and aeration "ground perforation." This merely calls for the drilling of holes some 12 to 15 inches deep and about that distance apart over the root area, generally the spread of the branches. The balanced tree food — it should be rich in nitrogen — occupies only a few inches at the bottom of each hole. Holes are then filled with peat moss, shredded manure or some other humus material. This adds immeasurably to the aeration and water absorption capacities of compacted soils.

When feeding, it is important to follow manufacturers' recommendations to the letter. Many root areas are reduced by paved driveways, buildings or walls. Dosage must therefore be reduced to minimize danger of burning ender feeding roots. Trees growing in restricted areas should be fed more often than others.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Confusion In Common Names

By MARY M. JARDINE

The common names given to flowers are most fascinating and add to the charm of gardening. However, the names vary in different parts of the country and therein lies a snare for the amateur gardener.

When I first began to garden in this area I saw some flowers in a New Orleans garden, that I liked very much and wanted to have in my own garden. The owner said they were "paint - brushes," and well they might be, for they were red and green with darker spots along the outer edge. When I came home I tried everywhere to buy some. No nursery or catalog seemed to list them. These I finally ran down in Eunice Bagwell's garden and they are called here Calico lilies. The botanical name is alstromeria pulchella and they are in catalogs. Other names for this interesting flower are Peruvian lily and parrott flower.

In New York state and Indiana the lovely hostas, or plantain-lilies are called August lilies and day-lilies. Of course we know the day - lilies as hemerocallis.

Another flower of many names is the physostegia digitalis which blooms in early summer. The large lavender flowers, with deeper spots inside, are set very close, in even rows, forming dense spikes. This is one of our natives that thrives well in the home garden. Other names are the obedient plant, Lion heart, and false dragon - head. The name obedient plant comes from the odd fact that buds and flowers can be turned by hand in any direction and will stay in place.

"Kiss me over the Garden Gate" is a name applied to the tall variety of Spiderwort or tradescantia which makes such a nice companion plant to our day-lilies. The height is about 3 feet and the deep blue flowers are very showy. If cut back they will continue to bloom into the fall. The new rosettes of leaves are tinted with violet and lovely. However, this plant will run rampant and should only be used in large gardens. Al Alleman relates this plant is known in Baton Rouge as "kiss-me-over-the garden gate" Inez Conger, who grew up in Alabama says that the winter jasmine was also called by the same name. And in North Carolina the polygonum is also called by the same "kiss-me" title". This is a large genus belognni to the Buckwheat family. There are several of the perennial shrubs in the Monroe area with red stems, heart shaped leaves and showy spikes of minute red flowers. Again, another name for this plant is "princess feather" which is also applied to the spike form of celosia.

Spider - lily is another name for several flowers. The colorful lycoris radiata, our well known spider lily blooms in September and October. Another "spider - lily" is the hymenocallis liriosme which grows in swampy places throughout western Louisiana These are easily identified by the saucer - shaped membrane that unites the stamens. Just below this are six, narrow, recurved petals. We all take these for granted, but visitors from colder climes refer to them as "exotics". They deserve a place in large gardens.

An English visitor to our garden said, "Oh I see you have some Lords and Ladies." The plant referred to was Arum Maculatum with its attractive mottled leaves in winter. Very similar to Arum Italicum. Also in England this is called Cuckoo - pint.

Another lovely flower that I had a time running down was called by a local gardener "Crown Imperial." Well, the crown imperial is the common name of fritillaria imperialis, which has a terminal cluster of nodding bell shaped flowers in orange and red. The plant I was searching for had purplish blue flowers in a dense head about 10 inches across and on twelve inch stems. Located at last it was Scilla Peruviana. These like a partially shaded location. Mrs. John Filhiol on Columbia Road has a lovely naturalized planting of these which she has had for many years.

All this confusion about common names versus the botanical names started me to digging in my plant dictionaries and horticulture books as well as digging in the good earth. It's fun, why don't you try it too?

Little Theater

Ivan Uttal, our director, is home again, and wishes everyone had gone to Amarillo with him. He says the Southwestern Theatre Conference was a real inspiration and that it was fun to discuss his problems with the other directors and to hear about their problems.

An article in the November "Woman's Day" describes Marguerite Lamkin's successful efforts to southernize the clipped accents of some of the big name actors and actresses for their parts in the Faulkner and Williams plays — maybe she ought to southernize Faulkner and Williams — they know such awful people!

Lou Girard, now playing in "The Time of the Cuckoo" at the Sheridan Square Playhouse, just off Broadway, is Monroe's own Louis Guerriero. This play, which has received excellent comment from the critics, will be followed by "A Clearing in the Woods", and Louis will have a part in that one, too.

Speed Lamkin's play got absolutely rave notices in Wilmington, and played to capacity houses in Boston. We are eagerly awaiting good news from the New York first nighters. Wouldn't it be nice to have Speed's play for our Little Theatre? Here's hoping!

We can't wait for "Bus Stop" to bring us back to earth. I feel still in orbit from "Small Planet", I sat on the front row, and believe me, that cast and the director really deserve great credit for the way they handled the play on our stage. That business with the steps was something to remember! The cast for the second comedy includes eight characters and they are played as follows: Ed Anders plays Carl; our husband and wife team, June and M. A LATE NOVEMBER WEDDING is planned by Miss Virginia Elizabeth McCloud and D. Grafton Murphey. Miss McCloud is the daughter of Mrs. Faye McCloud and he, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Murphey of West Monroe. The Rev. O. P. Bazer will officiate over the ceremony.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fall Season For Berries

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In the cooler sections of the southern states, late fall and winter comprise a delightful season. As soon as the leaves are down and the last chrysanthemums are gone, the season of berries takes over. Holly berries, nandina berries and many more brighten up their evergreen foliage with all shades of red, orange and yellow.

The open sunshiny days make work out of doors a pleasure. Even the bees will keep right on working if you have an elaeagnus or an osmanthus to lure them with its odor.

Surely no one wants to be without one of these sweet smelling shrubs. They permeate whole yards and gardens for six weeks in the fall with their delightful scent. To get themost out of an elaeagnus, let it go up a tree and spill its odor from thousands of little blossoms out over the wind.

OLIVES

Osmanthuses sometimes refuse to flower until they have attained some age. The common name for these plants is olive. We have tea olive, Fortune's olive and the very small leaved holly olive. This last plant tends to grow upward in its youth without filling out. The upright growths can be shortened back until the body of the plant has filled in.

From now until either the freezes or the birds get them, the many kinds of berries are the feature of our gardens and yards. Ten years from now, everybody will know the names of the fine hollies coming into nurseries these days just as we know the names of camellias and chrysanthemums and roses. Then the south will really come into its own. Everywhere you look, you will see handsome specimens of hollies loaded with berries. Up until a few years ago, few people planted more than a single holly tree. As it becomes easier and easier to get them, however, people will plant holly hedges as they do in England. Visitors to places like Williamsburg, Va., have been inspired by the beautiful hedges of common holly there.

WINTER BERRIES

Some kinds of berries stand up to the cold weather, and some do not. The showy big fruited pyracanthas that ripen so early in the fall are usually gone with the first hard freezes. If you want pyracantha berries all winter, you will have to plant P. yunnanensis. The berries are smaller than the early kinds, but they will stand up to the freezes. Birds do not eat them until very late winter just before robins begin to return to lawns and gardens for the nesting season.

International Flower Gift Trade Booms

WASHINGTON (Special) —Bouquets and corsages crossed borders all over the world in record numbers this year as flowers-by-cable deliveries boomed despite world tensions.

According to advance reports from members gathering here for a directors' meeting of Interflora, world-wide florists' organization, more than $2 million dollars worth of floral pieces were transmitted last year.

The United States ran just behind Great Britain in the number of orders sent, but led the field in the value of the gifts, which went to friends and relatives in Europe, Africa, South America and Asia. ....

The unique flowers-by-cable service provides floral gifts in 126 countries throughout the world. More than 22,000 florists co-operate in the program, which insures prompt delivery at birthday and anniversary celebrations as well as get-well wishes or congratulations on blessed events.

Americans who have close ties abroad have been prominent users of the service, say Interflora officials. In addition to many citizens who have recently emigrated and whose relatives still live in their native lands, more than 1,600,000 Americans are currently touring or working abroad. Thousands more in the Army and Navy are serving at overseas stations with their families. Ordering a personalized floral offering from the neighborhood florist for delivery to an address thousands of miles away, is for many people simpler than purchasing, packing, insuring and shipping another type of gift, with possible confusion as to customs regulations and correct postage.

The Interflora leaders from various countries meeting in Washington, D. C. this month (September 7-10) will elect officers and perfect procedures for insuring the accurate filling of orders and safe delivery of flowers in the farthest corners of the world.

The global florists have adopted as their monetary unit the "fleurin," a purely imaginary coin, equal to a Swiss franc or 25 cents in U. S. currency. Eliminating complex exchange rates, this has simplified arrangements and helped to establish prompt and sure delivery.

The florists look forward to their greatest year in the history of their twelve-year old organization. The upcoming fall and winter holiday season will mark the "rush" time for the entire industry as traditional wishes for joy and happiness during Thanksgiving, Yuletide and for the New Year are exchanged across oceans by families who share the spirit of the season with the beauty of flowers.

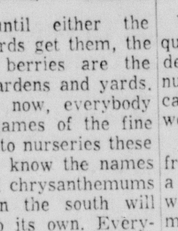
Beat Frost To Plants, Bulbs



By AUDREY DAWSON

If you have not taken up your caladium bulbs, better get busy before old man frost beats you to them. Take them up but don't cut the tops off. Tie them up in bunches and let the tops completely dry then pull tops off and place bulbs in a box — with dry sand or peat moss in bottom. Store in warm dry place. This will insure you of good bulbs to plant next spring.

If you want to save your hibiscus plant — better get them up. Cut them back and place plant in a container with good soil. Store in warm place and plant will be ready to put out next spring. I read the other day that Louisiana could expect a mild winter — if correct, you may cut your hibiscus plants to ground and cover with mulch and you may save them — that is if the predictions of mild winter are correct.

Buy your tulip bulbs now and put in refrigerator. Our latest information is to store them two months. You can plant them as late as December and January.

BUYING CARPET

To obtain utmost satisfaction from carpet and rugs think over carefully your needs in your own home and make a plan that will help you in buying wisely. The following hints should be of help to you in making your plan. The size of room — in small rooms wall to wall carpet in a solid color, simple design, or texture gives a feeling of spaciousness. If you use a rug, the edges should be not more than 8 inches from the wall in a small room — twelve inches in a large room.

A sunny room calls for cool color in carpet such as green or gray. For a north exposure or a dark room, you might select gold or rose.

Since the floor is the largest usable area and the background for all furnishings the carpet may well be the dominant color in the room. Wall, draperies and upholstery may introduce secondary colors to harmonize or contrast pleasingly with the carpet.

CHILD 6 TO 12

We have a new leaflet from our State Office prepared by Florence Abington, Family Life Specialist, on The Child 6 to 12. Mrs. Abington gave some mighty good food for thought for you, Mrs. Homemaker, if you have a child this age.

She said, "Your home is the most powerful influence on your child's life. This puts the responsibility for his development on you, the parent. Children soak up attitudes in the home. The father who makes a deal to get the driveway paved or who prides himself on outsmarting the law is storing up trouble for himself as well as for the child. Attitudes once fixed in children are not easy to remove. Therefore, the most effective teaching you as parents can do is to live by the highest ideals you know." This leaflet has a lot of good information for parents who have children this age. If you would like a copy, call our office FA 3-2251.

Do not leave an aluminum utensil partially immersed in a dishpan. This may darken it.

Do not put aluminum pans in a dishwasher. Some detergents, when combined with local water and heated to a high degree may remove lustre or discolor the utensil.

Do not scrape dried on foods with a knife. Steel wool pads usually remove it quickly. If not, cover with water and boil them, then scrape with wooden spoon or clothes pin after which use steel wool. Gentle use, occasionally, of a steel wool soap pad or a good silver polish, keeps the outsides silver bright.

Education Week Is Coming Into Spotlight Today

A number of items of educational importance will be emphasized in classrooms this week, including character building, responsible citizenship, curriculum, the teacher, developing talents, and community teamwork.

Juvenile delinquency and what a good school can do to deter it is the subject of a program to be shown over a local television station today. It shows a young boy in relation to the difficulty he is having at home and at school.

De Gaulle Is Trying To Win More Influence

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles de Gaulle Friday decided to send author Andre Malraux, his cultural adviser, on a tour of Asian and Middle East countries to bolster French influence in those areas.

Officials said Malraux would leave shortly and spend several weeks touring Iran, India and Japan. Other nations were expected to be included later in the schedule.

Malraux, a minister - delegate in the De Gaulle government, is an old hand in Asia. A one-time Communist who broke with the party years ago, he has written frequently of the Orient.

Sources said Malraux's job would be to rebuild French prestige and influence.

He also was reported planning to seek Iranian, Indian and Japanese support for De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

THE HOME SHIFT

Wait For Rain To Transplant

By MILDRED SWIFT

Garden club work is really growing in Ouachita Parish. New clubs are being organized every year, because homemakers are realizing that this is one of the best ways to learn gardening.

If you live in the New Natchitoches Sub-division in West Monroe, would you like to organize a club? If you're interested, call Mrs. N. B. Thurmond, FA 3-0174.

PEACEFUL!

Yes, that's the word to describe the Harry Davis patio, 1610 Emerson, Monroe. The owners say they enjoy this lovely secluded spot with its convenient barbecue pit, comfortable lounge chairs and foliage plants.

The patio is kidney shaped. Green colored concrete is the hard surfacing used.

Mrs. Davis says they've passed the do-it-yourself age. The couple planned this outdoor living room but did not do the actual work.

If you're planning to build a patio, go by and see this one in the Davis garden. They're very hospitable people and will be glad to show you around their interesting garden.

TRANSPLANTING

We women are funny creatures. We seem to want to do the pruning when it's not time to prune—the fertilizing when it's not time to fertilize — the transplanting when it's not time to transplant.

I know this is rather a dull time of year. You're finding some time on your hands and you want to get started in the garden.

Now — If you have professional help, you can transplant any time! A ball of earth they take up with each plant and they (the plants) hardly know they've been moved. We just don't transplant that way when our husbands do the work. Or — with the average help. They're not trained.

So — unless you're going to call in professional help, let's wait until we have some rain and frosts. Evergreens need, at all times, to have a large ball of soil taken up with the roots. Even then, it's a good idea to prune, if you do the moving the home way.

Plants that lose their leaves (deciduous) are usually transplanted bare rooted. So — it is essential to wait until the leaves are all gone, until it rains and we have some frosts.

Digging the hole for the plant has been discussed many times in columns on this page.

Call our office FA 3-2251 and ask for a Monthly Garden Calendar. This book has a page for each month of the year. The garden jobs that need to be done that month are listed there. A copy is yours for the asking.

POINSETTIA

That poinsettia you've saved from last year can brighten up the house again this winter, if you'll give it the proper light and dark treatment. This is a plant that develops its bloom when the days are short and the nights long.

To help them bloom, keep the poinsettias in a room which is not used at night, so there will be no lights turned on. Put the plant in the dark at 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon and take it out about 8:00 o'clock each morning. Even a short exposure to night light will interfere with the blooming.

Leaves will drop if the plant roots are congested. This may be a good time to transplant to a larger pot. Leaves will drop when the plant gets too much light, too.

HANGING PICTURES

Do you have trouble deciding where to hang pictures on your walls? If you get confused about it, here are some tips that may help you:

First, determine the areas that need a picture grouping, such as: over a sofa, between windows, over a buffet or chest, in a corner or a stair wall. Then plan the arrangement.

Arrange them first in the same size area on the floor. Juggle them around to get the most attractive arrangement for color, balance and design. Your eye is a good judge.

HEIGHT

Of course the correct hanging height depends on the area, the furniture, the size of the pictures.

Generally eye level is a good height but this is about like saying something is as long as a string.

This eye level height is not always possible over a sofa, a good height is 8 to 10 inches above the sofa back. Over a low chest, hang a large picture low to fit the grouping.

Remember not to hang one picture in a large space all alone, unless it fits the space, proportionately. Use busy pictures to liven up a corner, more simple ones for a busy space.

Balance colors and repeat furniture or rug tones where possible.

Many decorators take a picture, use the colors in that for decorating the room.

TABLE DECORATION WITH INDIVIDUALITY has as its starting point a ready-made electric candle and holder, finished in pink and white and dusted with gold glitters. To give it the personal touch, lighting experts placed a string of pink tree lights in the holder (lining it first with asbestos), covered the lights with angel hair and, as an accent note, arranged gold beads on top of the angel hair. The flame-shaped bulb in the candle is pink.

Girl Scout News

Interest in Girl Scouting is growing right along with the growth of the Lakeshore part of town. Two new troops have recently registered after several weeks of parents' meetings and training on the part of the leaders.

Troop 81, under the leadership of Mrs. Clint Hanna, Mrs. T. C. Howard, and Mrs. Robert H. Himes, is made up of enthusiastic third grade Brownies. Serving on the troop committee are Mrs. Jack Scott, Mrs. Milton Blue, and Mrs. James Edward Streeter, and the following girls have been invested: Rebecca Avery, Lorrie Blue, Janice Gates, Anne Elizabeth Hanna, Pamela Kay Hibbard, Sheryl Lynn Hopkins, Lynn Howard, Deanna LaValle, Donna Gail Morris, Peggy Ann Ray, Cheryl Streeter, and Candy Tripp. Barbara Himes, Penny Breard and Jean Scott were Brownies in other troops last year.

Wearing shiny new Brownie pins and trying earnestly to live up to their Promise are the girls of Troop 45, Mrs. O. D. Provance and Mrs. V. A. Stokes, leaders. Mrs. J. E. Trichel, Mrs. Jack Weaver, Mrs. Lee W. Fiser, Mrs. C. L. Egloff, and Mrs. J. B. Jones serve on the troop committee and the following girls are registered for their first year of Scouting: Freda Anders, Sandy Carlton, Gwen Egloff, Martha Fiser, Beverly Gregory, Candy Jones, Brenda Moore, Susan Nance, Anne O'Neal, Wanda Provance, Kathy Roberson, Pamela Stokes, Mona Stroud, Mary Trichel, and Mary Weaver.

Assistant leader with Mrs. W. A. Roche of Intermediate Troop 53 is Mrs. E. C. Cowger. Another member has been added to the troop committee — Mrs. Richard Herlong. New girls who have come into the troop are: Yvonne Accord, transferred from Troop 8, Kaye Alverson, Fran Carrol, Barbara Cowger, Elsie Herlong, Phyllis Peters, Tamar Williams, Georgann Walcott, and Loretta Young. The whole troop is happily working on Tenderfoot and Second Class requirements.

There is still another troop at Lakeshore School, Troop 107, with Mrs. K. E. Rhodes as leader. These troops will reregister in the spring. All the troops meet in the multi - purpose room at the school.

As this is written, we don't know how the work - and play day at Pine Wood came out. The girls had planned many worthwhile camp improvements that would be fun to do. The only regret in connection with such an affair is that some troops are not able to get enough parents to furnish transportation so that the troop may take part. They'll never know how much fun the girls are missing.

There's an error in the November bulletin about the craft sessions scheduled for this week. The days are right: the dates are wrong. Basketry is Wednesday morning; simpler crafts for Brownies Thursday, with special emphasis on Christmas gifts and favors.

CABBAGE

Green cabbage, shredded paper-thin and mixed with well-seasoned mayonnaise, makes delicious and nutritious sandwiches to serve with a platter of cold meats.

TABLE DECORATION WITH INDIVIDUALITY has as its starting point a ready-made electric candle and holder, finished in pink and white and dusted with gold glitters. To give it the personal touch, lighting experts placed a string of pink tree lights in the holder (lining it first with asbestos), covered the lights with angel hair and, as an accent note, arranged gold beads on top of the angel hair. The flame-shaped bulb in the candle is pink.

Girl Scout News

Interest in Girl Scouting is growing right along with the growth of the Lakeshore part of town. Two new troops have recently registered after several weeks of parents' meetings and training on the part of the leaders.

Troop 81, under the leadership of Mrs. Clint Hanna, Mrs. T. C. Howard, and Mrs. Robert H. Himes, is made up of enthusiastic third grade Brownies. Serving on the troop committee are Mrs. Jack Scott, Mrs. Milton Blue, and Mrs. James Edward Streeter, and the following girls have been invested: Rebecca Avery, Lorrie Blue, Janice Gates, Anne Elizabeth Hanna, Pamela Kay Hibbard, Sheryl Lynn Hopkins, Lynn Howard, Deanna LaValle, Donna Gail Morris, Peggy Ann Ray, Cheryl Streeter, and Candy Tripp. Barbara Himes, Penny Breard and Jean Scott were Brownies in other troops last year.

Wearing shiny new Brownie pins and trying earnestly to live up to their Promise are the girls of Troop 45, Mrs. O. D. Provance and Mrs. V. A. Stokes, leaders. Mrs. J. E. Trichel, Mrs. Jack Weaver, Mrs. Lee W. Fiser, Mrs. C. L. Egloff, and Mrs. J. B. Jones serve on the troop committee and the following girls are registered for their first year of Scouting: Freda Anders, Sandy Carlton, Gwen Egloff, Martha Fiser, Beverly Gregory, Candy Jones, Brenda Moore, Susan Nance, Anne O'Neal, Wanda Provance, Kathy Roberson, Pamela Stokes, Mona Stroud, Mary Trichel, and Mary Weaver.

Assistant leader with Mrs. W. A. Roche of Intermediate Troop 53 is Mrs. E. C. Cowger. Another member has been added to the troop committee — Mrs. Richard Herlong. New girls who have come into the troop are: Yvonne Accord, transferred from Troop 8, Kaye Alverson, Fran Carrol, Barbara Cowger, Elsie Herlong, Phyllis Peters, Tamar Williams, Georgann Walcott, and Loretta Young. The whole troop is happily working on Tenderfoot and Second Class requirements.

There is still another troop at Lakeshore School, Troop 107, with Mrs. K. E. Rhodes as leader. These troops will reregister in the spring. All the troops meet in the multi - purpose room at the school.

As this is written, we don't know how the work - and play day at Pine Wood came out. The girls had planned many worthwhile camp improvements that would be fun to do. The only regret in connection with such an affair is that some troops are not able to get enough parents to furnish transportation so that the troop may take part. They'll never know how much fun the girls are missing.

There's an error in the November bulletin about the craft sessions scheduled for this week. The days are right; the dates are wrong. Basketry is Wednesday morning; simpler crafts for Brownies Thursday, with special emphasis on Christmas gifts and favors.

The Ghost Of Sam Blakely Drifts Alone

Hanging Room Of Ashley Jail Used Once

By JANICE CLARK
(Staff Correspondent)

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) —The ghost of Sam Blakley drifts alone in the Hanging Room of Ashley county's jail. His is a lonely spirit because Sam's was the only body ever to plunge through the trap door of the tower room in the Hamburg jail, to swing lifeless at the end of a rope in the death chamber below.

Although the Ashley county jail was built in 1905, the Hanging Room stood unused until June 18, 1912, when Sam was hung for murdering the son of Deputy Sheriff Willis Cain.

This is no indication that murder was uncommon in the county at that time. According to the jail record of those years, Sam was the 13th person brought to the jail for murder during the four-year period that Floyd Walker was sheriff of the county.

In commenting on number thirteen Walker says that, "Blakley went on a wild escapade of murder. He killed a nice, harmless young man without any cause at all. Blakley tried to kill another man who happened to be passing along the street who, hearing a gun fire, stopped for a moment when Blakley emerged with a Winchester rifle and shot at Cain. This man happened to dodge just at the right moment, so escaped Cain's fate."

The jail record shows that the other 12 murderers were released with various notations written on the line devoted to each case as follows: "Made Bond," "Convicted and Penned," "Discharged by Court," "Committed to Farm," or "Case Withdrawn," and boarded in the jail anywhere from two to 47 days.

Sam's record in the old book states that he was boarded from July 14, 1911 to June 18, 1912, and adds in fine Spencerian script the laconic comment, "he served out his time (nearly)." The board bill due the county for his keep was $85.20.

So that is the way the jail record reads. But the man who pulled the lever that plunged Sam Blakley to his death is still living in Hamburg and we talked with him about the old Hanging Room.

Walker, who was sheriff of Ashley county from 1908 to 1912, is a gentle man who has built a hardware business in Hamburg for his sons to carry on, and contributed through the years to the shape of Ashley county as it is today. As his faded brown eyes look back into the past he tells about the job he had to do as sheriff, commenting that, "In former days the sheriff's office was a pretty rough office, plagued by having to run down bootleggers and 'blind tigers.' Any old - timer will tell you that life was cheap in those days, and early in the century many men carried a gun."

But there came the day when what started as a minor disturbance turned into Sam Blakley's death warrant. Sam and another man got into a fight in the Negro quarters over a dog. Deputy sheriff, Willis Cain, deputized his son to go down and bring the men in, where they would have been fined $4 or $5 for their disturbance. Blakley was coming along with Cain when it started to rain, and he asked to be allowed to go into his house for a coat. He came out with a rifle and shot Cain in the neck, killing him. He was tired for murder and sentenced to hang. "And," says Walker, "It was up to me to carry out the orders of the court."

Previous hangings which Walker had witnessed "had been horrible," due to the fact that the rope had not been adjusted properly and was not correctly prepared for the job to be done. Sheriff Walker was determined that this hanging be "as merciful as possible," and worked several weeks to make it so. He learned much about how to prepare the rope and how to handle it from a Texan who had some experience with such things.

He got a small rope which would slip quickly and easily. For two or three weeks he waxed it with bees wax and hung a 100 pound weight from it to remove all stretch and kinks. A hangman's knot is a very special affair. Traditionally it has 13 loops, but the real purpose is two - fold. It must slip easily, and the knot much have enough bulk to snap the head of the victim to one side, breaking his neck.

Many people think the knot is placed just under the ear of the person to be hanged; but according to Walker, this is the mistake that many people make which causes the victim to strangle and die slowly and "horribly." It should be placed under his chin so that when his weight causes it to tighten the knot is pulled to the side, thus cutting off circulation through the jugular vein and breaking the neck — resulting in instant death.

Other preparations were made for the date the sheriff had with Sam Blakley on June 18th. Walker had placed a copy of the New Testament in each cell at the jail, and Blakley read his copy during those days while he waited to walk up the steps to the tower room. And the sheriff helped a local preacher baptize Sam in one of the bath tubs in the jail a few days before the hanging.

And then there was the business of financing the hanging. The county judge allowed only $5 for the entire disposal of Sam Blakley, and Sheriff Walker says, "I felt he should have a decent burial. So I bought his coffin — a wood box for $20, a suit of clothes, white socks, starched shirt, and a white collar. And he said he wanted slippers, so I bought him slippers."

Mr. Walker goes on to tell about that morning hanging, as though no part of it has ever left his mind. Only the Sheriff and selected witnesses were allowed in the Hanging Room, and by law two doctors stood in the Death Chamber below to pronounce Blakley dead. According to the law, the Death Warrant, signed with the Seal of the Court, was read just before the hanging. Then Walker asked Blakley if he wanted to "make a little talk." Blakley asked if Mr. Cain, the father of the man he had killed, was in the room. Then he said, "Mr. Cain, you testified at my trial that your son had your pistol; that it had five cartridges in it when you gave it to him, and it had five in it when returned. Someone must have put one in it, because he shot at me one time. I know I am going to die and I wanted to die with the truth in my mouth and in my heart."

Then the black hood was drawn over Blakley's face, and the rope adjusted beneath his chin. Walker asked, "Does that choke you a little bit?" "Yes," was the answer. Walker then stated, "I'll take your collar off, Sam, and put it back on you when you are dead." Thus comforted, the man stood on the trap door with his face masked, his hands and feet bound, the focus of attention of the little group of very tense witnesses.

Walker pulled the lever releasing bars of iron, which permitted springs to snap the doors back, and "he shot into the death chamber and died instantly," according to the reports of witnessing doctors. Walker was unable to look at the swinging body as he walked down the stairs past the death chamber; but he had done what he could as he carried out the orders of the court — caused it to be a "merciful death."

The starched white collar was returned to the neck of Sam Blakley, he was put in the wooden coffin, and buried outside the fence at the Negro cemetery. No person who died by hanging was allowed buried inside the fence.

A few months later Arkansas state law ruled that all persons convicted of capital offenses after June 13, 1913 be electrocuted in a specially prepared death chamber in the state penitentiary in Little Rock. Following is part of the story of the first electrocution as it appeared in The Crossett Observer on August 28, 1913.

"The first to die by this method in the entire South will be Lee Sims, Negro, sentenced to electrocution September 5. . . . The electric chair to be used is a 'home made' product. It was built under the direction of Prof. W. N. Gladson, of the University of Arkansas and cost $702.05. The legislature appropriated $1,500 for the purpose.

The cabinet work was done in the shops at the state university and the electrical work by a Chicago firm. It is wired for an alternating current from the state plant, located in the same building. Usually two impacts are needed. In the first about 2,000 volts are used, and in the second 1,000 volts. The current reaches the vital parts of the body through electrodes at the wrist, the scalp and left ankle.

"The death chair was successfully tested one day last week when a heavy steer was electrocuted — the current passing through its body varying from 2,200 to 200 volts— in 30 seconds. One electrode was attached to the animal's head, and the other to its hind leg. Experts declare that Arkansas has a better working chair than that at Sing Sing.

"Lee Sims, alias Will Rogers, Alias John Perry, who will dedicate the chair in Arkansas, is a Negro somewhat of unsavory police record. He must die for an attack upon a white woman at Brassfield, in Prairie County July 26th. He was brought to Little Rock at the time to avoid a lynching. He confessed the crime and was given a speedy trial. The jury was out only 25 minutes and Judge Eugene Lankford then pronounced the new form of sentence for the first time in the state."

The article goes on to say that all 75 sheriffs in the state were especially pleased with the new law. "Now, as soon as a criminal has been condemned to death he is hurried to the death cell in Little Rock to await his execution or the action of the courts, and his death is accomplished without the attendant details that so often characterize the assembling of morbidly curious throngs about the gallows." It also stated that "Hanging has always been a most undesirable duty of the sheriffs, and it has never been a good advertisement for a town."

Certainly Floyd Walker, Sheriff of Ashley County was not happy to find it his duty to pull the lever that sent a man to his death. He tied a hangsman's knot recently for us to use in a picture of the old Hanging Room, and commented unhappily, "That rope don't look good to me."

And so the Hanging Room in Hamburg's County Jail was used only once, and Sam Blakley's spirit walks alone where the moonlight is filtered through the dusty windows of the little tower room. Heavy iron gratings have been put across the trap door through which prisoners from the cell block below once escaped from the Jail. But the iron loop is in the ceiling from which hung the waxed noose, and the hand lever is beside the door in the floor. Piping has been installed in the ceiling of the death chamber for a man's shower, and few of the prisoners realize as they bathe that Sam Blakley's limp form once hung right where they are standing beneath the fresh jet of water.

HOME AWAY FROM HOME

Experiment For Living Together

PUTNEY, Vt. (AP) — People learn to live together by living together.

That's what the Experiment in International Living believes.

So, the Experiment has sent 9,000 young Americans into foreign homes and settled 2,000 youngsters from other lands in American homes.

The result over 26 years has been a mounting tide of friendliness between guests and hosts — with a few minor upsets.

A Washington mother played hostess to a Russian boy. When he left, she put her aching head in her hands and announced:

"I now pray every night for John Foster Dulles."

In Brattleboro, Vt., another hostess took a different view of her temporary foster children from the Soviet Union.

"Granting a few difficulties anyone would have going into a strange home and a strange country, they were marvelous guests," she said.

There was the young Yugoslav who waxed overly enthusiastic about American apple pie and spent the afternoon with a severe stomach-ache.

And there was the graduate student from Warsaw, Poland, who earned his masters' degree with a treatise on Eugene O'Neill and who learned English first hand when he visited families in Norwich, Vt., and Hanover, N. H.

The experiment, with headquarters here, estimates it has touched more than 70,000 lives all over the world.

Participants pay their own expenses and a fee that keeps the Experiment going. About 10 per cent of each year's exchanges receive scholarship aid. The Experiment has funds through alumni gifts and foundation grants.

The cost of a stay abroad can range from $100 to $1,000, depending on the distance to the nation visited. Foreign families receive no financial aid for the guests, but there are always plenty of homes to receive exchanges.

The Experiment was founded by Donald Watt, personnel director of Syracuse University at the time, after he attended several international conferences that failed "because the members met only in formal session."

He sponsored an international camp in Switzerland in 1932, but termed it a failure when national cliques developed. The next year, he started family visits.

"International understanding is best achieved in the family unit," says Watt, who is now chairman of the group's board of trustees. Gordon Royce, a one-time Binghamton, N. Y., newsman, is now president. He was formerly assistant to the president of Colgate University.

There is an occasional break in understanding — such as the time Americans took a Swiss girl with them on a boating excursion and got lost in the fog.

The group returned at 2 a.m. to find an irate Swiss papa stamping his foot in the hall. No more outings with Americans, decreed papa — too wild.

More typical is the American boy who lived in Austria and came home to tell his family:

"Austrians show stronger feelings on the necessity of peace than most Americans, for they all knew war; ; a stronger desire for love and attention than most Americans, for they all knew hate and neglect."

MUSICAL AGGREGATION PREPARING FOR SIXTH REHEARSAL HERE

Youth Orchestra Is Example Of Ingenuity And Talent

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

The latest example of the ingenuity and talent of this city's youngsters was revealed last week — the Monroe Youth Orchestra.

Thirty-three boys and girls 31 of them from the two junior high schools, and two fifth graders, compose the new orchestra, which is going into its sixth rehearsal next Wednesday.

Selected on the basis of academic work and musical ability from the 100 - plus students in the city's string instrument program, the orchestra members are a junior unit of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs.

Following an organizational period, performances will be scheduled next spring, according to Miss Jonnie Bankhead and Howard Jackson.

Miss Bankhead, who instructs students in music at North Monroe Junior High School and in the fourth and fifth grades of all six elementary schools, and Jackson, the South Monroe string group instructor, pointed out that the orchestra is the outgrowth of the string program begun in the city schools in 1956.

Eloy Fominaya, assistant professor of music at Northeast State College, offered to direct the orchestra, and now meets with members from 3:30 to 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

REHEARSALS

Rehearsals alternate between the two junior high schools.

How do the students like being in an all - city orchestra? They're enthusiastic about it.

They use their own free time after school on Wednesdays, with no school credit received for the practice sessions.

But they know that they will be the foundation of the Neville String Orchestra next year — the group will stay together during junior high and all four years of high school.

They have a goal — several years of practice can result in an outstanding youth orchestra in this region. Those now in the orchestra hope that the goal can be reached before they graduate from high school . . . and become a tradition for other members of the orchestra.

Those are a few of the long - range benefits.

What do these youngsters receive from their weekly practice sessions, right now?

"They have the advantage of working with an expert in music — Fominaya. In addition, the practice sessions enrich their school music program. They are directed by the only professional string player in the area who also teaches music," pointed out Miss Bankhead.

Currently, only the Monroe City School system has instruction in string instruments, as well as band. Parish schools offer band instruction. In the future, if string instruments are taught in other schools, those students also may audition for the orchestra.

The events which resulted in formation of the orchestra show that students in the Monroe schools have a decided talent for playing string instruments.

INSTRUCTION

In the fall of 1956, instruction in strings was started in three "test" schools here —t o see how the program would be accepted.

Thirty - three grade - school students responded to the opportunity.

The following year, string instruction was available in all six elementary schools and the two junior highs.

This year, there are slightly more than 100 students in the program. Officials look for its continued growth.

The instruction is offered without charge at any school in the city system, from the fourth grade through junior high.

The violin, viola, cello and bass, along with piano, are the instruments which now compose the string program.

With the program well underway in the city schools, the Musical Coterie club of Monroe offered encouragement in development of the orchestra.

The Coterie, known as the outstanding music club in Monroe, is a study group for furthering musical interests and the earnest study of music, for the mutual benefit of its members and the community.

As a senior club affiliated with the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, the Coterie shared in the 1957 state - wide project of advocating more string programs in Louisiana schools.

It also helped to sponsor the Monroe Youth Orchestra.

The orchestra is composed of 22 violins, five violas, five cellos and one bass, in addition to one piano.

Standard orchestral wind instruments, such as flutes, clarinets and oboes will be added at a later date.

Members of city school bands will be chosen for their techniques by school directors.

MUSICAL

In addition to musical skill, only all - around good students will be selected.

The orchestra currently is playing music which ranges from regular orchestral pieces to the semi-classical.

Membership includes:

Concert master: Miss Carolyn Causey. The concert master is next to the director in skill, in an orchestra, and holds the position of first chair, first violin leading the string section.

Carolyn attended Barkdull Faulk school before entering South Monroe Junior High, where she is in the eighth grade.

This is her third year of violin study.

In the violin section, members include: Linda Adams, Gloria Alford, Donna Barfott, Noel Cain, Clyde Coon, Gloria Cooper, Marilyn Denoux, Rex Ensminger, Brenda George, Diane Gray, Ann Hanks, Michael Harper, Tommy Holden, Wanda Langley.

Douglas McFadden, Phyllis Middleton, Buzzy Redding, Ronald Shultz, Lauretta Simmons, Karen Walker, Charles Williams.

Viola section members are: Peggy Cromwell, Jimmy Harmon, Danny Otts, Mary Ann Smith, David Stanhope.

Cello section: Gerry Frazier, David Garrison, Sage Redding, Gayle Smith and Mike Strausser.

Playing the bass is Butch Kirk.

Pianist is Betty Thomas.

Youthful musicians with potential ability for an exceptional orchestra, they may send Monroe up several notches on the cultural ladder.

IT IS HEARTBREAKING

Worlds Within Worlds In Moscow

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

After nearly three years in the Soviet Union I have only a hint of what life there is really like.

There are worlds with worlds in Moscow — let alone in the vastness of Russia itself — that an American is rarely allowed to glimpse.

More than anything else, that is the difficulty with life in Russia for Americans — the difficulty, heartbreaking to some, of getting to know it.

You can't adjust to the feeling that you're hemmed in within the borders of the well-worn path the Kremlin has mapped out for you.

Ever since Stalin died the Kremlin has been saying it favors closer East - West contacts. But try to drive more than 25 miles out of Moscow without prior official permission and you'll find there's a law against it.

Or stop along the roadside for a picnic lunch when you do have official permission. Someone will materialize out of somewhere and tell you that, yes, you do have permission for the trip but no permission to stop.

Thousands of tourists, American, European and Asian, have visited the Soviet Union since restrictions were relaxed three years ago.

Practically all tourists come on set tours, preferably in groups, are escorted by guides through the Soviet Union's prize cities, and are shown the Soviet Union's model collective farms, universities, hospitals and housing projects.

Many of them leave impressed with the less than one per cent of the Soviet Union they've seen.

The resident Westerners in Moscow — there are no resident Westerners in any other Soviet city — live a great deal better than 99 per cent of the people. But it's a rare American or Briton who signs up for a second tour of duty.

Resident Westerners in Moscow fall into two categories: embassy personnel and correspondents. The American and British embassies house many of their own personnel. The remainder, and all the Western correspondents, live in apartments assigned to them by the Soviet government, if they're lucky. Many still live in stuffy, mid-Victorian hotel rooms.

You can't pick and choose your quarters, any more than you can pick and choose your maid, interpreter or the color of your living room walls. Everything is supplied by the Soviet government, usually in its own good time.

When an American arrives in Russia, one of the questions that intrigues him most is:

"Is it true that every telephone is tapped and every room is wired?"

Every Westerner that I've talked to in three years in Moscow operates on the assumption that it's true up to a point. No one knows what point.

The Moscow diplomatic cocktail circuit is full of choice tidbits on the latest bloopers of the Soviet secret police, some apocryphal, others verified.

The latest story going the rounds: a certain Western attache couldn't stand the suspense of not knowing. He started ripping up boards and found eight finely wired microphones in his three-room apartment — two in the living room floor, two in the living room ceiling, two in the dining room ceiling, and, final insult, two in the bedroom. This story has been verified.

There's a special government bureau through which all services are channeled to the Western community. You call them when the plumbing erupts or the gas water heater clogs up or the telephone breaks down, which they all do frequently.

I once called the city telephone repair service direct after waiting three days for the government bureau to take action. I was told their repairman couldn't fix my phone. He wasn't cleared for foreigners.

Apartments assigned to foreigners in Moscow were known as the most expensive cold water flats in the world until the Soviet government adjusted its unrealistic currency exchange rates last year. They still come bare, a four-burner gas stove and sink in the kitchen — no cupboards, counters, shelves or refrigerator— and a gas burner over the tub in the bathroom providing the only hot water supply.

The apartments are small by U. S. standards, three rooms for an American family of four, but they're luxurious by Russian standards. Three average Russian families would ordinarily occupy that apartment, and share the gas stove and bathroom.

Westerners in Moscow buy their furniture, fixtures, linen and clothing abroad and import most food except perishables. Despite the improved exchange rate, a shirt that couldn't fetch a dollar in a New York bargain basement still costs the equivalent of $20 in Moscow.

Russian laundries are the despair of American housewives. White shirts develop a fine shade of gray in a matter of weeks. Happily, one good laundering outside the Soviet Union and they're white as snow again. Most of the American Embassy personnel send their cleaning to Helsinki.

The Ghost Of Sam Blakely Drifts Alone

Hanging Room Of Ashley Jail Used Once

By JANICE CLARK
(Staff Correspondent)

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) —The ghost of Sam Blakley drifts alone in the Hanging Room of Ashley county's jail. His is a lonely spirit because Sam's was the only body ever to plunge through the trap door of the tower room in the Hamburg jail, to swing lifeless at the end of a rope in the death chamber below.

Although the Ashley county jail was built in 1905, the Hanging Room stood unused until June 18, 1912, when Sam was hung for murdering the son of Deputy Sheriff Willis Cain.

This is no indication that murder was uncommon in the county at that time. According to the jail record of those years, Sam was the 13th person brought to the jail for murder during the four-year period that Floyd Walker was sheriff of the county.

In commenting on number thirteen Walker says that, "Blakley went on a wild escapade of murder. He killed a nice, harmless young man without any cause at all. Blakley tried to kill another man who happened to be passing along the street who, hearing a gun fire, stopped for a moment when Blakley emerged with a Winchester rifle and shot at Cain. This man happened to dodge just at the right moment, so escaped Cain's fate."

The jail record shows that the other 12 murderers were released with various notations written on the line devoted to each case as follows: "Made Bond," "Convicted and Penned," "Discharged by Court," "Committed to Farm," or "Case Withdrawn," and boarded in the jail anywhere from two to 47 days.

Sam's record in the old book states that he was boarded from July 14, 1911 to June 18, 1912, and adds in fine Spencerian script the laconic comment, "he served out his time (nearly)." The board bill due the county for his keep was $85.20.

So that is the way the jail record reads. But the man who pulled the lever that plunged Sam Blakley to his death is still living in Hamburg and we talked with him about the old Hanging Room.

Walker, who was sheriff of Ashley county from 1908 to 1912, is a gentle man who has built a hardware business in Hamburg for his sons to carry on, and contributed through the years to the shape of Ashley county as it is today. As his faded brown eyes look back into the past he tells about the job he had to do as sheriff, commenting that, "In former days the sheriff's office was a pretty rough office, plagued by having to run down bootleggers and 'blind tigers.' Any old - timer will tell you that life was cheap in those days, and early in the century many men carried a gun."

But there came the day when what started as a minor disturbance turned into Sam Blakley's death warrant. Sam and another man got into a fight in the Negro quarters over a dog. Deputy sheriff, Willis Cain, deputized his son to go down and bring the men in, where they would have been fined $4 or $5 for their disturbance. Blakley was coming along with Cain when it started to rain, and he asked to be allowed to go into his house for a coat. He came out with a rifle and shot Cain in the neck, killing him. He was tired for murder and sentenced to hang. "And," says Walker, "It was up to me to carry out the orders of the court."

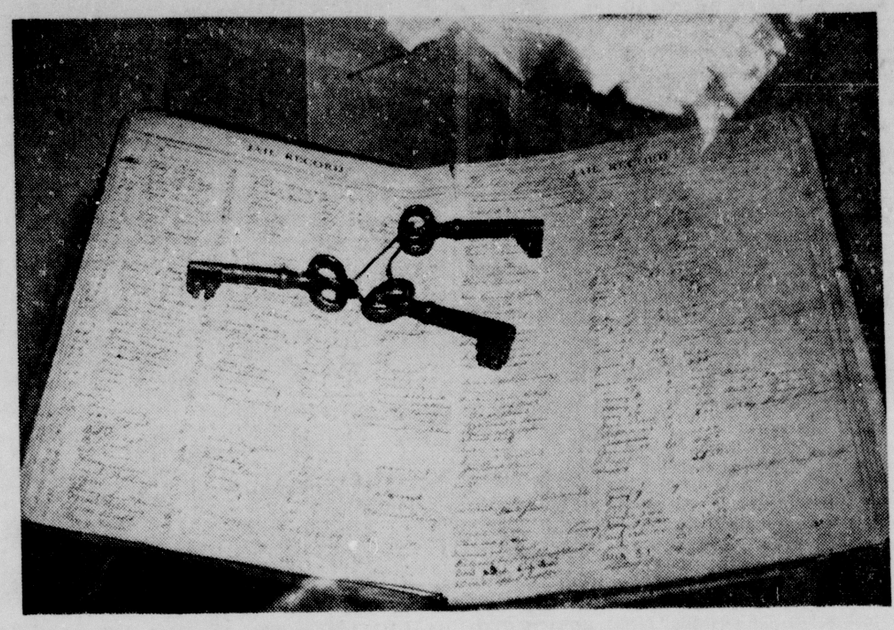
Previous hangings which Walker had witnessed "had been horrible," due to the fact that the rope had not been adjusted properly and was not correctly prepared for the job to be done. Sheriff Walker was determined that this hanging be "as merciful as possible," and worked several weeks to make it so. He learned much about how to prepare the rope and how to handle it from a Texan who had some experience with such things.

He got a small rope which would slip quickly and easily. For two or three weeks he waxed it with bees wax and hung a 100 pound weight from it to remove all stretch and kinks. A hangman's knot is a very special affair. Traditionally it has 13 loops, but the real purpose is two - fold. It must slip easily, and the knot much have enough bulk to snap the head of the victim to one side, breaking his neck.

Many people think the knot is placed just under the ear of the person to be hanged; but according to Walker, this is the mistake that many people make which causes the victim to strangle and die slowly and "horribly." It should be placed under his chin so that when his weight causes it to tighten the knot is pulled to the side, thus cutting off circulation through the jugular vein and breaking the neck — resulting in instant death.

Other preparations were made for the date the sheriff had with Sam Blakley on June 18th. Walker had placed a copy of the New Testament in each cell at the jail, and Blakley read his copy during those days while he waited to walk up the steps to the tower room. And the sheriff helped a local preacher baptize Sam in one of the bath tubs in the jail a few days before the hanging.



UNLUCKY 13 — Sam Blakley was the 13th man jailed for murder in Ashley county and the only man in the record book who was hanged in the Hanging Room. Old hand-wrought keys to the jail lay across the book. (Photo by Neil Rhodes)

And then there was the business of financing the hanging. The county judge allowed only $5 for the entire disposal of Sam Blakley, and Sheriff Walker says, "I felt he should have a decent burial. So I bought his coffin — a wood box for $20, a suit of clothes, white socks, starched shirt, and a white collar. And he said he wanted slippers, so I bought him slippers."

Mr. Walker goes on to tell about that morning hanging, as though no part of it has ever left his mind. Only the Sheriff and selected witnesses were allowed in the Hanging Room, and by law two doctors stood in the Death Chamber below to pronounce Blakley dead. According to the law, the Death Warrant, signed with the Seal of the Court, was read just before the hanging. Then Walker asked Blakley if he wanted to "make a little talk." Blakley asked if Mr. Cain, the father of the man he had killed, was in the room. Then he said, "Mr. Cain, you testified at my trial that your son had your pistol; that it had five cartridges in it when you gave it to him, and it had five in it when returned. Someone must have put one in it, because he shot at me one time. I know I am going to die and I wanted to die with the truth in my mouth and in my heart."

Then the black hood was drawn over Blakley's face, and the rope adjusted beneath his chin. Walker asked, "Does that choke you a little bit?" "Yes," was the answer. Walker then stated, "I'll take your collar off, Sam, and put it back on you when you are dead." Thus comforted, the man stood on the trap door with his face masked, his hands and feet bound, the focus of attention of the little group of very tense witnesses.

Walker pulled the lever releasing bars of iron, which permitted springs to snap the doors back, and "he shot into the death chamber and died instantly," according to the reports of witnessing doctors. Walker was unable to look at the swinging body as he walked down the stairs past the death chamber; but he had done what he could as he carried out the orders of the court — caused it to be a "merciful death."

The starched white collar was returned to the neck of Sam Blakley, he was put in the wooden coffin, and buried outside the fence at the Negro cemetery. No person who died by hanging was allowed buried inside the fence.

A few months later Arkansas state law ruled that all persons convicted of capital offenses after June 13, 1913 be electrocuted in a specially prepared death chamber in the state penitentiary in Little Rock. Following is part of the story of the first electrocution as it appeared in The Crossett Observer on August 28, 1913.

"The first to die by this method in the entire South will be Lee Sims, Negro, sentenced to electrocution September 5. . . . The electric chair to be used is a 'home made' product. It was built under the direction of Prof. W. N. Gladson, of the University of Arkansas and cost $702.05. The legislature appropriated $1,500 for the purpose.

The cabinet work was done in the shops at the state university and the electrical work by a Chicago firm. It is wired for an alternating current from the state plant, located in the same building. Usually two impacts are needed. In the first about 2,000 volts are used, and in the second 1,000 volts. The current reaches the vital parts of the body through electrodes at the wrist, the scalp and left ankle.

"The death chair was successfully tested one day last week when a heavy steer was electrocuted — the current passing through its body varying from 2,200 to 200 volts— in 30 seconds. One electrode was attached to the animal's head, and the other to its hind leg. Experts declare that Arkansas has a better working chair than that at Sing Sing.

"Lee Sims, alias Will Rogers, Alias John Perry, who will dedicate the chair in Arkansas, is a Negro somewhat of unsavory police record. He must die for an attack upon a white woman at Brassfield, in Prairie County July 26th. He was brought to Little Rock at the time to avoid a lynching. He confessed the crime and was given a speedy trial. The jury was out only 25 minutes and Judge Eugene Lankford then pronounced the new form of sentence for the first time in the state."

The article goes on to say that all 75 sheriffs in the state were especially pleased with the new law. "Now, as soon as a criminal has been condemned to death he is hurried to the death cell in Little Rock to await his execution or the action of the courts, and his death is accomplished without the attendant details that so often characterize the assembling of morbidly curious throngs about the gallows." It also stated that "Hanging has always been a most undesirable duty of the sheriffs, and it has never been a good advertisement for a town."

Certainly Floyd Walker, Sheriff of Ashley County was not happy to find it his duty to pull the lever that sent a man to his death. He tied a hangsman's knot recently for us to use in a picture of the old Hanging Room, and commented unhappily, "That rope don't look good to me."

And so the Hanging Room in Hamburg's County Jail was used only once, and Sam Blakley's spirit walks alone where the moonlight is filtered through the dusty windows of the little tower room. Heavy iron gratings have been put across the trap door through which prisoners from the cell block below once escaped from the Jail. But the iron loop is in the ceiling from which hung the waxed noose, and the hand lever is beside the door in the floor. Piping has been installed in the ceiling of the death chamber for a man's shower, and few of the prisoners realize as they bathe that Sam Blakley's limp form once hung right where they are standing beneath the fresh jet of water.

MUSICAL AGGREGATION PREPARING FOR SIXTH REHEARSAL HERE

Youth Orchestra Is Example Of Ingenuity And Talent

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

The latest example of the ingenuity and talent of this city's youngsters was revealed last week — the Monroe Youth Orchestra.

Thirty-three boys and girls 31 of them from the two junior high schools, and two fifth graders, compose the new orchestra, which is going into its sixth rehearsal next Wednesday.

Selected on the basis of academic work and musical ability from the 100 - plus students in the city's string instrument program, the orchestra members are a junior unit of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs.

Following an organizational period, performances will be scheduled next spring, according to Miss Jonnie Bankhead and Howard Jackson.

Miss Bankhead, who instructs students in music at North Monroe Junior High School and in the fourth and fifth grades of all six elementary schools, and Jackson, the South Monroe string group instructor, pointed out that the orchestra is the outgrowth of the string program begun in the city schools in 1956.

Eloy Fominaya, assistant professor of music at Northeast State College, offered to direct the orchestra, and now meets with members from 3:30 to 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

REHEARSALS

Rehearsals alternate between the two junior high schools.

How do the students like being in an all - city orchestra?

They're enthusiastic about it.

They use their own free time after school on Wednesdays, with no school credit received for the practice sessions.

But they know that they will be the foundation of the Neville String Orchestra next year — the group will stay together during junior high and all four years of high school.

They have a goal — several years of practice can result in an outstanding youth orchestra in this region. Those now in the orchestra hope that the goal can be reached before they graduate from high school . . . and become a tradition for other members of the orchestra.

Those are a few of the long - range benefits.

What do these youngsters receive from their weekly practice sessions, right now?

"They have the advantage of working with an expert in music — Fominaya. In addition, the practice sessions enrich their school music program. They are directed by the only professional string player in the area who also teaches music," pointed out Miss Bankhead.

Currently, only the Monroe City School system has instruction in string instruments, as well as band. Parish schools offer band instruction. In the future, if string instruments are taught in other schools, those students also may audition for the orchestra.

The events which resulted in formation of the orchestra show that students in the Monroe schools have a decided talent for playing string instruments.

INSTRUCTION

In the fall of 1956, instruction in strings was started in three "test" schools here —t o see how the program would be accepted.

Thirty - three grade - school students responded to the opportunity.

The following year, string instruction was available in all six elementary schools and the two junior highs.

This year, there are slightly more than 100 students in the program. Officials look for its continued growth.

The instruction is offered without charge at any school in the city system, from the fourth grade through junior high.

The violin, viola, cello and bass, along with piano, are the instruments which now compose the string program.

With the program well underway in the city schools, the Musical Coterie club of Monroe offered encouragement in development of the orchestra.

The Coterie, known as the outstanding music club in Monroe, is a study group for furthering musical interests and the earnest study of music, for the mutual benefit of its members and the community.

As a senior club affiliated with the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, the Coterie shared in the 1957 state - wide project of advocating more string programs in Louisiana schools.

It also helped to sponsor the Monroe Youth Orchestra.

The orchestra is composed of 22 violins, five violas, five cellos and one bass, in addition to one piano.

Standard orchestral wind instruments, such as flutes, clarinets and oboes will be added at a later date.

Members of city school bands will be chosen for their techniques by school directors.

MUSICAL

In addition to musical skill, only all - around good students will be selected.

The orchestra currently is playing music which ranges from regular orchestral pieces to the semi-classical.

Membership includes:

Concert master: Miss Carolyn Causey. The concert master is next to the director in skill, in an orchestra, and holds the position of first chair, first violin leading the string section.

Carolyn attended Barkdull Faulk school before entering South Monroe Junior High, where she is in the eighth grade.

This is her third year of violin study.

In the violin section, members include: Linda Adams, Gloria Alford, Donna Barfott, Noel Cain, Clyde Coon, Gloria Cooper, Marilyn Denoux, Rex Ensminger, Brenda George, Diane Gray, Ann Hanks, Michael Harper, Tommy Holden, Wanda Langley.

Douglas McFadden, Phyllis Middleton, Buzzy Redding, Ronald Shultz, Lauretta Simmons, Karen Walker, Charles Williams.

Viola section members are: Peggy Cromwell, Jimmy Harmon, Danny Otts, Mary Ann Smith, David Stanhope.

Cello section: Gerry Frazier, David Garrison, Sage Redding, Gayle Smith and Mike Strausser.

Playing the bass is Butch Kirk.

Pianist is Betty Thomas.

Youthful musicians with potential ability for an exceptional orchestra, they may send Monroe up several notches on the cultural ladder.

HOME AWAY FROM HOME

Experiment For Living Together

PUTNEY, Vt. (AP) — People learn to live together by living together.

That's what the Experiment in International Living believes.

So, the Experiment has sent 9,000 young Americans into foreign homes and settled 2,000 youngsters from other lands in American homes.

The result over 26 years has been a mounting tide of friendliness between guests and hosts — with a few minor upsets.

A Washington mother played hostess to a Russian boy. When he left, she put her aching head in her hands and announced:

"I now pray every night for John Foster Dulles."

In Brattleboro, Vt., another hostess took a different view of her temporary foster children from the Soviet Union.

"Granting a few difficulties anyone would have going into a strange home and a strange country, they were marvelous guests," she said.

There was the young Yugoslav who waxed overly enthusiastic about American apple pie and spent the afternoon with a severe stomach-ache.

And there was the graduate student from Warsaw, Poland, who earned his masters' degree with a treatise on Eugene O'Neill and who learned English first hand when he visited families in Norwich, Vt., and Hanover, N. H.

The experiment, with headquarters here, estimates it has touched more than 70,000 lives all over the world.

Participants pay their own expenses and a fee that keeps the Experiment going. About 10 per cent of each year's exchanges receive scholarship aid. The Experiment has funds through alumni gifts and foundation grants.

The cost of a stay abroad can range from $100 to $1,000, depending on the distance to the nation visited. Foreign families receive no financial aid for the guests, but there are always plenty of homes to receive exchanges.

The Experiment was founded by Donald Watt, personnel director of Syracuse University at the time, after he attended several international conferences that failed "because the members met only in formal session."

He sponsored an international camp in Switzerland in 1932, but termed it a failure when national cliques developed. The next year, he started family visits.

"International understanding is best achieved in the family unit," says Watt, who is now chairman of the group's board of trustees. Gordon Royce, a one-time Binghamton, N. Y., newsman, is now president. He was formerly assistant to the president of Colgate University.

There is an occasional break in understanding — such as the time Americans took a Swiss girl with them on a boating excursion and got lost in the fog.

The group returned at 2 a.m. to find an irate Swiss papa stamping his foot in the hall. No more outings with Americans, decreed papa — too wild.

More typical is the American boy who lived in Austria and came home to tell his family:

"Austrians show stronger feelings on the necessity of peace than most Americans, for they all knew war; ; a stronger desire for love and attention than most Americans, for they all knew hate and neglect."

IT IS HEARTBREAKING

Worlds Within Worlds In Moscow

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

After nearly three years in the Soviet Union I have only a hint of what life there is really like.

There are worlds with worlds in Moscow — let alone in the vastness of Russia itself — that an American is rarely allowed to glimpse.

More than anything else, that is the difficulty with life in Russia for Americans — the difficulty, heartbreaking to some, of getting to know it.

You can't adjust to the feeling that you're hemmed in within the borders of the well-worn path the Kremlin has mapped out for you.

Ever since Stalin died the Kremlin has been saying it favors closer East - West contacts. But try to drive more than 25 miles out of Moscow without prior official permission and you'll find there's a law against it.

Or stop along the roadside for a picnic lunch when you do have official permission. Someone will materialize out of somewhere and tell you that, yes, you do have permission for the trip but no permission to stop.

Thousands of tourists, American, European and Asian, have visited the Soviet Union since restrictions were relaxed three years ago.

Practically all tourists come on set tours, preferably in groups, are escorted by guides through the Soviet Union's prize cities, and are shown the Soviet Union's model collective farms, universities, hospitals and housing projects.

Many of them leave impressed with the less than one per cent of the Soviet Union they've seen.

The resident Westerners in Moscow — there are no resident Westerners in any other Soviet city — live a great deal better than 99 per cent of the people. But it's a rare American or Briton who signs up for a second tour of duty.

Resident Westerners in Moscow fall into two categories: embassy personnel and correspondents. The American and British embassies house many of their own personnel. The remainder, and all the Western correspondents, live in apartments assigned to them by the Soviet government, if they're lucky. Many still live in stuffy, mid-Victorian hotel rooms.

You can't pick and choose your quarters, any more than you can pick and choose your maid, interpreter or the color of your living room walls. Everything is supplied by the Soviet government, usually in its own good time.

When an American arrives in Russia, one of the questions that intrigues him most is:

"Is it true that every telephone is tapped and every room is wired?"

Every Westerner that I've talked to in three years in Moscow operates on the assumption that it's true up to a point. No one knows what point.

The Moscow diplomatic cocktail circuit is full of choice tidbits on the latest bloopers of the Soviet secret police, some apocryphal, others verified.

The latest story going the rounds: a certain Western attache couldn't stand the suspense of not knowing. He started ripping up boards and found eight finely wired microphones in his three-room apartment — two in the living room floor, two in the living room ceiling, two in the dining room ceiling, and, final insult, two in the bedroom. This story has been verified.

There's a special government bureau through which all services are channeled to the Western community. You call them when the plumbing erupts or the gas water heater clogs up or the telephone breaks down, which they all do frequently.

I once called the city telephone repair service direct after waiting three days for the government bureau to take action. I was told their repairman couldn't fix my phone. He wasn't cleared for foreigners.

Apartments assigned to foreigners in Moscow were known as the most expensive cold water flats in the world until the Soviet government adjusted its unrealistic currency exchange rates last year. They still come bare, a four-burner gas stove and sink in the kitchen — no cupboards, counters, shelves or refrigerator— and a gas burner over the tub in the bathroom providing the only hot water supply.

The apartments are small by U. S. standards, three rooms for an American family of four, but they're luxurious by Russian standards. Three average Russian families would ordinarily occupy that apartment, and share the gas stove and bathroom.

Westerners in Moscow buy their furniture, fixtures, linen and clothing abroad and import most food except perishables. Despite the improved exchange rate, a shirt that couldn't fetch a dollar in a New York bargain basement still costs the equivalent of $20 in Moscow.

Russian laundries are the despair of American housewives. White shirts develop a fine shade of gray in a matter of weeks. Happily, one good laundering outside the Soviet Union and they're white as snow again. Most of the American Embassy personnel send their cleaning to Helsinki.

CONSERVATION ROUNDUP

3 New Area Producers Reported In Monroe Area

Three new producers were reported in the nine-parish Monroe district to the local office of the La. Department of Conservation last week. Also recorded were 12 new locations, 42 active rigs and seven holes plugged and abandoned.

COMPLETIONS

LASALLE PARISH

West Catahoula Lake Field — Sadie Workover Ind.: Urania Lbr. Co. No. 1, Sec. 2-4-3E, completed Oct. 27, flowing 17 bbls on a 14/64 in. choke, TP 260 lbs., CP 1170 lbs., perforated 2500-2501 ft., estimated gas-oil ratio 3800-1.

Olla Field — Ark. Fuel Oil Corp.: Tremont Lbr. Co. A-21, Sec. 4-9-2E, completed Oct. 29, flowing 236 bbls on a 16/64 in. choke, TP 160 lbs., CP 420 lbs., perforated 2314-17 ft., gas-oil ratio 420-1, gravity 29.5.

UNION PARISH

Monroe Field — Olin Gas Trans. Corp.: Fee Gas No 417, Sec. 4-20-3E, completed Nov. 3, 305 MCF, RP 505 lbs., total depth 2130 ft.

ABANDONMENTS

CATAHOULA PARISH

Wildcat Field — Magnolia Pet. Co.: Ten. Del. Ld. Co. No. 1, Sec. 13-6-5E, plugged & abandoned Oct. 31 at 8715 ft.

Wildcat Field — Olin Oil & Gas Corp.: La. Delta Corp. No. 4, Sec. 28-5-5E, plugged & abandoned Nov. 1 at 6007 ft.

CONCORDIA PARISH

Wildcat Field — Norman Germany — G. W. Gulmon: Fisher Lbr. Co. No. 1, Sec. 21-7-7E, plugged & abandoned Nov. 2 at 5312 ft.

2ND STRAIGHT WEEK

Stock Market Hits New High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rushed to new record peaks this week as Democratic election victories spurred hopes of bigger government spending.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.70 to $202.40 for its largest weekly rise since the week ended July 26.

The week's advance was the second straight since the minor correction of three weeks ago and was the 11th upturn in the past 12 weeks.

Democratic gains in Tuesday's election were anticipated by Wall Street as well as by most political observers so the voting trend was no surprise. The extent of the sweep, however, apparently was not looked for. The day after election saw one of the biggest daily stock market jumps of the year.

Stocks rose moderately on the day before election although a degree of uncertainty was apparent, ascribed to hesitancy regarding the actual results of the election. Small as the Monday rise was, it sufficed to nudge the AP average to a record high. The Wednesday advance was, of course, another record peak. A vigorous upsurge on Thursday put the AP average at its latest all-time high, $202.70.

By Thursday's final hour, however, there was vicious profit taking. If not for the late selling pressure, the Thursday advance would have ranked among the greatest in Wall Street history.

Friday saw some additional profit taking as well as considerable switching and cross currents which dropped the averages for a minor loss. It was regarded as normal consolidation in view of the breath-taking pace of the advance.

Corporate and government bonds each closed slightly higher for the week. Trading declined to $29,466,000 par value on the Big Board from $31,816,000 the previous week.

Cotton Futures Jumpy

NEW YORK (AP) —Cotton futures prices followed an irregular course this week and closed with small net changes. Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at values ranging from 25 cents a bale higher to $1 lower than at the end of the week before.

Offerings were absorbed through mill and trade price fixing. There was some limited buying on the larger-than-expected 25-point advance in the mid-October parity price. A continued uptrend in entries of cotton into the government loan touched off a flurry of demand.

Offerings were furnished through light hedging and scattered liquidation.

The market took in stride a new series of trade estimates on the prospective size of the U.S. cotton harvest. The government's next official forecast will be announced Monday.

Estimates volunteered by private sources in advance of the official forecast ranged from 11,800,000 to 12,200,000 bales. The 57 members of the New York Cotton Exchange submitted estimates averaging 11,864,000 bales, and ranging from a low of 11,300,000 to a high of 12,000,000.

The government's latest forecast, on Oct. 1, indicated a prospective out turn of 11,675,000 bales. On Sept. 1 the government forecast a crop of 12,105,000 bales, based on soil, weather and other conditions prevalent at that time.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 54,000 bales, vs. 44,000 the previous week and 76,000 in the like 1957 week. Exports for the season through Nov. 4 were estimated at 791,000 bales, compared with 1,235,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Gas Company Drilling In Desha Basin

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. announced Saturday it had started wildcat drilling operations in the Desha Basin of southeast Arkansas.

Board chairman W. R. Stephens said the utility had assembled a large number of leases in area, which covers portions of Drew, Ashley, Chicot and Desha counties.

Length of the 120,000-acre lease block is about 30 miles. Width varies from one to four miles.

Stephens said the first well already had been started. At least four others will be drilled in the next few months, he said.

Stephens said Ark-La agreed with landowners to drill at least five wells because one well was not enough to determine the possible productiveness of such a large area.

"It would be wonderful if we could develop a source of gas in this area or a source of any kind of raw material for our chemical business," he added.

Three Killed In Auto Wreck

UNADILLA, N. Y. (AP) — A high school music teacher and two of her pupils were killed Saturday when a station wagon carrying a music group to a state festival hit a tree.

Five other pupils were injured critically in the crash about two miles east of this community in south-central New York.

The group, from the Franklin Central School, was to have joined more than 300 pupils from 29 schools at the all-state Music Festival in Norwich.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Richard Champlin, 35, mother of five; Cynthia Maurer, 17, a senior; and Sue Ellen Worden, 16, a junior.

Grain Shows Solid Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—For the first time in more than a month, the grain futures market came to the end of a week with good solid gains for almost every contract in the list.

There was not a single loser on the Board of Trade but one contract remained unchanged and a few, notably in oats, moved ahead only by fractions of a cent.

Except for occasional backlashes of profit taking, prices moved steadily upward. The most bullish factor was Tuesday's sweeping election victory.

Some brokers said the market strength Monday was related to the prospects of a Democratic victory but the party's gains were far more than had been expected and the advance was resumed on Wednesday.

By that time, however, the margins of gain were much too inviting for profit takers to ignore and they had their inning without discouraging the long-term investors very greatly.

Although it was not clear what, if anything, the new Congress may do about the farm program, there was a feeling of certainty that it would do something and that whatever it does will be a reversal of policies advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

There was a general belief that agricultural reform will be high on the agenda of the lawmakers and that it will be toward liberalizing the present program.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅝-4⅜ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, December $1.94⅜-7⅜; corn 1⅛-2⅜ higher, December, ld type contract $1.12½; oats ⅝-1¼ higher, December 65¼-½; rye unchanged to 3¼ higher, December $1.30¾; soybeans 2⅝-3½ higher, November $2.13⅞-14.

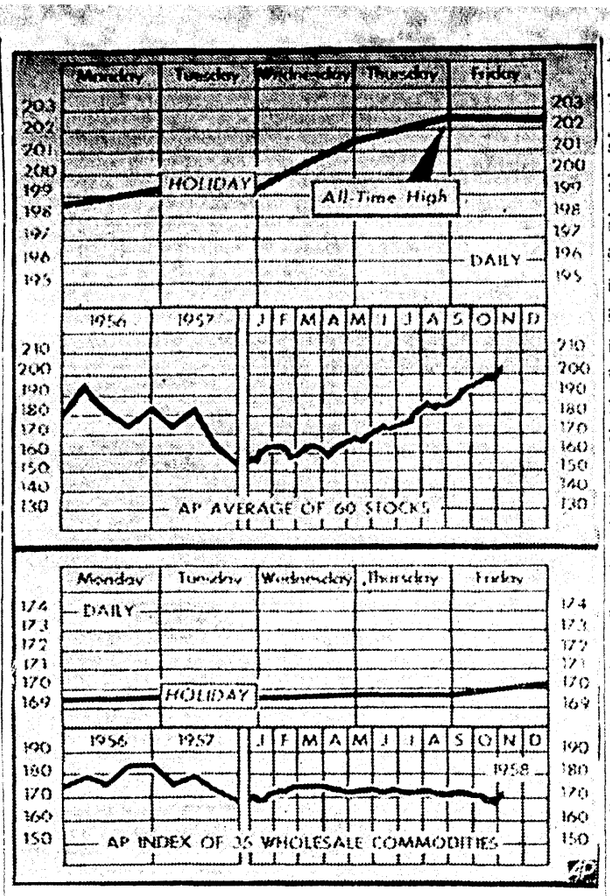
Ambassador To Report On Red Chinese Talks

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam left for Washington by plane Saturday for consultations with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles after seven weeks of negotiations with Communist China on the Formosa Strait problem. He is due back in two weeks, perhaps with new instructions aimed at breaking the diplomatic deadlock.

In Washington, the State Department said Beam is due to reach New York about noon Sunday from Paris. He then will arrange to continue his trip to Washington so as to be available to report to the State Department Monday morning.

MINESWEEPERS

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Navy is sending five minesweepers into the six-nation NATO naval and air exercises in the east Atlantic Nov. 10-28. The German squadron is under Cmdr. Hans Dehnert, 43.



STOCKS PUSH AHEAD — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks pushed ahead to around the record high when it closed this week at 202.4, up from 198.7 a week ago. Weekly gain in the average was the best since latter part of July. Led by nonferrous metals the commodity index advanced this week to 170.1 from 169.4 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Business Briefs

New Agency

Formation of the Nelson-Allen Agency in Monroe for the Pan-American Life Insurance Company, has been announced by Kenneth D. Hamer, vice-president and agency director in the company's New Orleans office.

The new agency is successor to the Julius E. Nelson Agency and will serve as general agents for Pan-American Life in Monroe and surrounding territory.

John H. Allen, Jr., who is now associated with Julius E. Nelson as a general agent, is well known in Monroe life insurance circles.

The new agency was formed according to Nelson, to better serve Pan-American's expanding number of policy holders in the Monroe area and to introduce the many new coverages contemplated by the company in the future.

Gets TVA License

The Ruson Oil Mill and Fertilizer Company of Ruston has obtained a license from the Tennessee Valley Authority for the use of process and apparatus for the ammoniation of superphosphate.

This process, for which the TVA holds patents permits a fertilizer producer to use more low cost nitrogen solutions in the mixing of materials. It was explained that in many mixing operations, the TVA ammoniator permits the production of granular fertilizers which are becoming more desirable to farmers. Some 87 companies have been licensed by the TVA to use the process on a royalty-free basis.

TGC Report

W. W. Elmer, president of Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, has announced that the firm's consolidated net income available for common stock for the third quarter of 1958 amounted to $1,260,000, equivalent to 44 cents per share on the 2,876,132 shares outstanding.

These earnings compar with $1,461,000 or 52 cents per share for the same period last year on 2,822 971 shares outstanding. For the 12 months ended September 30 of this year, net income amounted to $1.98 per common share compared with $2.16 for the preceding 12 months.

To Him, She's The Governor

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Princess Sophia of Greece, touring the great Smoky Mountains National Park, received a new title here Friday.

A little boy stood wide-eyed on the sidewalk as first a highway patrol car, lights flashing, then the princess riding in a black limousine went by.

The boy dropped his football and yelled: "Hello, governor!"

2ND STRAIGHT WEEK

Stock Market Hits New High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rushed to new record peaks this week as Democratic election victories spurred hopes of bigger government spending.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.70 to $202.40 for its largest weekly rise since the week ended July 26.

The week's advance was the second straight since the minor correction of three weeks ago and was the 11th upturn in the past 12 weeks.

Democratic gains in Tuesday's election were anticipated by Wall Street as well as by most political observers so the voting trend was no surprise. The extent of the sweep, however, apparently was not looked for. The day after election saw one of the biggest daily stock market jumps of the year.

Stocks rose moderately on the day before election although a degree of uncertainty was apparent, ascribed to hesitancy regarding the actual results of the election. Small as the Monday rise was, it sufficed to nudge the AP average to a record high. The Wednesday advance was, of course, another record peak. A vigorous upsurge on Thursday put the AP average at its latest all-time high, $202.70.

By Thursday's final hour, however, there was vicious profit taking. If not for the late selling pressure, the Thursday advance would have ranked among the greatest in Wall Street history.

Friday saw some additional profit taking as well as considerable switching and cross currents which dropped the averages for a minor loss. It was regarded as normal consolidation in view of the breath-taking pace of the advance.

Corporate and government bonds each closed slightly higher for the week. Trading declined to $29,466,000 par value on the Big Board from $31,816,000 the previous week.

Cotton Futures Jumpy

NEW YORK (AP) —Cotton futures prices followed an irregular course this week and closed with small net changes. Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at values ranging from 25 cents a bale higher to $1 lower than at the end of the week before.

Offerings were absorbed through mill and trade price fixing. There was some limited buying on the larger-than-expected 25-point advance in the mid-October parity price. A continued uptrend in entries of cotton into the government loan touched off a flurry of demand.

Offerings were furnished through light hedging and scattered liquidation.

The market took in stride a new series of trade estimates on the prospective size of the U.S. cotton harvest. The government's next official forecast will be announced Monday.

Estimates volunteered by private sources in advance of the official forecast ranged from 11,800,000 to 12,200,000 bales. The 57 members of the New York Cotton Exchange submitted estimates averaging 11,864,000 bales, and ranging from a low of 11,300,000 to a high of 12,000,000.

The government's latest forecast, on Oct. 1, indicated a prospective out turn of 11,675,000 bales. On Sept. 1 the government forecast a crop of 12,105,000 bales, based on soil, weather and other conditions prevalent at that time.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 54,000 bales, vs. 44,000 the previous week and 76,000 in the like 1957 week. Exports for the season through Nov. 4 were estimated at 791,000 bales, compared with 1,235,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Gas Company Drilling In Desha Basin

LITTLE ROCK, Ark (AP) — Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. announced Saturday it had started wildcat drilling operations in the Desha Basin of southeast Arkansas.

Board chairman W. R. Stephens said the utility had assembled a large number of leases in area, which covers portions of Drew, Ashley, Chicot and Desha counties.

Length of the 120,000-acre lease block is about 30 miles. Width varies from one to four miles.

Stephens said the first well already had been started. At least four others will be drilled in the next few months, he said.

Stephens said Ark-La agreed with landowners to drill at least five wells because one well was not enough to determine the possible productiveness of such a large area.

"It would be wonderful if we could develop a source of gas in this area or a source of any kind of raw material for our chemical business," he added.

Three Killed In Auto Wreck

UNADILLA, N. Y. (AP) — A high school music teacher and two of her pupils were killed Saturday when a station wagon carrying a music group to a state festival hit a tree.

Five other pupils were injured critically in the crash about two miles east of this community in south-central New York.

The group, from the Franklin Central School, was to have joined more than 300 pupils from 29 schools at the all-state Music Festival in Norwich.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Richard Champlin, 35, mother of five; Cynthia Maurer, 17, a senior; and Sue Ellen Worden, 16, a junior.

Grain Shows Solid Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—For the first time in more than a month, the grain futures market came to the end of a week with good solid gains for almost every contract in the list.

There was not a single loser on the Board of Trade but one contract remained unchanged and a few, notably in oats, moved ahead only by fractions of a cent.

Except for occasional backlashes of profit taking, prices moved steadily upward. The most bullish factor was Tuesday's sweeping election victory.

Some brokers said the market strength Monday was related to the prospects of a Democratic victory but the party's gains were far more than had been expected and the advance was resumed on Wednesday.

By that time, however, the margins of gain were much too inviting for profit takers to ignore and they had their inning without discouraging the long-term investors very greatly.

Although it was not clear what, if anything, the new Congress may do about the farm program, there was a feeling of certainty that it would do something and that whatever it does will be a reversal of policies advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

There was a general belief that agricultural reform will be high on the agenda of the lawmakers and that it will be toward liberalizing the present program.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅜-4⅜ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, December $1.94⅜-⅞; corn 1⅛-2⅜ higher, December, ld type contract $1.12½; oats ⅝-1¼ higher, December 65¼-½; rye unchanged to 3¼ higher, December $1.30¾; soybeans 2⅝-3½ higher, November $2.13⅞-14.

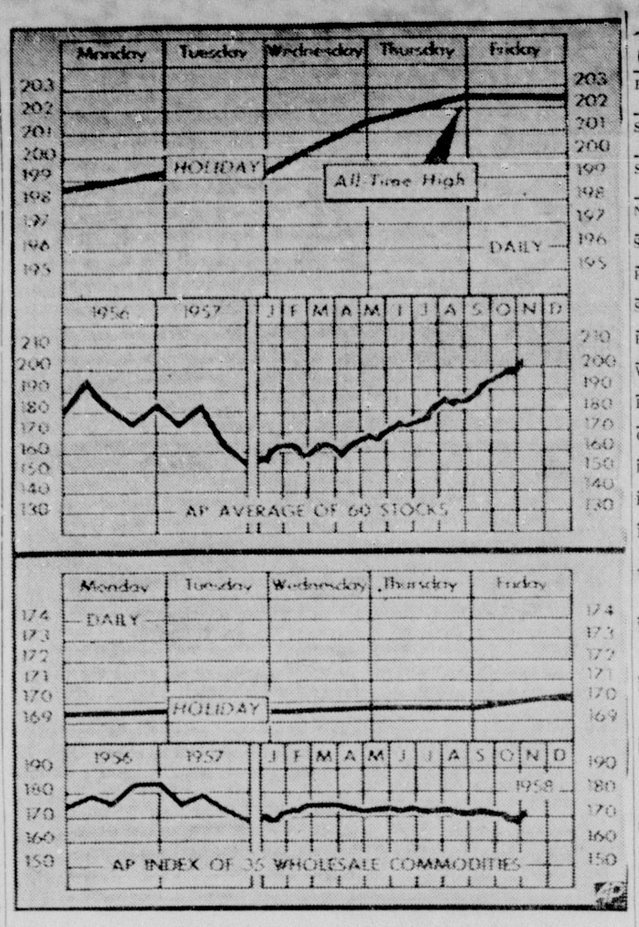
Ambassador To Report On Red Chinese Talks

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam left for Washington by plane Saturday for consultations with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles after seven weeks of negotiations with Communist China on the Formosa Strait problem. He is due back in two weeks, perhaps with new instructions aimed at breaking the diplomatic deadlock.

In Washington, the State Department said Beam is due to reach New York about noon Sunday from Paris. He then will arrange to continue his trip to Washington so as to be available to report to the State Department Monday morning.

MINESWEEPERS

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Navy is sending five minesweepers into the six-nation NATO naval and air exercises in the east Atlantic Nov. 10-28. The German squadron is under Cmdr. Hans Dehnert, 43.



STOCKS PUSH AHEAD — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks pushed ahead to around the record high when it closed this week at 202.4, up from 198.7 a week ago. Weekly gain in the average was the best since latter part of July. Led by nonferrous metals the commodity index advanced this week to 170.1 from 169.4 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Business Briefs

New Agency

Formation of the Nelson-Allen Agency in Monroe for the Pan-American Life Insurance Company, has been announced by Kenneth D. Hamer, vice-president and agency director in the company's New Orleans office.

The new agency is successor to the Julius E. Nelson Agency and will serve as general agents for Pan-American Life in Monroe and surrounding territory.

John H. Allen, Jr., who is now associated with Julius E. Nelson as a general agent, is well known in Monroe life insurance circles.

The new agency was formed according to Nelson, to better serve Pan-American's expanding number of policy holders in the Monroe area and to introduce the many new coverages contemplated by the company in the future.

Gets TVA License

The Ruson Oil Mill and Fertilizer Company of Ruston has obtained a license from the Tennessee Valley Authority for the use of process and apparatus for the ammoniation of superphosphate.

This process, for which the TVA holds patents permits a fertilizer producer to use more low cost nitrogen solutions in the mixing of materials. It was explained that in many mixing operations, the TVA ammoniator permits the production of granular fertilizers which are becoming more desirable to farmers. Some 87 companies have been licensed by the TVA to use the process on a royalty-free basis.

TGC Report

W. W. Elmer, president of Texas Gas Transmission Corporation, has announced that the firm's consolidated net income available for common stock for the third quarter of 1958 amounted to $1,260,000, equivalent to 44 cents per share on the 2,876,132 shares outstanding.

These earnings compar with $1,461,000 or 52 cents per share for the same period last year on 2,822 971 shares outstanding. For the 12 months ended September 30 of this year, net income amounted to $1.98 per common share compared with $2.16 for the preceding 12 months.

To Him, She's The Governor

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Princess Sophia of Greece, touring the great Smoky Mountains National Park, received a new title here Friday.

A little boy stood wide-eyed on the sidewalk as first a highway patrol car, lights flashing, then the princess riding in a black limousine went by.

The boy dropped his football and yelled: "Hello, governor!"

According To Statistics

60 PEOPLE WILL BUY A NEW CAR IN THIS AREA WITHIN THE NEXT 10 DAYS

I would like to see and talk to each and every one of them before they buy.

JAMES L. EWING

I would like to show them how they can get everything they want in a beautiful new Chevrolet — much more than in some models of America's highest price cars.

I will prove beyond a shadow of a doubt — that my proposition is absolutely the best that can be had — anywhere — any time — on any car.

These people owe it to themselves to come by and see me before they make a decision.

FOOTBALL IS IN THE AIR

OUR TEAM CAN TAKE YOU DOWN THE FIELD

DOWNS count and here's a house that will really count in your life. It's a picture book home consisting of three large bedrooms (one is 16 x 20), two luxurious tile baths . . . den paneled with brick and Amerwood is ideal for "after-game" parties . . . kitchen is lined with birch cabinets and has built-in Tappan oven and range . . . living room (15x28) is a real charmer with its glass wall opening onto patio. Some other features you'll enjoy are . . . central heating . . . hardwood floors . . . many closets and one tremendous CEDAR closet . . . All this is less than a year old and is selling for only $31,150.

NO PENALTIES

WHEN YOU look at this marvelous buy! It's mighty rare that you find a two-bath northside home for only $12,500. And it even has central air conditioning as well as central heating. The family room adjoins the kitchen and runs all the way across the back of the house. It's on a lovely corner lot which has two bearing pecan trees among its many trees and shrubbery. Delights await you, so let's see this one today! It's at 207 Isabelle.

PASSES

DON'T PASS by this one! It's at 406 Betin, only a block from Our Lady of Fatima Church and School. This is a marvelous buy in a 3 bedroom home. It's like new and has closets galore! Selling on an assumption, for only $1600 down (and no closing cost). Let's see this one today.

COMPLETED

AND LIVED in for a few years, you can move into this convenient southside frame home (at 1503 Alabama) for only $300 down, no closing costs, and assumption of a 4½ per cent loan with low monthly payments of $56.00. Total price, $6950.

RAYMOND DRIVE ON THE BAYOU
HERE'S A "AS-YOU-YOURSELF-WOULD DESIGN-IT" HOME — that is, if you want the best in Bayou Livin'! In its large (100x170) tree-covered setting sits this 5-month-old brick home . . . an' whata' home! An array of fine features are to be found throughout its 1903 sq. ft.: the living room's wall-to-wall carpeted and has sliding glass doors to patio; the kitchen will fulfill milady's fondest dreams with its natural birch cabinets (and there's plenty of 'em!)· and built-in oven and range; and the family room boasts a Roman brick fireplace and sliding glass doors opening to porch. There's 2 bedrooms (master bedroom has walk-in closet, other has double sliding door closet), and 2½ baths (the 2 full baths are ceramic tile, one with built-in dressing table and shower over tub). And for relaxin, and entertainin', you'll spend many hours on the screened porch (8x34!) and patio, overlooking the scenic bayou. P.S. — let's not forget it's fully insulated and ducted for air conditioning, centrally heated, with attic fan, telephone jacks, 1½ ton air conditioner and drapes included, double carport, and storage. You'll want to see it—why not make it right now!

SOUTH 1ST
WELL, THAT'S THE WAY THE COOKIE CRUMBLES . . . the present owners have outgrown their home . . . so they've placed this good value on the market at only $8000. 250 "bucks" and closing will move you in this 2 bedroom home with the following: Venetian blinds, oak floors, shower over tub, washer plumbing, front porch, back porch with storage, fenced back yard . . . and it's just 5 blocks to school. Why wait — let's see it now!

It's easy to buy ($600 and assume loan) and possesses 1368 sq. ft. of newly decorated living area including: (2) 14x14 bedrooms (one with huge walk-in closet); kitchen and breakfast area with ventahood and a pantry as large as grandma had; step-down pine paneled den with glass jalousie windows, plastic tile bath with shower over tub. And you get more: hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, floor furnace, awnings, 9x12 patio, garage 9x12 storage, and a 75x240 lot with pine trees and shrubbery. If your eye is on value, let us show you this today!

SOUTH 5TH
DIRTY DISHES? Leave them in the sink tonite and bring the family to see this 2 bedroom pink brick home pertly set on its spacious (75x142) lawn with trees and St. Augustine. Inside you'll like the pine paneled entry, living room with picture window, separate dining room, kitchen with good cabinet space, washer and dryer connections. And a polished apple couldn't outshine the oak floors, Venetian blinds, attic fan, floor furnace, drapes throughout, carport, and double storage. $400 down and closing will move you in. Ring us for a showing!

TEXAS AVE.
SHADES OF GRANDMA'S DAYS! Look at all the room in this 2-story home! Ideal for the b-i-g family or a good rooming house — with its 7 bedrooms, 2 baths, separate dining room, and 6x27 front porch. And beside this, there's attic fan, oak floors, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, carport, and a shady lawn. $350 down and closing will move you in. Like to look?

ALABAMA
WHAT'S YOUR TROUBLE? Is it finding a reasonably priced home for a low down payment? Then worry no longer, my friend, for $250 and closing will buy this 2 bedroom home! It's only 5 years old and has such extras as: 10x18 screened back living porch with concrete floors and adjoining 5x5 storage, wall furnaces, attic fan, Venetian blinds, ventahood, washer plumbing, good closet space, and well kept yard with mulberry and 3 fig trees! Full price is only $7800—so pick up the 'phone 'n call now!

COUNTRY CLUB RD.
WORDS FAIL US in striving to adequately describe this pink brick home—but we'll try to give you an idea! It's young (3 years) and has 2054 sq. ft. of expertly planned living area consisting of: living room and dining area with draw drapes and built-in lamp; kitchen has solid knotty pine cabinets with Formica tops, ventahood, built-in desk; family room also has built-in desk and bookshelves, and sliding glass doors to patio. And there's 4 bedrooms and 2 ceramic tile baths (one with shower over tub). Not only the foregoing, but also: 5 tons of air conditioning units, central heating, double sliding door closets plus wall of storage in hall, all drapes included, Venetian blinds, oak block floors, attic fan, carport, and storage. All this, well set on a large lot with an abundance of flowers, shrubs, fenced yard, and child's wading pool. If you're looking for one of the better homes of Monroe, we'd be delighted to show you thru!

GUY AVE.
POOR MAN! And we mean "poor man that misses this one"! For this is a honey of a brick contemporary with its wall-to-wall carpeted living room and dining room; pine paneled kitchen with built-in oven and range, well-arranged cabinets with Formica tops, built-in mixer, blender, and knife sharpener, ventahood. All 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets, and the bath has blue ceramic tile around the tub and shower. There's more you'll want to see —Venetian blinds, central air conditioning and heating, carport, and 2 storage rooms —so call now, won'tcha'?

FLORIDA
WE DON'T GIVE TOP-VALUE STAMPS, but we can give you top value in this Southside home. For only $250 and closing will make you the "home-owner" of this: 2 bedrooms (12x14, 12x12), kitchen with ventahood, breakfast bar, and dining area, oak floors, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, and termite contract! Almost immediate occupancy can be yours —and an inspection tour can be arranged to suit you!

NICHOLS
WATCH! WET PAINT! Yep! This home has just been newly decorated inside and out, and there's much good value to be found in its: 2 bedrooms (12x12, 13x15), separate dining room, attic fan, oak floors, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, excellent electrical outlets in each room, and the well-kept lawn has gardenias, cedars, 5 pine, plum, 2 pecan, 2 pear, and 2 fig trees. Can you imagine all this for only $300 and closing? We'd be happy to show you thru —just call!

FRANCIS PLACE
DON'T FLUB — When something good comes your way, act! And you'll agree this 2 bedroom home is something "REAL GOOD!" It's a 4-year-old youngster that boasts the following: well-planned kitchen with Formica topped cabinets a-plenty, exhaust fan, pantry, and pass thru to living room for ease in entertaining. And there's 3 double sliding door closets, each with built-in chest of drawers, ceramic tile around the bath (with shower and storage), 42 in. attic fan, central heating, drapes included, insulated attic and walls, double carport with both utility room and storage room. All this on a 75x150 lot with centipede grass, shrubs, and pine trees. Can be bought on assumption (4½ per cent loan) or new FHA loan for $600 and closing. There's no time like the present to see it, so just call!

SHERIDAN ST.
DOUBLE TROUBLE? If 2 bedrooms prove inadequate for your family, then you should see this 3-year-old home at once. It's appealing inside and out with its: 3 bedrooms, kitchen and dining area with good cabinet space, ventahood, and even a built-in radio; ceramic tile bath with shower over tub . . . also harmonizing custom made colored Venetian blinds, attic fan, central heat, carport, storage, and St. Augustine lawn. Only 4 blocks to college and ½ block of grammar school. $400 down and closing will make the move. Ready to see it?

NEWMAN ST.
IF YOUR NEIGHBOR'S BREATHING down your neck and you don't like it, you should see this 2 bedroom home on its large (111x394) ft. lot. And it's affordable — for only $250 and closing buys: 12x17 living room, kitchen and dining area, shower over tub, attic fan, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, and garage. And there's no city taxes! Call for a "look-see" today!

EMERSON
SEVERAL PEOPLE KILLED — their time looking for a good Northside family home, but you can avoid this by letting us show you this spacious (1363 sq. ft.) 3 bedroom home. Its many good features include: separate dining room, den with double sliding door storage, floor furnace, attic fan, drapes, Venetian blinds, oak and asphalt tile floors, ventahood, double garage, and 75x134 ft. lot with St. Augustine and trees. And what's more — it's selling below FHA appraisal with only $100 down plus closing. We're anxious to show anytime.

SOUTH COLLEGE
WHOA! YOU NEARLY PASSED one of the best values in this paper! You'll like everyone of its 1451 sq. ft.—there's a fireplace and built-in bookcase in the living room; separate dining room with China cabinet; pine paneled den with ceiling fan and bookshelves; kitchen has built-in breakfast set, Formica counter tops, stainless steel around storage area, and pantry; utility porch has built-in ironing board, closet, and washer plumbing. And there's 2 bedrooms (one with built-in desk), bath with shower over tub, and a wall of storage in the hall. And let's not forget the: oak floors, Venetian blinds, floor furnaces, attic fan, garage, storage, and pecan, pear, and black walnut trees. Can be bought on assumption . . . and can be seen anytime!

ALABAMA ST.
A PERFECT FIT for your pocketbook if you're lookin' for a budget-priced ($7250) home with a low down payment ($250 and closing)! And see how this fits your family! HERE'S A "AS-YOU-YOURSELF-WOULD DESIGN-IT" HOME — that is, if you want the best in Bayou Livin'! In its large (100x170) tree-covered setting sits this 5-month-old brick home . . . an' whata' home! An array of fine features are to be found throughout its 1903 sq. ft.: the living room's wall-to-wall carpeted and has sliding glass doors to patio; the kitchen will fulfill milady's fondest dreams with its natural birch cabinets (and there's plenty of 'em!); and built-in oven and range; and the family room boasts a Roman brick fireplace and sliding glass doors opening to porch. There's 2 bedrooms (master bedroom has walk-in closet, other has double sliding door closet), and 2½ baths (the 2 full baths are ceramic tile, one with built-in dressing table and shower over tub). And for relaxin' and entertainin', you'll spend many hours on the screened porch (8x34') and patio, overlooking the scenic bayou. P.S. — let's not forget it's fully insulated and ducted for air conditioning, centrally heated, with attic fan, telephone jacks, 1½ ton air conditioner and drapes included, double carport, and storage. You'll want to see it—why not make it right now!

WHAT'S YOUR TROUBLE? Is it finding a reasonably priced home for a low down payment? Then worry no longer, my friend, for $250 and closing will buy this 2 bedroom home! It's only 5 years old and has such extras as: 10x18 screened back living porch with concrete floors and adjoining 5x5 storage, wall furnaces, attic fan, Venetian blinds, ventahood, washer plumbing, good closet space, and well kept yard with mulberry and 3 fig trees! Full price is only $7800—so pick up the 'phone 'n call now!

COUNTRY CLUB RD.

WORDS FAIL US in striving to adequately describe this pink brick home—but we'll try to give you an idea! It's young (3 years) and has 2054 sq. ft. of expertly planned living area consisting of: living room and dining area with draw drapes and built-in lamp; kitchen has solid knotty pine cabinets with Formica tops, ventahood, built-in desk; family room also has built-in desk and bookshelves, and sliding glass doors to patio. And there's 4 bedrooms and 2 ceramic tile baths (one with shower over tub). Not only the foregoing, but also: 5 tons of air conditioning units, central heating, double sliding door closets plus wall of storage in hall, all drapes included, Venetian blinds, oak block floors, attic fan, carport, and storage. All this, well set on a large lot with an abundance of flowers, shrubs, fenced yard, and child's wading pool. If you're looking for one of the better homes of Monroe, we'd be delighted to show you thru!

GUY AVE.

POOR MAN! And we mean "poor man that misses this one"! For this is a honey of a brick contemporary with its wall-to-wall carpeted living room and dining room; pine paneled kitchen with built-in oven and range, well-arranged cabinets with Formica tops, built-in mixer, blender, and knife sharpener, ventahood. All 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets, and the bath has blue ceramic tile around the tub and shower. There's more you'll want to see —Venetian blinds, central air conditioning and heating, carport, and 2 storage rooms —so call now, won'tcha'?

FLORIDA

WE DON'T GIVE TOP-VALUE STAMPS but we can give you top value in this Southside home. For only $250 and closing will make you the "home-owner" of this: 2 bedrooms (12x14, 12x12), kitchen with ventahood, breakfast bar, and dining area, oak floors, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, and termite contract! Almost immediate occupancy can be yours —and an inspection tour can be arranged to suit you!

NICHOLS

WATCH! WET PAINT! Yep! This home has just been newly decorated inside and out, and there's much good value to be found in its: 2 bedrooms (12x12, 13x15), separate dining room, attic fan, oak floors, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, excellent electrical outlets in each room, and the well-kept lawn has gardenias, cedars, 5 pine, plum, 2 pecan, 2 pear, and 2 fig trees. Can you imagine all this for only $300 and closing? We'd be happy to show you thru —just call!

FRANCIS PLACE

DON'T FLUB — When something good comes your way, act! And you'll agree this 2 bedroom home is something "REAL GOOD!" It's a 4-year-old youngster that boasts the following: well-planned kitchen with Formica topped cabinets a-plenty, exhaust fan, pantry, and pass thru to living room for ease in entertaining. And there's 3 double sliding door closets, each with built-in chest of drawers, ceramic tile around the bath (with shower and storage), 42 in. attic fan, central heating, drapes included, insulated attic and walls, double carport with both utility room and storage room. All this on a 75x150 lot with centinede grass, shrubs, and pine trees. Can be bought on assumption (4½ per cent loan) or new FHA loan for $800 and closing. There's no time like the present to see it, so just call!

SHERIDAN ST.

DOUBLE TROUBLE? If 2 bedrooms prove inadequate for your family, then you should see this 3-year-old home at once. It's appealing inside and out with its: 3 bedrooms, kitchen and dining area with good cabinet space, ventahood, and even a built-in radio; ceramic tile bath with shower over tub . . . also harmonizing custom made colored Venetian blinds, attic fan, central heat, carport, storage, and St. Augustine lawn. Only 4 blocks to college and ½ block of grammar school. $400 down and closing will make the move. Ready to see it?

NEWMAN ST.

IF YOUR NEIGHBOR'S BREATHING down your neck and you don't like it, you should see this 2 bedroom home on its large (111x394) ft. lot. And it's affordable — for only $250 and closing buys: 12x17 living room, kitchen and dining area, shower over tub, attic fan, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, and garage. And there's no city taxes! Oh, yes, you'll like this—it's just been newly painted inside and out! $400 and closing makes the move. You'll like it! And we'd like to show it to you immediately!

CLOVER

THE BIG SURPRISE for you will be that you can get so much home value for only $250 down and closing. A gigantic pecan tree stands in front of this home and there's also silver maple. 2 small grafted pecan trees, and camellias. The 2 bedroom home has kitchen and dining area with breakfast bar, ventahood, oak floors, Venetian blinds, garage, storage, and fenced back yard. Your passport to good livin' begins with a look thru this home!

HODGE

EXPANSIVE (1457 sq. ft.) — NOT EXPENSIVE — (only $12,750)! For not only do you get this family home, but there's also a furnished garage apartment included that rents for $40 per month. YOUR home has the following: 12x20 living room, separate dining room, 13x21 pine paneled den with fireplace, 3 bedrooms (one pine paneled — two with 2 closets), kitchen with Formica topped cabinets and ventahood, and large porch. And there's oak and asphalt tile floors, ¾ ton air conditioner, 42 in. attic fan, Venetian blinds, double garage, and storage. Will gladly show anytime!

MALLARD

BEEN SHOWERED BY MORE COMPLIMENTS than a beauty contest winner—Yep, this aptly describes this 2½-year-old buff brick home set on its 100x150 well manicured St. Augustine lawn. The floor plan is a homemaker's dream with its: living room accentuated by Roman brick fireplace and mirror, built-in desk, and sliding glass doors opening to back yard. The pine paneled kitchen has built-in Caloric oven and range, all tha' pine paneled cabinets you could want (with Formica tops), huge pantry, and brick planter. The 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets (master bedroom has 2!), and the green ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table, shower over tub. Drapes throughout and 1½ ton air conditioner are included, central heating, double carport, and 8x16 storage with lavatory, washer plumbing, and built-in tool chest. $1300 and closing will handle, and a phone call will speed us on our way to show you thru!

CLARK

YOUR LIFE WILL BE RICHER, your family happier, and your landlord poorer when you move into this 2 bedroom home that's just been redecorated inside and out. The kitchen and dining area has natural finish cabinets, and there's Coleman wall heating, washer plumbing, and on a corner lot with 2 large trees. $350 down and closing moves you in immediately!

WALL WILLIAMS RD.

DON'T HEM ME IN—alright, for you, we have a 'most new (1½ years) brick home on a 1½ acre wooded lot! The living room is highlighted with a Roman brick planter, and the pine paneled kitchen is a housewife's dream with its knotty pine cabinets (Formica tops), built-in Frigidaire electric oven and range, ventahood, and sliding glass doors to back yard. There's 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets, and 2 ceramic tile baths (one with glassed in shower—the other with built-in dressing table). Not only the foregoing but also: central heating, attic fan, drapes, utility room 8x9, double carport, and 9x12 storage. A look is in order, if you want suburban livin'!

WILLIS
REDUCED TO $14,000!

MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL, see the luckiest one of all —that's you, my friend, if you buy this pleasant green cement block home in its large (110x200) setting of large oak trees. Its 1660 sq. ft. boasts the following: spacious living room and dining area, kitchen also has dining area, Formica topped cabinets, pantry, 3 bedrooms (one with 2 closets could be easily used as den —master bedroom has built-in chest of drawers), bath boasts built-in dressing table with storage and linen closet with built-in drawers. Other features you'll like are: the 10x10 concrete porch, utility room with sink, washer connections, central heat, Venetian blinds, attic fan, and casement windows. You'll also like the terms — $500 and closing —and we'd like very much to show it to you today!

RIVERBEND

ZYXWV —Got the cart before the horse? Too much family for your home? Worried about the down payment on a larger home? Then just lookit this! A 4 bedroom home that can be bought for only $300 down and closing. And besides this, you get: 12x25x8 kitchen and dining area, 1¾ ton air conditioner, 42 in. window fan, Venetian blinds, washer plumbing, and fruit trees. Just 3 blocks from school. Best you hurry on this!

SWISS
REDUCED TO $19,700

GOT A MATCH? This fireplace is lonely for a fire and some people to gather around it! But the real wood-burning fireplace is only one of the invitin' features of this friendly family home, for there's: wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room, dining room, and hall; 3 bedrooms (carpeted master bedroom has walk-in closet); step-down den; kitchen includes Tappan range with chrome oven, Frigidaire dishwasher; utility room with 17 ft. deep freeze. Other "livin' at its fullest" features include: (3) ¾ ton air conditioners, attic fan, window fan, drapes, Venetian blinds, floor furnace, oak floors, closets and storage galore (outside storage is 17x19!), shower over tub, soundproof ceilings, and carport. All this beautifully set on a large (150x280) lot with "old" shade trees. There's more that you'll be a-wantin' to see today!

SOUTH 5TH

BEST SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER! That's the house number on a home just like this! You'll recognize value throughout its 1300 sq. ft., such as: front screened porch, living room with fireplace and gas logs, separate dining room, kitchen with ventahood, cabinets a-plenty, and built-in ironing board, utility porch with wall of storage, washer and dryer connections. And there's 2 bedrooms (one's 14x29 with 2 closets!), and the bath has shower over tub (shower curtain included). Not only this, but also: all drapes, curtains, heaters, and Venetian blinds are included, 42 in. attic fan, oak floors, insulated attic, garage, and 5x12 storage. The St. Augustine lawn has partially fenced back yard, roses, pecan and fruit trees, and even blackberry vines. Only ½ block of school. Call and before you can say "Jack Robinson," we'll be out to show you through!

STIX ST.

THE AGE OF SPACE (more living space for growing families, that is). Outside, the lot is 120x121 with shade trees and fenced back yard. And inside there's 1217 sq. ft. of well arranged living area consisting of 3 bedrooms, separate dining room with corner china cabinet, kitchen and dining area with ventahood . . . and these "plus" features: 4 air conditioners (3½ tons), Venetian blinds, floor furnace, 42 in. attic fan, oak floors, double carport and storage. "Child-safe" on a dead-end street near Highland School. Sound good? We'd like you to see it IS good, so call today!

YEARS AGO MY WARTIME BUDDIES AND I VOWED TO MEET OVERSEAS FOR A REUNION ON THIS VETERANS' DAY. BUT WHO SENT THIS LETTER TO REMIND ME?

GOOD LUCK, JOE HONEY!

BYE, DADDY, DEAR!

NEXT DAY: IN EUROPE...

HERE'S THE SPOT WHERE WE PROMISED TO MEET...

THERE HE IS!

HEY, JOE!

TONY—BERNIE—DOCTOR PAT!

SO YOU GOT ONE OF THESE UNSIGNED NOTES, TOO!

NONE OF US WROTE THEM!

ANYWAY... WE'RE ALL HERE—EXCEPT FOR LITTLE BRIDGETTE!

I WONDER WHAT'S BECOME OF THAT POOR LITTLE ORPHAN KID!

WE LET HER HOLD A WATCH, CAMERA, BINOCULARS AND A RING TO GUARANTEE WE'D ALL MEET AGAIN TODAY!

HMM...IT'S LATE—I GUESS WE'LL NEVER SEE OUR THINGS OR HER AGAIN!

LATER

(PUFF-PUFF) ONE OF YOU EES A DOCTAIRE, I KNOW... PLEASE YOU WILL ALL FOLLOW ME, QUEEKLY!

HOW DID HE KNOW?

HE'S IN TROUBLE... LET'S GO!

CONGRATULATIONS, MISTER LE BLANC ...YOU HAVE A SON!

GOOD—I SHALL NAME HEEM AFTER ALL OF YOU... JOSEPH ANTHONY BERNARD PATRICK LE BLANC!

WAH!

OBOY, CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS.

I'M COOKING ALL YOUR FAVORITE DISHES FOR SUPPER.

SNIFF

HEY, IZZY, TELEPHONE!

ARE YOU THE GUY WHO DOES TRICKS?

SIR, YOU ARE ADDRESSING IZZARD THE WIZARD, RENOWNED FOR HIS FEATS OF MYSTIFYING MAGIC.

TELL 'IM WE'RE THEATRICAL AGENTS.

LOOK, PAL, HOW'D YOU LIKE A NIGHT CLUB JOB AT $3000 A WEEK?

MAN ALIVE! WOULD I?!

$3000 A WEEK! THEY SAID TO MEET THEM IN PALM BEACH RIGHT AWAY. BUT HOW'LL I GET THERE?

TAKE MY CAR!

YES, BUT DON'T BE LATE FOR SUPPER, IZZY.

HALF AN HOUR LATER, THE MEETING PLACE...

'WE HEARD YOU COULD OPEN ANYTHING, PAL. IT'S A CHANCE TO MAKE SOME EASY DOUGH, SEE! ALL YOU GOTTA DO IS OPEN A SAFE, SEE!

BUT I THOUGHT YOU SAID THIS WAS A NIGHT CLUB JOB.

IT IS! WE'RE GOING TO ROB THE SAFE AT THE BALMY BEACH NIGHT CLUB. WE'LL SPLIT THE LOOT 3 WAYS.

WITH YOUR TALENT FOR OPENING SAFES, YOU'RE A SAP TO DO IT JUST FOR FUN LIKE WE SEEN YOU DO IT IN THE BARBERSHOP.

NOTHING DOING!

LEGGO OF ME, YOU CROOKS!

SHUDDUP!

WE GOTTA GET ROUGH WITH DIS GUY!

STEVE, WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME YOU WERE MOVING OUT OF YOUR HOTEL? I HAD TO TRACK YOU TO THAT BASE BY RADAR!

SAVANNAH, WHEN I LEARNED YOU HAD A HUSBAND IT WAS TIME FOR ME TO HIT THE JUMP BUTTON..

BUT BUDDY PYLGRIM AND I ARE LEGALLY SEPARATED! HE'S A WEAK CHARACTER!

IT'S EASY TO BE WEAK AROUND YOU, BUT WHEN I MAKE A BID, I WANT TO KNOW THE TITLE IS CLEAR!

SORRY, VAN, I MUST PUT IN SOME FLYING TIME—AND THE BIRD IS READY! —I'LL SEE YOU AROUND...

WAIT, STEVE! IF I'M GOING TO HUMILIATE MYSELF, I MIGHT AS WELL DO IT RIGHT!

LET ME DRIVE OVER AND PICK YOU UP AFTER YOUR FLIGHT!

LOOK, VAN, I'M NOT PLAYING HARD TO GET—AND YOU'D MELT THE ICE AT EITHER POLE, BUT YOU PLAY BY DIFFERENT RULES!

WHAT RULES? WHEN MY HAIR STANDS UP BECAUSE OF A MAN, I DON'T ASK FOR HIS BANK STATEMENT!

...I'LL BE THERE!

NUTS! I FORGOT TO TELL THE AIR POLICE AT THE GATE THAT SAVANNAH GAY WILL BE COMING! —WITH STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND SECURITY SHE'LL HAVE A ROUGH DEAL...

LATER

I WAS AFRAID OF THAT! THERE'S HER CAR—

STEVE! YOU'RE JUST IN TIME...

THE AIR POLICEMAN ASKED ME HOW HE WAS TO KNOW I'M NOT A SPY...

AND WHEN I SAID "SEARCH ME"—HE FAINTED!

MEANWHILE

YOU THINK I'M NOT MARRIED T'SAVANNAH GAY? I'M BUDDY PYLGRIM—AN' HERE'S TH' LI'L OL' KEY T' OUR HOUSE!

C'MON EV'REE-BODY! LE'S GO OVER FOR A SWIM!

THESE PEOPLE DON'T KNOW THAT SAVANNAH NEVER LOCKS HER HOUSE—LET'S GO! I WOULDN'T MISS THIS RUMBLE!

BRINGING UP FATHER

MOTHER, WHY DON'T YOU COME SHOPPING WITH ME?

I'D LOVE TO- BUT I MUST DEVOTE A FEW HOURS TO MY PIANO PRACTICE! SUPPOSE I MEET YOU LATER-

THE MORE SHE PRACTICES THE WORSE SHE PLAYS-

I'M GITTIN' OUT OF HERE—I'D LIKE TO HAVE THE MONEY MAGGIE HAS WASTED ON MUSIC LESSONS!

SHE'S BEEN AT IT FOR HOURS! I'M GOIN' IN AND BREAK IT UP!

MAGGIE, HAVEN'T YOU GOT A DATE WITH NORA DOWNTOWN?

OH, YES! I'D BETTER HURRY AND GET DRESSED!

I THOUGHT MY WIFE WOULD NEVER STOP PLAYIN' THE PIANO! I'VE GOT A HEADACHE FROM IT!

SO HAVE I, SIR!

THERE MUST BE SOME WAY TO GIT HER TO QUIT TAKIN' LESSONS!

I'M AFRAID IT'S IMPOSSIBLE, SIR!

SAY, I'VE GOT AN IDEA, BUMPKINS-- GIT ME THAT WIRE-CUTTER OUT OF MY TOOL KIT--

VERY WELL, SIR—BUT I DON'T UNDERSTAND!

---BUT WHAT WILL MRS. JIGGS SAY?

I'LL TELL HER THEY MUST HAVE SNAPPED FROM THE COLD! NOW WE'LL HAVE A LITTLE PEACE AROUND HERE!

JIGGS, I HAVE A SURPRISE FOR YOU! NOW, PROMISE YOU WON'T GET MAD--

WHAT IS IT? I HOPE IT ISN'T GOING TO COST MONEY!

NOT TOO MUCH! I BOUGHT ONE OF THOSE CUTE LITTLE PIANOS WHILE I WAS DOWNTOWN---

--BUT THE MAN IS GOING TO ALLOW $1,000 FOR OUR OLD GRAND PIANO, PROVIDED IT'S IN TOP CONDITION- AND I KNOW IT IS!

I WAS DELAYED AT THE CLUB, SWEET. I'LL HURRY WITH MY SHOWER.

I'LL LAY OUT THE CLOTHES YOU'RE TO WEAR AT THE PARTY, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM. I'LL GO ON AND MEET YOU THERE.

I CAWN'T HEAR YOU, MY DEAR!

I SAID YOUR DIAMOND CUFF LINKS, WATCH, AND WALLET ARE ON THE DRESSER!

WELL, SURE ENOUGH.

A VERY NICE HUNK OF LOOT, I'D SAY-- AND ALL TAX FREE, TOO!

WELL-- GOOD SHOW! EMMA DIDN'T TELL ME IT WAS A COSTUME PARTY.

HO-HO! IF IT WASN'T FOR MY HONEST FACE, I'D DEFY ANYONE TO TELL ME FROM THE REAL ARTICLE-- TAXI!

TAXI

So!

D-DON'T S-SHOOT, PLEASE-- I'VE GOT SIX LITTLE GRANDPAS AND A KIDDIE TO SUPPORT.

TAXI

DROP TH' PISTOL, POP. WE HAD A TIP A THUG WAS IN TH' NEIGHBORHOOD!

IT'S ALL A MISTAKE, OFFICER. I WAS ON MY WAY TO A COSTUME PARTY. YOU MAY CHECK MY ALIBI, SIR.

TAXI

OF COURSE THIS ISN'T A COSTUME PARTY-- THE HALLOWEEN SEASON IS OVER. PERHAPS IT'S THE MODERN STYLES THAT CONFUSED YOU, OFFICER.

SORRY TO HAVE BOTHERED YOU, MADAM.

HO-HO! THESE SILLY DREAMS! ANY MINUTE NOW EMMA WILL BE SHAKING ME AND SAYING, "GET UP, YOU BUM-- BREAKFAST IS READY!"
